MANY SETTLERS WILL COME OUT TO CANADA

Emigration Work for Canada is Booming--Our Officials at Work

London, Feb. 14.—Preparations are being made for the reception of the Canadian farmers' delegates. Their visit is opportune, as the interest in the Dominion is unprecedented.

WESTERN RAILWAYS.

Mr. William MacKenzie, of Toronto, is staying at the Metropole. He says that the Edmonton to Hudson's Bay line is building without delay, and anticipates that the bulk of the Northwest wheat will be shipped by that route in time.

MACEDONIAN REVOLT.

It is considered that the Macedonian outlook is similar to that preceding the Russo-Turkish war of 1878, and the signs are not hopeful for future peace.

THE UNEMPLOYED.

Several thousand of unemployed, now in Trafalgar Square, London, are orderly. Many are deserving, but many are physical degenerates. It is reckoned that thirty per cent. of the people of London are in the starvation line.

MR. BALFOUR'S SPEECH.

The Prime Minister at Liverpool yesterday announced the formation of a committee of defence composed of the Premier, First Lord of the Admiralty, the War Minister, the Commander-in-Chief, and the directors of the Military and Naval Intelligence Branches. This body will decide the military policy of the Government, subject to the Cabinet's sanction, which is a constitutional innovation. He also declared in favor of the Monroe Doctrine, and welcomed the increase of American influence in the western hemisphere, suggesting the United States as an arbitrator in the South American troubles. He added that the Venezuelan difficulty was practically settled, and that while the state of affairs in the Balkans was making European statesmen anxious, he deprecated international jealousies.

EMIGRATION WORKS.

Mr. Smart, Deputy Minister of the Interior, arrived in London to-day looking well. He expressed his surprise and delight at the increased interest in Canada since a year ago. He found the staff of the Canadian offices taxed to their utmost with correspondence and visits of intending emigrants. He has conferred with Rev. Mr. Barr, and appreciates the hold upon the English public of the idea of a homogenous settlement near the Saskatchewan. Mr. Barr's project is assuming enormous proportions. Over 1,000 homestead entries have been made. Mr. Smart is considering a scheme for the emigration of reservists, with the co-operation of the Imperial Government. The army authorities are urging this as a wise measure in case of war. Mr. Smart is perfectly satisfied with the emigration work.

THE SPLENDID WORK OF CANADIAN SURVEYORS

Mapping Out the Canadian Alps and Defining the Ice Fields

Ottawa, Feb. 16—Each year brings reports of visits to the mountain regions of Western Canada by well known experienced mountaineers from across the Atlantic such as Edward Whymper, A. C., Mr. J. N. Collie, F.R.S., and [illegible] Outram, also of W. D. Wilcox, F.R.G.S., Professor Fay, A.M.C., F. B. Thompson, A.M.C., and others from across the southern boundary. All honour to these brave adventurers who assisted by trained Swiss guides, follow in their footsteps to the summits of the Dominion's highest peaks. One must not, however, overlook what Canadians, the members of the Canadian Topographical Survey, are doing in this respect, daily taking their lives in their hands in order to obtain data that will furnish the maps in demand by the thousands now flocking to the famous Canadian Alps.

The topographical survey of the Rocky Mountains was begun by the Department of the Interior in 1887, and continued until 1892, the Laussedat photographic methods being employed. J. J. McArthur, D.L.S., and W. S. Drewery, D.L.S., were in charge. In the performance of their work these gentlemen have, to use a western humorist's expression, climbed more peaks than you should shake a stick at. In W. D. Wilcox's book, "The Rockies of Canada," published in 1900, out of thirty-two recorded ascents of peaks over 9,000 feet, fourteen are credited to J. J. McArthur. These climbs were made before the ranges of the Rocky and Selkirk Mountains had come into the prominence they now enjoy, and when the majority of the peaks were looked upon as inaccessible, also before Swiss guides had been introduced into the country to supply their trained skill to mountain climbers. Moreover, in the interests of their work, it was necessary to carry to the summit heavy transits for triangulation purposes and cameras to obtain topographical data.

In 1901 the influx of mountaineers, artists, photographers, hunters and general lovers of nature in its wildest form, necessitated the collection of data for a topographical map of the Selkirk range in the vicinity of the main line of the Canadian Pacific Railway. A survey was accordingly commenced by the department. It was placed in the charge of Arthur O. Wheeler, F.R.G.S., of the Topographical Survey's staff. The field work is now completed, and a full report and map will soon follow. During the two seasons of field work, triangulation and camera stations have been established upon the summits of some 30 peaks. Of these three are over 11,000 feet high, eight are over 10,000 feet, and ten are over 9,000 feet above the sea level. Owing to impenetrable forests of tropically luxuriant growth, traveling in the Selkirks is a matter of much difficulty. In the vicinity of the Glacier House, the headquarters of tourists and mountaineers in these regions, the railway companies have for the use of their visitors cut trails through the forest to the nearest surrounding glaciers and snowfields.

Beyond lies a region of ice and snow, giant peaks, winding glacier rivers and tributary ice cascades, falling over perpendicular precipices from every rocky ridge. It is the wildest, most awe-inspiring and most rugged portion of the range [illegible], or only by the more adventurous spirits. It can, however, be made easily accessible by the construction of a few trails and the building of a few cabins such as are met with throughout the European Alps. This unknown world is embraced within the portion it was designed to map, and the problem involved was how to convey to its interior sufficient supplies to enable the work to be carried on. The difficulty was overcome by establishing a depot camp at Rodgers' Pass summit and extending a line of supply camps at five mile intervals into the wilderness of peaks. Between each two camps a packer was detailed to carry supplies. By joining forces two managed to travel together over their respective beats, for it is not safe for one man to travel alone over snowfields and glaciers.

Among the results of the survey are the accurate delineation of the topographical features, and the determination of the altitude of the respective peaks. As an instance. It was formerly said that the Illecillewaet snowfield extended indefinitely southward, and covered an area of one hundred square miles. It is now ascertained that the area is but little over ten miles square. In like manner it will probably be found that the great Columbian snowfield now reported to cover two hundred square miles, will upon actual survey be largely reduced in area.

Until recently the highest peaks along the summit of the Rocky Mountain Range extending northward to the Athabasca Pass, have been set at elevations varying from 12,000 to 16,000 feet above the sea level. It is now said that the tallest of them does not reach above 12,000 feet. While the latter results are probably nearer the truth, the actual altitudes must remain in uncertainty until the peaks are reached by the more absolute methods of the topographical survey.

FLOODS IN SCOTLAND

Railway Traffic Stopped and Bridges Carried Away

Glasgow, February 16.—The River Clyde burst its banks above Glasgow on Monday morning and inundated the industrial district of Rutherglen, where a dozen extensive works were flooded to the depth of several feet. The main road was ten feet under water, and many houses were rendered uninhabitable. Several residential districts south of Glasgow also were flooded. The damage done was very heavy. The rain-swollen rivers have submerged miles of the country. Elsewhere in Scotland traffic on the railroads has been stopped, bridges have been swept away, and houses have collapsed. Thus far no fatalities have been reported.

EDWARD BLAKE INTERVIEWED

Longford's M. P. Has Not Yet Been Asked To Act

London, Feb. 15.—The Ottawa correspondent of The Times cables today that the name of Hon. Edward Blake is mentioned in official circles as one of the British representatives on the Alaskan Arbitration Tribunal.

I saw the member of South Longford this morning and asked him whether he had been approached in the matter. His reply was that he knew nothing about it. He would not say whether he would accept were he offered the position.

At the same time it is generally admitted in British official circles as well as by Canadians resident here, that he is the best man for the post. His great legal reputation gives Mr. Blacke an unique standing in British eyes.

THE ARMY SCANDALS.

Winston Churchill, M.P., speaking at Newcastle last night on army reform, said that the military class and the War Office were prejudiced against the volunteers, whereas the volunteers were the backbone of the army. He also compared the War Office to the Humbert fraud, saying that the War Office was the great English fraud. Referring to the "ragging" scandal, Mr. Churchill said the country ought to get rid of regimental social coteries, which did not exist in the navy, which he attributed to the interchange of officers.

CONCILIATING IRELAND.

A Times cable from Ottawa states that Sir Wilfrid Laurier contemplates introducing at the coming session of the Canadian Parliament a resolution approving the proposed settlement of the Irish land question.

Sir Anthony MacDonnell, the new Under Secretary for Ireland, says a spirit of hopefulness and reconciliation now animates Ireland. All the Irish are naturally pleased at the possibility of buying out the landlords, but English taxpayers are protesting at the prospect of being called upon to provide the equivalent of $500,000,000 for the purpose of relieving Irish landlords.

PRINCESS WILL WED GIRON.

Geneva, Feb. 13.—When Maitre Lechamel conveyed to Princess Louise the details and terms of the divorce secured by the husband she deserted, she said; "I expected as much." She did not seem surprised, and thanked the lawyer cordially for the trouble he had taken.

She is expected to take charge of her own affairs now. Giron will return to Geneva shortly to arrange for the future with the Princess, who has practically given up all hope of being allowed to see her children. It is expected she will finally marry Giron in some Protestant country like Switzerland.

MILLIONS OF PEOPLE GO HUNGRY IN VENEZUELA

Indescribably Bad Conditions as a Direct Result of the Blockade

POOR OUT OF WORK

People Hope for a Successful Revolution as a Deliverance.

Caracas, Feb. 16—The blockade of the Venezuelan coast and its effects, which are daily being felt more severely by several millions of people will not have been enforced in vain, whether it achieves its ostensible objects or not if we should only learn from it how much the peoples of the world are dependent upon the products and the industries of others.

OVER 200 YEARS OLD

St. Petersburg, Feb. 16—Russian newspapers claim that a man in the hospital at Tomsk is 200 years old. They say this statement is supported by documents. The man has been a widower for 123 years. He had a son, who died in 1834, aged 90 years. He remembers seeing Peter the Great. He is bed-ridden but mentally sound.

Looking at Venezuela superficially, one would say, and many have said who are not accustomed to speak thought, that here is a land overflowing with everything the human animal craves and desires. Here is a land that asks nothing from the United States or From Australia, here is a land that all the sea power, in the world, as long as it remains afloat, could not hurt or materially damage.

This was the boast of the Venezuelans and the belief of many clear sighted foreigners, but how different has been the actual experience. The real blockade has not been enforced more than three weeks and today at least a million people are experiencing with increasing frequency the pangs of hunger.

The newspapers are ceasing publication for lack of paper, and this it may be added is no great loss, because no truthtelling organ can be published in Venezuela. Petroleum and coal are exhausted. The seaports and inland towns remain dark and funereal after sunset.

Flour and rice where not absolutely exhausted, have soared to fabulous prices which place them beyond the reach of any but a very fortunate few, and the food products of the country, such as black beans and corn meal, have grown very dear and very scarce. The laboring men, and more especially those of the towns and sea ports, would be quite unable to buy them at the current rate of wages; but, as a matter of fact, with but very few exceptions, the laboring classes are not receiving today any wages whatsoever.

As was natural, within a few hours after December 20, when the blockade was declared in earnest, all the stevedores and the cargadores of the port towns were laid off. The shipping firms discharged all their clerks and the warehousemen have retained only a caretaker or two. The hotels dismissed half their staffs. For three weeks now the railways have been running at a loss of from £3,000 to to £4,000 a week.

Naturally, under various pretexts they are curtailing train service, and from Wednesday next it is announced, on the pretext of making some necessary repairs to the roadbed, the important line between Caracas and La Guira will not be run at all, perhaps for a week, perhaps for a longer period.

General Castro told me when I saw him in Victoria that the blockade would only hurt the exports and that as 90 per cent. hurt the exporters, and that as 90 per cent. of them were foreigners, and principally English and German, the sons of Venezuela would stand the suppression of all their very profitable business with Christian fortitude and resignation.

The Government organs, taking their cue from the president, preached at great length in this strain, and the caricatures depicted the Anglo-Germans in the foolish act of biting off their noses to spite their faces.

JOINT HIGH COMMISSION

Believed at Washington That It May Meet Again

Washington, February 16—As a result of the ratification of the Alaskan boundary treaty it is probable that the Joint High Commission will be reconvened. Sir Wilfrid Laurier is the Canadian head and Senator Fairbanks, the American. The commission broke up, it will be recalled, in a deadlock over the Alaskan boundary dispute. It was found impossible to do business with the Canadians until this was out of the way. Wednesday's action practically removes this obstacle, and so lifts the break from the wheels of negotiation. Reciprocity with Canada may now be considered in all its phases. The way is open for interesting possibilities.

TO STRIKE BLOW AT CLERGUE INTERESTS

Bill Introduced Into Michigan Assembly

Detroit, Feb. 12.—Representative Ward has introduced a bill in the State Legislature at Lansing which, if enacted into law, will deal a blow to the various Clergue enterprises at Sault Ste. Marie, and particularly to Mr. Clergue's "Soo" Canal Company. Representative Ward's measure is intended to repeal an Act passed four years ago providing that the "Soo" Canal Company pay taxes of 1 per cent. on the amount of incorporation, which is only $500,0000. Ward claims that the amount really invested is about $6,000,000, and the company is paying only $5,000 taxes when, it should pay $60,000, is assessed under the general law, as he proposes.

CLERGUE AND HIS PROJECTS

Why Temiskaming Contract was Abandoned

Montreal, Feb. 12.—Mr. Thomas J. Drummond, of Drummond, McCall & Co., local representatives of the Clergue interests, was seen this morning in regard to the reports that Michigan legislators were proposing to increase the range of taxation to which the Clergue enterprises are subject in that State.

"We have no information here about it," said Mr. Drummond, "and the facts would have to be got from the Sault or Philadelphia. The Michigan and Lake Superior Power Company, which has the Clergue interests on the American side of the Sault, was organized on the old plan of giving bonds for practically the whole actual cost, in which it differs from the Canadian companies up there. The Algoma Central, for instance, has not a cent of bonded indebtedness. It was stated at the time that the reason for this was the heavy tax on capital stock imposed by the Michigan Legislature. They may be proposing to extend this tax to the bonded indebtedness, which, I think, is about three and a half millions, or they may propose to tax the whole capital of the Clergue syndicate, whether employed in Michigan or not."

"Is there anything new in the steel rail situation, Mr. Drummond?

"The mill is simply waiting for blowing engines, of which it cannot secure delivery. Everything is ready for the conversion of bessemer pig into rails, but the blast furnace for turning Clergue ore into pig lacks this portion, and no one knows when delivery of it will be made. Mr. Clergue has been disappointed time and again, and he will not run the risk of disappointing others again. If they could buy bessemer they would import it, but at present rates bessemer billets cost about as much as finished rails, and they would have to lose the duty and cost of rolling. So the Temiskaming commissioners were given their choice of postponing delivery or cancelling the contract. There is a general tie-up in steel machinery, and it is impossible to-day to tell when delivery can be secured of anything like a blowing engine."

THE RAIL CONTRACT.

"This Temiskaming contract was represented as a kind of lifebuoy to save the Clergue rail mills from going under, Mr. Drummond. What is the effect of losing it?

"A steel rail mill does not run unless it has orders. Rails are not made to keep in stock, and closing down is a natural consequence when orders fall off. The Clergue mill was about to close temporarily when the Temiskaming order was secured. It was hardly big enough to mean the salvation of the plant. It was only for one section. The railway will want many other rail supplies, and we hope to be in a position to tender for them. The company abandoned this first contract rather than put the Temiskaming commissioners to inconvenience. The blowing engine is now promised for April, but the rails have to be delivered in May, and there was a risk."

SOUTH AFRICAN WAR PROVED BLOOD THICKER THAN WATER

Mr. Chamberlain's Remarkable Speech at Mafeking

BOND OF EMPIRE UNITES US ALL

Trying to Show Boers Advantages of Friendly Co-operation with British

London, Feb. 15.—The visit of Mr. Chamberlain, the Colonial Secretary, to Mafeking, on Jan. 27 and 28, was the occasion of a remarkable demonstration and of an equally remarkable speech by the notable visitor. The weather was wet and Mr. Chamberlain said that in any other country he would be inclined to condole with the audience on the weather, but when he was leaving the Protectorate chiefs this morning they greeted him with a shout which he was told meant, "May there be rain." Therefore it would be ungracious to complain. It might be mentioned that it is doubtful whether the native word was intended to be taken so literally, as the chiefs present looked as uncomfortable as the rest of the audience standing in the rain. Mr. Chamberlain continued with an eloquent reference to the seige of Mafeking, praising the skill and unfailing resource of the commander, the bravery of the volunteers and the town guard, the pluck and humanity of the nursing sisters, and the cheerful endurance of the whole population. He continued:

"The war is over, and I hope there will be enduring peace. I believe it is a fact that no other nation on the face of the earth could have accomplished what we had to do. The war has done much to show the strength and power of the Empire, but it has done more to show its cohesion and union. From the four great continents men of British race poured in to join the Mother Country in the time of stress, and prove that blood was thicker than water. It was a white man's war. For reasons of policy, it was considered undesirable that men other than Europeans should take part in it. Had it been otherwise, the great Empire of India could have poured in tens of thousands of valiant troops. There is not a colony, from the smallest to the greatest, over which I have the honor to preside, which would not have poured in troops to show that it was prepared to share in the sacrifices as the Empire. The link which binds us appears thin as gossamer; but let an enemy try to break through—he will find it as strong as tempered steel."

While travelling through the country he had come to the conclusion that the war had cleared the air and done something to establish a basis of mutual respect, on which alone a lasting friendship could ever be built. He had been told that while he was addressing a Boer audience the other day one of them said: "He is trying to coax us." The man was certainly mistaken. "I am not here," Mr. Chamberlain said, "to flatter the Boers, but to tell the truth. It is the truth when I say that the Boer has many good and strong qualities, which we love to see in our own people and rejoice to find in others. I want to persuade the Boers, if I can, that it is a good thing to have the friendship of the British nation, good to unite in one strong union with a no less proud and courageous race. We could hold this country without their help, but we want to hold it with their help and regard."

Here the rain came down so heavily that Mr. Chamberlain stopped, but the crowd loudly urged him to proceed, and in conclusion, he said:

"I have found during my trip in the Transvaal that those who fought best against us are least inclined to cherish animosity. The country is one of infinite possibilities, but we must have a union of races and of all classes of the population. If that is assured confidence will return, capital will pour in, and the development of the country will follow."

Liverpool, Feb. 14.—Right Hon. A. J. Balfour, the Premier, in the course of a speech at a luncheon given by the Conservative Club here on Friday, declared that the British Government had no choice but to take action against Venezuela. The Ministers had shown no undue haste, no greed for money, and no inhumanity.

The United States Government had been taken into the confidence of his Majesty's Government at every stage of the proceedings.

The Monroe Doctrine had no enemies in this country. It would be a great gain to civilization if the United States should more actively concern itself with arrangements to prevent the constantly recurring difficulties between the European powers and the South American Governments by getting the latter to observe the principles of international courtesy.

Continuing, the Premier said there was no ground for Lord Rosebery's criticism with respect to British relations with either the United States or Germany. Some arrangements with the latter for joint operations was the most reasonable step possible for enforcing their several claims.

Mr. Balfour ridiculed the suggestion that the alliance with Germany over Venezuela was settled at the time of Emperor William's visit to King Edward at Sandringham. He declared that the whole story was a mare's nest.

International animosities, said the Premier, were a great source of international weakness. Great Britain was supposed to be greatly disliked on the continent, but no country was stronger for disliking Great Britain or showing animosity, nor would Great Britain be strengthened by harboring animosity.

If the peace of Europe were to be preserved and the cause of civilization go forward without fatal shocks, it must be by the increasing use of co-operation between the European powers. The Balkan States are now giving anxiety and the question can only be solved by common action upon the part of the great civilized powers. The European concert is clumsy, he said, but it is better than isolated action.

Mr. Balfour implored all those who had any influence over the sources of public opinion to refrain from indulging in the easy task of embittering the relations between nations, and creating jealousies, so easily formed and so difficult to allay.

GREECE AND THE BALKAN CRISIS

London, Feb. 16.—An Austrian paper is responsible for the statement that M. Delyannis, formerly Prime Minister of Greece, offered to furnish Turkey a number of Greek sharpshooters to fight against the Bulgarians, and that Turkey declined the offer. The Sultan evidently fears, or rather mistrusts the Greeks, even when bringing gifts. That the offer should have been made is remarkable, bearing in mind that within the last five years Greece was soundly thrashed by Turkey and had to pay a war indemnity of $17,600,000, in addition to "rectifying the Turco-Grecian frontier" by the cession of Thessaly. There is, however, strange to say, even less love lost between Greece and Bulgaria than between Greece and Turkey. Both Greece and Bulgaria have long desired to acquire Macedonia. So long as Macedonia remains a part of Turkey there is always a certainty of persecutions and outrages against the Macedonian Christians by the Turks, a probability of revolution, and at least a chance of Macedonia being annexed to Greece or one of the Balkan States. In the event of Macedonia being annexed to Bulgaria the other prospective heirs to the Sick Man would find their hopes finally crushed, because Macedonia would at once come within the sphere of Russian influence, which is practically supreme in Bulgaria

CANADIAN PACIFIC SURVEYING BOATS

Elder Dempsters Willing to Sell but Want Best Possible Price

SITUATION AS IT IS AT PRESENT

Progress of Survey is Necessarily Slow as it Goes on as Steamers Reach British Ports

London, Feb. 16.—Regarding the Canadian Pacific Railway Company purchasing the Elder, Dempster steamers for a fast Atlantic freight service I understand the present position is as follows: The Elder, Dempster's are willing to sell and the Canadian Pacific is willing to buy. The Elder, Dempsters, however, want the best possible obtainable price. The Canadian Pacific people are now having the steamers surveyed as they reach British ports so as to ascertain a fair market value and progress is necessarily somewhat slow.

THEY ARE A MARVEL

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills the Greatest Wonder of the Age

Editor of the Morning Times:

Sir,—I am only too pleased to write a letter to the press, as I firmly believe that all who suffer from rheumatism or any troubles of the blood can get sure and certain relief. I was ill for many years, and am now entirely well. Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills are without doubt the greatest wonder of the age in medicine. They cured me, and I know they will cure others who are even worse than I was. I write this of my own accord in the hope that it will do some good. Evans Blair, G. T. R. News Agent, Union Station, Toronto.

A. R. Legge, Stanstead, Que., writes "Six boxes of Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills entirely cured me of indigestion after years of torture."

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills are positive and certain cure for rheumatism, asthma, paralysis, coughs, lame back, indigestion, all stomach and liver troubles, female complaints, even when the diseases have been standing for many years; the most stubborn case will yield. Sold by Ormond & Walsh, Peterborough, price 50c. per box.

Employers' Grievance.

The restaurant section of the Provincial Retail Merchants' Association has decided to ask the Ontario Legislature to amend the present act and put the employer in the same position as the employee with regard to the enforcement of contracts for wages. At present an employee may summons an employer in the Police Court for non-payment of wages. Employers seek similar rights against employees who leave without notice.

PRINCESS OF SAXONY LOVES HER CHILDREN

The Pathetic Sorrow of the Crown Princess Louise

THE CONDITIONS OF SETTLEMENT

Must Give Up Her Dancing Master or Forego the Greatest Pleasure of a Mother

Berlin, Feb. 16—Schwab, the detective employed by the court of Saxony to watch the crown princess and Giron while they were at Geneva, has returned to Vienna and tells a pathetic story of that part of the separation negotiations now finally completed, which deprives Louise of the privilege of seeing her children.

It appears that the conditions of settlement were not generous nor gently proposed. The princess received, before she left Geneva, her whole wardrobe and personal belongings not included in the crown jewels. The ultimatum of King George was to this effect:

"You can have $6,000 a year in any case, but if you do not give up M. Giron you will not be allowed to see your children."

It was useless for the princess to implore the king of Saxony's agent to represent to his royal master the cruelty of this alternative. She had to give up her royal titles, rank and privileges, and to have no further claim on the house of Saxony and to call herself by her birth name until she could marry the man with whom she had eloped.

Schwab says that the princess' love for her children found vent in impassionate declarations. She kept their photographs on the table before her and wept over them constantly. But she could not allow them to stand between herself and Giron.

The handsome dowry of Princess Louise goes to her younger children. Her allowance from the Italian government in King Humbert's reign will revert to the grand duke of Tuscany.

It is learned that Giron's income is less than $900 a year. Still the pair will not be bothered about ways and means yet awhile as the princess took with her $100,000 worth of jewels. A quantity of her personal gems, valued at half that much, which she left behind her, have warded. If she should sell them at auction in Paris she might obtain for them far more than they are worth.

It is interesting to note that American ladies living in Berlin and Vienna, or traveling in this country generally look upon the princess with great sympathy, and do not hesitate to mark their aversion to the beer-soaking, snoring prince-husband from whom she fled. Recently, when the prince appeared in public and was hissed, several American women who witnessed the scene expressed themselves as convinced that the crown prince received no more than he was entitled to.

POLITICS IN MANITOBA THE NEW POLITICAL PARTY

Programme of the New Party Made Public

The Spoils System to be Abolished as Well as Sale of Liquor

Winnipeg, Man. February 16—At the annual convention of the Political Reform Union, which is a combination of Patron movement with labor men and dissatisfied Liberals and Conservatives, about one hundred delegates were present from different parts of Manitoba, and it was decided to place candidates in the majority of the constituencies at the next provincial elections. They advocate:—

1. Granting of vote power to the electorate in the Provincial and Dominion legislation, as now in the case of municipal money by-laws.
2. Public ownership of public franchises.
3. Abolition of the spoils system.
4. Abolition of the sale of liquor for profit.

Resolutions were passed condemning the granting of public aid or excessive capitalization powers to private companies entrusted with public franchises; that any railway charter grants should contain a proviso that the Government shall have the option of purchasing at an advance of 5 per cent., on actual cost; requiring the extension of the Government system of railways into the Northwest, preferably by the acquisition of existing lines.

Another resolution recited the grievances of shippers in regard to the railway blockade, stating among other things that the loss had [illegible] to farmers and others occasioned by the shortage of rolling stock amounted to much more than the entire cost of rolling stock required.

Ex-Mayor Alexander Macdonald, wholesale grocer, Winnipeg, was elected president, and Arthur Puttee, M.P., for Winnipeg, a vice-president.

Unmistakable Signs of Catarrh

If you have a ringing in the ears, dropping in the throat, bad breath, headache, morning weakness, bad taste in the mouth—then it's catarrh. Use catarrhozone inhaler four times daily and irradiate this awful disease from your system. Catarrhozone kills the germs, heals the inflamed membranes, clears nose, throat and air passages by one application. Catarrhozone quickly remedies the head noises and deafness, prevents dropping and is warranted to absolutely cure all forms of Catarrh, Bronchitis, Asthma, and Lung Troubles. Two months' treatment costs $1.00; trial size 25c. Druggists or N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

Veterans and Settlers' Lands.

Toronto officials of the Veterans' Locating and Colonization Association state that they have examined 460,000 acres of land in New Ontario, from which they have selected for veterans 184,000 acres. The lands so far taken up have been selected for agricultural purposes. In addition to selecting lands for veterans, the association is examining and selecting lands for intending settlers, who are coming from the United States to Canada. The large number of the latter are going to the Rainy River district, where there are good agricultural lands, as well as timber, to be had.

MORE TROUBLE IN CHINA

Testimony that trouble is brewing in China increases. G. J. Kananaugh, a newspaper correspondent who has been stationed for some time in the southern provinces of China, has just arrived in San Francisco, and he reports that the natives of South China are making active preparations for rebellion and war, and, profiting by the failure of the Boxer troubles in the north, have shown more shrewdness in their preliminary arrangements. Canton, up the river from Hong Kong, appears to be the center of activity, and the foreigners are made daily aware of the serious trend of affairs. According to Mr. Kavanaugh, arms are being secretly landed in China by filibustering expeditions, in which Americans, Germans, and English figure prominently. The identity of those who have undertaken this work or who are prominent in its execution is, of course, hard to determine, but high Chinese officials, as well as many intelligent foreigners resident in the country, are aware that adventurous citizens of the three great powers are arming the Chinese. Former American soldiers are employed in drilling the Chinese rebels. An uprising in some of the provinces removed from the principal coast cities is expected to take place soon, and its effect upon the foreigners as well as upon the natives of the country, who have thus far shown an indifferent spirit, is awaited with anxiety.

This is not encouraging. The "foreign devils" in China may have another hard time soon, and those who said that the Chinese were not treated harshly enough before may be able to say, "I told you so."

EDITORIAL COMMENT

The farm help that is available in England is not desired in Canada—the married man with a family and the young and inexperienced men.

A public meeting in Toronto has voted to refuse Mr. Carnegie's offer of $350,000 towards a public library building. Mr. Carnegie will probably survive the snub.

Mr. Blake, it is said, contemplates an early return to Canada, and a re-entrance upon public life. His long service in the old land, in behalf of the Irish cause, has done little good.

Montreal has the benefit, industrially, of electric energy developed at the Shawinigan Falls, the Lachine and Richelieu rapids. The Montreal people don't talk as much as the Toronto people, but they do more.

Archbishop Bruchesi's blast against the theatres of Montreal has led to the arrest of certain performers in immoral acts. The church has not yet time, lost its power. Its lash is by far the keenest and most cutting.

The Mail is opposed to union in the fire department. The men there must owe allegiance to only one man—the head of the organization. When a man joins a fire company, says the Mail, "he practically renounces all right to strike."

Toronto board of control has taken stand on the formation of a labor union within the ranks of the firemen, but its resolution is a study. It approves and disapproves at the same time. The man who wrote it is clearly in the middle of the road.

The Canadian Pacific Railway has ordered twenty more engines from Glasgow, Scotland, and all that the new Toronto Engine Company can build within a year. These, in addition to what other locomotives works are building, and the C.P.R. at its own shops, ought to cope with the marked increase in traffic.

AGAINST PANAMA TREATY

Senator Morgan Thinks it Should Be Made Over.

Washington, Feb. 12.—After the confirmation of a number of nominations and the refusal to re-open the Alaskan boundary question, the Senate, in executive session today began consideration of the Panama Canal treaty between the United States and the Republic of Colombia. Senator Morgan immediately took the floor to urge that the treaty be amended in many respects, and to oppose it unless amended. He contended the convention is loosely drawn, and said that, in order to properly safeguard the interests of the United States, it should be practically made over.

REBELS MURDER VILLEGERS

Serious Outbreak Recently Occurred in Southern Madagascar

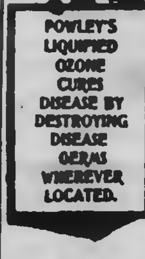
London, Feb. 12— A despatch to a news agency from Paris announces that mail advices received there from the Island of Madagascar give details of a serious outbreak which occurred recently in the southern part of Madagascar. A force of rebels attacked and destroyed a village, and murdered its inhabitants. Detachments of troops pursued the rebels. They killed a hundred of them, but, during the fighting, the French sustained serious losses.

BANISH YOUR RHEUMATISM

W. A. Andrews Banished Ills When He Was So Bad That He Had Lost Twenty-five Pounds and Was a Complete Wreck.

Hobbling Around on Two Canes He Commenced to Take Powley's Liquified Ozone, Which Instantly Destroyed the Disease Germs.

In Two Days His Appetite Returned, His Sleep Was Natural and Restful, His Pains and Aches Vanished and He Threw Away His Canes.



"Last August I was attacked with severe muscular rheumatism. So bad was this attack that I called in my doctor, who had to administer injections to allay the pain, after which he put me through the sweating system. He attended me well and faithfully for five weeks. When I got up I was compelled to use two canes to get around the house. During all this time I lost about twenty-five pounds in weight; in fact I was a complete wreck. My appetite and sleep left me. I tried a number of good tonics to brace me up and give me an appetite, but none of them helped me.

"About this time my daughter commenced taking Ozone for a chronic sore throat and quinsy, from which she had suffered for years. In a short time she was completely cured of this troublesome disease. So effective was the preparation in her case that I commenced taking it myself, and in two days' time my appetite returned and my sleep became as good as ever. All the pains and aches had vanished by the time I had started on the second bottle, and I threw away my canes. Ozone toned up my system and I became a new man. I gained rapidly in flesh, as all my friends can testify. I look well and enjoy as good health now as ever I did in my life.

Ozone Acts Rapidly and Thoroughly.

It is conceded by medical men that the cause of nine-tenths of the disease from which people suffer is disease germs. Powley's Liquified Ozone acts rapidly because it immediately attacks this cause. It acts thoroughly, because it eradicates every trace of it.

In a nutshell, Powley's Liquified Ozone cures disease by destroying the disease germs that cause it. It is especially beneficial in cases of rheumatism and will give relief and effect a permanent cure in the very worst cases.

Powley's Liquified Ozone is sold only by reliable dealers—never by fakirs or peddlers. Price 50 cents and $1.00 per bottle. Our book on Rheumatism free on receipt of name and address.

pulsiveness and her impatience!"

"It's not the prettiest side of womanhood, that. No, Jack, young Bascot need not look upon me as a hated rival."

"All right, then. I own I shouldn't like you to make a second venture with an opera-singer's daughter."

"Opera-singer's, eh?"

"Yes. About the last thing you would expect to hear of that menage, isn't it? Bascot's brother married a singer, and though they are grieved at the taint, they are not at all unwilling that the money she earned should be kept in the family."

These details concerning the girl whose acquaintance he had made so oddly increased Astley's interest, and on his second visit he determined that she should not escape him as she had done the first time.

But to his surprise her manner to him had changed altogether. Satisfied now that he would keep her secret, and grateful for his reticence, Norma at once, upon his entrance, gave him her hand with a blush and a faint smile, and made no further attempt, as she had done on his previous visit, to avoid speech with him.

It was natural that, as on the previous occasion, Astley should be made much of as a hero who had fought and bled in his country's service. The fighting element was usually conspicuous by its absence from the slightly stuffy professorial Oxford atmosphere, and the ladies in particular were never tired of hearing his adventures, which he described with an attractive admixture of truth both new and strange.

And of course it was presently suggested by one of the matrons that he should marry. Jack Fielding, who was near, answered for him.

"Now I'm going to 'give him away,'" said he, with a laugh. "He made a confession to me last night, and owned that he disapproved of marriage altogether. Won't have it at any price, wants it abolished. Now you know what a serpent you've been harboring by your fireside."

There was a chorus of remonstrance, and Astley defended himself as well as he could, though he was hardly listened to. For each of the ladies was more intent upon being heard than upon hearing him.

Norma, who was near enough to hear all this, was the only silent and grave listener. But when, presently, he got the opportunity he wanted of speaking to her in a quiet corner, she turned to him at once, and said:

"I do agree with you so thoroughly in what you said about marriage. I think it's a hideous thing!"

Prepared as he was for the eccentricity of which he knew, Astley looked at her in real surprise.

"Why," said he, "that is, if you will allow me to say so, a strange thing to hear from a lady engaged to be married herself."

Norma's eyes flashed.

"I'm not engaged to him," she said vehemently. "They're doing their best to drive me into it; but I ask you, do you think it is possible for any woman with the least spark of humanity in her, to contemplate the thought of marriage with that white rabbit?"

Astley wanted to burst out laughing.

"Those are very strong words," he said.

"They're not stronger than my feelings," replied Norma, whose passionately uttered words had a strange piquancy from the fact that they were spoken in the lowest and most musical of voices. Astley remembered the voice: he had been struck with its sympathetic quality on the day of their adventure.

"Well," said he, more and more interested in the strange girl, "there's surely no need for you to waste so much emotion over the matter. No woman can be forced to marry against her will."

But at this, Norma threw upon him a look of scornful surprise.

"Oh, yes, she can," she replied with confidence. "I'm not very old, but I know that. And if you will think, and consider all your acquaintances, I'm sure you will find instances of girls being made to marry against their will."

Astley reflected.

"Well, perhaps I may know of some instances of particularly weak and easily led girls being persuaded into marriage," he said at last, "but not girls like you."

Norma turned towards him with a little grave smile.

"You think I'm strong-minded because I'm self-willed, I suppose," she said. "People often make that mistake. But I'm not. No girl can stand the constant pressure, the never-ceasing strain. My mother left me at the mercy of these people; I don't know why, considering all the circumstances of her life; but she did. And I can't move, I can't even have command of my own money, until I come of age—and that won't be for two years—two whole years—or until I marry."

"Well, then, why not marry somebody else?" suggested Astley.

"Because there is nobody else. They won't let there be," replied Norma quickly. "Look at that stamp-collecting idiot—"

"Oh, come now," protested Astley.

But he wanted to laugh again when he cast a glance in the direction of poor little Robert Bascot, and saw that he was fidgeting in his chair, and casting doleful, uneasy glances towards himself.

"See," she went on, "how miserable he is, just because I'm talking to you. He will come over here in a minute and take you away."

"But you ought to be flattered," said Astley. "There's no love without jealousy, you know."

A VERY DESIRABLE INVESTMENT

THE McLENNAN PAINT COMPANY

LIMITED

BUFFALO - - - NEW YORK

INCORPORATED UNDER THE LAWS OF CANADA

CAPITAL, - - $500,000

Dividends on Preferred Stock Paid Quarterly.

For the purposes hereinafter stated, we offer at par,

50,000 of our 7 per cent. Preferred Treasury Stock Shares, $100.00 each

Payments as follows: 20 per cent. on amount of stock subscribed for at time of subscription; 30 per cent. in 60 days balance in 90 days. Receipts will be issued until full amount of stock subscribed is paid, when certificates bearing the Company's seal, and signed by the President, Secretary and Treasurer are issued. The McLennan Paint Co., Limited, have one of the most modern plants of its kind in the world, occupying 300,000 square feet of floor space. The capital of the Company is a half million dollars. The growth of the business has been phenomenally rapid and conservative. In line with other large industries, the Company propose to establish a branch factory in Canada for the manufacture of their products, which are covered by valuable patents, and which practically give the Company a monopoly, and, for the above purpose, offer at par $50,000 of their 7 per cent. Preferred Treasury Stock.

The McLennan Paint Company, Limited, was organized in 1892 by Mr. C. J. McLennan of the McLennan Dipping Process, and other valuable paint-making machinery. The Company began business in rented premises, in East Buffalo. So profitable was the business, and so rapid the growth, that large factories were built in North Buffalo in 1895. The business again doubled, and another plant was added in 1898. In 1901 the Company invented and perfected a line of reds, or vermilions, permanent in color, and at much less cost than the old line colors. This increased the sale of their products practically one-fourth, making it necessary for them to build a new Color and Chemical Works. This factory is without doubt the largest and most modern in the world. Mr. Charles J. McLennan, the President of the Company, and the inventor of labor-saving machinery, such as dipping tanks, mills, etc., is recognized as one of the most skillful and best known paint manufacturers in the country. The name and fame of this Company, and its products, are known all over the United States and foreign countries, and that they will capture the Canadian market is evidenced by the fact that many of the large Canadian manufacturers are at present using their goods, in face of the heavy duty. It is with a view to saving this 25 per cent. duty and adding it to to the profits of the Company that they have decided to establish a branch in Canada, which will be controlled and managed by the parent Company.

Practical men of means, character and national reputation constitute the directorate and management. Each department is managed by a skilled man; monthly statements rendered and careful audit made semi-annually. The books are always open to the smallest shareholder. The finances of such a concern are guarded as closely as the finances of any bank, and failure is practically impossible.

COPY OF TESTIMONIALS.

A. C. Cornell, Toronto, Ont.: Columbia National Bank, Buffalo, N. Y., Jan. 23, 1903.

DEAR SIR,—The McLennan Paint Co. are good customers of this bank, and I have known them personally for years, All the officers bear excellent reputations, and are considered good business men. Their management is evidenced by the large business they have built up, as careful and conservative. They have met with great success in the past, and I believe that today, theirs is one of the largest and most prosperous concerns of its kind. I have every reason to believe that the stock which they are now offering for sale is a desirable, as well as a safe investment. Yours very truly,

L. H. GETHOEFER, Cashier.

The Merchants' Refining Co., Refiners of Petroleum, Paraffines, Paraffine Wax, Lubricating Oils, Residuum, Napthas, and Gasoline,

A. C. Cornell, Toronto, Ont.: Buffalo, N. Y., Jan. 23, 1903

DEAR SIR,—Your favor of 21st received, and note you are offering for sale $50,000 of the preferred stock of the McLennan Paint Company and ask me what I know of the firm. Would say I have had business dealings for eight years—transactions of many thousands of dollars. I am also doing business with other houses engaged in the same line, and desire to say there is no house in America to-day that stands higher than the McLennan Paint Co The growth of their business has been phenomenally large, and under the conservative management of the President, Mr. C. J. McLennan, the success of the business is assured in the future. As an investment, in my judgment, nothing could be safer than the stock they offer.

Very respectfully, C. A. SALISBURY, Manager.

A. C. Cornell, Toronto, Ont.: Buffalo, Jan. 26th, 1903.

Dear Sir,—Referring to the sale of $50,000 of our 7 per cent. Preferred Stock, the Prospectus does not elaborate on the proposition, but merely mentions the amount guaranteed. I desire to inform you, however, we could have paid at least 14 per cent. last year, but carried balance to a Reserve Fund, which, necessarily, makes the stock very valuable.

Very truly yours,
THE McLENNAN PAINT CO., LIMITED,
C. J. McLennan, Manager.

P.S.—Having visited this proposition on behalf of some very conservative investors, I can verify all the above. The plant is extensive and modern in every detail; officers and management skilled and very industrious; all the products superior. This is a Canadian Company, Canadian Charter. Having built in Buffalo, in proximity to raw material, by shipping here in ground state and preparing here, will save and add large duty to already large profits. Bear in mind this is not prospective, but a large, rich, going, paying institution. Prospectus, application forms, and any further particulars, and subscriptions, address the undersigned. All cheques or drafts for stock made to the order of the Company, and forwarded to

The Cracker Jack as an Investment

APPEALS TO THE CONSERVATIVE

THE CRACKER JACK group of mining claims consists of 120 acres of property in the Cracker Creek district, Baker county, Eastern Oregon. This group of claims contains the extension of the Cracker Oregon veins on the south; a split from the E. & E. on the southwest and parallel values of the North Pole mine on the west.

The trend of values in the Mother Lode system of this district is NORTHWARD. It starts in the Golconda and continues through the Columbia, E. & E., Cracker, Oregon, and North Pole, increasing in value up to and into the Cracker Jack claims.

In four months the Cracker-Oregon stock advanced from 25 cents to $1.00—its par value. In four months the Golconda stock increased more than 100% over its original selling price.

The Cracker Jack contains the values. They can be traced; the veins out crop and the focus of the richest fissures is in the Cracker Jack property.

The Cracker Jack is not a mine; neither is it merely a prospect. It has been proved. Next April a force of men will be put to work and development will be continued day and night.

This is a tunnel proposition. It can be opened by a series of tunnels and shafts, and the free milling ore can be treated on the property. As an investment, the Cracker Jack is secure. It has vast ore bodies as its security; it has a conservative management as further security.

The policy of the Cracker Jack Consolidated Gold Mines Company is to open this rich property, build a mill and PAY DIVIDENDS. This is an investment for conservative men. It is not sensational. The mine will produce ore just as rich in value as that brought out by any of the surrounding properties.

The stock will advance in price and it will earn.

This is a proposition that commends itself to investigation of the most searching kind. Look into it, learn something of its directorate; find out if these claims are well founded. In other words, write for a prospectus to

REPORT BY EX-SUPERINTENDENT OF MINE

Cecil R. Gold Mining and Milling Co., Los Angeles, California.

Ballarat, Cal., Nov. 1st, 1902.

Gentlemen,—Your request for my opinion as to the "Santa Rosa" group of mines, and other claims in which you are interested in this territory, to hand, and in reply will say:

The "Santa Rosa" group, which is located southeast of Ballarat some three and a half miles, consists of twelve claims, equal to 240 acres. The ledge crops out more or less the full length of these claims, showing the same character and [illegible] of work as where development work has been done. In [illegible] of the [illegible] it shows highly mineralized rock, with pyrites of iron, mica, schist, slate, slate porphyry, gouge, quartz, and [illegible], all bearing more or less. Where work has been done, it shows a very marked improvement in both quantity and quality of gold-bearing rock. Commencing with the surface, the ore shows much iron and copper stain. All mill tests show pink ore commencing at the surface; in fact, I milled for several days and recovered [illegible] and [illegible] per ton, yet the milling process does not pay more than two-thirds of the value of the ore, the tailings oftimes running as high as [illegible] per ton, and never less than [illegible]. To save the entire value of your ore it will be necessary to install either concentrators or a cyanide plant. From careful study and frequent examination of the surface of the ground, and down as far as has been opened below the surface, I am highly pleased with the property. It is certainly a fine property, and as good as any I have ever had the pleasure of examining. Considering your mill site, with [illegible] facilities added, water, fuel, and cheapness of mining the ore, the Cecil R. will be capable of paying enormous dividends when your capacity for milling is increased to what it ought to be.

Wishing you every success, I remain, Yours very truly,

(Signed) G. W. FLEMING,

Market Activity Increasing

It now would appear as if there was a revival of speculation at hand, stocks are again waking up and becoming more active while prices are hardening. Most issues are now selling at exceedingly attractive prices, warranting purchasing. An increase in volume of business at present brings higher prices.

We will be pleased to notate upon request the most desirable issues for immediate purchase.

For an account with us amounting to $[illegible], we will purchase and carry for you [illegible] shares of any active stocks, [illegible] bushels of grain or [illegible] bales of cotton; larger amounts in proportion. We solicit your investment, banking or speculative account. Let us send you for a while, our

STOCK MARKETS

BY MOP — GOULD STOCKS THE MARKET FEATURE

New York, Feb. 14—The features of the present market are the Gould stocks. This party is at home and is aggressively bullish upon the market. Their companies are showing many reasons for being entitled to further advances. We believe that Mo. P. is the best of the Gould stocks to buy into at present. Russell Sage is quoted as saying that in his opinion the stock will sell at 130 before its present movement is finished. It is remarkably strong and being steadily ab'sorbed by Gould brokers. The concentration of holdings in this group of stocks make further advances quite likely. The company has just made a most magnificent statement for January. Last year's earnings held up remarkably well under the disastrous crops in the company's territory. Note these figures —Last year January only showed a nominal decrease of $30,000; February showed a decrease of $117,584; for March there was a gain wiping out previous decreases and leaving a net gain of $3,215. January comes to the front this year with no less improvement than $549,874 or 18 per cent with indications of a still more brilliant showing in net. February and March this year will simply show fabulous results. This year Mo. P. will show two dollars of available earnings for every dollar of dividend paid. Please bear in mind that Mo. P. is the heart of the Gould system. Also that increased dividends are justified by present and future development. Remember that for years Mo. P. paid regularly 7 per cent. per annum in the days of Jay Gould and it is more valuable and more able to do so now than it was at that time. Last year Mo. P. expended enormous sums in improvements, new equipment, etc. and all of it was charged to operating instead of to capital account. We believe Mo. P. will shortly sell higher than it has ever sold before and consequently advise its immediate purchase. Wabash, another Gould stock, has been looking up recently. It is going immediately higher, in our opinion, especially the preferred shares. The common moves more slowly but is a safe and conservative purchase at present writing. We recommend their purchase.

Summary—The market appears to be sold to a standstill; yesterday's selling withdrawing further offerings, receiving no encouragement from real shareholders. They must appear to be waiting for some one to come in and sell them the stocks they sold on Friday and and hoped for sellers failed to appear. To illustrate the market quietness it is but necessary to state that up to 11.30 there were no sales whatsoever for People's Gas, Sugar, Car F., W U., Manhattan, Ill. Central, Reading Second, T. C.I., and Alton. Wabash preferred and R. I. were the strongest features. Changes were but fractional. Reserves decreased three millions. Loans increased eleven millions, due to railway financing, and deposits increased twelve millions. Smelter stocks were very strong and in good demand. Buy any price concessions. Money, nothing doing. Sales 123,300.

INTERNATIONAL ELECTRIC MINING Co

185 SUMMER ST., - BOSTON, MASS.

A Dividend Payer for the Past Five Years.

12 PER CENT GUARANTEED

Capital Stock, $500,000. Par, $1.00, full paid and non-assessable

Over eight thousand tons of $56.00 ore mined and smelted from this group of mines.

A limited number of shares of the stock of this Company now offered at seventy-five cents per share. This price will shortly be increased to par. Stock registered by the International Trust Company, Boston, who is also the transfer agent.

This Company has a small capital stock.

The International Electric Mining Company owns seven mines and milling plant.

The Brooklyn and New York mines of this Company lie north of and join the Victor and the Hoodium—two rich mines that are now being worked by California parties. On the west lies the Electric Mining Company's mines. In these mines are millions of dollars' worth of rich ore in sight. On the south, adjoining the Berlin mine of this Company, is the Montazuma and Clipper. From the Montazuma over three million dollars has been taken within 80 feet of the grass roots.

This Company owns free and clear seven mines of twenty acres each, all containing rich ore, located in the Arabia and Trinity mining districts, Humboldt County, Nevada. The Company has worked these mines for the past five years, and is now driving a tunnel to cut out a rich ledge about 800 feet from the surface. The Arabia mining district, in which these mines are located, is a lively district—a great many men being employed there. The tunnel now being driven on the Brooklyn mine has about 250 feet already completed. When the tunnel cuts the main ledge, which has just been reached by the Victor tunnel about 600 feet, the Brooklyn will have about 800 feet stoping ground, which runs high in gold and silver, over $60.00 per ton.

The Company is offering for a short time a limited amount of stock for the enlargement of its plant and the working force at the mines and for the completion of the Brooklyn tunnel.

This Company has thousands of tons of rich ore in sight.

We are not making a lot of talk, because it is unnecessary. What the investor wants is dividends, which we have paid for the past five years. Now if you want a safe 12 per cent. investment, let us hear from you.

THE OLD COMSTOCK

A California mining paper has this to say: "Nevada, that grand old stamping ground of mushroom millionaires, who plucked enough wealth from her prolific fields to build mansions, banks, and big hotels in San Francisco, and palaces in Paris and London, is again astonishing the world by making more millionaires and by yielding millions in gold and silver from a new field which rivals the old Comstock lode in the days of its pristine splendor. Not only in Tonopah and Arabia districts, where within the past year nearly ten millions have been exposed, are operations active, but in every mining district in the Silver State are operations active, and Nevada will once more take her place among the big producers, the peer of any of them."

Dear Sir,—During the six months of October and November of this year I visited the mines of the International Electric Mining Company, situated in Arabia and Trinity mining districts, Humboldt County, Nevada. I found the country remarkably mineralized; in fact, the possibilities of the country as a mineral producing country are yet unknown. For years it certainly has produced well. The work now being done in the Arabia and Trinity districts establishes the fact that they are fine producers.

I also found that there is a great deal of interest being taken in these properties, which have produced a great deal of wealth the past quarter of a century.

"THE FRIDAY MINE"

Located at Pearl, Willow Creek, Boise County, Idaho

About 25 Miles Northwest of Boise City

THE FRIDAY GOLD MINING CO. is a corporation duly organized under the laws of the State of Oregon, with head office at Sumpter, Oregon, owning and controlling "The Friday Mine." Capital Stock $1,000,000, divided into 1,000,000 shares. Par value $1.00 per share, fully paid and non-assessable, no personal liability. [illegible] shares have been set aside and placed in the treasury of the Company to be sold for the purpose of equipping the "Friday Mine" with machinery. It is for this purpose we are offering you stock in this great mine. This plant will handle 60 tons of Friday ore every 24 hours. The general average of the Friday ore is over $[illegible] per ton. The ore as it was shipped to the smelters at Salt Lake averaging over $[illegible] per ton. The Friday is highly developed, great quantities of ore blocked out and in sight ready for the mill. As soon as the mill is completed the Friday Mine will again pay dividends.

Large ore bodies which will net to the company $[illegible] for the next few months, are now blocked out ready for the mill. As soon as the mill is completed you will draw your regular monthly dividend. It is safe, certain and conservative.

We are not soliciting your money for the purpose of developing the mine, but only for the purpose of erecting a mill to work the ore bodies in the mine. The company is officered by men of well known business ability, mining experience and strict integrity.

Hon. Martin H. Jacobs, State Mining Inspector of mines for the State of Idaho says: "The Friday has a large amount of good ore in sight, and there is no question about its being a good paying property."

Thunder Mountain!

is the richest gold producing camp in the United States, and also the largest. The Thunder Mountain district, in central Idaho, is twenty miles wide and forty miles long. In comparison with this we have Cripple Creek, four miles wide and seven miles long. In many of the Thunder Mountain mines ore has already been reached that carries ONE THOUSAND DOLLARS IN GOLD TO THE TON. All of the Thunder Mountain ore is free milling, which means that it can be treated by the cheapest extraction process known—the ordinary stamp mill. It can be both mined and milled at a cost not to exceed $2 a ton. The past years operations in the several working mines have opened up millions of tons of ore that will give a net profit of from $10 to $30 a ton, enabling the respective companies to pay dividends at a rate never before equalled. Such is the showing and the prospect of the

which unless all indications are at fault, will become the largest producer in the district. The EAST DEWEY mine, which it owns outright, is located directly on Thunder Mountain, just east of the famous "Dewey" mine, which already has $20,000,000 of ore in sight. The surface area of the East Dewey mine is one hundred and twenty acres—six full quartz claims. The company has also secured the big GOLDEN GATE mine, in the Big Creek section of the Thunder Mountain district—which has been so aptly termed "The Pot of Gold"—and is now developing the mine with all possible speed. For a distance of 9,000 feet, nearly two miles, the Golden Gate mines cover a mineralized ledge that is 900 feet wide, with an average height above the tunnel level of 500 feet, thus giving it the largest exposed tonnage of any mine in the west.

If you would share in the enormous profits which these figures indicate and which these developments promise, invest your money in "East Dewey" Stock. It can be bought to-day for 10 Cents a Share. Its par value is $1.

If the East Dewey mines are what they appear to be, and there is absolutely no reason to doubt or question these indications, this stock will eventually be worth at least $10 a share, and to-day you can buy it for ten cents. PRICE ADVANCES TO FIFTEEN CENTS ON FEBRUARY 28th. 5% discount allowed for cash. Stock sold at flat price of 10 cents on deferred payments, 10% with application, and 10% monthly until paid. Full particulars, prospectus, etc., on request.

BUY! WHY? BECAUSE THE SOUR LAKE OIL CO.

Has placed four-fifths of its stock in the treasury for development work; and because

Oil is reached in less than half the depth required on Spindletop Heights in Beaumont;

The people in Canada are well acquainted with the management, which is in the hands of Hon. JOHN L. BITTINGER, United States Consul General to Canada; F. S. Ashley, Vice-President of the Massachusetts Securities Co., and W. L. Marston, Vice-President of the American Union Oil and Refining Co.

These gentlemen have made a dividend payer out of one company and have raised the value of its stock from 5c per share to par value, or 25c, within a very short time;

The company is operating in the Sour Lake field, where fewer wells will tap the oil than at Spindletop; this insures a greater flow of oil, and it is of a better quality;

This is the first allotment of shares at the present price of TEN CENTS PER SHARE; it is the lowest price at which you can buy, and the time left in which to buy at TEN CENTS is short.

DEATH FROM SCARLET FEVER

Little Mary Coughlin Succumbs to the Dread Disease

It is with deep regret that we are called upon to announce the death of Mary Coughlin, the little 13 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Coughlin, of Ashburnham, which sad event occurred at St. Joseph's hospital on Sunday morning from that dread disease scarlet fever. She was a bright and lively little girl, and will be much missed by her playmates and the remaining members of the family. The interment took place yesterday afternoon.

To add to their affliction Mr. Coughlin has another little girl stricken with the same disease.

The deepest sympathy of the whole community is extended to the family.

The Times is informed that there are 18 cases of a most malignant type in the hospital, nearly all from the surrounding country.

THE LATE WILLIAM CREAMER.

Passed Away on Friday Last Aged 43 Years

Mrs. Creamer's maiden name was Miss Mary Fredenburg, who with two bright children, mourn the loss of a good husband, and a kind father.

Mr. Harry Creamer, of Frayettville, N.Y., was a brother; Mrs. Jos. Yelland, Mrs. R. Baker, of town; Mrs. C. Hamill and Mrs. P. Henselwood, of Winnipeg, are sisters.

Funeral will take place at 2.30 p.m. today.

MORE SMALLPOX

Eight New Cases are Reported at Ridgetown

Eight new cases of smallpox are reported this morning from Ridgetown. The outbreak has been traced to a member of the Marks Bros. Company, who who have been touring western towns. The company escaped from St. Thomas just a few minutes before their hotel was quarantined, and one member of the company afterwards developed the disease. The health officials are now trying to trace up the movements of the company, in order to guard against further spread of the disease from the same source.

A new centre has developed at Hilldale, Medonte Township, Simcoe County. Four families are down with smallpox. N. E. Hope Township, in Waterloo County, also reports another case.

EVANGELISTIC SERVICES

Large Congregations Listen to Rev'ds Turk and Kerby.

Yesterday Rev. Mr. Turk preached in the Baptist church on Murray street, to a large congregation, at 11 a.m., and Rev. Mr. Kerby conducted a special service in the Charlotte street Methodist church, at the same hour.

The mass meeting in the opera house, to men only, was also largely attended. Mr. Kerby spoke on "The Artificial Man," delivering a very earnest and impressive address. "The Holy City," was rendered by the two Evangelists in a manner that thrilled the large audience.

In the evening both Evangelists conducted service at the George street church, which was crowded to the doors.

The programme for to-day is as follows: 10 a.m., special meeting for business men in the Y.W.C.A. rooms, Mayor Rogers will occupy the chair. 7.45 p.m. (and following evenings except Saturday) meetings in George street Methodist church.

On to-morrow, Wednesday and Thursday, in addition to the evening meetings there will be afternoon meetings from 3 to 4 o'clock in George street church. The public are cordially invited to all these services.

Speedy Cure for Cramps and Colic

The most reliable cure for Cramps, Colic, Dyspepsia, and Summer Complaint is ten drops of Polson's Nerviline in a little sweetened water. Nerviline is an excellent remedy for all pain, whether internal or external, and should be in every household. All Druggists sell and recommend Nerviline. Price 25c.

Saturday's Market

There was a large attendance at the market Saturday morning; prices for farm produce was rather higher than usual. Fowl were scarce, and were in great demand. Turkeys brought about 12 to 14 cents per lb.; chickens ran from 60 cents to $1 per pair; geese went as high as 12 1-2 cents per lb.; beef, bought by the quarter, as high as $7 per cwt.; pork remained stationery; potatoes, $1.25 to $1.50 per bag; apples, 50 cents to $1.50 per bag; grain remained unchanged, as did hay and wood.

The distracting headaches from which so many women suffer make life a daily purgatory. If men suffered with headache as women do, business would be almost at a standstill. Does not the fact that men do not suffer from these severe headaches suggest that there must be a womanly cause for them?

When the womanly organism is diseased, headache, backache, nervousness and sleeplessness are consequences which are sure to follow.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription cures headaches and other aches and pains by curing their cause. It establishes regularity, dries unhealthy drains, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness. It soothes pain and builds up the nerves. It transforms weak, sickly, nervous invalids into happy, healthy women. Thousands have testified to its marvelous merits.

"I took two bottles of your 'Favorite Prescription' and two of the 'Golden Medical Discovery' and am feeling well," writes Mrs. Dan McKenzie, of Lorway Mines, Cape Breton Co., Nova Scotia. "I had uterine trouble, pain in the side and headache. After taking your medicines I got well. You may publish this or use it in any way you think best, as I cannot speak too highly of Dr. Pierce and his medicines."

--A team of horses, made a spirited run away down George street, on Saturday morning. They were brought to a standstill on Simcoe street before much damage was done beyond frightening a good many spectators.

A Clean Spill

A young man driving a spirited animal out of Mr. Munro's hotel yard at a high rate of speed, on Saturday afternoon, tried to turn too short, thus giving the cutter such a tremendous swing on the icy street that it threw the horse off its feet, turned the rig up-side-down, and sent the young man sprawling away in the distance. A number of willing hands soon helped to right himself, his horse, and the rig, without any damage being done.

Special Train to Fenelon Falls

The T.A.S. are running a special train to Fenelon Falls on Tuesday evening so as to give the supporters and friends of the team an opportunity of witnessing the game. The train will leave at 7 o'clock.

Mr. W. A. Buchanan, secretary of the O.H.A., announced that as arbitrator of the difficulty arising over the Peterborough-Port Perry game at the Markham tournament Friday night, he had decided that these teams must play six minutes Saturday night. These teams played a tie, 3 to 3, and they went on to play it off in two five-minute periods. At the end of four minutes Port Perry scored, when the lights of the rink were extinguished, it being midnight. The Peterborough team were unable to stop over Saturday night, so defaulted to Port Perry, who play off with Markham on Monday night.

AMERICANS NOW ADMIT THAT THE CANADIAN CASE IS A STRONO ONE

The Present Court of Arbitration a Deplomatic Victory for Canada

THE AMERICAN TARIFFS AND THE DOMINION

The Republicans in the West want a Tariff Revision with Canada Tariff Revision

New York, Feb. 17— The feeling in the United States that Canada "has no case" in the Alaskan boundary matter is not as unanimous as it once was. Indeed some authorities admit that she has valid claims and that they must be settled judicially. Consequently a commission upon which both parties shall be equally represented is thought to be the better way out of the difficulty.

One authority says: "No treaty ever absolutely lays down a boundary. It has subsequently to be fixed and marked by some natural feature of the land, a river or mountain-chain, or a series of monuments, and it almost invariably happens that some question arises as to its exact location in places. The treaty of 1783 defined the boundary between the United States and the British possessions as exactly as the geographical knowledge of the time permitted, and yet there was a long series of disputes over it and several commissions were appointed before it was finally settled." When the treaty of 1825 was agreed to after considerable controversy, knowledge of the geography of the region traversed by the dividing line was extremely vague. There has been no actual exploration, and there was uncertainty even about Portland Channel, as Vancouver's map and description were in conflict on account of the inaccuracy of his observations. The old maps represent a continuous chain of mountain peaks, parallel to the coast, which has not been found to exist. It is a mountainous region of irregular formation, without continuous ranges parallel to the coast. Under these circumstances, if there were no special cause of dispute, it would be necessary to have a commission to determine the actual boundary. If this had been done in 1872, when it was first proposed by the British Minister at Washington to Secretary Fish, there probably would have been no dispute or difficulty. There might have been none yet but for the discovery of gold in the Klondike, but the fact that one has arisen, makes it all the more important that the matter should be settled before the complications increase.

DO MAPS FAVOR U.S.?

The maps and charts down to recent times, including those of great Britain and Canada, following the definition of the treaty, appear to sustain the claim of the United States, but it is manifestly a case that requires an official delimitation, and that cannot be made by one party alone, any more than it could be in the case of the north-east boundary or the north-western boundary between the United States and Canada.

TARIFF REVISION.

There is a great demand from the Republican States in the West for tariff revision and it promises to have an important bearing on the campaign of 1904. Just how this matter will affect Canada cannot be foretold at present, but there is a decided feeling in many sections that the tariff barriers between the two countries should be pulled down forever. Possibly the high protectionists in the West may fight against the free admission of Canadian wheat, threatening, as it does, the American article, but even this is uncertain. The people in the Western States believe that the high tariff protects trusts to their disadvantage, and their principal fight will be made on this line. Senator Quarles, of Wisconsin voices the general feeling as follows: "Domestic competition is a fundamental element in the system of protection as framed by the Republican party. When great combinations of capital seek to monopolize domestic production and destroy or absorb independent importers for that purpose, it is time for Congress to interfere and and invite foreign competition to frustrate such design. I think the time has come when a revision of certain tariff schedules is wise, and a wise adjustment will, in my opinion, prove wholesome. It is reasonable to expect that the wonderful changes in commercial conditions, which we have witnessed in the last six years, amounting almost to a revolution in business methods, would make necessary revision of the tariff schedules."

Nothing can be done in this line in the present Congress because the session is too short, and such high tariff mossbacks as Hanna and Platt will not allow anything to be done. However, President Roosevelt is more progressive; he chimes in with popular sentiment in the West, and shortly Hanna and Platt will become back numbers.

MUST BE SETTLED.

A prominent trade paper favors a settlement of the Alaskan boundary question, with the view of improving business relations with the Dominion. It argues with such force that all such disputes tend to restrict trade.

"Whether there is any merit in the Canadian claim or not," it says, "there is a dispute, and it is desirable to have it settled in an amicable way. This comes just as the moment when Americans in the States along the Canada border are earnestly working for more friendly commercial relations with the Dominion through some kind of reciprocity agreement.

"A series of reciprocity leagues have been formed in the northern tier of States from New England to Washington to promote this movement, and it is these States mainly that are directly hurt or helped by freer trade with Canada, while the rest of the country can only be benefitted by what benefits them, or injured by what injures them. In fact, anything that will increase commercial intercourse between the United States and its neighbor on the north will produce the same kind of mutual benefit to those concerned that is derived from freedom of intercourse between our own East or West or North and South. Increase of trade cannot fail to profit both sides to it. Otherwise the trade would not increase.

"Canadians have for many years desired a renewal of reciprocal relations on the basis of free interchange of natural products, and our Government has refused to listen to overtures that insisted upon that basis, because, under the old treaty we bought from Canada more of those products than she bought from us. There was no disadvantage in that, for we paid the excess in manufactured articles for which we desired a market. Now, that market would be greatly enlarged under a reciprocity agreement that would do away with the preferential duties in behalf of British manufactures, which have been adopted on account of our refusal to reciprocate in tariff concessions. It is this refusal and the high rates maintained against Canadian products that have fostered the feeling which makes disputes with Canada so easy to raise and so difficult to settle."

NAVAL PROGRESS.

The officials of the Government at Washington are straining every effort to build up the American navy so that it will equal that of Great Britain in strength, if not in the number of warships. There is no expectation that the States can put as large a navy afloat as Great Briatin's for many years to come, but the plan now is to build three battleships which shall equal the three 18,000-ton nineteen-knot leviathans just planned by the British Admiralty. It is held that if the United States Government does not take this course, the expense of maintaining the navy will be largely wasted. It must be said that the people are ready to back up their representatives at Washington in the effort to make the navy effective.

There is no expectation that Grover Cleveland will again be a candidate for the Presidency. The division in the Democratic party is so great and rancourous that it is not believed he could be elected if he should by some unforeseen circumstance, obtain the nomination.

Mr. A. J. de B Corriveau, of Montreal, is in this city in the interest of the Lake Champlain and St. Lawrence Ship Canal Company. The project is to be pushed actively.

A Great Sufferer Cured

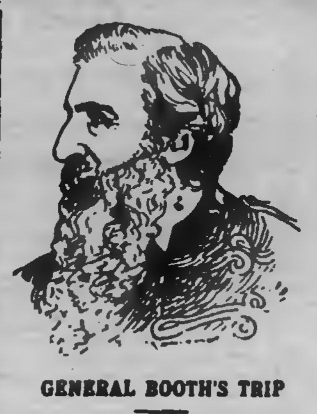
Mr. Benjamin Dillon, of Leeds, Ont., was cured of Muscular Rheumatism by Polson's Nerviline, and says: "I feel it my duty to proclaim Polson's Nerviline as an infallible cure for Rheumatism; it cured me after 30 years suffering, and nothing I know of can equal its penetrating power. Nerviline simply has no equal in quickly relieving and curing Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Sciatica, and Lumbago. A trial will convince anyone. Price 25c. [illegible] facts-

A SLAUGHTER OF WEST AFRICANS

Three Hundred Natives Slain by British Punitive Expedition.

London, Feb. 14.—Advices received here to-day from Nigeria say that the British punitive expedition, commanded by Col. Morland, and consisting of 1,300 men belonging to the West African frontier force occupied Kano February 3, after sharp fighting. Only two British officers were wounded. The enemy lost heavily, but the city was uninjured. The Emir of Kano fled to Sokoto.

An official despatch to the Colonial Office adds that twelve of the British rank and file were wounded, and that three hundred of the enemy were killed. The Emir was accompanied in his flight by 1,000.



GENERAL BOOTH'S TRIP

What He Has Done so Far in This Country

Straight to the "Soo"

Washington, Feb. 17—General William Booth, the commander-in-chief of the Salvation Army, arrived in Washington today, accompanied by his daughter, Consul Booth-Tucker, and Commander Booth-Tucker, her husband, who are in charge of the Salvation Army movement in the United States. General Booth said that in the seventeen or eighteen weeks during which he had been in this country he had travelled over 14,000 miles, addressed 173 big meetings and had seen more than 7,000 people "kneel at the bench of repentance, asking God's mercy." He said he would start the coming British campaign in London in March and would visit numerous countries later, including Switzerland, Holland, Germany, Denmark, Sweden, Norway and possibly Iceland, India and Japan.

EVANGELISTIC SERVICES

The George Street Church Filled to the Doors

GREAT INTEREST TAKEN.

Rev. Mr. Kerby Delivers a Soul-Stirring Address

Interest in the evangelical meetings which are being held in town is increasing. Last night the services took place in the George street church, where they will continue for the balance of this week.

The subject of the evening discourse was: "The meanest man, who is he?" The text from which the rev. gentleman spoke was "Even mine own friend, the friend in whom I trusted, which did eat of my bread, hath lifted up his heel against me." (Psalms, 41. and 9.)

Some say, that the meanest man, is the man, who spends his hard earnings for drink, who robs his wife of his company, and love; who deprives his children of a father's kindness and counsel, and eventually drives his family to poverty and want.

Other say, continued the rev. gentleman, that the meanest man is the wife-beater, the man who beats and abuses the woman he promised to love and cherish until death should them part.

Others say, that the meanest man is the miser, who gives his children a penny each to go to bed without their supper, and then, when they are asleep, he creeps into their room and steals their money from their pockets.

Some say that the meanest man is the man, who dishonors and despises his parents, who gains control of his fathers patrimony, and with base ingratitude, turns his father and mother on the street in their old age.

Judson—the rolling mill philosopher—declares, that the meanest man is the man, who gets you to grind his axe and then smites you with it, after it is ground.

Others again say that the meanest man, is the man, who was made guardian of the property of orphan children, yet betrays that trust by appropriating that property to his own use, and then sends the children to an orphant home to be cared for by public charity.

Not a few say that the meanest man is the man who invades the sanctity of a home—crushes the fair flower of virtue—then, in the most cruel and heartless manner, deserts his victim and leaves her to bear her shame alone, while he moves out and is received into the social life of the city.

It would seem as if all forms of meanness were included in this category; but we prefer to view this matter from another view-point, and to say that we have not fathomed the lowest depths of meanness until we have found the man, who deliberately and definitely turns his back on his best friend. When you have discovered that man, be he city or church official, millionaire or pauper, you have discovered the meanest man in Peterborough.

Who then is a man's best friend? The one who brings to him the best knowledge of himself, of God, and the future.

There is only one man that fits the case. That is the Name that is above every name—the Man, Christ Jesus who has demonstrated, His friendship by what He said, did and was.

The preacher therefore pressed home on the large audience that the superlative meanness of man, was the rejection of Jesus Christ—his best friend and saviour.

The sermon closed with an appeal to men to quit their meanness and accept the profered hand of the friendship of Jesus Christ the Saviour.

VENEZUELA BLOCKADE HAS BEEN RAISED

Commander of British Cruiser Sends Word Ashore at La Guayra.

La Guayra, Feb. 15.—The blockade has been officially raised. The commander of the British cruiser Tribune, the only warship here, sent an officer ashore this morning with the announcement that the Tribune would leave this afternoon for Trinidad. The populace is wild with joy.

Caracas, Feb. 15.—Since early yesterday morning Venezuelans have been awaiting impatiently the official intimation that the blockade had been raised. This morning, however, the British man-of-war Tribune was still at La Guayra enforcing the blockade and preventing fishermen from leaving the harbor. The government was puzzled until, at 11 o'clock, the news reached Caracas that the captain of the Tribune had notified the authorities at La Guayra that the blockade was raised. At 3 o'clock today the Tribune left for Trinidad. The news received from all Venezuelan ports, except Goro and Higuerote, is that the foreign warships sailed away to-day. The government immediately on receiving the news that the blockade had been raised, sent troops in all directions to crush the revolution without giving the rebels a moment's respite.

TURKEY GIVEN MORE TIME TO WITHDRAW

If Troops are Not Withdrawn the Mobolization of Bulgarian Troops will Follow

London, Feb. 16.—A despatch from Sofia to The Times says the Bulgarian Government awaits the withdrawal of Turkish troops from the frontier. Should this not take place, the Porte's intentions will be suspected, and an order for the mobilization of Bulgarian troops will probably follow.

Advices from Monastir, says the Constantinople correspondent of The Times, state that eighteen Bulgarian bands of about twenty men each are causing trouble in that sanjak. The Bulgarian Government says that they cannot be restrained. The purpose of these bands is to incite the Turks to atrocities, and provoke foreign intervention.

GIRL HEIRESS TO FORTUNE

A TORONTO NURSE GETS NEARLY A QUARTER OF A MILLION

Great Good Luck Comes After a Period of Financial and Domestic Reverses

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 61—Miss Rose Whalen, of St. Paul, has fallen heir to a fortune of $200,000 by the death of her grandmother, Mrs. Annie Whelen, of Halifax, Nova Scotia. Miss Nellie Campbell, Miss Whalen's cousin, who is studying for a trained nurse at Toronto also inherits a like amount from the same source.

This bit of great good luck comes to Miss Whalen after a long period of illness and financial and domestic reverses, which have brought her to the verge of want. Her father was Michael John Whalen, sergeant major in the British army. He saw much of war as a soldier of Queen Victoria, having been a leading figure in the great Indian mutiny and the campaign in Crimea. He was presented with four medals for long service and bravery in the field. Removing to Manitoba in 1870 he made some money in the Winnipeg boom, which began in 1881.

When Louis Riel started his rebellion in 1885, Whalen, although he had been retired on a pension, volunteered to take a hand in the fighting, and engaged in a three months' chase of the rebel. Receiving a serious wound in the right arm, Whalen returned to his home in Winnipeg. Later, his home was burned, the family saving nothing from the ruins.

A baby sister of Miss Whalen's died, then her mother, and in 1891 her father, leaving the girl an orphan in the world. She regularly graduated as a trained nurse, but was soon forced to give up her work owing to poor health. She has been ill much of the time since going to St. Paul, something over a years ago, but is now much improved and her physicians, who assert that most of her ailments have resulted from brooding over her many losses, promise complete recovery in the spring.

POPE WILL LIVE TO BE 100 YEARS OLD

Works Fourteen Hours Daily and One Can Hardly Believe that He Will Ever Die.

Berlin, Feb. 16—Dr. Mazzoni, one of the Pope's physician's in an interview with the correspondent of the Tageblatt, ridiculed the reports that the Pope is declining health. He said that his Holiness is truly a phenomenon. He grows older in years, but paradoxically seems to gain in vigor every year. He will live to be a hundred years or more. Even then he will enjoy life as today. He has the constitution of a young man. All his organs are in perfect working order. He leads a regular life, takes very little alcohol, reads without spectacles, walks without a cane, and dresses and undresses without assistance. He works about fourteen hours daily, and one can hardly believe that he will ever die.

RICH ORE FIND

A Michigander Strikes A Vien of Phenomenal Value

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Feb. 17 — News of the discovery of one of the richest iron ore fields in the Dominion was made public yesterady by O. C. Williams, of this city. The discovery was made by some explorers in his employ some time ago, and Williams has just secured the title to the property, consisting of 1,120 acres in all.

The formation runs through the tract nearly two miles. The ore is said to be of phenomenal richness and purity, assaying 64 per cent metallic iron.

Three thousand dollars has thus far been expended in exploring the property, which is located about three miles from Wilde station, on the Algoma railroad, thirty miles from the Canadian Soo.

St. Paul capital is interested in the development of the property.

Missouri Wants to Mark Real and Counterfeit Nobles

Jefferson City, Mo., Feb. 16— The State Senate has adopted a resolution instructing the Committee on Criminal Jurisprudence to take into consideration the necessity and importance of the passage of a law providing for the "taxation, branding, and licensing of foreign lords and noblemen, real genuine, bogus and frauds, and providing severe penalties for the violation of such law to the end that the young women of our great State may be protected from and fully warned against the speculation in such risky and dangerous characters."

In St. Louis last week a former Brooklyn coachman was sent to jail nominally for disturbing the peace, but really because he had induced a Kansas City woman to marry him under the supposition he was "Lord" Barrington, of the Royal Horse Guards.

WANT SUGAR FACTORY

Whitby is Making Hard Fight to Get a Sugar Factory

Peterborough is not the only town in Canada that is endeavoring to get a beet sugar factory. At the annual meeting of the Board of Trade of that town it was resolved to go ahead with raising the necessary $100,000 local stock subscription to assure the investment of the large amount of English capital interested in the enterprise. In the meantime acreage is being secured by the Company, the farmers responding in a very satisfactory manner.

GREAT BRITAIN AN ALLY AND GERMANY A FOE

A War Predicted with Germany--The United States Need Britain

New York, Feb. 16.—The Kaiser's personal friend, Poultney Bigelow, a former Minister of the United States to Germany, addressing the League for Political Education here, declared that the United States is fast drifting into war in South America, and that Germany, taking a lesson from the Boer war, could easily land a force of 60,000 trained soldiers by her transports at a distant point from the American base, and once in possession would give them a difficult problem to solve.

A BATTLE FOR MARKETS.

During the course of his lecture Mr Bigelow said:

"We want the markets of the world and we want the earth because we believe that we have more intelligence and enterprise than any one else. We have exterminated the Indian and by so doing have become a monument to the survival of the fittest which idea since the Spanish-American war we have forced on the nations of Europe. We want the markets of the earth because all the wars in our history were struggles for the markets. In 1776 and 1812 we clamored for what we called 'free trade,' and when we got those things we put up the walls of 'protection.' The St. Louis Exposition is to commemorate a struggle for markets. When you analyse the war of 1861 you find it was a struggle for the home market. We wanted to make the people of the South pay 20 or 30 or 40 per cent. to build up Northern industries. To-day we are approaching a near struggle for more markets. I don't say that we need them, but the movement is fast growing, and, as a result, there is bound to be a physical clash.

TRIBUTE TO ENGLAND.

"The English have extended their markets by treating all nations alike. England has been the policeman of the world for the past fifty years, and we have not done anything to help her.

"Instead of taking our share of the responsibility we have been doing our best to make trouble for England.

"I was brought up to hate England and to look upon Englishmen as 'bullies' who were beaten at Bunker Hill and Yorkton.

"We considered that we were the 'light' and they were the 'spirit of darkness'. When the school books are altered for the next generation we won't think of anything without the help of England. England and the United States working together would make war an absurdity.

WAR IS PROBABLE.

"We must face the war that is not inevitable, but probable. We must remember that there are men in Europe who are trained to think of nothing but war, and are only waiting the chance. Germany is very strong and Germans think so.

"We may say that the whole strength of Germany is now being expended on the navy. Germans do not naturally take to the sea, but it has been forced on them by the German Emperor, who could make the drawing both of the inside and outside of all our war vessels. Through his spies he know all about our unpreparedness in the Spanish war.

"Germany has a powerful army, and they think that a strong navy is destiny, just as we find that our destiny is 'protection.' Germany means to be as great a naval power as she is on land.

"It is not likely that we will invade Hamburg and Bremen, or that the Germans will attempt to make a landing on Coney Island or at the mouth of the Potomac. But if Germany should, through her excellent transport service, land a force of 60,000 men in Venezuela or somewhere else in South America, we would have a difficult problem to solve. In Brazil Germany has a close colony, and they all work together.

"This colony may be said to be Germany's nucleus beyond the sea. Now then, imagine a nation with the most perfect military and naval forces thoroughly convinced of breaking through the wall we call the Monroe Doctrine and the trouble which would follow when we know that our organization is not what it should be, and our transport service poor."

London, Feb. 14.—Every one is glad to see Mr. Balfour back again in public life after his illness, for he is the most popular Premier since Mr. Gladstone. But his speeches at Liverpool yesterday leave the public discontent with the Anglo-German co-operation unabated. He was most emphatic in his denials that the Kaiser's visit to the King had any connection with Venezuela, apparently shutting his eyes to the fact that these denials make still more inexplicable the complacent way in which the Ministry walked into what Lord Cranborne himself called a mess. "Let us run our own show," is the plain Englishman's motto in international affairs, especially where Europe is concerned. But for the fact that Mr. Balfour was able to announce the peaceful close of the negotiations, his defense of the German alliance would receive a good deal more criticism.

THE EMPIRE'S DEFENCE.

As it is, the papers mostly pass it by to comment on the announcement of a "great revolution" in the constitution of the committee on Defence. For years past every critic of Great Britain's defence arrangements has held this committee up to ridicule. Though charged with the supreme duty of evolving a defence policy for the Empire, and relegating the navy and the army to their respective places in that policy, the committee never meets, and has indeed no corporate existence. Consequently, the Admiralty has gone on its way, scoffing at the War Office, and the War Office has gone on its way magnifying itself, quite regardless of the subsidiary functions of the army. Mr. Balfour declares that the Committee of Defence is really going to meet, and that four Cabinet Ministers, with the addition of four of the head naval and military authorities are evolving order out of the present chaos, and are to put the patriotic Englishman out of all anxiety for the safety of the Empire. These assurances would carry more weight if the leading members of the committee were not Mr. Brodrick, who is publicly and irretrievably committed in his grandiose paper army scheme, which can have no meaning so long as Great Britain retains the command of the seas, and can in any event have no use as a defence force. Mr. Balfour will have to do much more than this to appease the substantial body of Ministerialists who will return to Westminster on Tuesday, determined to let daylight into Mr. Brodrick's policy.

"RAGGING" IN THE ARMY.

Nothing will be more unfortunate for that policy than this week's further developments of the Grenadier Guards "ragging scandal," for the public sees that after three years of incessant talk of reform in the army the young officers still act like rowdy schoolboys, and that bullying and snobbery are so rampant that life is made intolerable for the young officers who take their profession seriously, whose means of inclinations discipline them to "go the pace." It is greatly to Lord Roberts' credit that he had the courage to retire the officer commanding one battalion of the Guards for tolerating such proceedings. But the fact that such practices are common in many regiments of the army points with equal discredit to the whole system which the War Office has so complacently built up these many years. Mr. Balfour yesterday pooh poohed the notion of Lord Kitchener's return to lick the army into shape, but laugh as he may, some such heroic remedy may soon be inevitable. A Ministry will arise to say to Lord Kitchener, "The army now costs thirty millions sterling; take twenty-five millions and an absolutely free hand for five years. Do what you think best." Then wigs will be on the green.

MANY NEWSPAPERS IN SOUTH AFRICA

Remarkable Development of the Press Since the War

Newspapers are Springing up and Being Revived all over the Continent

Cape Town, Feb., —One of the most remarkable features of the aftermath of the South African war has been the development of the press. Territories which, not many years ago, were the home of barbarism, are now boasting of publications of various types, which are a great tribute to the spirit of modern enterprise.

Such places as Bulawayo, Umtata, Gwelo, Umtali, Bremersdorp (in Swaziland), and Macequece have now their papers, and to take a survey of Ratcliffe's "Guide to the South African Press," is quite a revelation. In all directions papers are springing up, dealing with news, politics, commerce, agriculture, society, poultry, photographs, pharmacy, and practically all subjects of public importance.

The Salvation Army has its "War Cry," Mafeking has its daily, commerce has its "Twentieth Century" magazine. There are a number of special publications for boys, including one run on the line of "Chums," called "The Boys of Africa," another called "Young Natal," and a third known as "Ons Kaynt[illegible]." Temperance voices itself in the "Clarion," religion is strongly represented, the Cape has its Hansard and there is quite an army of organs dealing specially with education.

A number of papers suspended during the war have reappeared, and, of course, a large number of papers are printed in both Dutch and English. The "Izwi Labantu" (Voice of the People) is a weekly published in Kaffir, Sesotho, and English. "Imvo" (Native Opinion), which was suspended during troublesome times, has a large Kaffir circulation.

UNDERPAID OFFICIALS

As a rule the municipal officials of Ontario are shamefully underpaid. If a county or township treasurer is found wrong in his accounts it may often prove that his shortage is due in the first place to the miserable sum paid for his services. This is pointed out very forcibly by the Provincial municipal auditor, Mr. J. B. Laing, who states that some of the township treasurers' salaries are as low as five dollars a year. Township treasurers rarely get as high as $100, and $50 or $25 is quite a common remuneration. In towns the scale is higher, but not a great deal. Mr. Laing, in his report, will strongly recommend municipalities to be more liberal with their officials.

In the neighboring State of Ohio the fault is the other way. The local officials are there paid by fees and it results, according to the Cleveland Leader, in the receipt of excessive emoluments. The pay of the county treasurer of Cuyahoga exceeds that of the secretary of the treasury, the state treasurer, and the city treasurer of the city of Cleveland, all combined. The same of the other officials. Under the fee system the probate judge of the county will receive more pay than the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Ohio. He may get more from his office than the chief justice of the United States. The county auditor will receive as the profits of his office at least as much as any two members of the President's Cabinet. It would take more than the combined salaries of three common pleas judges to equal his emoluments.

This is regarded as a scandal equally as great as the meagre allowances given to Canadian officials of the same class, and the Legislature is being appealed to to correct the wrong.

If the Legislature of Ontario could properly deal with this branch of municipal work, it would set a scale of remuneration for county and town treasurers commensurate with the work they are called upon to do, and the responsibilities they incur, say according to the average yearly amount of money passing through their hands and the number of accounts on file. To do this would seem to be an interference with the authority of municipal councils, but it would only consort with the practice as respects the work of sheriff and registrar. If a scale of fees is fixed in one case, why not a scale of salaries in the other, as a corrective of the parsimony of municipal councils.

The low salary paid a municipal treasurer who has to handle a large amount of money is too often pleaded as a popular excuse for him when he goes wrong. People are apt to say, no wonder he stole or grew careless of his trust. And the same thing is said of any official, who in a financial institution, goes wrong with his accounts. The first question is, how much salary did he get? And if it is a small one in comparison with the concerns entrusted to him, they cry, O, it serves them right—how can they expect men to be honest when they pay them so little.

Such sentiments are certainly loose and destructive of all morality, but they are very prevalent and few persons think it any wrong to excuse theft in an underpaid official. The true principle is to pay the people a fair salary and hold them to the strictest account within the law for any wrongdoing.

NEW CURE FOR DRUNKARDS

An Oklahoma man has discovered a remedy that will cure chronic drunkards in three days, so that they will never more look upon the wine when it is red, or swallow high balls to quench their thirst. He is now in Chicago, and has made a proposition to that city to have all the drunks arrested turned over to him. He estimates that it costs the city an average of $10 every time a drunkard is arrested, and where there are so many chronic cases as in Chicago, it would be a matter of economy for the city to give his plan a fair test. He is going to establish an institution for the treatment of chronic cases, and he says the Keeley cure is not in it with his system. Here is a chance for Judge Jelfs to work off some of his chronic drunks and give the poor wretches a chance to get a new start in life. He has a class that ranks high on the rolls for the number of commitments which has cost the city a deal of money in times past. The good ladies of the W. C. T. U. should get into correspondence with the Oklahoma man through their sisters in Chicago, and maybe they could do something practical in the way of shutting up the budge factories and save those who have not the power to save themselves. The drink question has been a complex one from the time Noah planted that vineyard and got on a big harrah from drinking the first juice of the grape.

Schwab's New York Mansion.

Andrew Carnegie's splendid new residence on Upper fifth avenue is to have a rival in the home soon to be erected on the West Side, for his protege, Charles M. Schwab, president of the United States Steel Corporation.

Plans for Mr. Schwab's city home have been completed, and it will cost about $2,500,000 and stand on a plot for which Mr. Schwab paid $865,000 about a year ago. House and site, therefore, will represent an investment of more than $3,250,000.

Ever since the young president of the billion dollar steel trust bought the block bounded by Riverside drive, West End avenue, Seventy-third and Seventy-fourth streets there has been much speculation as to what he would do with it. One report was that he had bought the land merely as an investment. All doubt as to his purpose has now been set at rest and the bureau buildings have been consulted about the final for the mansion Mr. Schwab will build.

Following the example of Mr. Carnegie, the steel king will have a city residence with ample ground all about it. His new home will be 150x160 feet, and the house will stand in the center of the block. There will be a fine frontage on Riverside drive, overlooking the Hudson, and the grounds on each of the other sides will be laid out magnificently. The house will be four stories in height and is expected to be completed by Christmas next year. The New York Orphan Asylum, which has stood on the site for many years, is being demolished, and orders have been given that work for Mr. Schwab's mansion begin at once.

Brampton Elections

The election of Brampton town Council which was protested because they held their nominations at ten o'clock in the morning, instead of at noon, has been voided by the courts and a new election ordered. Now the town has appealed, contending that the statute does not compel, merely directs, towns of less than 5,000 population to hold their nominations at noon, and being merely directory the town had the right to pass the bylaw it did changing the hour. The decision of the judge will be awaited with interest.

To Set Her Free

(COPYRIGHTED)

By FLORENCE WARDEN.

Author of "The House in the Marsh," "A Prince of Darkness," etc.

"Love!" muttered Norma scornfully. "That's not love: it's greed. He only wants my money—to buy stamps with. Think of it!"

Astley could not control his impulse to laugh this time. Yet he felt sorry for the girl too. Erratic as she was, she had more vitality in her, more humanity, than the pale-eyed, fluffy-haired Robert.

"As for his wanting your money," he said, when he had recovered his gravity a little, "it's very natural. Everybody wants money. I want it myself."

"Do you?" said Norma with interest. "Now it's about the only thing I don't want. I shall have more than twenty thousand pounds, nearly seven hundred a year, when I'm of age or when I marry—"

"And yet you wonder that Bascot's jealous!" broke in Astley, smiling.

The girl frowned.

"If he marries me," said she, "he'll want to fritter it all away on a horrid house just like other people's, and on giving dinner parties to people I hate, and in trying to make a little appear as if it were a great deal. While I want to go away, right away from here, and to learn things, and see things, and get something out of life. Why, if I could only get experience, I might do some little good in the world with my poor mother's money, make some few people happier perhaps, or—or do something, something," she ended impatiently.

Astley looked at her with interest. These vague longings excited his sympathy; they betokened something more than mere restlessness, the generous desires of a noble, kindly spirit. He gave her a quick look, and a little nod of intelligence and sympathy.

"I see," said he. "But can't you manage it? Can't you get away? Haven't you any other relations, or friends, who'd help you?"

Norma answered by a slight but depressed shake of the head.

"Not one," said she, in a low voice. "I'm tied, bound hand and foot. Of course," she went on, with eager interest, delighted to have a sympathetic listener, "I could insist on going away if I liked, and on having my allowance paid me, and I could go to London, and join some sisterhood, or do something like that. But though I'm so self-willed, I'm timid too, and I don't like to dare the opening. Do you see? I'm so ignorant that I should make mistakes, and do the wrong things, more harm than good, as so many people do, who want to do the right thing, but don't know the world well enough to begin."

Astley was by this time deeply interested in the mingled innocence and good sense which the young girl showed. He was going to put a further question to her, on the subject vital to her thoughts, when, as she had prophesied, Robert Bascot came fussily across the room to them, and carried her off to the piano, to play for one of the old ladies.

The girl exchanged with Astley one significant look, and went away like a lamb.

He got no further chance of speaking to her that evening, but from that time he frequently called at the house, either by himself or with Jack Fielding, taking care always not to ruffle Robert Bascot's susceptibilities further. Indeed, that enthusiastic collector of postage stamps gave him no chance of another tete-a-tete with his well dowered cousin, so that the first occasion on which these two strangely acquainted persons were able to exchange any words except of a trivial kind was when they met by chance one day while he was strolling along under the leafless trees in Addison's Walk.

Her greeting was abrupt and impulsive.

"I've been thinking of you," she said in a low, breathless voice, "and wondering whether you'd help me!"

"I'll help you in any way I can, I'm sure," said Astley heartily, conscious, like the good fellow he was, of quite a pleasure in the possibility of doing a good turn for the unhappy and oddly attractive girl.

"But not this, I'm afraid. I hardly like to suggest it," said she, with sudden hesitancy, which yet was not ordinary shyness. "You hate the thought of marriage, don't you? You don't approve of it? You would never want to marry, you are sure?"

"Most heartily and certainly sure," said Astley, his sun-browned skin growing redder, so earnestly did he speak.

"If you had to marry, in fact, there's nothing you wouldn't do to be rid of the society of your wife?" pursued Norma, with a sudden flush overspreading her usually pale face.

"Certainly. And feeling like that, why should I marry at all?" said Astley, naturally enough.

"Would you do it—would you marry a girl, not really, but at a registry office, for her sake, to set her free?"

"Good Heavens, Miss Bascot, you must be dreaming!" cried Astley, with his eyes starting out of his head.

"Dreaming! Do I look like it?" said she simply, as she gazed steadfastly into his face, her great black eyes gleaming with excitement, her lips parted, her bosom heaving, and the ever-deepening flush rising to the dark hair above her brow.

CHAPTER IV.

Astley Darwen, though he was not yet seven and twenty, had knocked about the world, and seen something of life, both in peace and war, and at home and abroad. But never had it occurred to him before to meet with a girl like this one, who was both shy and bold, innocent and yet shrewd, at the same time.

Never before, either, had it happened to him to have an offer of marriage made to him by a lady, and the conjunction of such singular circumstances went nigh to overwhelming him.

Norma guessed something of what was passing in his mind, and the blush which had rapidly overspread her face suddenly died away.

"You're disgusted with me, of course," said she, biting her lip, and turning away her head, while her eyes filled with tears.

Astley answered her quickly, with a warmth and kindness there was no mistaking.

"Indeed I'm not. The feeling uppermost in me at this moment is the most intense sympathy for you, the strongest wish to be of use to you. I'm only wondering what I can do. What you suggest wouldn't do anything but plunge you into fresh troubles."

"I suppose I was mad to suggest it," murmured Norma, "but it would have set me free. And as you're always protesting you would never marry any woman, and complaining of your poverty at the same time, why I thought you might help me, and let me help you at the same time. For we would have gone shares in what I have, and I should have been grateful to you to my life's end."

Astley felt a natural difficulty in [illegible]

Receipts will be issued until full amount of stock subscribed is paid, when certificates bearing the Company's seal, and signed by the President, Secretary and Treasurer are issued. The McLennan Paint Co., Limited, have one of the most modern plants of its kind in the world, occupying 300,000 square feet of floor space. The capital of the Company is a half million dollars. The growth of the business has been phenomenally rapid and conservative. In line with other large industries, the Company propose to establish a branch factory in Canada for the manufacture of their products, which are covered by valuable patents, and which practically give the Company a monopoly, and, for the above purpose, offer at par $50,000 of their 7 per cent. Preferred Treasury Stock.

The McLennan Paint Company, Limited, was organized in 1892 by Mr. C. J. McLennan of the McLennan Dipping Process, and other valuable paint-making machinery. The Company began business in rented premises, in East Buffalo. So profitable was the business, and so rapid the growth, that large factories were built in North Buffalo in 1895. The business again doubled, and another plant was added in 1898. In 1901 the Company invented and perfected a line of reds, or vermilions, permanent in color, and at much less cost than the old line colors. This increased the sale of their products practically one-fourth, making it necessary for them to build a new Color and Chemical Works. This factory is without doubt the largest and most modern in the world. Mr. Charles J. McLennan, the President of the Company, and the inventor of labor-saving machinery, such as dipping tanks, mills, etc., is recognized as one of the most skillful and best known paint manufacturers in the country. The name and fame of this Company, and its products, are known all over the United States and foreign countries, and that they will capture the Canadian market is evidenced by the fact that many of the large Canadian manufacturers are at present using their goods, in face of the heavy duty. It is with a view to saving this 25 per cent. duty and adding it to to the profits of the Company that they have decided to establish a branch in Canada, which will be controlled and managed by the parent Company.

Practical men of means, character and national reputation constitute the directorate and management. Each department is managed by a skilled man; monthly statements rendered and careful audit made semi-annually. The books are always open to the smallest shareholder. The finances of such a concern are guarded as closely as the finances of any bank, and failure is practically impossible.

DEAR SIR,—The McLennan Paint Co. are good customers of this bank, and I have known them personally for years. All the officers bear excellent reputations, and are considered good business men. Their management is evidenced by the large business they have built up, as careful and conservative. They have met with great success in the past, and I believe that today, theirs is one of the largest and most prosperous concerns of its kind. I have every reason to believe that the stock which they are now offering for sale is a desirable, as well as a safe investment. Yours very truly,

L. H. GETHOEFER, Cashier.

The Merchants' Refining Co., Refiners of Petroleum, Paraffines, Paraffine Wax,

A. C. Cornell, Toronto, Ont.: Buffalo, N. Y., Jan. 23, 1903

DEAR SIR,—Your favor of 21st received, and note you are offering for sale $50,000 of the preferred stock of the McLennan Paint Company and ask me what I know of the firm. Would say I have had business dealings for eight years—transactions of many thousands of dollars. I am also doing business with other houses engaged in the same line, and desire to say there is no house in America to-day that stands higher than the McLennan Paint Co. The growth of their business has been phenomenally large, and under the conservative management of the President, Mr. C. J. McLennan, the success of the business is assured in the future. As an investment, in my judgment, nothing could be safer than the stock they offer.

Very respectfully,
C. A. SALISBURY, Manager.

A. C. Cornell, Toronto, Ont.: Buffalo, Jan. 26th, 1903.

Dear Sir,—Referring to the sale of $50,000 of our 7 per cent. Preferred Stock, the Prospectus does not elaborate on the proposition, but merely mentions the amount guaranteed. I desire to inform you, however, we could have paid at least 14 per cent. last year, but carried balance to a Reserve Fund, which, necessarily, makes the stock very valuable.

Very truly yours,
THE McLENNAN PAINT CO., LIMITED,
C. J. McLennan, Manager.

P.S.—Having visited this proposition on behalf of some very conservative investors, I can verify all the above. The plant is extensive and modern in every detail; officers and management skilled and very industrious; all the products superior. This is a Canadian Company, Canadian Charter. Having built in Buffalo, in proximity to raw material, by shipping here in ground state and preparing here, will save and add large duty to already large profits. Bear in mind this is not prospective, but a large, rich, going, paying institution. Prospectus, application forms, and any further particulars, and subscriptions, address the undersigned. All cheques or drafts for stock made to the order of the Company, and forwarded to

The Great Pine.

By Mary E. Wilkins.

It was in the summer-time that the great pine sang his loudest song of winter, for always the voice of the tree seemed to arouse in the listener a realization of that which was past, and to come, rather than of the present. In the winter the tree seemed to sing of the slumberous peace under his gently fanning boughs, and the deep swell of his aromatic breath in burning noons, and when the summer traveler up the mountain-side threw himself, spent and heated, beneath his shade, then the winter song was at its best. When the wind swelled high came the song of the ice-fields, of the frozen mountain torrents, of the trees bent double like old men and wearing hoary beards, of the little wild things trembling in their covers when the sharp reports of the frost sounded through the rigid hush of the arctic night and death was abroad. The man who lay beneath the tree had much uncultivated imagination, and, though hampered by exceeding ignorance, he yet saw and heard that which was beyond mere observation. He reflected upon the winter when exhausted by the summer heat, with that keen pleasure which comes from the mental grasp of contrast to discomfort. He did not know that he heard the voice of the tree and not his own thought, so did the personality of the great pine mingle with his own. He was a sailor, and had climbed different heights from mountains, even masts made from the kindred of the tree.

Presently he threw his head back, and stared up and up, and reflected what a fine mast the tree would make, if only it were not soft pine. There was a stir in a branch, and a bird which lived in the tree in summer cast a small wary glance at him from an eye like a point of bright intelligence, but the man did not see it. He drew a long breath, and looked irresolutely at the upward slope beyond the tree. It was time for him to be up and on if he would cross the mountain before nightfall. He was a wayfarer without resources save those with which he had been born into the world. He was as poor as the tree, or any of the wild creatures which were in hiding around him on the mountain. He was even poorer, for he had not their feudal tenure of an abiding-place for root and foot on the mountain by the inalienable right of past generations of his race. Even the little wary-eyed feathered thing had its small freehold in the branches of the Great Pine, but the man had nothing. He had returned to primitive conditions; he was portionless save for that with which he came into the world, except for two garments which were nearly past their use as such. His skin showed through the rents; the pockets were empty. Adam expelled from Eden was not in much worse case, and this man also had at his back the flaming sword of punishment for wrongdoing. The man arose. He stood for a moment, letting the cool wind fan his forehead a little longer; then he bent his shoulders doggedly, and resumed his climb up the dry bed of a brook which was in winter a fierce conduit for the melting ice and snow. Presently he came to such a choke of fallen trees across the bed that he had to leave it; then there was a sheer rock ascent which he had to skirt and go lower down the mountain to avoid.

The tree was left alone. He stood complacent with the wind in his green plumes. He belonged to that simplest form of life which cannot project itself beyond its own existence to judge of it. He did not know when presently the man returned and threw himself down with a violent thud against his trunk, though there was a slight shock to his majesty. But the man looked up at the tree and cursed it. He had lost his way through avoiding the rocky precipice, and had circled back to the tree. He remained there a few minutes to gain breath; then he rose, for the western sunlight was filtering in gold drops through the foliage below the pine, and plodded heavily on again.

It might have been twenty minutes before he returned. When he saw the pine he cursed more loudly than before. The sun was quite low. The mountains seemed to be growing in size, the valleys were fast becoming gulfs of black mystery. The man looked at the tree malignantly. He felt in his pocket for a knife which he used to own, then for a match, the accompaniment of the tobacco and pipe which formerly comforted him, but there was none there. The thought of the lost pipe and tobacco filled him with a childish savagery. He felt that he must vent his spite upon something outside himself. He picked up two dry sticks, and began rubbing them together. He had some skill in woodcraft. Presently a spark gleamed, then another. He scraped up a handful of dry leaves. Presently smoke arose pungently in his face, then a flame leaped to life. The man kept on his way, leaving a fire behind him, and swore with an oath that he would not be trapped by the tree again.

He struggled up the old waterway, turning aside for the prostrate skeletons of giant trees, clambering over heaps of stones which might have been the cairns of others, and clawing up precipices like a panther. After one fierce scramble he paused for breath, and, standing on a sheer rock-ledge, gazed downward. Below him was a swaying, folding gloom full of vague whispers and rustlings. It seemed to wave and eddy before him like the sea from the deck of a ship, and indeed it was another deep, only of air instead of water. Suddenly he realized that there was no light, that the fire which he had kindled must have gone out. He stared into the waving darkness below, and sniffed hard. He could smell smoke faintly, although he could see no fire. Then all at once came a gleam of red, then a leap of orange flame. Then—no human being could have told how it happened, he himself least of all, what swift motive born of deeds and experiences in his own life, born perhaps of deeds and experiences of long-dead ancestors, actuated him. He leaped back down the mountain, stumbling headlong, falling at times, and scrambling to his feet again, sending loose stones down in avalanches, running risks of life and limb, but never faltering until he was beside the pine, standing, singing in the growing glare of the fire. Then he began beating the fire fiercely with sticks, trampling it until he blistered his feet. At last the fire was out. People on a hotel piazza down in the valley, who had been watching it, turned away. "The fire is out," they said, with the regret of those who miss a spectacular delight, although admitting the pity and shame of it, yet coddling with fierce and defiant joy the secret lust of destruction of the whole race. "The fire is out," they said, but none [illegible] the fire had burned low, and was out, on the mountain. The man who had evoked destruction to satisfy his own wrath and bitterness of spirit, and then repented, sat for a few minutes outside the blackened circle around the great pine, breathing hard. He drew his rough coat-sleeve across his wet forehead, and stared up at the tree, which loomed above him like a prophet with solemnly waving arms of benediction, prophesying in a great unknown language of his own. He gaped as he stared; his face looked vacant. He felt in his pocket for his departed pipe, then withdrew his hand forcibly, dashing it against the ground. Then he sighed, swore mildly under his breath an oath of weariness and misery, rather than wrath. Then he pulled himself up by successive stages of his stiff muscles like an old camel, and resumed his journey.

After a while he again paused and looked back. The moon had arisen, and he could see quite plainly the great pine standing crowned with white light tossing his boughs like spears and lances of silver. "Thunderin' big tree," he muttered, with a certain pride and self-approbation. He felt that that majestic thing owed its being to him, to his forbearance with his own hard fate. Had it not been for that it would have been a mere blackened trunk. At that moment, for the first time in his history, he rose superior to his own life. In some unknown fashion this seemingly trivial happening had, as it were, tuned him to a higher place in the scale of things than he had ever held. He, through saving the tree from himself, gained a greater spiritual growth than the tree had gained in height since it first quickened with life. Who shall determine the limit at which the intimate connection and reciprocal influence of all forms of visible creation upon one another may stop? A man may cut down a tree and plant one. Who knows what effect the tree may have upon the man to his raising or undoing?

Presently the man frowned and shook his head in a curious fashion, as if he questioned his own identity; then he resumed his climb. After the summit was gained he went down the other side of the mountain, then northward through a narrow gorge of valley to which the moonbeams did not yet penetrate. This valley, between mighty walls of silver-crested darkness, was terrifying. The man felt his own smallness and the largeness of nature which seemed about to fall upon him. Spirit was intimidated by matter. The man, rude and unlettered, brutalized and dulled by his life, yet realized it. He rolled his eyes aloft from side to side, and ran as if pursued.

When he had reached the brow of a little decline in the valley road, he paused, and searched eagerly with straining eyes the side of the mountain on the right. Then he drew a long breath of relief. He had seen what he wished to see: a feeble glimmer of lamplight from a window of a house, the only one on that lonely road for five miles in either direction. It was the dwelling-house on a small farm which had been owned by the father of the woman whom the man had married fifteen years before. Ten years ago, when he had run away, there had been his wife, his little girl, and his wife's mother living on the farm. The old farmer father had died two years before that, and the man, who had wild blood in his veins, had rebelled at the hard grind necessary to wrest a livelihood by himself from the mountain soil. So one morning he was gone, leaving a note stating that he had gone to sea, and would write and send money; that he could earn more than on a farm. But he never wrote, and he never sent the money. He had met with sin and disaster, and at last he started homeward, shorn, and if not repentant, weary of wrong-doing and its hard wages. He had retreated from the broad way with an ignoble impulse, desiring the safety of the narrow, and the loaves and fishes, which, after all, can be found in it with greater certainty; but now as he hastened along he became conscious of something better than that. One good impulse begat others by some law of spiritual reproduction. He began to think how he would perhaps do more work than he had formerly, and please his wife and her mother.

He looked at the light in the window ahead with something akin to thankfulness. He remembered how very gentle his wife had been, and how fond of him. His wife's mother also had been a mild woman, with reproving eyes only, never with a tongue of reproach. He remembered his little girl with a thrill of tenderness and curiosity. She would be a big girl now; she would be like her mother. He began picturing to himself what they would do and say, what they would give him for supper. He thought he would like a slice of ham cut from one of those cured on the farm, that and some new-laid eggs. He would have some of those biscuits that his wife's mother used to make, and some fresh butter, and honey from the home bees. He would have tea and cream. He seemed to smell the tea and the ham. A hunger which was sorer than any hunger of the flesh came over him. All at once the wanderer starved for home. He had been shipwrecked and at the point of death from hunger, but never was hunger like this. He had planned speeches of contrition; now he planned nothing. He feared no blame from those whom he had wronged; he feared nothing except his own need of them. Faster and faster he went. He seemed to be running a race. At last he was quite close to the house. The light was in a window facing the road, and the curtain was up. He could see a figure steadily passing and repassing it. He went closer, and saw that it was a little girl with a baby in her arms, and she was walking up and down hushing it. A feeble cry smote his ears, though the doors and windows were closed. It was chilly even in midsummer in the mountains. He went around the house to the side door. He noticed that the field on the left was waving with tall dry grass which should have been cut long ago; he noticed that there were no bean-poles in the garden. He noticed that the house looked gray and shabby even in the moonlight, that some blinds were gone and a window broken. He leaned a second against the door. Then he opened it and entered. He came into a little square entry; on one side was the kitchen door, on the other the room where the light was. He opened the door leading to this room. He stood staring, for nothing which he had anticipated met his eyes, except the little girl. She stood gazing at him half in alarm, half in surprise, clutching close the baby, which was puny, but evidently about a year old. Two little boys stood near the table on which the lamp was burning, and they stared at him with wide-open mouths and round eyes. But the sight which filled the intruder with the most amazement and dismay was that of a man in the bed in the corner. He recognized him at once as a farmer

Railway Traffic Stopped and Bridges Carried Away

Glasgow, February 16.—The River Clyde burst its banks above Glasgow on Monday morning and inundated the industrial district of Rutherglen, where a dozen extensive works were flooded to the depth of several feet. The main road was ten feet under water, and many houses were rendered uninhabitable. Several residential districts south of Glasgow also were flooded. The damage done was very heavy. The rain-swollen rivers have submerged miles of the country. Elsewhere in Scotland traffic on the railroads has been stopped, bridges have been swept away, and houses have collapsed. Thus far no fatalities have been reported.

JOINT HIGH COMMISSION

Believed at Washington That It May Meet Again

Washington, February 16—As a result of the ratification of the Alaskan boundary treaty it is probable that the Joint High Commission will be reconvened. Sir Wilfrid Laurier is the Canadian head and Senator Fairbanks, the American. The commission broke up, it will be recalled, in a deadlock over the Alaskan boundary dispute. It was found impossible to do business with the Canadians until this was out of the way. Wednesday's action practically removes this obstacle, and so lifts the break from the wheels of negotiation. Reciprocity with Canada may now be considered in all its phases. The way is open for interesting possibilities

Bill Introduced Into Michigan Assembly

Detroit, Feb. 13.— Representative Ward has introduced a bill in the State Legislature at Lansing which, is enacted into law, will deal a blow to the various Clergue enterprises at Sault Ste. Marie, and particularly to Mr. Clergue's "Soo" Canal Company. Representative Ward's measure is intended to repeal an Act passed four years ago providing that the "Soo" Canal Company pay taxes of 1 per cent. on the amount of incorporation, which is only $500.0000. Ward claims that the amount really invested is about $6,000,000, and the company is paying only $5,000 taxes when it should pay $60,000, is assessed under

They may, at the option of the holder, be exchanged for common shares. They are subject to be called in, in whole or in part, by the Company, at 115.00 per share, at any time on or after 1st January 1909.
The total issue of Preferred Stock is only $1,000,000.00, the whole of which is now offered.
Subscriptions for 10,000 shares of $100 each of the 7 per cent Preferred Stock of the CANADIAN STEEL AND COAL COMPANY will now be received at par, that is, $100 for each $100 share as follows:—
5 per cent on application.
25 per cent on allotment.
35 per cent 30 days thereafter.
35 per cent 60 days thereafter.
One share of common, par value $100.00, given with each share of preferred.
The whole of the instalments remaining unpaid at any time may be prepaid in full. A discount of one per cent will be allowed upon the par of each share if prepaid at time of allotment.
Notice of allotment will be sent promptly by ordinary letter.

COAL
PROPERTY IN FULL OPERATION
Company owns 9,600 acres of coal property known throughout the coal trade as the New Campbellton Colliery, located on Bras D'Or Bay, County of Victoria, Cape Breton, Nova Scotia. Mine is fully equipped, producing and marketing 100 tons of coal a day at a net profit of $1.00 a ton. Improvements are now being made that will increase the output to over 1,000 tons a day. On present output, figuring 300 working days in year, the net result will more than pay interest on entire issue of preferred, with output of 1,000 tons a day net result will be $300,000 per annum.

IRON
RICHEST ORE IN THE WORLD
Company owns in fee simple, free and clear of all incumbrances, 4,000 acres of iron ore deposit, located at Natashquan (tidewater) situate on North shore of Gulf of St. Lawrence, in the County of Saguenay, province of Quebec.
Deposits contain 20,000,000 tons of ore ABOVE SEA LEVEL ALONE.
Quality of ore is highest ever discovered, running from 69 to 72 per cent. in metallic iron.
More orders for the sale of this ore have been received by the Company than can possibly be accepted, and at a price netting the Company a profit of $2 a ton F. O. B vessels at Company's docks.

The Greatest Mining Proposition of Modern Times
This company has demonstrated its ability to produce ore at a profit and pay regular monthly dividends under the most adverse circumstances. Only the highest grade could be shipped and cost upwards of $35 per ton. With a mill it can be treated at less than $3 per ton. The company has nearly enough money to pay for the mill, which they promise to have in operation by April 1st. 1903.

The Cracker Jack as an Investment

APPEALS TO THE CONSERVATIVE

THE CRACKER JACK group of mining claims consists of 120 acres of property in the Cracker Creek district, Baker county, Eastern Oregon. This group of claims contains the extension of the Cracker Oregon veins on the south; a split from the E. & E. on the southwest and parallel values of the North Pole mine on the west.

The trend of values in the Mother Lode system of this district is NORTHWARD. It starts in the Golconda and continues through the Columbia, E. & E., Cracker, Oregon, and North Pole, increasing in value up to and into the Cracker Jack claims.

In four months the Cracker-Oregon stock advanced from 25 cents to $1.00—its par value. In four months the Golconda stock increased more than 100% over its original selling price.

The Cracker Jack contains the values. They can be traced; the veins out crop and the focus of the richest fissures is in the Cracker Jack property.

The Cracker Jack is not a mine; neither is it merely a prospect. It has been proved. Next April a force of men will be put to work and development will be continued day and night.

This is a tunnel proposition. It can be opened by a series of tunnels and shafts, and the free milling ore can be treated on the property. As an investment, the Cracker Jack is secure. It has vast ore bodies as its security; it has a conservative management as further security.

The policy of the Cracker Jack Consolidated Gold Mines Company is to open this rich property, build a mill and PAY DIVIDENDS. This is an investment for conservative men. It is not sensational. The mine will produce ore just as rich in value as that brought out by any of the surrounding properties.

The stock will advance in price and it will earn.

This is a proposition that commends itself to investigation of the most searching kind. Look into it, learn something of its directorate; find out if these claims are well founded. In other words, write for a prospectus to

Cecil R. Gold Mining and Milling Co., Los Angeles, California.

Ballarat, Cal., Nov. 1st, 1902.

Gentlemen,—Your request for my opinion as to the "[illegible]" group of mines, and other claims in which you are interested in this territory, at hand, and in reply will say;

The "Santa Rosa" group, which is located southeast of Ballarat some three and a half miles, consists of twelve claims, equal to 240 acres. The ledge crops out more or less the full length of these claims, showing the same character and formation of work as where development work has been done. In most of the outcroppings it shows highly mineralized rock, with pyrites of iron, mica, schist, slate, slate porphyry, gouge, quartz and quartzite, all bearing more or less. Where work has been done, it shows a very marked improvement in both quantity and quality of gold-bearing rock. Commencing with the surface, the ore shows much iron and copper stain. All mill tests show [illegible] ore commencing [illegible] the surface; in fact, I milled for several days and recovered [illegible] and over per ton, yet the milling process does not pay more than two-thirds of the value of the ore, the tailings [illegible] running as high as [illegible] per ton, and never less than $12.50. To save the entire value of your ore it will be necessary to install either concentrators or a cyanide plant. From careful study and frequent examination of the surface of the ground, and down as far as has been opened below the surface, I am highly pleased with the property. It is certainly a fine property, and as good as any I have ever had the pleasure of examining. Considering your mill site, with [illegible] facilities added, water, fuel, and cheapness of mining the ore, the Cecil R. will be capable of paying enormous dividends when your capacity for milling is increased to what it ought to be.

Wishing you every success, I remain, Yours very truly,
(Signed) G. W. FLEMING,
Ex-Mine Supt. Cecil R. Gold Mining and Milling Company.

MARKET OVERSOLD AGAIN

New York, Feb. 16—The close of last week witnessed another bearish demonstration against the market, headed by the Waldorf Astoria crowd and the room traders, they have again commenced bear operations. On Friday one broker alone disposed of about 60,000,000 shares of different stocks, all of which were well taken. The alleged illness of a prominent operator, the Erie Bond issue, and the likelihood of a few gold shipments were given as the excuse. For so narrow a market too much short interest for the safety of the bears and it will likely prove to be the lever which will advance prices. Buying orders are numerous, while stop loss orders are scarce, inasmuch as the speculative long interest in the market, so far as outsiders are concerned, is very small. The long interest is most remarkably concentrated. The Gould party, Morgan, and the Standard Oil folks are not given to being shaken out through placing of stop orders. When they purchase they hold until they see fit to sell and never place stops upon their stocks. Even if they did ship some gold it would not have the slightest effect upon money at the centre. Sage and large money loaners are putting out upon time in order to get a trifle better rate all the cash they can. There will be no trouble with money. The new Erie Bond just being issued is a splendid security and is to all ostensible purposes a call upon the stock at fifty. For many years it will sell up very rapidly. We recommend them to investors. The road needs the money to put it into shape to handle its enormous traffic. It will save money in the end by its action, just taken, as the Atchison is doing. When all things are properly considered the issue is not a bearish argument upon the stock, but a bullish one. The earnings of the Northern Pacific for January reflect the progress of the industrial expansion in the Northwest. For the month traffic receipts increased $245,158, making from July 1st a gain of $3,105,000. The growth of Northern Pacific is the fruit of good crops, good management, and a rapid increase in the wealth and population of the country which it serves.

Summary—Market was very strong all day. Copper and sugar advanced two points each. United States Steel advanced a point. Industrials were all well bought. Among the railways and tractions Metropolitan made a gain of a point and a half. It looks as if an upward move were pending in these shares. Good buying was specially discernable in B. R. T. St. Paul, T. C. I., Eries, the Wabashes and Mo. P. The entire list looks like almost immediate higher prices. Sales 430,100. Money closed at 3 per cent.

JOINT HIGH COMMISSION

Believed at Washington That it May Meet Again

Washington, February 16—As a result of the ratification of the Alaskan boundary treaty it is probable that the Joint High Commission will be reconvened. Sir Wilfrid Laurier is the Canadian head and Senator Fairbanks, the American. The commission broke up, it will be recalled, in a deadlock over the Alaskan boundary dispute. It was found impossible to do business with the Canadians until this was out of the way. Wednesday's action practically removes this obstacle, and so lifts the brake from the wheels of negotiation. Reciprocity with Canada may now be considered in all its phases. The way is open for interesting possibilities.

INTERNATIONAL ELECTRIC MINING Co

185 SUMMER ST., - BOSTON, MASS.

A Dividend Payer for the Past Five Years.

12 PER CENT GUARANTEED

Capital Stock, $500,000. Par, $1.00, full paid and non-assessable

Over eight thousand tons of [illegible] ore mined and smelted from this group of mines.

A limited number of shares of the stock of this Company now offered at seventy-five cents per share. This price will shortly be increased to par. Stock registered by the International Trust Company, Boston, who is also the transfer agent.

This Company has a small capital stock.

The International Electric Mining Company owns seven mines and milling plant.

The Brooklyn and New York mines of this Company lie north of and join the Victor and the Hoodlum—two rich mines that are now being worked by California parties. On the west lies the Electric Mining Company's mines. In these mines are millions of dollars' worth of rich ore in sight. On the south, adjoining the Berlin mine of this Company, is the Montezuma and Clipper. From the Montezuma over three million dollars has been taken within 60 feet of the grass roots.

This Company owns free and clear seven mines of twenty acres each, all containing rich ore, located in the Arabia and Trinity mining districts, Humboldt County, Nevada. The Company has worked these mines for the past five years, and is now driving a tunnel to cut out a rich ledge about 300 feet from the surface. The Arabia mining district, in which these mines are located, is a lively district—a great many men being employed there. The tunnel now being driven on the Brooklyn mine has about 250 feet already completed. When the tunnel cuts the main ledge, which has just been reached by the Victor tunnel about 600 feet, the Brooklyn will have about 300 feet stoping ground, which runs high in gold and silver, over [illegible] per ton.

The Company is offering for a short time a limited amount of stock for the enlargement of its plant and the working force at the mines and for the completion of the Brooklyn tunnel.

This Company has thousands of tons of rich ore in sight.

We are not making a lot of talk, because it is unnecessary. What the investor wants is dividends, which we have paid for the past five years. Now if you want a safe 12 per cent. investment, let us hear from you.

THE OLD COMSTOCK

A California mining paper has this to say: "Nevada, that grand old stamping ground of mushroom millionaires, who plucked enough wealth from her prolific fields to build mansions, banks, and big hotels in San Francisco, and palaces in Paris and London, is again astonishing the world by making more millionaires and by yielding millions in gold and silver from a new field which rivals the old Comstock lode in the days of its pristine splendor. Not only in Tonopah and Arabia districts, where within the past year nearly ten millions have been exposed, are operations active, but in every mining district in the Silver State are operations active, and Nevada will once more take her place among the big producers, the peer of any of them."

Dear Sir,—During the six months of October and November of this year I visited the mines of the International Electric Mining Company, situated in Arabia and Trinity mining districts, Humboldt County, Nevada. I found the country remarkably mineralized; in fact, the possibilities of the country as a mineral producing country are yet unknown. For years it certainly has produced well. The work now being done in the Arabia and Trinity districts establishes the fact that they are fine producers.

I also found that there is a great deal of interest being taken in these properties, which have produced a great deal of wealth the past quarter of a century.

CAPITAL STOCK $300,000 Par Value $1.00

We are working this mine every day doing a great amount of development work which will enable us to commence regular shipping very soon. Our shaft is now 175 feet deep, with a streak of pay ore starting at the grass roots, the vein is over 3 feet wide at the bottom of shaft, and runs from $40.00 to $65 to per ton, mostly gold. We are only three-quarters of a mile from railroad and have a well traveled wagon road from mine to depot. There are thirteen stamp mills at Black Hawk, three-quarters of a mile from this property. Our company is managed on conservative lines by practical mining men who understand the business and are familiar with this field of gold.

We have placed a small block of this stock on the market at 20 cents per share which will be worth $1.00 in a short time. Now is the time to buy.

"THE FRIDAY MINE"

Located at Pearl, Willow Creek, Boise County, Idaho

About 28 Miles Northwest of Boise City

THE FRIDAY GOLD MINING CO. is a corporation duly organized under the laws of the State of Oregon, with head office at Sumpter, Oregon, owning and controlling "The Friday Mine." Capital Stock, $1,000,000, divided into 1,000,000 shares. Par value $1.00 per share, fully paid and non-assessable, no personal liability. 250,000 shares have been set aside and placed in the treasury of the Company to be sold for the purpose of equipping the "Friday Mine" with machinery. It is for this purpose we are offering you stock in this great mine. This plant will handle 60 tons of Friday ore every 24 hours. The general average of the Friday ore is over [illegible] per ton. The ore as it was shipped to the smelters at Salt Lake averaging over [illegible] per ton. The Friday is highly developed, great quantities of ore blocked out and in sight ready for the mill. As soon as the mill is completed the Friday Mine will again pay dividends.

Large ore bodies which will net to the company [illegible], for the first few months, are now blocked out ready for the mill. As soon as the mill is completed you will draw your regular monthly dividend. It is safe, certain and conservative.

We are not soliciting your money for the purpose of developing the mine, but only for the purpose of erecting a mill to work the ore bodies in the mine. The company is officered by men of well known business ability, mining experience and strict integrity.

Hon. Martin H. Jacobs, State Mining Inspector of mines, for the State of Idaho, says: "The Friday has a large amount of good ore in sight, and there is no question about its being a good paying property.

Thunder Mountain!

is the richest gold producing camp in the United States, and also the largest. The Thunder Mountain district, in central Idaho, is twenty miles wide and forty miles long. In comparison with this we have Cripple Creek, four miles wide and seven miles long. In many of the Thunder Mountain mines ore has already been reached that carries ONE THOUSAND DOLLARS IN GOLD TO THE TON. All of the Thunder Mountain ore is free milling, which means that it can be treated by the cheapest extraction process known—the ordinary stamp mill. It can be both mined and milled at a cost not to exceed $2 a ton. The past years operations in the several working mines have opened up millions of tons of ore that will give a net profit of from $10 to $30 a ton, enabling the respective companies to pay dividends at a rate never before equalled. Such is the showing and the prospect of the

which unless all indications are at fault, will become the largest producer in the district. The EAST DEWEY mine, which it owns outright, is located directly on Thunder Mountain, just east of the famous "Dewey" mine, which already has $20,000,000 of ore in sight. The surface area of the East Dewey mine is one hundred and twenty acres—six full quartz claims. The company has also secured the big GOLDEN GATE mine, in the Big Creek section of the Thunder Mountain district —which has been so aptly termed "The Pot of Gold"—and is now developing the mine with all possible speed. For a distance of 9,000 feet, nearly two miles, the Golden Gate mines cover a mineralized ledge that is 900 feet wide, with an average height above the tunnel level of 500 feet, thus giving it the largest exposed tonnage of any mine in the west.

If you would share in the enormous profits which these figures indicate and which these developments promise, invest your money in "East Dewey" Stock. It can be bought to-day for 10 Cents a Share. Its par value is $1.

If the East Dewey mines are what they appear to be, and there is absolutely no reason to doubt or question these indications, this stock will eventually be worth at least $10 a share, and to-day you can buy it for ten cents. PRICE ADVANCES TO FIFTEEN CENTS ON FEBRUARY 28th. 5% discount allowed for cash. Stock sold at flat price of 10 cents on deferred payments, 10% with application, and 10% monthly until paid. BUY! WHY?

BECAUSE

THE SOUR LAKE OIL CO.

Has placed four-fifths of its stock in the treasury for development work; and because

Oil is reached in less than half the depth required on Spindletop Heights in Beaumont;

The people in Canada are well acquainted with the management, which is in the hands of HON. JOHN L. BITTINGER, United States Consul General to Canada; F. S. Ashley, Vice-President of the Massachusetts Securities Co., and W. L. Marston, Vice-President of the American Union Oil and Refining Co.

These gentlemen have made a dividend payer out of one company and have raised the value of its stock from 5c per share to par value, or 25c, within a very short time;

The company is operating in the Sour Lake field, where fewer wells will tap the oil than at Spindletop; this insures a greater flow of oil, and it is of a better quality;

This is the first allotment of shares at the present price of TEN CENTS PER SHARE; it is the lowest price at which you can buy, and the time left in which to buy at TEN CENTS is short.

The Opera

The opera house was well filled last night when the Jules Grau Opera Company presented Sousa's El Capitan. The opera was in three parts, and was ably sustained throughout. The music was particularly fine, the voices being well balanced and charmingly blended. The large audience manifested their delight with frequent bursts of applause.

A Great Railway's Example

During his address in the Opera House, on Friday evening last, Mr. J. H. Burnham, spoke as follows: "The companies who pensioned off their retired employees are the companies to be worked for. Companies such as the C.P.R. would find the best workmen in the whole country. He hoped the Canadian workingmen would become great and honourable because they were a consolidated people."

Estimable Lady Dead

Miss Eliza E. Grafton, of Dundas, died at her late residence there at a very early hour this morning. She had been ill for about ten weeks, but it was not thought that it would be of a fatal nature. She was in her sixty-sixth year, and a very estimable person. She was a sister of Messrs. J. B. and J. S. Grafton, of Dundas and Peterborough, and an aunt of Mrs. (Dr.) Dickson, of Toronto.

From Crown Lands

The total revenue received by the Ontario Crown Lands Department last year was $1,501,525 against $1,524,734 in 1901, and $1,477,949 in 1900. The principal difference consisted in the fact that last year the timber dues amounted to $1,008,273, the largest in the history of the province, compared with $843,148, while the receipts from timber bonus, that is, the sale price of timber berths, were $227,867, compared with $571,266, there having been no timber sale last year. There was little change in the other items.

Suing for Commission

Toronto Globe: The Industrial Financial Company of Toronto and William C. Bullock of Toronto, the manager, have issued a writ against the Consolidated Electric Company of Toronto, claiming $5,000 as commission on brokerage and $1,000 as commission in purchasing a factory and workshops in St. Catharines. The same company and Dr. F. L. Robinson of Peterborough are suing the Consolidated Electric Company for $10,000 damages for breach of contract, or in the alternative to have $8,000 of the stock of the Consolidated Electric Company transferred to them.

EXCITING COCKING MAIN

Royal Battle Between Buffalo and Peterborough Birds

Nine Battles Fought of Which Seven Went to the Visitors—The Main Took Place in South Monaghan

A cocking main of rather more than local interest took place on Saturday night in South Monaghan, between nine Peterborough birds and an equal number from Buffalo. The affair was kept dark, and only a limited number of invitations were issued. There was so much trouble over the last cocking main, that great care was taken not to let the authorities have any clue on this occasion. The party waited until after dark, and then drove out, arriving "on the ground" about nine o'clock. The main was held in a well known blacksmith shop, there being a good crowd present, nearly all from town.

The Peterborough sports were well prepared to back their birds. The affair was for a purse of $600, presumably put up by the principals or owners of the birds.

The first two battles were won by the local birds, and odds were being freely offered. But this was the nearest Peterborough ever got to the purse money, as the other seven battles terminated in favor of Buffalo.

It was after daylight when the fight was concluded, and the sports started for home about nine o'clock Sunday morning.

It is said that upwards of $2000 changed hands over the affair. The Times was furnished with a list of those who were present, for publication, but we have been requested to withhold it for the present.

Death of Mrs. W. H. Smith

There passed away in Ashburnham on Saturday evening last, Mrs. W. H. Smith, after a brief illness of only a few days. The deceased lady was a daughter of the late John Webb, and was highly esteemed by all who knew her. She was 46 years of age, and besides a husband she leaves to mourn her demise a family of six children. The deceased was a member of the Christian Alliance body. The funeral will take place from the family residence this afternoon at two o'clock, and proceed to Little Lake cemetery.

Charged with Theft

County Constable Cochrane arrested and brought to town on Saturday last William and John Shouldice, of Anstruther, charged with theft. A search warrant had been issued, and the following articles, alleged to have been stolen, were confiscated: One new manure hook, one hay fork, one axe and helves, one hand hay rake, and five rope cow ties, which were alleged to have been stolen from the premises of William Wilson, of Anstruther, on January 13th last. The men are now in jail.

Death of Mr. David Dumble

It is with sincere regret that we chronicle the death of Mr. David Dumble, youngest brother of the late Mr. Henry Dumble, and uncle of ex-Mayor Dumble, which took place in Montreal on Saturday last. He was a former resident of Peterborough, being associated with his brother here for several years. He took up his residence in Montreal, but frequently paid us occasional visits and was always certain of a warm welcome for he was very popular. He leaves to lament his loss his widow, formerly Miss Boswick, and two sons.

Death of Mr. G. F. Sullivan

We are sorry to record the death of Mr. G. F. Sullivan, who passed away at the Commercial Hotel on Sunday night. Deceased was born in the Township of Douro, and fifteen years ago left for Denver, Colorado, for his health, he being greatly troubled with asthma at the time. His condition improved greatly while there but last March he was stricken with pneumonia, from the effects of which he never fully recovered. He returned to Peterborough last June and gradually became weaker till death called him away yesterday; his demise came rather suddenly as his condition did not seem dangerous last week. He leaves a mother, Mrs. John Sullivan, of Douro, three brothers and four sisters, among whom is Mrs. J. H. O'Shea, of town, to mourn his loss. Mr. Sullivan was greatly esteemed by all his friends, who will greatly regret his death. The funeral will take place this morning at nine o'clock to the Roman Catholic cemetery, and will be private.

Irritating Pimples and Disfiguring Blotches

They place many young girls at a great disadvantage in life. The only cure is a blood purifier like Ferrozone. It cleanses the crimson flood of poisons and impurities, renews and strengthens it, and makes lots of red corpuscles that manifest their presence by a ruddy, healthy glow, in the lips and cheeks. Ferrozone quickly masters all skin eruptions, builds up broken-down constitutions, and gives to weak, sickly women an abundance of spirits, vitality, energy and beauty. Try Ferrozone, it's all right. Price 50c per box, or 6 boxes for $2.50 at Druggists or N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston., Ont.

LITTLE LOCAL LINES

—The Fire, Water and Light committee met last night, and transacted some routine business.

—There was no quorum of the Board of Health yesterday. The Board will accordingly meet to-day.

—The Council will meet this evening in special session, to discuss the proposed bonus to the Beet Sugar Company.

—Mr. Theodore Ludgate has leased Deadman's Island from the British Columbian Government and will erect thereupon a large saw mill. Mr. Ludgate was formerly in the Crown Timber office, Peterborough.

—The town of Orillia is announcing that it is selling electric energy at $16 per horse power per year, with light and water proportionately cheap. This is the result of the civic enterprise which has resulted in municipal ownership of the Ragged Rapids power producing plant.

—Millbrook Reporter: Councillor Shaw sold a fine pair of drivers last Friday to Mr. Jacobs of Peterborough and were delivered on Saturday by Mr. Samuel Dunnelly, who is credited with having taken the greatest care of them from their infancy. They tipped the scales at 1,370 pounds, and we understand Mr. Shaw received the sum of $300 for them.

TRENT VALLEY CANAL

Early Completion of the Canal is to be Urged

The Trent Valley Waterway Association held their annual meeting in the Council Chamber yesterday afternoon. There was a very good attendance present of those interested from the different municipalities. A copy of the memorial regarding the Association was sent to the different municipalities some weeks ago by Mr. Armstrong, secretary-treasurer of the Association. It was desired that this memorial be taken into consideration by the municipalities, and forwarded to Hon. A. G. Blair, Minister of Railways and Canals, Ottawa, after being duly signed by the Council and Clerk.

The memorial has already appeared in these columns.

After some further routine business the meeting adjourned.

THE STEADY SUBSCRIBER

The Junior Reporter's Tribute to the Man Who Pays up Promptly

The following was found on the junior reporter's desk yesterday morning, when the day staff went on duty, and speaks for itself:

How dear to my heart is the steady subscriber, who pays for his Times at the birth of the year; who lays down his money, and does it quite gladly, and casts round the office a halo of cheer. He never says, "Stop it, I cannot afford it," nor "I'm getting more papers now than I can read." but always says "Send it—the Times we do like it—in fact we all think its a real household need." How welcome he is when he steps in the sanctum, how he makes our hearts throb as thus he doth say: "Good luck to The Times—may it continue to prosper. I'll drink to the health of old g. f. j.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

—Rev. S. J. Shorey was in town for a few hours yesterday.

—Mr. A. J. Gough, of Toronto, is in town on a business visit.

—Mr. John Quigley, of Hastings, is visiting friends in Peterborough.

—Miss D. Payne is visiting Miss B. Wareham, of Water street.

—Mr. John Hull, of Lakefield, was in town on business yesterday.

—Mr. E. B. Stone has returned from a trip to Sault Ste. Marie.

—Mr. Wm. Anderson, M.P.P., East Peterborough, was in town yesterday and dropped in to see The Times.

—Rev. J. G. Lewis, of Newtonville, is visiting with Mrs Lewis' mother, Mrs. A. R. Campbell, Union street.

—Mr. George Reid, M.P.P., of Keene, was in town yesterday on business, and gave The Times a call.

—Miss Bell Lillico, of Chesley, is spending a few months with her uncle, Mr. Wm. Fowler, 273 Rubidge street.

—The Times had a pleasant call from Mr. Young, of the Courier, Trenton, who was in attendance at the Trent Valley Waterway Association.

—Master Gordon Earl, formerly of town, is now visiting his grandmother, Mrs. T. G. Choate, Stewart street, before leaving for Winnipeg, where he expects to make his home.

—Miss Mabel Godfrey, of the Barnardo Home staff, who has been a resident of town for the last three years, leaves to-day for Boston, en route to her home in England.

Mr. J. R. Stratton was the hostess of a charming dinner party last evening in Mr. Harry Long's palm parlors. The guests numbered about twenty-five, and were composed of Mrs. Stratton's friends and fellow-boarders at the Oriental Hotel, where she has resided for the winter months. The decorations were most elaborate, consisting for the most part of roses, carnations and hyacinths. Two massive silver epergnes were filled with the choicest roses and carnations, while vases were arranged at intervals filled with fragrant hyacinths. The hostess with her characteristic graciousness, had a pleasant greeting for everyone, and altogether the affair was one of the most brilliant of the season.

A HEROIC RESCUE

A Drowning Accident Narrowly Averted on the Little Lake

An accident, which might have proved most serious, was narrowly averted on Saturday by the calm and heroic conduct of Percy Johnston, son of Mr. Joseph Johnston, town, who saved his companion, Wallie Harris, son of Mrs. Edward Harris, George street, from drowning in the Little Lake.

The boys were enjoying the afternoon when Harris, to avoid getting into a hole in the ice, skated out on a thin place, which was evidently caused by the removal of ice some days previous. He sank and his companion, young Johnston, with great presence of mind, threw himself flat on the ice and extended his hockey stick. Harris came up and grabbed it, but unfortunately lost his hold and sank a second time. The next time he rose young Johnston's efforts were successful, and he placed his comrade on the firm ice again. With the assistance of another comrade he was taken to the home of Mrs. Wise, who lived near the scene of the accident, where he was promptly restored from the effects of his cold bath.

To Master Percy Johnston, who so promptly and bravely risked his own life in his efforts to save his friend, the highest praise is due. That he has a cooler head than many of more advanced years, has been undoubtedly proven, and we hope that as he grows older he will retain his presence of mind and become a strong noble man.

Paddy's Letter.

Those fond of Irish bulls may find some amusement in the following letter, which was written by an amorous swain of the Emerald Isle to his lady fair.

"My Darlin' Peggy—I met you last night and you never came! I'll meet you again to-night, whether you come or whether you stop away. If I'm there first, sure I'll write my name on the gate to tell you of it, and if it's you that's first, why rub it out, darlin', and no one will be the wiser. I'll never fail to be at the trystin' place, Peggy, for, faith! I can't keep away from the spot where you are, whether you're there or whether you're not.

"Your own Paddy."

"It's wonderful," said the meditative man, "how one small word, insignificant in itself, may induce an endless train of thought, speaking volumes in fact." "Yes," replied the caustic man. "Take the word 'but,' for instance, when a woman says 'Of course, it's none of my business, but.'"—Philadelphia "Press."

JOE CHAMBERLAIN'S SON TO VISIT CANADA

Montreal Citizens Are Sending Him a Strong Invitation To Come

Montreal, Feb. 17—The suggestion that Hon. Austen Chamberlain, son of Rt. Hon. Joseph Chamberlain, should be asked to visit this country at the time of the meeting of the Chambers of Commerce of the Empire is meeting with general acceptance. A feeling prevails that everything possible should be done to induce him to come and that no pains should be spared to make him welcome should he accept the invitation. A number of prominent citizens have expressed themselves on the subject as follows:

"I am always glad to welcome distinguished visitors to Canada who have the faculty of appreciating the present conditions and the future possibilities of our country," said Sir Thomas Shaughnessy. "Of course, there can be no comparison between Canada and South Africa. The imperialistic policy and feeling ought to be as easily developed by Canadians as by Britishers. Anything tending to the welfare of the Empire should receive the hearty co-operation of all its citizens."

Mr. C. M. Hays, second vice-president and general manager of the G.T.R., is in New York, but the views of the executive of the Grand Trunk at the head office here were expressed as follows: "The Grand Trunk will always welcome such men as Mr. Chamberlain to visit the premier colony of the Empire, as it is only by such means that they become familiar with the present condition and future possibilities of the Dominion."

Mr. A. F. Gault—"I think every effort should be made by Canadians to let the Mother Country know the heritage she has in Canada. The wheat area of the North-West is seeking tillers of the soil, a vast home for countless thousands. When Imperial ministers think it their duty to visit our self-governing colonies we ought to do our share in preparing a hearty welcome for Mr. Austen Chamberlain."

Mr. Bickerdike, M.P.,—"The idea of the Colonial Secretary sending out his son to Canada is characteristic of the man. He was the first Imperial minister to realize and appreciate the value of the colonies to the Mother Country; as a business man he treats colonial matters on a business basis, and it is to be hoped he has given the necessary authority to his son to deal with the Canadian cattle embargo question. The Canadians are shut out of the British market through false pretences and justice should be done in the premises."

Mr. G. A. Drummond—"The Board of Trade is preparing a very hearty welcome for Mr. Chamberlain, the details of which will be made public in due time."

ST. JOHN'S CITY HAS A SENSATION

Palmist Arrested for Fraud and Commits Suicide

WAS CAUGHT BY THE POLICE

He Did a Local Business Man Out of Over Four Hundred Dollars

St. John, N. B., February 17 — St John has quite a sensation. A couple of months ago an Englishman, who called himself Paul Gray, came to St. John and established himself at the Elliott House as a palmist. He did a thriving business, especially among young women. Many men also called upon him for advice about business, etc. Among the men who made friends of Gray was Victor W. Dykeman a pattern maker. Gray impressed Dykeman so much that the latter told him he had $[illegible] in the bank. With this knowledge he worked quite a bunco game. Dykeman drew $400 and brought it to Gray for him to work a charm whereby he was to get a large sum as a legacy. On Thursday night with his same fifty-dollar bills Dykeman visited Gray and the latter fumigated the money. On Saturday afternoon he was to call again with the money. He did so and the money was put through another process to give it luck in bringing the legacy. Gray tore a blue silk handkerchief in two and pretended to wrap the money up in it and then tied the package with pink ribbon. Dykeman placed the package in his pocket, after being warned not to tell any one. Shortly after leaving the place Dykeman became suspicious against the packet, and found he had only so many pieces of brown paper. The assistance of the police was sought but Gray had fled. By the use of the wires he was captured at Vanceboro, and locked up. During the night Gray cut his throat, making a gash five inches long. He died last night. Some $350 was found before Vanceboro was reached. Before dying Gray requested that the proprietor of the Elliott House take charge of his remains.

CANADIAN M.P. FOR GALWAY

Charles R. Devlin May Be Selected

London, Feb. 16.—A Canadian may succeed "Colonel" Arthur Lynch as the member for Galway.

Mr. Charles R. Devlin, formerly M.P. for Ottawa County, and later M.P. for Wright, but now Canadian Government Agent at Dublin, has been selected, with three others, by a committe of the United Irish League at Galway, as possible candidates for the seat in the House of Commons for that constituency which has been vacated by the conviction of "Colonel" Lynch for high treason.

The final selection will be made on Friday next.

Mr. Devlin it may be remembered, resigned his seat in the Canadian House of Commons in 1897 because he could not conscientiously support the settlement of the Manitoba school question secured by the Laurier Government. He was almost immediately thereafter appointed Chief Canadian Agent in Ireland. It has several times since been reported that he was to return to Canada owing to ill-health, and to some difference of opinion with the new heads of the immigration branch of the Interior Department. The latter reason may be the one which is driving Mr. Devlin into the ranks of active Nationalists, although he has always been a fervid advocate of Home Rule.

Mr. Devlin tells me that if he is unanimously selected by the Galway committee, he will resign his Canadian office, and devote his whole time to the Nationalist cause. The members of the Irish Parliamentary party receive $5 a day from their Parliamentary fund.

MR. SMART INVITED

Mr. James A. Smart, Deputy Minister of the Interior of Canada, who is now here, was to-day interviewed by most of the London newspapers upon the situation in Canada, and the boom in emigration for the coming season. He has been invited to occupy a seat in the Royal Gallery in the House of Lords at the State opening of Parliament by King Edward to-morrow afternoon.

NEW INVESTMENTS.

The British Columbia Electric Railway Company have issued a prospectus asking for £175,000, four and a half per cent. debentures, underwritten by the Central Canada Loan and Savings Company of Toronto.

Coates & Company invite applications for £30,000 sterling five per cent. mortgage bonds for the Chicoutimi Pulp Company.

Mr. T. Chase Casgrain, M.P. for Montmorency, is here in connection with the Canadian Wheatraising Company, and to argue a case before the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council.

THE EASTERN WARCLOUD.

The Bulgarian Government has arrested many Macedonian revolutionaries in Bulgaria. Russia is supposed to have urged this, as up to the present the Bulgarians have encouraged the Macedonians. The Sultan is continuously making war preparations. Marshal Edhem Pasha, who commanded the Turkish troops in the Greek war, will probably command the Turkish army in the coming campaign.

THE BOER GENERALS.

It is stated that Generals Botha, Delarey and Smuts, when asked by Lord Milner to join the Transvaal Legislative Council, declined because the council would create more irritation than it could remedy. It is regretted here that the generals declined. The Right Honorable Herbert Gladstone, chief Liberal whip, speaking here, had endorsed Mr. Chamberlain's tour and work in South Africa.

ALASKAN BOUNDRY TREATY OF SUPREME IMPORTANCE TO CANADA

Americans Believe that They will Win Out in the Deal

It will be a Bitter Dose if it Goes Our Way.

Ottawa, Feb. 18—The Alaskan treaty has been passed in the United States Senate without discussion, on the assumption doubtless that the question as it stands will remain undisturbed by the commission. Senator Teller said he considered the boundary already so well determined as not to be a matter of dispute. In other words, there is "nothing to arbitrate," and if the American commissioners cannot succeed in bringing over to their side one of the British commissioners, the result will be a deadlock, because the American commissioners, the Senators think, are to be relied on to adhere to the present situation.

Mr. F. C. Wade, in the Empire Review, states the case very strongly from the Canadian standpoint. "So far as the Yukon is concerned, the ownership of the towns and settlements at tide water—Skagway, Dyea, point at issue, the settlement of which has reached the danger signal. Though the United States is in possession there is no security in law. Mr Wade says "Soapy" Smith and his gang of bandits could never have terrorized a town of several thousand people had Skagway been within Canadian jurisdiction. The tearing down of the British flag from the Canadian customs house at Skagway within the last year and the occurrences of last winter, when a futile attempt was made to organize a conspiracy, the formation of "The Order of the Midnight Sun," to obtain possession by force of the Yukon territory, should be sufficient to show both sides to the dispute that postponing its settlement the danger point has already been more than once reached. If it were important that this question should have been settled before it is doubly important today. We are no longer concerned with an evanescent placer camp, a vanishing industry that will soon abandon vast terriotry to the solitude from which it was awakened only yesterday. If the Yukon were nothing more than this, there would be few practical inconveniences in a boundary dispute. But the territory is 198,00 square miles in extent—70,000 square miles larger than England, Ireland, Scotland and Wales. It is watered by 7,000 miles of streams, many of which are gold-bearing, and all may contain gold in their sands and gravels. It is crammed with natural resources—at White Horse, and on the White River with copper, on the Pelly at Five Fingers, at Rock Creek at Cliff Creek at White Horse and elsewhere with coal.

The Americans are stated to have done a fishing business of $3,000,000 in Alaska for the year 1894, the greater part of the disputed territory. In trade, although Skagway, Dyea and Haines' Mission according to the Canadian contention are clearly well within Canadian territory, they have been erected into United States ports of entry, and we are prevented from entering our own territory, except by complying with United States customs regulations. According to Mr. George Anderson, in his report to the Minister of Trade and Commerce in 1898 only ten per cent. of the Yukon trade was Canadian while 67 per cent. was the proportion for the year ending June, 1902. Of a total trade of $5,568,512, Canada supplied $3,721,593, and other countries, $1,846,910. This year 20,000 tons of freight have passed over the White Pass Railway, consigned to Dawson alone. Canadian goods shipped from, say, Vancouver, to Dawson require to be accompanied by a certified invoice, and copy of the bill of lading consigned to the Pacific and Arctic Railway and Navigation Company, to enable it to execute a bond for twice the value of the goods, required by the United States Government before the goods can be loaded on the cars.

All these and many other exactions must the Canadian shipper submit to while the boundary remains unsettled. On the other hand, United States vessels trading between Seattle and Skagway, calling at Vancouver and Victoria, and running for days in Canadian waters, are not required to report outward from Canadian waters at Port Simpson, B.C., Duty is not collected upon food consumed by stock in British waters, nor upon animals in transit dying in Canadian waters, nor upon too adventurous calves, ignorant of our neighbor's customs regulations. Certified copies of invoices and bills of lading are not required. Only the railway manifest and the vessels inward and outward report are scrutinised. The Canadian Government enforces a mild commercial customs against foreign goods, while the Canadian is forced not only to bond his goods over a disputed strip into his own territory, but has to submit to an almost preventive customs as well.

All the Canadian inconveniences and disabilities thus stated by Mr. Wade would be overcome by awarding the port of Skagway to Canada and substituting the British for the American flag. But it is to be feared the Senators at Washington who so complacently—shall it be said almost contemptuously?—ratified the treaty appointing a commission had no idea that this result was likely to follow. They clearly regard the treaty as non-effective, unless the British side of the tribunal can be convinced that the United States is rightfully in possession.

NEW LIGHT ON THE WAR

Kimberly Was to be Abandoned at One Time

New York, Feb. 19—The correspondent of the New York Tribune in London cables:

Dr. Jameson, who had much to do with the exposure of General Buller's heliograph messages to Sir George White, respecting the surrender of Ladysmith, returns from South Africa at the moment when Lord Methuen has testified before the committee on the conduct of the war, that he marched up to the Modder River and fought the battle of Magersfontein under orders to relieve Kimberley and then abandon it and retire to the Orange River. This plan of campaign excited the righteous indignation of Cecil Rhodes, who was under seige at Kimberley and General Buller's downfall was hastened by the practical practical measures adopted for revealing the secrets of military incapacity. The headquarters of the official committee on military defence in London probably was not responsible for the strange plan of campaign for the deliverance of South Africa by the surrender of Ladysmith, the evacuation of Kimberley and a retreat all along the line.

NEW C. P. R. STOCK

Feeling in London That the Land Sales of the Company Will Soon Pay Bonded Debt

London, February 17—The new Canadian Pacific issue of stock is not expected by the market here until autumn. The many friends of the company in London are convinced that the land sales of the company in a few years will pay off all the bonded debt, and that afterwards all further extensions and improvements to the road will be paid for by new issues at par

INDIANA GRAVE ROBBERS

Jury Eight to Four to Acquit the Accused Physician

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 18—After being out forty-eight hours the jury in the case of Dr. J. C. Alexander, charged with grave offences, failed to reach an agreement, and was discharged at 10 o'clock yesterday morning. On the final ballots the vote stood eight for acquittal and four for conviction. The attorneys for the state have not decided what they will do.

RUN DOWN AGITATORS

Chinese Reformers are Very Active in the United States

Washington, Feb. 17—Advices received at the Chinese legation here tell of the activity in San Francisco New York, and other cities in this country, of Chinese "agitators, calling themselves "reformers". They are said to be soliciting subscriptions from Chinese for the importation of arms into China to be used by the Pao Wong as their society is known.

The Pao Wong society, it is thought, may be responsible for much of the unrest that is reported from China and which is causing considerable apprehension among the powers.

In the peace protocol the Chinese government pledged itself to prevent the importation of arms, but the officials claim that they have no control over agitators in this country, and must look to the United States and the other powers to do their part in preventing the exportation of arms. An

Found Dead in Bed

Brockville, Ont., Feb. 17—Robert Wilson, a representative farmer of the Township of Lansdowne, was found dead in bed at Gananoque Saturday, where he was visiting his daughter, Mrs. Murtchie. He had been dead for some hours and heart disease was the cause. Mr. Wilson was 82 years of age and lived in that locality since emigrating from Scotland in 1858. He leaves a widow and five children.

MR. CHAS. DEVLIN MAY RUN FOR GALWAY

London, Feb. 1[illegible]—[illegible] name of Charles Devlin, the Canadian Government Agent at Dublin, is favorably discussed as the Nationalist candidate for Galway, where the seat is vacant owing to the imprisonment of Col. Lynch. Mr. Devlin holds that Ireland is entitled to a modified system of self-government based on Canadian lines. If chosen he would make the seventh Canadian in the Imperial House.

THE BOARD OF HEALTH

Again Discussed Situation Regarding Contagious Disease

A special meeting of the Board of Health was held in the Town Clerk's office yesterday morning, when the following were present, Messrs. R. Neill, chairman; A. Parker, Mayor Roger, G. Schneider, Dr. McNulty.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed.

The Chief gave a report of his visits to the houses where there were absentees from school. He said in all his visits he failed to find one suspicious case.

It was decided to continue the process of having the schools report every Friday of the absentees of that day until further notice. There was a little discussion as to whether another day would be better, but it was decided to leave the day formerly arranged.

Mr. Armstrong read a report from Dr. Bryce regarding the water sample of the Lake street school well, sent by Dr. Bingham to Toronto. The report showed that the water was not in a satisfactory condition for use.

Dr. McNulty moved, seconded by Mr. Parker, that the Lake street school trustees be requested to close the school well in view of the report sent by Dr. Bryce regarding the water therein.

A telephone message was received from the Public School Inspector regarding a suspicious case in one of the schools which was reported by one of the teachers. Instructions were given to have the matter looked into and the prompt action of the teacher was commended by the Board.

Some discussion followed as to the right of the Board of Health to close a well in which the water was found to be bad. The opinion seemed divided as to whether the well should be closed, or whether cleaning it thoroughly would be sufficient.

The Board adjourned to meet again on Tuesday morning, Feb. 24, at 9.30 o'clock.

Boer War Expenses

St. Louis, Feb. 16—The Republic of this city says: "Transvaal mine owners and operators will bear a share of the Boer war expenses. This is one time when the taxes will be paid by the rich, for any person who can afford to buy diamonds can afford to contribute. The funny side is that the United States, where more diamonds are sold than anywhere else, will bear a big share of the burden. The operators will, of course, pass the tax on to consumers."

STRAIGHT TO THE "SOO"

Peterborough is Soon to be on a Straight Line of Railway to Sault Ste. Marie

Peterborough is soon to be on a straight line of railway to Sault Ste. Marie. Mr. F. H Clergue is asking for power to build a railway from Midland to Penetanguishene thence to Perkinsfield, on the G.T.R., in order to make connection between Midland and Meaford to which point will go the Manitoulin and North Shore line. This would afford a service between the smelter at Midland and the Soo blast furnaces, and give Peterborough a direct line to the "Soo."

RURAL MAIL DELIVERIES

Washington System Examined For Ottawa Government

Brockville, Ont., Feb. 17—P. H Macarow, Post Office Inspector, Kingston, is in Brockville, on his return from Washington, D. C., where he was sent by the Postmaster-General to make a personal investigation into the system of rural mail delivery as established in the United Stated, with a view of adopting it in Canada. He was given much valuable information by the Postmaster-General. There are 13,104 rural mail routes already established there; 152 more will be added in a few days and 751 more by March 1st, and when the service reaches its contemplated limit there will be about 25,000 routes in operation. By April 1st there will be 946 rural mail routes running in New York state alone.

It is reported that the section between Athens and Brockville a distance of 15 miles will be given a trial in the rural mail delivery system, and it would not be surprising to see postal delivery in Brockville become a reality in a short time. Mr Macarow will make some important recommendations along that line.

THE KING IS READY FOR PARLIAMENT

Opening of Westminster Houses To-morrow to be Accompanied by Great Ceremony

London, Feb. 16.—The King is determined that at the opening of Parliament to-morrow, when he will read the speech from the throne, shall be invested with all the dignity and magnificence at his command. At a grand military pageant it is expected to excel his first opening of Parliament, but nothing like so much interest is being taken in the function by the court and society.

For the sake of pleasing the women of her court, Queen Alexandra has caused it to be known, through an official medium, that they may appear in their coronation robes on this occasion, but without the coronets. Instead of this announcement causing pleasure it has been the cause of no end of tribulations and lament in some quarters, for while after the coronation many sent their robes back to the robe makers to be carefully packed away for further use, there were others who had them cut up, while others only hired them for that occasion, and now they cannot afford, even if there were time, to get new State robes ready.

In view of to-morrow's function the King is taking great care of himself. He attended the Drury Lane pantomime Thursday night, along with the Queen, but that is the only liberty he has taken with himself since his recent cold, which prevented his visiting Chatsworth. He is determined not to risk anything which might interfere wiht his carrying out in person Tuesday's programme. To-night is to be devoted to the usual official dinners.

An Old Investment.

Toronto, Feb. 15—At a recent meeting of Simcoe County Council a couple of members, after search of the official archives, discovered that about 53 years ago the county had invested £50,000 in the Ontario, Simcoe & Huron Railway, under conditions which assured the County a dividend when the road became a paying concern. Some years ago the Northern Railway Co. assumed control, and now the line is a part of the G.T.R. System. The County Council passed a resolution instructing the Clerk to make a demand on the G.T.R. Company for the amount of the unpaid dividends.

SUGAR AND WATER AND THE TOWN COUNCIL

The Water Commissioners Ask for a Reserve Fund of $50,000

$50,000 RESERVE FUND.

The Town Council met in Committee of the Whole last night, when Messrs. Matthews and Hill, Water Commissioners, were present and asked the Council's support in seeking legislation for power to set aside a portion of each year's surplus revenue until a reserve fund of $50,000 is reached. The Commissioners' object is to have available a fund with which to meet all contingencies such as extensions, the purchase of land or the erection of a reservoir, if necessary, without having to apply to Council. They proposed to appropriate to this fund one half the net surplus revenue each year till the sum of $25,000 is reached, after that 25 per cent. until $50,000 has been set aside. This is not to be encroached on the cost of maintenance, or fixed charges for interest and sinking fund on water works debentures.

In reply to Alderman Best, Mr. Matthews explained that at the end of the present half year the Commissioners intend to give a further reduction in the water rates, and to cut in two the rates of small householders. "Our object is," he said, "to make the rates as low as possible, and at the same time to keep on hand a reserve fund."

Ald. R. F. McWilliams moved that the Council approve of a bylaw providing for a lawful sinking fund not to exceed $50,000; half of each year's net surplus to be set aside until $10,000 is reached, and one quarter until $50,000 is reached; and no sum exceeding $5,000 to be expended without permission of the Council.—Carried.

COUNCIL IN SESSION.

Council met in special session at 9 o'clock, when there were present Mayor G. M. Roger, and Aldermen Morrison, R. F. McWilliams, Corkery Shortly, Edgcumbe, Clinkscale and Best.

The Otonabee Power Company applied to have their agreement with the town changed so as to enable this company to supply light as well as power. The communication went on to say that the company in question is daily besieged by citizens for the supply of light.—Received.

S. R. Armstrong, secretary of the Peterborough Board of Health, notified the Council that the following resolution had been passed: "That the Town Council be requested by this Board to have the sewers properly flushed at least once a month all the year round."—Board of Works.

NEW POLES.

Ald. Best submitted a report, recommending permission to the Otonabee Power Company to erect new poles.—This was adopted.

INADEQUATE ACCOMODATION

Ald. McWilliams drew Council's attention to the fact that the work of civic officials and committees is badly clogged and conjested for want of sufficient accomodation. Also that complaints are made that the fire hall and stables are in too close proximity to the centre of the town, so much as to be a nuisance in the summer months. He moved, seconded by Ald. Clinkscale, that this matter be referred to the Property committee, to report some scheme for securing more extensive office accomodation, and more appropriate fire hall premises.—Carried.

BEET SUGAR.

Messrs. T. E. Bradburn, A. P. Poussette and J. W. Garvin, were a deputation from the provisional directors of the proposed Beet Sugar Company. They submitted a proposition that the Town aid the industry to the amount of $50,000, $25,000 to be secured the Town in bonds, and $25,000 in stocks.

Mr. Garvin pointed out that outside concerns had secured substantial inducements from the Town, and he asked that the promoters of this industry, who are local men, be accorded the same treatment. "We do not," he said, "ask for one dollar which will not prove a paying investment. The $25,000 in bonds will be the first mortgage against the company's plant." After submitting figures showing the investment to be a safe and profitable one, as embodied in last Friday's meeting of the Board of Trade, Mr. Garvin went on to say Germany has 400 factories and France 333. There were 49 factories constructed on the continent the last few years, and 4 in Canada last year. It takes 400 factories to supply this continent with sugar, and there are yet but 49 in operation. It would be a simple matter for us to secure substantial protection so as to keep the home market to ourselves. Should the Town take stock it will be necessary to bring the factory within the town limits, in which event a reasonable fixed assessment will be asked."

Mr. A. P. Poussette remarked that the increase in the consumption of sugar in Canada is rapid. In the last 10 years the increase in its consumption was larger than the increase in the percentage of population. Within the period quoted the increase in the consumption of sugar was 47 per cent. against 15 per cent. increase in population. He thought Peterborough favorable to the growth of sugar beets, and there is no crop a farmer can grow more successfully than these roots.

Mr. Bradburn explained that it is intended that the Town shall have a representative on the board of directors should they take stock.

Ald Morrison said that in 1891 and 1892 the average amount of beets grown per acre in the United States was 10 tons; this sold at $50 per acre, its growth cost $30, thus netting the farmer a profit of $20 per acre. 47 factories were in operation, making 184,606 tons of sugar on which it is estimated they would clear $300,000. The U. S. alone consumes $2,500,000 worth of sugar a year. Germany has reduced the manufacture of sugar down so fine that they can now make it at from $2 to $3 1-2 less than a few years ago. They have an advantage over us also in cheap labor.

The three factories in Nebraska made $2.89 a ton on 13,546 tons of beets; $4.50 on 31,000 tons, and $5.36 on 47,202 tons. Altogether these factories have made $432,621.56 on an investment of $2,250,000, or a profit of 20 per cent. As to the town taking stock and bonds, Mr. Morrison said that our present debenture debt is $351,000 and we can only borrow $97,100 more without seeking further legislation. The Council have confronting them the light question, Collegiate Institute, permanent improvements and public offices. Our borrowing power is within $100,000, and I don't think it would be wise to extend it. The only thing we could do is to increase our assessment say another million. Then the town has put its foot down upon straight bonusing or lending money. He believed the investment would be a good one, but whether the Council is in a position to accept the Beet Sugar Company's proposition is another matter.

Ald. Edgecumbe thought the sugar industry a paying investment for any one who has money, but the farmers should be thoroughly canvassed as to just what they would do. One of the largest sugar factories in the world was built in Michigan, but not a pound of sugar was turned out simply because the farmers would not grow the beets.

Mr T. E. Bradburn—We have nineteen men out now canvassing the farmers and one-third the required amount of acreage is now under contract.

Mr. Garvin said they had every reason to believe that at least 3,000 acres would be secured by April.

Mr. Bradburn remarked that every farmer owning 100 acres of land should grow at least 5 acres of beets. The town would be benefitted by the large amount of capital spent in the immediate neighborhood for raw material. The company figure that in the first year $240,000 will be paid farmers for beets; the next year all the way from $240,000 to $300,000.

In reply to Alderman Morrison, Mr Poussette remarked that the $50,000 asked for might be considered as a live asset, and should be taken on the same lines as the water works. A special act could be secured for borrowing this amount, which would not affect the remaining $97,000 borrowing capacity of the Town. He thought that if there had been an industry deserving favorable consideration, this is one of them.

Ald McWilliams thought the Council's main duty was all data together so clearly that every intelligent man will be able to form an opinion on the question. He would like a specific estimate of the cost of the building, amount to be paid in wages, number of men employed, and its prospective advantages to the Town, prepared. He thought the Company's proposal an argument in its favor, if this amount is not greater than the town has been prepared to give other industries.

The Mayor—"There has never been a case where a municipality has had to increase by legislative its ten per cent borrowing power by reason of aiding a sugar industry."

Mr. Garvin said the factory would employ 300 hands at $1.50 a day—three shifts, each 24 hours. Farmers complain of a scarcity of hands in summer; if we had a factory [illegible] men could work in it during the winter and go farming in the summer. As to [illegible] paid [illegible]

PROMINENT BOER LEADER COMES TO CANADA TO RESIDE

Was Govenor of Griqualand and Once Surrendered to Col. Sam Hughes

Montreal, Feb. 19—Satisfied that there are better prospects for a young man in Canada than in South Africa Mr. W. J. de Jongh, an advocate of Krugersdorp, has arrived to take up his residence in this country. Mr. de Jongh, who was military governor of Griqualand, fought for the Boers during the entire war and on one occasion was forced to surrender to Col. Sam Hughes at Uppington.

In discussing the outlook in South Africa Mr. de Jongh stated that for some time to come a man to succeed in South Africa would have to possess capital, and that men who had lost their all in the war would have up-hill work for years. Already twenty seven Transvaalers had arrived at New York on their way to Canada, and he thought that these would be followed by many others of the same class.

London, Feb. 15 —The Globe says it understands that an announcement will be made within a few days that the Canadian steamships owned by the Elder-Dempster Company have been acquired by the Canadian Pacific Railroad. The price paid, the Globe says, cannot be less than two million pounds, but the details of the transaction have not transpired.

Sentenced to Death.

London, Feb. 16—Edwards, a man who was convicted of murder at Leyton, five miles from London, was arraigned in court here to-day for sentence of death. He received the sentence in the most callous manner. On being asked the usual question whether he had anything to say why sentence of death should not be passed on him, he replied, No; get on with it as soon as you can." While the judge was placing on the black cap before sentencing him, the murderer remarked, "Why, it's like being on the stage!" When the judge came to the conclusion of the sentence and said "And may the Lord have mercy on your soul," Edwards burst out laughing, saying "Ha, ha!"

Edwards was convicted of murdering James Darby, his wife, and the couple's child. He killed all three with a hammer, enclosing their bodies in sacks and buried them in a garden in the rear of the house.

WHY ROCKFELLER HATES PUBLICITY.

A late issue of Leslies' Weekly relates the experience of a small stockholder in the Standard Oil company, which may illuminate the causes of Mr Rockfeller's dislike of publicity. The stockholder, armed with a proxy to represent shares owned by his wife, and in accordance with the regular printed invitations of the company to all of its stockholders to attend its annual meeting, started from New York about 9 o'clock in the morning for the office of the Standard Oil company at Bayonne, N.J., where, after making inquiries of watchmen, workmen, switchmen and flagmen, at the various railroad crossings in the yards, he succeeded in threading his way through a labyrinth of tanks, pipes, cars and buildings, until, at about 11 o'clock in the morning he reached a commonplace brick building on the edge of the bay. He was told to climb two flights of stairs on the outside of the structure, and there, hidden away in a loft, without a sign to indicate its location, the annual meeting of the great and powerful Standard Oil Company was being held. He says:

"Entering the room where the meeting was to be held, I found a fine looking, courteous, middle aged gentleman, seated by the side of a large table upon which were piled the proxies, sent in by stockholders, authorising Messrs. Rockfeller, Flagler, and others to represent them at the meeting. I asked if this was the meeting of the stockholders of the Standard Oil company. He replied that it was, and then I discovered that I was the only stockholder from the outside who was present.

"I inquired if any annual report of the earnings of the company had been presented. The reply was in the negative, the gentleman remarking that the stockholders apparently had not attended the meeting or cared particularly to see the annual report. The gentleman asked my name and whom my proxy represented. He immediately stepped into an adjoining office for confidential consultation with the clerks assembled there. After a time my credentials were accepted, and I ventured again to ask my courteous friend, who represented the company, whether he was able to give me a statement bearing on the company's business for the year. Courteous as ever, but not quite as suave he declined to say more than that he must refer me to Mr. Dodds, the solicitor of the company, at the New York office.

"I asked if it was not somewhat unusual to refer a stockholder in such a matter to the company's attorney, and he replied that he had nothing more to say excepting that if I wanted information I must consult the attorney. I asked the gentleman if he was an officer of the company, and he said he was, and that he was a director. I asked if, as a director, he declined to impart information regarding the company's affairs to its stockholders. He again replied, somewhat frigidly, that he must refer me to Mr. Dodds. I asked the director to give me his name and he unhesitatingly gave it as Mr. Barstow. I bade Mr. Barstow good day and tramped a mile back to the street car, through the gases and stenches of the Standard Oil works, and returned to my office in New York."

To Set Her Free

[COPYRIGHTED]

By FLORENCE WARDEN.

Author of "The House in the Marsh," "A Prince of Darkness," etc.

ing in this girl, which made her so unable to face common accidents of life squarely and sanely. That she should have attempted suicide; that she should now suggest the maddest of mad expedients, merely to free herself from the society of uncongenial companions, did indeed suggest a nature so out of the common run that to suppose her mad would have been a pardonable assumption.

But, pardonable as it would have been, Astley did not fall into this mistake. Knowing what he did of her parentage, appreciating too the constant irritation which the restraints of her uncongenial life put upon her, and the steady determination with which all the members of the Bascot family pursued their intention of forcing her into an ill-assorted marriage, he saw that her desperation was not the result of insanity, but of ignorance. This girl, brought up in a convent school abroad, and accustomed to hear of marriages arranged on business principles only, had hit upon a way out of her misery, without realizing the fresh difficulties to which the course she proposed would give rise.

It was not easy to put the matter in a right light.

"Don't you know," he said gently, when they had walked side by side for some moments without speaking, "that there's no such thing as half-marriage? Matrimony contracted in a registry-office is every bit as binding as if the ceremony were performed in a church."

"But it wouldn't seem the same!" retorted Norma quickly. "I could never feel that a man to whom I'd only been married in an office was really my husband."

Astley smiled at her feminine view of the matter.

"What you would feel doesn't matter: I'm telling you what would be the fact," said he. "If I were some needy and unscrupulous adventurer—"

"Oh!" interrupted Norma with an indignant flash of the eyes.

"I repeat, if I were some penniless rascal, ready and eager to profit by your impatient generosity—"

"I'm not generous, and you're not an adventurer, so it's ridiculous to put it like that."

"Will you listen to me, Miss Bascot, or will you not?" said Astley, with half-serious peremptoriness.

"I'll listen," said Norma, after a moment's pause, submissively enough.

"If I were to marry you—"

"At a registry office," put in Norma.

"At a registry office or anywhere else, you would be legally my wife, and therefore you would be precluded from marrying anybody else as long as I lived. You never seem to have thought of that."

"But there's nothing I'm more determined about than this, that I will never marry at all," said Norma firmly, "except, as I suggested, as a matter of business, a partnership of convenience. And it was because you always talked as if you felt exactly as I did about this horrid subject of marriage, that I ventured to be so bold as I was, and to suggest it to you."

"Oh, believe me, I quite understand that," said Astley, who now began to find a secret but decided amusement in this most odd discussion. "But I, when I say that sort of thing, speak from experience, while you are too young to have had any."

"Oh, no, I'm not," said Norma gravely and with decision. "I know what the experience of my own mother was, and through her I know of other cases, of plenty of other cases. And there's nothing I'm more strongly resolved upon than that I'll be my own mistress as long as I live."

"I wonder you don't go into a convent," suggested Astley.

"I shouldn't be my own mistress there," said Norma. "However, we needn't discuss it any longer. You think what I said absurd, unwomanly, unconventional, I can see that."

"Unconventional, certainly. But not unwomanly, and I don't even like to say absurd. I'm rather touched by the confidence you show in me, a confidence which, I am bound to add, is wholly misplaced."

Norma, who had been walking on beside him in a state of so much shame-faced excitement that she had scarcely been able to subdue her pace to his leisurely lame gait, stopped and stared at him.

"Mis-placed!" echoed she in surprise.

"Yes," said Astley with dogged decision. "You take it for granted that, because I've abjured matrimony, I must be a hard-headed philosopher, superior to the ordinary human emotions. But I tell you I'm nothing of the kind. Supposing I agreed to—to—to your idea, and began with a lofty and noble refusal to touch a penny of your money, as I of course should do. Why then presently, when I found out you were spending your comfortable little fortune in benefiting the human race, and in other species of what the mere man calls tomfoolery—you'll excuse my speaking with hideous frankness?—"

Norma nodded, smiling a little in spite of herself.

"—Then I should be mad, and I should come sneaking after you, with suggestions that we should join forces, and spend what we'd got on ourselves, just like Robert Bascot."

Norma drew herself up.

"You couldn't be like Robert Bascot! That's why I like you," she said.

"Oh, Bascot is a good deal more human than you think," said Astley. "There's only this difference between us, that his hobby is postage stamps, and mine isn't: and that he shows he's greedy, and I take care not to show whether I'm greedy or not."

"I'm delighted to hear it. Because I owe you a deep debt, and if you are greedy, I can repay you. But I don't believe you are."

This was the very first expression of gratitude which Norma had ever used to Astley in connection with his rescue of her from the river. And she uttered the words in such a low breathless voice, with her eyes turned away and her hands moving nervously, that he was greatly touched. He tried, however, to laugh it off.

"Oh, nonsense," said he. "You know that was no more than anybody would have done. I thought you were too sensible to think of it in any other way."

They were both moving again at a very slow pace, and now Norma stopped once more.

"Ah," she said. "You think, of course, because I haven't spoken of it, that I never think about it; but I do. At first I admit I wasn't grateful; life seemed too dreadful a thing to bear. But—but—now I see more sanely, and—and I'm ashamed of myself, and—and thankful that—nobody knows—but you."

There was a simple confidence in these words, uttered in the same diffident manner and low voice, which thrilled Astley to the heart. He felt impelled to revert to the previous subject of conversation, which began to have a new attractiveness.

"Come," said he, "let us get back to the point. Suppose we were to marry, you and I, what would your people say? What would they think of me? Wouldn't they spread the tale abroad that I had taken advantage of their hospitality to steal away your heart from its rightful owner? Come, now, I'm sure you must confess they'd say something like that?"

Norma's black eyes looked down haughtily through their long lashes.

"Would you mind?" said she. "I shouldn't."

"Well, I can't say I should care to get the reputation of being a mean fellow. You see, if you don't marry me, you admit you will probably end by marrying Bascot."

"They might make me marry him, but if they did, I should murder him," said Norma, with ferocity. "If you would save me from that, therefore, you would at the same time save a man from being murdered."

Astley laughed a little. He was not afraid of letting her see him laugh now, for she was getting used to his way of looking at things, and no longer resented his lightness of heart.

Smallpox at Uniontown Pa.

Uniontown, Pa., February 16—The great prevalence of smallpox in the coke region has prompted the officials of the H. C. Frick Coke Company to issue an order calling for the free vaccination of all its employees and their families. As the Frick Company has about 50,000 men on its pay-roll, this order will affect about 200,000 persons.

Choking With Bronchitis.

Madame Gauthier, of Montreal, Suffered for Two Long Years Before She Obtained Any Relief.

Then She Tried Powley's Liquified Ozone—The Disease Germs Were Speedily Destroyed and She Was Better.

She Is Now Completely Cured and Pronounces Ozone a Truly Marvelous Remedy.

POWLEY'S LIQUIFIED OZONE CURES DISEASE BY DESTROYING DISEASE GERMS WHEREVER LOCATED.

I rejoice to be able to state that after two long years of great suffering from bronchitis, in which I was the victim of a most distressing choking and smothering sensation. I have been completely cured by Powley's Liquified Ozone.

I consider it a truly marvelous remedy and warmly recommend it to all.

(Signed) MME. T. GAUTHIER,
701 St. Paul St., Montreal, P.Q.

MADAME GAUTHIER.

The following are brief extracts from the letters of a few of the many hundreds of persons who have been cured of bronchial affections by Powley's Liquified Ozone:

JOHN M. SMITH,

225 Wellington street, London, says: "I suffered from chronic bronchitis from childhood. I tried every remedy I could hear of, but got no relief until I got Ozone. I consider it a great boon to humanity, and hope the public soon learns to appreciate it."

MRS. B. HENDREN,

22 St. Clarens ave., Toronto, says: "For four or five years I suffered terribly from bronchitis and asthma. I tried all kinds of remedies but got no better. Ozone helped me at once. Since commencing to take it I have gained 20 pounds in weight, have much greater vitality and sleep splendidly, something I could never do before."

J. W. KIRKUP,

781 St. Urbain street, Montreal, says, "I had taken but two bottles of Powley's Liquified Ozone when I was cured of a very serious attack of bronchitis, and to-day I am entirely free from this trouble. I consider this remedy the greatest discovery of the age for curing disease."

Ozone is a Healer and Cannot Injure.

Many drug preparations used to alleviate the symptoms in pulmonary and bronchial affections give a certain amount of temporary relief, but at the same time prove injurious to different organs of the body. This is especially true in the case of persons with weak stomachs. Powley's Liquified Ozone contains no drugs, and instead of irritating a delicate stomach soothes and heals it. In fact it is impossible for Ozone to prove anything but beneficial to every organ of the body. It simply cures disease by destroying the disease germs that cause it.

Powley's Liquified Ozone is sold only by reliable dealers—never by peddlers. Price 50 cents and $1.00 per bottle. Our free book on receipt of name and address.

ANOTHER GOLD MINE

By LEE S. OVITT

ANOTHER GOLD MINE! A Second Cracker Oregon! Good news to many a man and woman who have watched the marvelous development of that marvel among mines in Oregon, the far famed Cracker Oregon. A little bit of its history may prove of interest to those who have not followed the unfolding of the Cracker Oregon.

Less than a year ago, or on April, 1902, I first offered this stock to the public. I knew what it was destined to become but it took a great amount of hard work to convince my public that it was all I claimed for it. But I succeeded in placing the stock and the development work was begun. Then came the report.

First,—good ore, then better, then —a strike that sent the camp by its ears, $10,000 ore! and finally, the finding of a streak that assayed $50,000 to the ton! Then there was a celebration and from all parts of the country, and in some cases from abroad came orders for Cracker Oregon stock. But there was none to be had—although recently some shares were sold at $1.50 each.

Such in brief is the story of the Cracker Oregon.

Those who get my paper "Consolidated Mining Reports," published monthly, have had the story in full, from month to month during the past year.

Now then. In the face of the facts regarding the Cracker Oregon what will the public say when I offer them stock in another gold mine — the "Cracker Jack," and claim that it will, in my opinion, prove to be a greater and richer mine than the Cracker Oregon!

I am going to make that claim.

But not here. The burden of proof must come from the prospectus, which will show conclusively that the Cracker Jack claims lie at the fountain head of the Mother Lode!

It will show you that directly north and adjoining is the Cracker Oregon group while directly west is the famous North Pole, the property that has recently uncovered a $5,000,000 ore shoot! The Cracker Jack vein parallels the North Pole, and on one of the claims,—the Apex—the formation of the mountain is such that the two veins will most likely converge.

Surface indications prove it almost beyond the shadow of a doubt.

But I am stealing the thunder of my prospectus in going into these details. This book will tell the whole story, and the main object in view now, is to get it into your hands.

The stock will go in sixty days—may be in less time, for I am in a position this time to say, this is a gold mine—an annex of a great gold mine, a neighbor of another, and its stock will pay. With the Cracker Oregon I could only say what I thought would prove to be the outcome of development.

In the case of the Cracker Jack I know whereof I speak! No "ifs" or "ands" about this gold mine. A condition, not a theory, confronts us. The stock will start at 25 cents a share, par value $1.00, nonforfeitable, and nonassessable. I believe it will be at par before September 1, 1903.

A letter of inquiry to any bank in Sumpter or Baker City would tell you very quickly whether or not my expectations were apt to be realised.

Our properties are well known out where they are located, and the methods of the men behind the mines are well thought of.

We conduct our business on business principles.

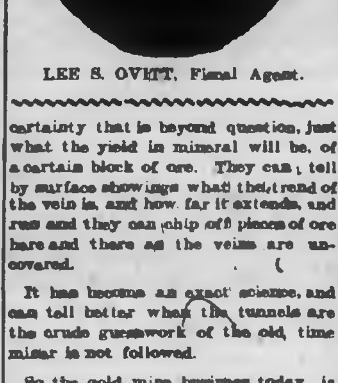
I am going to indulge in a little moralizing on the question of investments in general, before I wind up this article.

I want to present my argument in favor of my kind of an investment and see if you can find any weak spots in it anywhere.

I am a great believer in gold mines.

Out in Oregon I can point to two or three that I have had a good deal to do with, that are successes, and will prove to be dividend earners for years to come, long after my work is done here on this earth.

For in this day of scientific attainments along the lines of geology men trained in that science can tell, with a certainty that is beyond question, just what the yield in mineral will be, of a certain block of ore. They can tell by surface showings what the trend of the vein is, and how far it extends, and rses and they can chip off pieces of ore here and there as the veins are uncovered.



LEE S. OVITT, Fiscal Agent.

It has become an exact science, and can tell better where the tunnels are the crude guesswork of the old time miner is not followed.

So the gold mine business today is reduced to that of a great manufactory whose product is a staple that every man and woman in the world has need for, and which every government on earth is ready to buy at a fixed price. Gold is the standard by which all values are measured. I think my proposition is an interesting one, therefore.

All that remains for me is to prove that the mine contains the gold, and that the men in control of the output are good business men, both of which I stand ready to prove to the entire satisfaction of every man interested.

When an expert of the standing of Warren Cable, a mining engineer who is known from end to end of this country, makes the broad claim that in his opinion we have a better property—judged by surface showings, than the Cracker Oregon, basing his statement on the vein disclosed and the values carried therein, then I feel safe in making the claims I do, and I never make claims that I cannot substantiate. I think I am too smart for that and have too much at stake personally I am a heavy holder of this stock and am counting on dividends.

The prospectus, that I have prepared, mention of which is made earlier in this article, will tell in detail, all that any would-be investor would care to know of the property shows a photograph of the mine and its topography as related to Cracker Oregon, North Pole and other mines.

You may be skeptical in gold mines, but I am sincere in thinking that a careful reading of this book will convert you to my way of thinking. There is an entire absence of bombast in it. Every part of the subject is given scientific and technical treatment by men who know whereof they speak.

Glittering generalities are left out. The reader is left to judge for himself whether the promises made are certain of fulfillment.

All in all it is a business book, and presents its arguments in a business-like manner.

I want to get it into your hands.

The stock will sell in a hurry, and I expect to sell the last of it at par. Prices will be advanced as improvements are added and developments made.

Work till you die, or will you put a little of your earnings to work now, and take things easy later on.

These are the questions that confront men and women daily.

The lines of concentration in the business world are drawing tighter every day and it is becoming a greater problem as the years roll on as to how people shall live.

The man with $500,000 who can buy railroad stocks is not worrying, but the one with $500 is.

Alone he can do but little. Co-operating with others who have like sums to invest, his money becomes a power vast enough to move mountains dig tunnels, build mills, install machinery and make the earth yield her increase, so that he and his fellow-investors can enjoy a comfortable old age, secure from want and worry.

I think I am on the right track as far as investments go, don't you?

If you don't think so, I stand ready for the question—and I shall evade nothing.

I hope you will send for that prospectus, anyway.

REPORT BY EX-SUPERINTENDENT OF MINE

Cecil R. Gold Mining and Milling Co., [illegible]

Ballarat, Cal., Nov. 1st, 1902.

Gentlemen,—Your request for my opinion as to the "Santa Rosa" group of mines and other claims in which you are interested in this territory, to hand, and in reply will say:

The "Santa Rosa" group, which is located southeast of Ballarat some three and a half miles, consists of twelve claims, equal to 240 acres. The ledge crops out more or less the full length of these claims, showing the same character and formation of work as where development work has been done. In most of the outcroppings it shows highly mineralized rock, with pyrites of iron, mica, schist, slate, slate porphyry, gouge, quartz and quartzite, all burning more or less. Where work has been done, it shows a very marked improvement in both quantity and quality of gold-bearing rock. Commencing with the surface, the ore shows much iron and copper stain. All mill tests show rich ore commencing with the surface; in fact, I milled for several days and recovered $50 and over per ton, yet the milling process does not pay more than two-thirds of the value of the ore, the tailings ofttimes running as high as $25 per ton, and never less than $12.50. To save the entire value of your ore it will be necessary to install either concentrators or a cyanide plant. From careful study and frequent examination of the surface of the ground, and down as far as has been opened below the surface, I am highly pleased with the property. It is certainly a fine property, and as good as any I have ever had the pleasure of examining. Considering your mill site, with tramway facilities added, water, fuel, and cheapness of mining the ore, the Cecil R. will be capable of paying enormous dividends when your capacity for milling is increased to what it ought to be.

Wishing you every success, I remain, Yours very truly,

(Signed) G. W. FLEMING,

SOUTH WESTERN OUTLOOK

New York, Feb. 17—In speaking yesterday of Northern Pacific in these letters we gave the results of the road business for the month and for the preceding months of its fiscal year. As is the case with others of our western roads it was reorganized upon the basis of hard times. It can, like them, stand the shocks of business depression without cutting off the income of security holders. This fact is one of the future mainstays of prices. The northwest and south west is growing up on to the railway mileage previously supplied them. New industries are being developed, old ones expanded. Thousands of new settlers are taking up the land and making homes; a great Oriental trade is ahead for these roads and the section of the country through which they run. The S. W. roads tell a similar tale of prosperity which has not yet been duly reflected in security values but it has led to investment in them upon large scale by the wise and far seeing capitalists of Wall Street. As we said last week the high price for cotton is going to help these roads materially. They are all going to sell much higher this year in price. In the south earnings are steadily and constantly increasing through expansion of business and development of industrials. That section is no longer dependent upon cotton for its income. It has become a manufacturer. For the first week in February, Louisville and Nash. shows a gain of $115,000 and Southern Railway a gain of $82,000. Reports of earnings appear to be the same from all sections of the country. As long as this is the case and the showings are so greatly improved after being compared with enormous earnings for the comparative times of the preceding year what can there be to base a future fall of prices upon at present. Room traders and bear operators cannot alone create a bear market. Their selling must be accompanied by a constant dribbling fo long stocks, otherwise the movement kills itself and the inevitable rebound against the short interest appears. Long stocks never come freely to market on declining prices when earnings are maintained at high water mark and when high water mark shows two dollars net income for every dollar of dividend disbursement.

Summary—After a firm opening in which A. C. P. was rushed from 72 1-2 to 73 7-8 the market sold off in sympathy with the heaviness of N.Y.C., and expected gold shipments. On the decline trading was intensely quiet.

Some of the dullness was attributed to the wire service to the west, which was reported very bad. The traders formed a pool and put T.C.I. up from 66 to 67 3-8. Loco. common was also taken in hand and marked up about a point to 31 5-8. Buying of St. Paul on the decline was rather good. We believe the market an excellent purchase at present. Money closed 2 3-4 per cent. Sales 480,100.

Geneva, Feb. 16.—When Maitre Lachenal conveyed to Princess Louise the details and terms of the divorce secured by the husband she deserted, she said, "I expected as much." She did not seem surprised and thanked the lawyer cordially for the trouble he had taken. She is expected to take charge of her own affairs now. Prof. Giron will return to Geneva shortly. The Princess has practically given up all hope of being allowed to see her children. It is expected she will finally marry Giron in some Protestant country like Switzerland.

INTERNATIONAL ELECTRIC MINING Co

185 SUMMER ST., - BOSTON, MASS.

A Dividend Payer for the Past Five Years.

12 PER CENT GUARANTEED

Capital Stock, $500,000. Par, $1.00, full paid and non-assessable

Over eight thousand tons of $50.00 ore mined and smelted from this group of mines.

A limited number of shares of the stock of this Company now offered at seventy-five cents per share. This price will shortly be increased to par. Stock registered by the International Trust Company, Boston, who is also the transfer agent.

This Company has a small capital stock.

The International Electric Mining Company owns seven mines and milling plant.

The Brooklyn and New York mines of this Company lie north of and join the Victor and the Hoodlum—two rich mines that are now being worked by California parties. On the west lies the Electric Mining Company's mines. In these mines are millions of dollars' worth of rich ore in sight. On the south, adjoining the Berlin mine of this Company, is the Montezuma and Clipper. From the Montazuma over three million dollars has been taken within 30 feet of the grass roots.

This Company owns free and clear seven mines of twenty acres each, all containing rich ore, located in the Arabia and Trinity mining districts, Humboldt County, Nevada. The Company has worked these mines for the past five years, and is now driving a tunnel to cut out a rich ledge about 300 feet from the surface. The Arabia mining district, in which these mines are located, is a lively district—a great many men being employed there. The tunnel now being driven on the Brooklyn mine has about 350 feet already completed. When the tunnel cuts the main ledge, which has just been reached by the Victor tunnel about 400 feet, the Brooklyn will have about 500 feet stoping ground, which runs high in gold and silver, over $60.00 per ton.

The Company is offering for a short time a limited amount of stock for the enlargement of its plant and the working force at the mines and for the completion of the Brooklyn tunnel.

This Company has thousands of tons of rich ore in sight.

We are not making a lot of talk, because it is unnecessary. What the investor wants is dividends, which we have paid for the past five years. Now if you want a safe 12 per cent. investment, let us hear from you.

THE OLD COMSTOCK

A California mining paper has this to say: "Nevada, that grand old stamping ground of mushroom millionaires, who plucked enough wealth from her prolific fields to build mansions, banks, and big hotels in San Francisco, and palaces in Paris and London, is again astonishing the world by making more millionaires and by yielding millions in gold and silver from a new field which rivals the old Comstock lode in the days of its pristine splendor. Not only in Tonopah and Arabia districts, where within the past year nearly ten millions have been exposed, are operations active, but in every mining district in the Silver State are operations active, and Nevada will once more take her place among the big producers, the peer of any of them."

Gentlemen,—If you wish to sell your Brooklyn mine I can get you a good price for it. If it was mine I would not sell it at any price, as you have more than a million dollars of ore in sight.

Dear Sir,—During the six months of October and November of this year I visited the mines of the International Electric Mining Company, situated in Arabia and Trinity mining districts, Humboldt County, Nevada. I found the country remarkably mineralized; in fact, the possibilities of the country as a mineral producing country are yet unknown. For years it certainly has produced well. The work now being done in the Arabia and Trinity districts establishes the fact that they are fine producers.

I also found that there is a great deal of interest being taken in these properties, which have produced a great deal of wealth the past quarter of a century.

THE ELECTRIC SPARK GOLD MINING COMPANY

Is in this famous little kingdom, and is surrounded by mines that are making their owners wealthy.

CAPITAL STOCK $200,000 Par Value $1.00

We are working this mine every day doing a great amount of development work which will enable us to commence regular shipping very soon. Our shaft is now 175 feet deep, with a streak of pay ore starting at the grass roots, the vein is over 3 feet wide at the bottom of shaft, and runs from $45.00 to $86.80 per ton mostly gold. We are only three-quarters of a mile from railroad and have a well traveled wagon road from mine to depot. There are thirteen stamp mills at Black Hawk, three-quarters of a mile from this property. Our company is managed on conservative lines by practical mining men who understand the business and are familiar with this field of gold.

We have placed a small block of this stock on the market at 20 cents per share which will be worth $1.00 in a short time. Now is the time to buy.

"THE FRIDAY MINE"

Located at Pearl, Willow Creek, Boise County, Idaho

About 26 Miles Northwest of Boise City

THE FRIDAY GOLD MINING CO. is a corporation duly organized under the laws of the State of Oregon, with head office at Sumpter, Oregon, owning and controlling "The Friday Mine." Capital Stock, $1,000,000, divided into 1,000,000 shares. Par value $1.00 per share, fully paid and non assessable, no personal liability. 250,000 shares have been set aside and placed in the treasury of the Company to be sold for the purpose of equipping the "Friday Mine" with machinery. It is for this purpose we are offering you stock in this great mine. This plant will handle 60 tons of Friday ore every 24 hours. The general average of the Friday ore is over $30 per ton. The ore as it was shipped to the smelters at Salt Lake averaging over $66.60 per ton. The Friday is highly developed, great quantities of ore blocked out and in sight ready for the mill. As soon as the mill is completed the Friday Mine will again pay dividends.

Large ore bodies which will net to the company $50,000, for the first few months, are now blocked out ready for the mill. As soon as the mill is completed you will draw your regular monthly dividend. It is safe, certain and conservative.

We are not soliciting your money for the purpose of developing the mine, but only for the purpose of erecting a mill to work the ore bodies in the mine. The company is officered by men of well known business ability, mining experience and strict integrity.

Hon. Martin H. Jacobs, State Mining Inspector of mines for the State of Idaho says: "The Friday has a large amount of good ore in sight, and there is no question about its being a good paying property."

Thunder Mountain!

is the richest gold producing camp in the United States, and also the largest. The Thunder Mountain district, in central Idaho, is twenty miles wide and forty miles long. In comparison with this we have Cripple Creek, four miles wide and seven miles long. In many of the Thunder Mountain mines ore has already been reached that carries ONE THOUSAND DOLLARS IN GOLD TO THE TON. All of the Thunder Mountain ore is free milling, which means that it can be treated by the cheapest extraction process known—the ordinary stamp mill. It can be both mined and milled at a cost not to exceed $2 a ton. The past years operations in the several working mines have opened up millions of tons of ore that will give a net profit of from $10 to $30 a ton, enabling the respective companies to pay dividends at a rate never before equalled. Such is the showing and the prospect of the

which unless all indications are at fault, will become the largest producer in the district. The EAST DEWEY mine, which it owns outright, is located directly on Thunder Mountain, just east of the famous "Dewey" mine, which already has $20,000,000 of ore in sight. The surface area of the East Dewey mine is one hundred and twenty acres—six full quartz claims. The company has also secured the big GOLDEN GATE mine, in the Big Creek section of the Thunder Mountain district—which has been so aptly termed "The Pot of Gold"—and is now developing the mine with all possible speed. For a distance of 9,000 feet, nearly two miles, the Golden Gate mines cover a mineralized ledge that is 900 feet wide, with an average height above the tunnel level of 500 feet, thus giving it the largest exposed tonnage of any mine in the west.

If you would share in the enormous profits which these figures indicate and which these developments promise, invest your money in "East Dewey" Stock. It can be bought to-day for 10 Cents a Share. Its par value is $1.

If the East Dewey mines are what they appear to be, and there is absolutely no reason to doubt or question these indications, this stock will eventually be worth at least $10 a share, and to-day you can buy it for ten cents. PRICE ADVANCES TO FIFTEEN CENTS ON FEBRUARY 28th. 5% discount allowed for cash. Stock sold at flat price of 10 cents on deferred payments, 10% with application, and 10% monthly until paid. BECAUSE

THE SOUR LAKE OIL CO.

Has placed four-fifths of its stock in the treasury for development work; and because

Oil is reached in less than half the depth required on Spindletop Heights in Beaumont;

The people in Canada are well acquainted with the management, which is in the hands of HON. JOHN L. BITTINGER, United States Consul General to Canada; F. S. Ashley, Vice-President of the Massachusetts Securities Co., and W. L. Marston, Vice-President of the American Union Oil and Refining Co.

These gentlemen have made a dividend payer out of one company and have raised the value of its stock from 5c per share to par value, or 25c, within a very short time;

The company is operating in the Sour Lake field, where fewer wells will tap the oil than at Spindletop; this insures a greater flow of oil, and it is of a better quality;

This is the first allotment of shares at the present price of TEN CENTS PER SHARE; it is the lowest price at which you can buy, and the time left in which to buy at TEN CENTS is short.

who had lived, at the time of his departure, five miles away in the village. He remembered that his wife was recently dead when he left. The man, whose blue ghastly face was sunken in the pillows, looked up at him. He thrust out a cadaverous hand as if to threaten. The little girl with the baby and the two little boys edged nearer the bed, as if for protection.

"Who be you?" enquired the sick man, with feeble menace. "What d'ye want comin' in here this way?" It was like the growl of a sick dog.

The other man went close to the bed. "Where is my wife?" he asked, in a strange voice. It was expressive of horror and anger and a rage of disappointment.

"You ain't—Dick?" gasped the man in the bed.

"Yes, I be; and I know you, Johnny Willet. Where is my wife? What are you here for?"

"Your wife is dead," answered the man, in a choking voice. He began to cough; he half raised himself on one elbow. His eyes bulged. He crowed like a child with the croup. The little girl promptly laid the baby on the bed, and ran to a chimney cupboard for a bottle of medicine, which she administered with a spoon. The sick man lay back, gasping for breath. He looked as if already dead; his jaw dropped; there were awful blue hollows in his face.

"Dead!" repeated the visitor, thinking of his wife, and not of this other image of death before him.

"Yes, she's dead."

"Where's my little girl?"

The sick man raised one shaking hand, and pointed to the little girl who had taken up the whimpering baby.

"That?"

The sick man nodded.

The other eyed the little girl, rather tall for her age, but very slim, her narrow shoulders already bent with toil. She regarded him with serious blue eyes in a little face, with an expression of gentleness so pronounced that it gave the impression of a smile. The man's eyes wandered from the girl to the baby in her arms and the two little boys.

"What be you all a-doin' here?" he demanded, gruffly, and made a movement toward the bed. The little girl turned pale, and clutched the baby more closely. The sick man made a feeble sound of protest and deprecation. "What be you all a-doin' here?" demanded the other again.

"I married your wife after we heard your ship was lost. We knew you was aboard her from Abel Dennison. He come home, and said you was dead for sure, some eight year ago, and then she said she'd marry me. I'd been after her some time. My wife died, and my house burned down, and I was left alone without any home, and I'd always liked her. She wasn't any too willin', but finally she give in."

The man whom he had called Dick glared at him speechlessly.

"We both thought you was dead, sure," said the sick man in a voice of mild deprecation, which was ludicrously out of proportion to the subject.

Dick looked at the children.

"We had 'em," said the sick man. "She died when the baby was two months old, and your little girl Lottie has been taking care of it. It has been pretty hard for her, but I was took sick, and ain't been able to do anything. I can just crawl round a little, and that's all. Lottie can milk—we've got one cow left—and she feeds the hens, and my first wife's brother has given us some flour and meal, and cuts us up some wood to burn, and we've worried along, but we can't stan' it when winter comes, anyhow. Somethin' has got to be done." Suddenly an expression of blank surprise before an acquisition of knowledge came over his face. "Good Lord! Dick," he gasped out, "it's all yours. It's all yours, anyway, now."

"Where's the old woman?" asked Dick, abruptly, ignoring what the other said.

"Your wife's mother? She died of pneumonia about two year ago. Your wife, she took it to heart pretty bad. She was a heap of help about the children."

Dick nodded. "The old woman always was smart to work," he assented.

"Yes, and your wife, she wa'n't over strong."

"Never was."

"No."

"S'pose there was enough to put her away decent?"

"I sold the wood-lot on the back road. There's a gravestone. Luckily I had it done before I was took sick."

"S'pose you're pretty hard pinched now?"

"Awful hard. We can't get along so much longer. There's enough wood to cut, if I could do it, that would bring in somethin', and there's the hay, that's spoilin'. I can't do nothin'. There's nothin' but this house over our heads." Suddenly that look of surprised knowledge came over his face again. "Lord! It's all yours, and the girl's, anyhow," he muttered.

"Who's been doin' the work?" asked Dick, pointing to the girl.

"Yes; she does the best she can, but she ain't very big, and the children ain't got enough to be decent, and we can't get much cooked."

Dick made a resolute step toward the door.

"Where be you a-goin', Dick," asked the sick man, with a curious wistfulness. "You ain't goin' to-night?"

"What is there in the house to eat?"

"What's in the house, Lottie?"

"There's some meal and milk and eggs," answered the child, in a high sweet voice.

"Come here and give us a kiss, Lottie," said Dick, suddenly.

The little girl approached him timidly, staggering under the weight of the baby. She lifted her face, and the man kissed her with a sort of solemnity. "I'm your father, Lottie," said he.

The two looked at each other, the child shrinking, yet smiling.

"Glad I got home?" asked the man.

"Yes, sir."

Dick went out into the kitchen, and the children followed and stood in the doorway watching. He gravely set to work, with such utensils and materials as he found, which were scanty enough. He kindled a fire, and made a corn cake. He made porridge for the sick man and carried him a bowl of it smoking-hot. "Ain't had nothin' like this sence she died," said the sick man.

After supper Dick cleaned the kitchen. He also tidied up the other room and made the bed, and milked, and split some wood wherewith to cook breakfast.

"You ain't goin' to-night, Dick?" the sick man said, anxiously, when he came in after the work was done.

"No, I ain't."

"Lord! I forgot; it's your house," said the sick man.

"I won't go, anyhow," said Dick.

"Well, there's a bed upstairs. You ain't got any more clothes than what you've got on, have you?"

"No, I ain't," replied Dick, shortly.

"Well, there's mine in the closet out of this room, and you might jest as well wear 'em till I get up. There's some shirts, and some pants."

"All right," said Dick.

The next morning Dick got the breakfast, cooking eggs with wonderful skill and frying corn cakes. Then, dressed in the sick man's shirt and trousers, he set forth, axe in hand. He toiled all day in the woods; he toiled every day until he had sufficient wood cut, then he hired a horse, to be paid for when the wood was sold. He carted loads to the hotels and farm-houses where summer boarders were taken. He arose before dawn and worked in the field and garden. He cut the hay. He was up half the night setting the house to rights. He washed and ironed like a woman. The whole establishment was transformed. He got a doctor for the sick man, but he gave small encouragement. He had consumption, although he might linger long. "Who's going to take care of the poor fellow, I don't know," said the doctor.

"I be," said Dick.

"Then there are the children," said the doctor.

"One of 'em is mine, and I'll take care of his," said Dick.

The doctor stared, as one stares who sees a good deed in a naughty world, with a mixture of awe, of contempt, and of incredulity. "Well," he said, "it's lucky you came along."

After that Dick simply continued in his new path of life. He worked and nursed. It was inconceivable how much the man accomplished. He developed an enormous capacity for work. In the autumn he painted the house, the cellar was full of winter vegetables, the woodpile was compact. The children were warmly clad, and Lottie went to school. Her father had bought an old horse for a song, and he carried her to school every day. Once in January he had occasion to drive around the other side of the mountain which he had climbed the night of his return. He started early in the afternoon, that he might be in season to go for Lottie.

It was a clear cold day. Snow was on the ground, a deep glittering level with a hard crust of ice. The sleigh slid over the frozen surface with long hisses. The trees were all bare and had suffered frightfully in the last storm. The rain had frozen as it fell, and there had been a high gale. The ice-mailed branches had snapped, and sometimes whole trees. Dick, slipping along on the white line of road below, gazed up at the side of the mountain. He looked and looked again. Then he desisted. He reached over and cut the horse's back with the reins. "Get up," he cried, harshly.

The great pine had fallen from his high estate. He was no more to be seen dominating the other trees, standing out in solitary majesty among his kind. The storm had killed him. He lay prostrate on the mountain.

And the man on the road below passed like the wind, and left the mountain and the dead tree behind.—"Harper's Bazar."

A Golden Lily.

"If I have been able to accomplish anything in my life," said a woman famous as one of the most kindly and lovable among leaders of the best American society, "it is due to the word spoken to me by my old teacher in the right season when I was a child." A newspaper prints the story of the teacher's lesson, as told by the pupil:

I was the only homely, awkward one in a class of exceptionally beautiful girls, and, being dull at my books, became the derision of the school. I fell into a morose, despairing state, gave up study, withdrew into myself and grew daily bitter and morose. One day the French teacher, a gray-haired old woman with keen eyes and a bright smile, found me crying.

"Qu' as-tu, ma fille?"—"What is the matter, my child?"—she asked.

"O madame, I am so ugly!" I sobbed out.

She soothed me, but did not contradict me. Presently she took me into her room, said, "I have a present for you," and handed me a scaly, coarse lump covered with earth.

"It is round and brown as you. Ugly, did you say? Very well, we will call it by your name, then. It is you. Now you shall plant it and water it and give it sun for a week or two."

I planted it and watched it carefully. Green leaves came out first, and at length a golden Japanese lily, the first I had ever seen. Madame came to share my delight.

"Ah!" she said, significantly. "Who would believe so much beauty and fragrance were shut up in that ugly thing? But it took heart and grew into the sunlight!"

Lord Kitchener as War Minister.

Referring to Lord Rosebery's proposal that Lord Kitchener should be invited to leave his command in India and become War Minister, Mr. Balfour characterized it as the wildest which had ever emanated from a man who had held, and who doubtless was destined to again hold, administrative posts. All politicians could understand that Lord Rosebery's sole plan was to obtain efficiency, but his suggestion was both opposed to the British constitution and absolutely impracticable. Lord Kitchener was a great soldier, but he had not been trained for the work of a Cabinet Minister, who was required to defend the proposals of his Government in Parliament.

PROPERTY OF THE COMPANY.

This Company has secured 10,000 acres of the choicest wheat lands in Assiniboia, Canada, having paid to the owners in addition to cash, 60,000 shares of its Capital Stock, for which the owners are completely equipping the property with all the necessary buildings, steam plows, steam threshers, drills, wagons, tools, fences, and everything necessary to operate the said 10,000 acres. In addition, the Company is to pay to the Canadian Pacific Railway Company and the other vendors of the said lands $50,000 in yearly installments of $10,000 each, being the balance of the purchase money.

These lands are capable of producing, at a fair estimate, 30 bushels to the acre of the best wheat produced in the world, or a total capacity of 300,000 bushels per year. Owing to the rich, prolific nature of the Northwestern Canadian soil, this product can be duplicated each year indefinitely. The Company's property will always be equipped with all the latest improved steam plows, drills, threshers, and necessary machinery to produce wheat at the lowest cost. It is the intention of the Company to have its own elevator, of a capacity sufficient to store its entire production, thus enabling them to take advantage of the highest market prices from time to time. The market for wheat is the same as for gold—it is unlimited.

The Company also has an option on 10,000 additional acres of the same character of wheat land as the 10,000 acres above mentioned, the property being located seven miles from the Canadian Pacific Railway, where large elevators are ready to receive the product.

This is an investment that will enhance in value as time goes by, not only from the large production of wheat, but the increased value of the Company's lands from year to year.

APPROXIMATE EARNINGS OF THE COMPANY

Are Estimated as Follows:

The average yield of wheat in Western Canada varies but little under all conditions. In some years the average has been over thirty-five bushels per acre. Many individual cases report as high as forty-five and even fifty-five bushels to the acre. But, taking the lowest average, there is no industry that will produce better profits. Owing to the modern steam machinery and economical methods employed in cropping, harvesting, threshing and marketing, as well as the especial ease with which in the prairie country of Western Canada, wheat is produced, there is always a splendid profit. The cost of raising an acre of wheat, being placed by farmers and experts at about $5.00 per acre, there have been cases in the past few years where as much as $35.00 has been realized, less the cost of $5.00, leaving a net profit of $30.00 per acre.

A safe and conservative estimate of the Company's earnings, taken much below the above figures, is herewith given:

APPROXIMATE YEARLY STATEMENT.

Estimated Surplus, after payment of Dividends				37,500
				$180,000

ESTIMATED NET PROFITS PER YEAR.

It will be seen that, after paying the expenses of raising wheat on 10,000 acres, amounting to $50,000 each year, and paying $10,000 per year to the Canadian Pacific Railway (for 5 years) as yearly payments on the property, it is estimated there will still remain a profit of $120,000 per year, or over 20 per cent. per annum on the stock issued.

TREASURY ASSETS.

The Company now have, after paying the 60,000 shares to the owners for the lands, improvements and equipment, 140,000 shares still in the Treasury, the same being set aside as a Treasury Fund. 50,000 of these shares are now being offered for subscription in Canada and England, and are to be sold for the purpose of taking up the option, and acquiring the 10,000 acres of new wheat territory, and the equipment of the same, together with working capital.

By acquiring the additional 10,000 acres, making 20,000 in all to be owned and operated by the Company, the profits will be more than doubled, or over 40 per cent. on the 110,000 shares of stock issued.

The balance of 90,000 shares will be held as an asset of the Company, which can be sold when required for extending the operations of the Company.

DIVIDENDS.

Dividends of, say, 15 percent. per year, it is estimated, can be paid semi-annually, December 1st and June 1st of each year. Outside of the amount paid in dividends, the surplus earnings will be accumulated, and will either be divided among the shareholders as extra dividends, or used to purchase new wheat territory; or be otherwise employed as may be hereafter determined.

WESTERN CANADA

is fast becoming the Eldorado of Great Britain. Its wheat lands will create more wealth than all the gold and diamond mines of the Empire. The failure of a crop is unknown. (See the report of Hon. Clifford Sifton, Minister of the Interior, Canada, extracts of which are published in the prospectus of this Company.) The wheat of Western Canada is well known to be extremely Hard No. 1, the best quality grown in the world; the yield also being considerably more per acre than in the United States. The sub-soil throughout the intense heat of summer is kept moist by the slow melting of the deep winter frosts, the moisture ascending to the surface and moistening the roots of the grain, thus stimulating growth and producing a bountiful crop.

DEMAND FOR WHEAT.

The demand for wheat from England alone is over 180,000,000 bushels per year, and from other European countries about 200,000,000 bushels, most of which is obtained from the United States, but of a poorer quality than can and will be furnished by Canada. The Canadian Pacific Railway runs within easy hauling distance of the property and is doing everything in its power to increase wheat raising.

A RELIABLE INVESTMENT.

This Company has an advantage over other industrial enterprises through the fact that while the Company's earnings from its wheat products will be constantly growing, and advancing the price of the Company's shares, the land of the Company is continually enhancing in value; creating a double source of values.

There is no business in the commercial world so profitable as raising wheat, and the investment is as safe as first-class Railroad Bonds, for the reason that the land and improvements of the Company are always a security for its shares, besides its ability to raise immensely profitable crops. The possibilities of this Company are unlimited, as the surplus earnings can be devoted to the acquisition of additional wheat lands, thereby increasing the earning capacity of the Company and lowering the average cost of production.

Owing to the intrinsic value of the property of this Company, and its estimated vast earning power, a rapid advance in the price of these shares will doubtless take place, and we confidently expect that this issue of 50,000 shares will be largely over-subscribed.

SUBSCRIPTION TERMS.

The full amount of $5.00 per share must accompany the order. The right is reserved to allot a smaller number of shares than the amount subscribed for, in which event the balance of the money will be returned with the shares allotted.

Application will be made for a settlement of these shares on the London, Montreal and Toronto Stock Exchanges in due course.

EVANGELISTIC SERVICES

Increasing Interest Being Manifested in the Meetings

THE BUSINESS MEN MEET

Mr. D. W. Dumble Delivers an Interesting Address at Noon Meeting

Rev. Mr. Kerby Speaks at Afternoon Gathering and Rev. Mr. Turk Delivers a Powerful Discourse at Night

The business men's meeting in the Y.W.C.A. hall at 10 a.m. was well attended. It was conducted by Mr. D. W. Dumble, who gave an able, instructive address.

THE AFTERNOON MEETING.

The meeting, at three in the afternoon, was held in the George street conducted by the Rev. Mr. Kerby. The subject was, "The average Christian." In characterizing the average Christian, he said; First, that self was the pivot on which all thought revolved. He was a narrow, selfish, undeveloped man. Second, the average Christian did not know what it was to suffer for righteousness sake, or deny himself of any luxury that others might be helped.

THE EVENING MEETING

The Rev. Mr. Turk conducted the services in the evening, and preached a powerful sermon. His subject was "How one man was lost and found." His text found in Luke 19 and 10. "For the Son of Man is come to seek and save that which was lost."

The evangelist said, in part, these are among the sweetest words that ever fell from the lips of the Saviour, uttered after he had gone to be a guest of Zachcheus, the publican. At that time it served a three fold purpose. They were a reply to the cruel taunt of the Pharisees; that he had gone to be the guest of a sinner. It was an answer to their objection 'For as much as he also is a son of Abraham." Lastly they serve to encourage a new convert. For the sequel shows that Zachcheus not only received Jesus into his house; but into his heart as his Saviour.

If these word were ever true, they are true to-night. Notice how Zachcheus was lost. First, he was lost through the love of money. He was a taxgatherer, and was rich, and no man in his business could get rich rapidly and do it honestly.

The great evil of this age is the haste to get rich.

Second, he was lost through a bad business.

Third, he was hard and unsympathetic towards others, who had committed grievous wrong.

Fourth, he has lost (if he ever possessed) the sense of the presence of God. His God is an absolute God.

Fifth, he does not take time for the culture of soul life. Room for business; Room for pleasure; But for Christ the Crucified not a place where he can enter the heart, for whom he died.

Rome's system of taxgathering was infamous. She formed her taxes. That is she appointed taxgatherers who were bound to return a certain amount to their own government, and were permitted to extort over and above that amount for themselves; and like many a modern extortioner, they went in for margins.

It is impossible for any man to live above his business.

Though Zachcheus was rich he was not happy, for I read, "He sought to see Jesus who he was." No man ever wanted to see Jesus who was contented with his present life. The seeking sinner and the seeking Saviour meet. Zachcheus was seeking for Jesus and Jesus was seeking for him.

I read also that he received Jesus joyfully, also that he received Jesus just as he was. The grasping publican was saved just as he was, for Jesus said, "This day is salvation come to thy house."

If we are ever saved it will be just as we are. Remember that if we are dissatisfied and unhappy and desire to see Jesus; the same loving Saviour who sought and saved the little publican of Jerico, is seeking for us.

The evangelists said to your reporter that the evening services were growing wonderfully in interest. Very many workers had responded to their appeal for help. The pastors and Christian people of the different congregations are working together with wonderful unanimity and hearty good will.

The evangelists wish to express their unbounded thankfulness for the interest and support they received from the press of Peterborough.

They are looking forward with intense earnestness to the Sunday afternoon meeting in the opera house which will be conducted by the Rev tism, he said. First, that self was the Mr Turk. The subject will be "The church and the working man."

A Canadian Investment

We beg to call the attention of our readers to the subscription offer, published elsewhere in this issue of the British-Canadian Wheat Raising Company. It will be observed that the Company consists of some of the leading men in Canada, and that the financial standing and earning capacity of the Company are something seldom seen in an issue of shares. This Company's future is absolutely assured. It is predicted by men who know that these shares will undoubtedly command a high premium in a very short time. It is the intention of the Company to have the shares listed on the various exchanges shortly after the subscription for the same is closed.

Inasmuch as only a limited amount of these shares will be offered to the public, and it is confidently expected that they will be largely over-subscribed, but we are given to understand by the Treasurer that those subscribing first will be given the preference.

—There passed away at "Fort Cottage," Port Huron, Mich., on 12th instant, Charlotte, daughter of the late Col. Robert Brown, formerly of Peterborough. Interment took place at the cemetery, Rice Lake, on Saturday last. Col. Brown was a Waterloo hero.

—The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Dugan will deeply sympathize with them in the death of their darling little one, who passed away on Monday night. Interment took place yesterday.

WEDDED AT ST. PETER'S

Nuptials of Miss Mary Slattery and Mr. Michael O'Brien

Yesterday morning at eight o'clock a very pretty wedding was solemnized in St. Peter's cathedral, when Miss May Slatterly, daughter of Mr. Thos. Slatterly, of Ashburnham, and Mr. Michael O'Brien, of Ashburnham, were united in the holy bonds of matrimony. Rev. Father John O'Brien performed the ceremony. Miss Lorene Sullivan, of Toronto, fulfilled the duties of bridesmaid, while Mr. Wm. McCormick, of Peterborough, acted as best man. Mr. and Mrs. O'Brien will take up residence in Ashburnham.

DIED UNEXPECTEDLY

Mrs. Michael Ryan Expired Very Suddenly Yesterday Morning

A very sudden death occurred yesterday morning at the home of Mr. Michael Ryan, 199 Dalhousie street, when the wife and mother passed away. The immediate cause of death was heart trouble, with which Mrs. Ryan had been afflicted for some time past, but her condition seemed to continue normal, and nothing serious was apprehended. Her death therefore comes as a very great bereavement to the sorrowing husband and six children who are left to mourn her loss.

The funeral will take place to-morrow morning to St. Peter's cathedral, and thence to the Roman Catholic cemetery.

CRESSMAN'S BIG DAY

Enormous Crowds Attend the Big Fire Sale

Yesterday morning from an early hour throngs of people crowded the stores of Mr. A. C. Cressman. Shortly after 10 o'clock the doors had to be locked, the crush was so great. It was estimated that there was nearly as many more as attended the opening day of Mr. Fair's fire sale on Monday.

This is accounted for from the fact hat Mr. Cressman used the advertising columns of The Times in making the announcement of his sale. Merchants are beginning to realize that fully one half the purchasing community can be reached ONLY through the medium of this journal. That this is true has been proven over and over again.

THE LATE MRS. EAKINS

Death of an Old and Esteemed Resident o Manvers

We regret to record the death of Mrs. Martha Eakins, at the advanced age of 78 years, at the residence of her son, Mr. James Eakins, 227 Aylmer street, yesterday morning.

Deceased had been a resident of Manvers for 40 years and was a lifelong Presbyterian. About two weeks ago Mrs. Eakins moved to town and in so doing contracted a cold which resulted in her death. Mrs. Eakins, who was a most highly respected member of the community in which she resided, was predeceased by her husband nine years ago. To the sorrowing relatives and friends the sympathy of their numerous friends in town is extended in this the hour of their bereavement.

The funeral will take place Thursday morning from Pontypool station on the arrival of the C.P.R.

WAVING AMERICAN FLAGS

Objection to the Methods of Travelling Theatre Companies

Yesterday a well known citizen said to The Times: "I wish the press would put a stop to the habit of American theatre companies of displaying American flags during their performances. Toronto won't have it, and Peterborough is not less loyal than the Queen City. On Monday evening there was a sickening display of Yankee flags. I am surprised hat such exhibitions are tolerated."

The Times agrees with the above in the main. It would not be healthy for a Canadian company to make the Union Jack a feature of a performance on the other side of the line. In fact, the waving of the British ensign before an American audience would have the same effect as the shaking of a red flag before a vicious bull.

Mr. Bradburn, the manager of the opera house, should see that there is no more of it.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

—Ex-Reeve Gallow, of Apsley, is in town on business.

—Miss Eakins, of Manvers Station, is spending a few days in town.

—Rev. J. G. Lewis, of Newtonville, is in town, the guest of friends.

—Mr. W. J. Ferguson is making a short visit in town.

—Ex-Alderman Andrew McNeil is in town renewing old acquaintances.

—Mr. Dickson Davidson leaves for Toronto to-day, where he will spend a few days.

—Mr. Robert Ruddy, barrister, Millbrook, was in town yesterday on business.

—Miss Margaret Sullivan and Miss Frank Shannon are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Angus McPherson.

—Rev. E. A. Langfeldt delivered a lecture yesterday in Lakefield to the boys of Rev. Mr. McKenzie's school. His subject was "Life in the German Army."

—Rev. W. S. Barker, of Dunville, is visiting his daughter, Mrs. H. P. Kennedy, Aylmer street. The rev. gentleman was pastor of the Gilmour Memorial church for a number of years, and is meeting a great number of his former parishioners, who are, it is needless to say, very pleased to see him.

LITTLE LOCAL LINES

—It was another snapper last night, the thermometer registering this morning ten below zero.

—The twenty first annual session of the Grand Council of Ontario was held in Cobourg yesterday.

A case which created considerable interest was tried at Warkworth on Saturday night before Mr. John Miller, J.P. It appears that a number of the poundkeepers of the township of Percy have been very lenient in sending in their yearly reports and although notified by the clerk after both sessions of the township council held in January still failed to do so. A test case was taken against Wm Love who resides near Warkworth, and he was fined one dollar and costs.

The burnished plumage of the peacock owes its brilliancy and splendor to a healthful condition. Let the bird be sickly, and the plumage droops and grows dull. There is no exception in nature to the rule that beauty depends on health.

Women who see their beauty waning rarely associate the external change with failure of the womanly health. They do not understand the close relation of the general physical health to the health of the delicate womanly organism, until after being cured of womanly diseases by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription they find the color returning to the cheek and the flesh to the body.

"Favorite Prescription" establishes regularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness.

"Several years ago I was very poorly," writes Mrs. May Kelley, of Sylvia, Kans., "so weak I could hardly walk across the floor, and at times suffered severely. I took two bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and got well and have gained twelve pounds in two months and was the picture of health. Your medicines have cured me. Almost everybody I meet says, 'You look so much better than you have for several years; you look well now.'"

"Favorite Prescription" makes weak women strong, sick women well. Accept no substitute for the medicine which works wonders for weak women.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are a lady's laxative. Nothing equals them for gentleness and thoroughness.

TOWN COUNCIL

is estimated the Peterborough Sugar Company would pay them for beets $24,000 the first year; this would materially increase each following year. If an attempt was made by the Sugar Trust to swamp the Canadian industry, extra protection could readily be secured from the Government.

Ald. Best thought that we should have under contract at least one-half the acreage necessary to carry on the factory before submitting this proposition to the ratepayers.

In reply to Alderman McWilliams, Mr. Bradburn said he would like the bylaw submitted as soon as possible so that the company could save the duty which goes on sugar machinery after the first of April next.

Mr. Poussette added that small syndicates are being formed to grow 100 acres, and he was confident that 800 acres would be secured in this way outside of the land under contract by individual farmers. The company are themselves prepared to lease about 1000 acres on which to grow beets.

In reply to Ald. Morrison, Mr. Garvin remarked that the plant in the Berlin factory is not only machinery discarded in Germany, but new machinery manufactured by the best construction companies in the United States.

Mr. Poussette in reply to Ald. Best said that there is no part of Ontario inferior to Michigan for growing the beets.

No definite action was decided on and Council adjourned.

The T. A. S. Defeat Fenelon Falls by 7-2

About 100 supporters accompanied the T.A.S. hockey team to Fenelon Falls last night, by special train, to witness the team bring down defeat upon the Fenelon Falls hockey team. A large crowd witnessed the game which was a good exhibition of fast hockey.

The half time score was 3 to 0 in favor of the T.A.S., and at the expiration of time 7 to 2.

For the T.A.S. Crowley, Lynch, Meaghar and McCoy should be specially mentioned, but every player struck the gait from the start, and played a winning game.

Tonight's match between the Bank of Commerce team, of the Toronto Senior Bank League, and the local Ontario Bank team promises to be one of the best of the season. The teams will be;

Commerce—Goal, Strange; point, Wright; cover point, Dunsford; forwards, Griggs, Morrison, Bassette, Edmunds.

Ontario—Goal, Sewers; point, Hollingshead; cover point, H. Armstrong; forwards, Ferguson, R. Armstrong, Bloomfield, McFarlane.

The Commerce is bringing down a strong team for this game. Morrison of the Bank of B. N. A., and of last years U. O. C., is on the line up. The game is called for 8.30.

ANOTHER WAR CLOUD IN SOUTH AMERICA

Germany Will Not Weaken Her Fleet in the Southern Seas

DEMANDS ON COLOMBIA

Will be Enforced as Soon as the Venezuelan Troubles are Settled

New York, Feb. 18.—The Herald's Berlin special correspondent says: "Germany has no intention of withdrawing or reducing her fleet in South American waters with the abandonment of the Venezuelan blockade and peaceful settlement of German claims against the Republic. On the contrary, representations will now be made to enforce the payment of debts from Brazil and Colombia.

"Barely has the cloud of the Venezuelan affair passed away when another rises in the form of German demands upon Colombia, which may bring about special complications, owing to negotiations for the construction of the Panama Canal by the United States. Germany is prone to regard with jealous eye the acquisition of the Panama Canal by the United States, and fears successful commercial competition of the Yankees when that waterway is controlled and completed by the Washington Government. Instead of modifying its aggressive South American policy, the German Government proposes to make it still more vigorous.

THE BIG SCHEME ON IN AUSTRALIA

It is Proposed to Build a Railway to Equal our Canadian Pacific

An Enormous Land Subsidy in Quantity but of Apparently Very Doubtful Quality

New York, Feb. 19—A Melbourne correspondent of the Times gives some details concerning a great railroad scheme which has been conceived by the government of South Australia, and which is of such a character as to arouse interest whether vast projects of the sort have been undertaken. The contemplated line would be 1,200 miles in length, and would connect with existing lines so as to form a through route from the south to the north coast.

Before considering the scheme further it should be said that South Australia is a misnomer, the state being the central one of the island continent, and forming a relatively narrow strip running from north to south. Its extreme limits lengthwise are 25 degrees of latitude apart, or say seventeen hundred miles. The new railroad, therefore, would traverse the greater part of the distance and open up the central portions of the territory.

In carrying out its plans the government does not propose to act as railroad builder, but it invites tenders from promoting and constructing syndicates. It is calculated that the cost of the work will be about $30,000,000, and in return for this expenditure the syndicate will be given 75,000 acres of land for every mile of road completed, or a total of 90,000,000 acres, and the right also to all the minerals that may be found within the limits of the land concession. It is stated further that the offer is open to the syndicates of all nations, and a government pamphlet assures moneyed men everywhere that here is "a magnificent opportunity for the capitalist to embark in one of the really great undertakings with a golden future in prospect yet left to the world to be achieved."

But a consultation of South Australia and statistics would indicate that the capitalist would have to take a pretty long shot. The vast interior is nearly all a desert, and the average density of population for the entire territory is only one to three square miles, while the increase of population for the last ten years was only 13 per cent. The mineral wealth so far discovered consists principally of copper and silver, and has not been of great value, and though wheat and stock are raised in considerable quantity the drought makes agriculture a dubious venture.

Smart, Canadian Deputy Minister of the Interior, after conferring with Commissioner Preston, will make a tour of the industrial centres of Great Britain and impart increased momentum to British emigration to Canada. He finds the machinery of the Emigration Offices well oiled and running smoothly, and expects great results from the visits and explanations of the farmers of Manitoba and the North-West and forecasts an unparalleled exodus of British colonists of the best working stock.

A SUCCESSFUL HUNT FOR A MURDERER

The Puzzling Case in Iowa Said to be about to be Solved

CRIME WAS A FOUL ONE

The Husband and Wife Killed as they lay Helpless at Home in Bed.

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 18— After sixteen days of work, months after the crime, a Minneapolis detective has woven a net which bids fair to entangle in its meshes the perpetrator of one of the foulest crimes ever committed in Iowa.

Last August Jesse and Martha Tumman, husband and wife, were murdered in their home, seven miles from Muscatine, Ia. One Williams was suspected of the crime, but months went on, and the authorities were unable to make any headway in the case.

The county attorney and the county commissioners at Muscatine finally retained the Baxter detective agency, of this city, to take the matter up, and Mr. Baxter assumed personal charge of the case. He returned to Minneapolis last night and expressed himself as perfectly confident that the murderer of the Tummans would feel the grip of the law before many weeks.

"I learned that the couple had been seen going toward their home the night of the thirteenth of August," said he. "Saturday the bodies were found. They lived in a two-room house about half a mile from the main traveled road, down in a hollow. In one of the rooms the man was found still clinging to life, though unable to speak. He lay on a cot and there were three axe wounds in his forehead. He had had evidently been struck as he slept. Owing to the low ceiling, the blows were delivered sideways.

"After receiving the death wounds the victim evidently had arisen and groped around the room, for the walls showed bloody hand prints, and there were bare footmarks in the blood which covered the floor. The mattress was soaked with blood. The woman's body was found about 125 yards up the hill, where she had evidently been struck while fleeing from the murderer of her husband, judging from the shape of the wound at the back of her head.

"Another blow, which completely crushed in the top of her skull had evidently been delivered as she lay on on the ground. Further up the hill was found a dress, which she had probably carried from the house with her when she fled in her chemise, and which had most likely been torn from her hand by the murderer in his fury. The ax, covered with blood and hair, was found near the main road in a clump of bushes.

"The man lived until Monday, but was able to do no more than raise his hand. His face was so clotted with blood that he almost smothered to death. It is thought from the condition of the woman's body that the crime was committed the evening of the thirteenth or thereabouts.

"I discovered that the woman had been married twice before she married Tumman, who was a clammer and woodchopper. She had been divorced and widowed. A man named Williams who appears to have been something of a mystery in the neighborhood, had been stopping at the house of the Tummans for several weeks, but was not seen after the murder. The deduction is that it was he who committed the crime, and that he did it in a moment of jealousy. I have laid my plans for capturing him, and have reasons for believing that I will be successful."

Canton Han Kow Railway

New York, Feb. 17—The Shanghai correspondent of The Times says that the preliminary work from the northern terminus of Canton Han Kow Railway is about to begin. The American China Development Company have despatched twenty engineers, half working from Yo Chow south, and half from Siang Tan northward who will definitely locate the line.

THE POPE'S NEPHEWS

They Derive No Distinctive Advantages by Reason Thereof

Rome, Feb. 18—The appointment of Count Camillo Pecci, the youngest of the Pope's three nephews, as general of the papal noble guard has led to the publication of misinformation respecting the family of the pontiff, which is a cause of annoyance at the vatican. It has been repeatedly stated by the pope that his nephews will only inherit what came to him from his father, and that all his other belongings, including the gifts of his several jubilees, which represent nearly $700,000 are to remain with the holy see.

The nephews of the pope derived no titled distinction or pecuniary advantage from his elevation to the tiara. They are counts by hereditary right, and, except occasional presents of no great value, they receive nothing from their uncle. All of them live quiet, retired lives.

Ludovico resides at Carpineto, where he administers the family property, and is hardly ever seen in Rome.

Riccardo owns an estate at Maenza, but generally spends his summers with the elder brother in the Pecci palace at Carpineto.

The youngest nephew, Camillo, who married a rich Cuban lady, resides at Rome, in order to discharge his duties as an officer of the papal guard.

SHE ELOPED WITH A MARRIED MAN

Escapade of a young Girl who Has Created a Sensation

THE MAN HAS SIX CHILDREN

The Police are on the Lookout for the Pair who will at Once be Arrested

Galt, February, 18 — The home of Samuel Kievel, at Lynden, is desolate and the residents of the little village are very much worked up—all because pretty Sophia Kievel, sweet seventeen, has run away with a married man and the father of several children. The man who has thus been false to his marriage vows and an offender against all that is good is James Murray, son of Robt. Murray, long a resident of Lynden, but whose home is at High Bluff, Man., with a business establishment at Portage la Prairie. James Murray came to his old home a short while ago, and the elopement is the result.

What makes the affair more mysterious to the villagers is the fact that the two were not seen together prior to last Thursday night, when they bade Lynden a long farewell and fled, no one knows whither. Miss Kieval was employed by Mrs. Firman Clement, whose husband is Lynden's postmaster, and the evening she left it with Murray she went home, bade her people good-bye and said she was going back to Mrs. Clement. Later she joined Murray and the two drove to Dundas.

By the time they arrived in the Valley town, it was rather late, and they could not get into any of the hotels, until they reached John D. Harrigan's hostelry, where they registered as man and wife. Next morning they traveled on without the horse and buggy, but no one knows what direction they took. That day, Henry Murray, the eloper's uncle, went to Dundas in search of the missing ones, but found only the horse and rig, which he took home.

Nothing having been heard of the two, Miss Kievel's father and mother came to the city this morning and consulted the police. They were much troubled over their daughter's act.

James Murray is 36 years old, is 5 feet, six inches tall and is the father of five or six children.

The foolish girl is 17 years of age, 5 feet 6 inches in height, has blue eyes, light hair, and rosy cheeks, and wears No. 6 boots.

GREAT WHEAT CROPS

Western Canada the Most Attractive to Those Looking for a Permanent Investment

An opportunity to make money! That's what Western Canada stands for today. The awakening of her great future, as "the wheat field of the world," is so recent that the speculator does not have to hunt his opportunities but finds them waiting for him. Manitoba no longer marks the limit of Canada's Commercial West. Authorities say that for three hundred miles west of that province the prairie is equally as fertile and the strenuous efforts of both the Canadian Pacific, Grand Trunk and Canadian Northern Railways are making it equally as accessible. For years the plains of Western Canada have been regarded as a wilderness. The experience of the past few years have revealed the real facts to the ignorant, however, and the fame of her great wheat crops, which averaged 25 to 35 bushels per acre, and amounted to 68-000,000 bushels in the past year, has assured her future in the mind of the agricultural world. The best conditions for raising the best wheat in the world, good climate, and all requisites for a rapid development, make Western Canada very attractive, not only to the man who would send his money there although he cannot go himself, but to the settler who is looking for a future home. The great corporations, such as the British-Canadian Wheat Raising Co., which are being organized for the purpose of raising wheat on an extensive scale, are practically certain of the large returns they are looking for.

SUICIDE IN WIFE'S PRESENCE

Was Angered Because Bride of Four Months Had Left Him

New York, Feb. 18—Crazed because his life would not live with him, Max Schreiber, 22 years old, of East Rutherford, killed himself today. He drank carbolic acid and, as the fluid began to work, dashed into the room where his wife and mother were sitting and fired two shots into his body just below the heart, causing instant death.

The couple had been married only four months. They began housekeeping in Hoboken, but disagreed and separated. Several times Sobreiber asked his wife to return to him but she refused.

Last night he made one of his periodical visits and told his wife that unless she returned to him he would shoot her and himself. This morning before 8 o'clock he was at the house again and when she again refused to return killed himself.

HOME LIFE ASSOCIATION

Satisfactory Reports Presented at the Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of the Home Life Association was held at their head office, Home Life building, Toronto, Feb. 16th. The annual report shows a marked and satisfactory increase in every respect during the year 1902. The purchase of the Home Life Building for the head office of the company has been found a satisfactory investment. Applications for insurance to the amount of $1,471,500 were received, and policies issued for $1,371,000, the balance being pending or declined. The insurance in force at the close of the year was $3,267,167, under 2,558 policies. The new insurance shows an increase of 108 per cent. over the previous year. The cash premiums increased from $72,251.17 to $93,654.78, or 28 per cent., with a decrease in mortality expense of 31 per cent. in proportion to insurance in force. The legal reserves of the association taken upon the new standard recently adopted by the Government, 3 1-2 Hm. amount to $271,858.60, showing that the Company have added to this amount for the protection of policyholders the sum of $69,653.41 during the year. The assets for the protection of policyholders at the close of the year amounted to $1,247,505.78. The retiring Board of Directors were unanimously re-elected. The following officers were elected:—President, Hon. R. Harcourt; First Vice-President, Mr. John Firstbrook; Second Vice-President, Mr. John S. King; Managing Director, Mr. A. J. Pattison.

WHO IS RESPONSIBLE FOR THE BLOCKADE OF VENEZUELA?

The New York Sun Says Great Britain took the Iniative

BECAME SICK OF IT

And Was Glad to Get Out of An Ugly Scrape

New York, Feb. 17—The Sun, referring to the Venezuelan affair, says: Now that the blockade of Venezuela is on the point of being raised it may be well to dispel a current misconception regarding the circumstances under which the Anglo-German demonstration was concerted. It has been taken for granted in many quarters that the joint application of force to the Caracas Government was proposed by Germany and arranged during the Emperor William's visit to his uncle, Edward VII., at Sandringham. A Blue Book recently published by the British Foreign Office shows that this assumption is ill founded. The proposal came, not from Berlin, but from London.

It should be borne in mind that Emperor William's visit to Sandringham took place in November. Now it appears from the Blue Book that, as long ago as July 22, Lord Lansdowne, the British Minister for Foreign Affairs wrote, with reference to the British claims against Venezuela to Mr. Buchanan, the British representative at Berlin, that "we should be quite ready to confer with the German Government with a view to joint action." On Aug. 14 the Admiralty wrote to the Foreign Office that they would be prepared to establish a blockade of Venezuela "on the understanding that the blockade would be deferred until November when the unhealthy season is over." This letter from the Admiralty shows why no action was taken until after the Emperor's visit. On Nov. 27 Vice-Admiral Douglas wrote to the Admiralty acknowledging a letter directing him to be "in readiness to carry out a naval demonstration off the coast of Venezuela in conjunction with ships of the Imperial German Navy." Early in November Lord Lansdowne several times saw the German Ambassador with reference to the subject and on Nov. 11 and 17 he wrote to Mr. Buchanan concerning the terms of "the joint execution of measures of coercion," which in August had been postponed until November. These dates and facts conclusively demonstrate that the National Review was right when it asserted that, not the Kaiser's visit, but Lord Lansdowne should be held accountable for "the Venezuela mess."

It was then, the British Foreign Office which really initiated the joint demonstration against Venezuela, which led to some deplorable incidents and has occasioned great uneasiness on the part of the American people. It must, on the other hand, be admitted that the species of alliance with Germany, invited by Lord Lansdowne, provoked such a storm of disapprobation in Great Britain that the Foreign Office became heartily sick of its project. But Lord Lansdowne has not found it easy to escape from the bonds of his own forging. He showed himself willing some time ago to raise the blockade in consideration of a cash payment of $27,500, and an agreement to refer the question of preferential treatment for the allies to the international court of arbitration at The Hague. Germany, however, has rejected these terms, on the ground that the advance payment of $27,500 was inadequate, and has insisted that Venezuela shall give her $340,000 in five equal monthly instalments, the first to be paid on March 15. That is to say, before the question of preferential treatment can be decided by The Hague Tribunal, Germany will have received in cash more than twelve times as much as either of her allies. Honors are even between Great Britain and Germany as regards the arrangements made for adjusting the claims not already adjudicated. The Powers seem to have been equally willing that their claims should be referred, not to The Hague court of arbitration, but to commissions, and that in the event of disagreement on the part of any of these commissions, an umpire should be appointed by President Roosevelt. This concession seems to indicate that both Germany and England desire to conciliate public opinion in the United States, and that they are both pretty well convinced that the attempt to collect by force the debts due by Venezuela was hardly worth the risk of provoking the ill-will of the American people. It will be some time, we imagine, before another European blockade of a Latin American Republic is undertaken. As for Lord Lansdowne we doubt whether his tardy repentance and naive surprise at the unpleasant outcome of a scheme, which he seems to have framed with a light heart, will save him from a severe rebuke on the reassembtalon.

INDIANA GRAVE ROBBERS

Jury Eight to Four to Acquit the Accused Physician

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 18—After being out forty-eight hours the jury in the case of Dr. J. C. Alexander, charged with grave offences, failed to reach an agreement, and was discharged at 10 o'clock yesterday morning. On the final ballots the vote stood eight for acquittal and four for conviction. The attorneys for the state have not decided what they will do.

PAUPERISM SAID TO BE ON THE DECLINE

Very Encouraging Figures Submitted from Reliable English Source

They are the Lowest in Forty Years. Alien Immigration Swells London Returns

London, Feb. 18—The heavily burdened ratepayer will be pleased to hear that the latest returns bear witness to a declining tendency in pauperism. According to the half yearly statement of the Local Government Board, the proportion of paupers was lower in 1902 than it has been in any year since 1862, with the exception of only two years—1900 and 1901.

In 1862 the ratio of paupers was 45.5 per 1,000 of the population. In 1872 it had dropped to 38.0 per 1,000; in 1882 it was 28.9; in 1892 it was 25.0 and in 1902 it was 21.2. In outdoor pauperism the report says there are signs of a general decrease, particularly in the unions outside London.

Compared with the years 1899, 1900 and 1901 the pauper statistics for 1902 show a slight all-round increase, but that the tendency of modern times is towards steady decrease in pauperism is evidenced by the fact that, with the exception of those three years the figures for 1902 are lower than in any of the years from 1862 to 1899.

Insane paupers, however, are more numerous than ever. In 1902 there were 99,769 of this class in England and Wales, of which number 16,916 were in London asylums. In 1862 there were 31,750 insane; but in the interval the country's population has increased by over one-third.

London pauperism is relatively always higher than elsewhere, owing, doubtless, to the tendency of "undesirables" to gravitate to the metropolis. These latest figures show that one in every thirty-eight Londoners is in receipt of pauper relief compared to one in every forty-one in the country.

How much London's high pauper rate is due to alien influx it is not possible to determine from this report as not a word is said in it on that all-important head. In 1902 there were 64,997 indoor and 40,953 outdoor paupers registered in London. If the report told us how many of these were aliens and how many Britishers we should probably get some illuminating information.

THE BERLIN SUGAR FACTORY CLOSES SEASON'S CAMPAIGN

A Wonderful Tonic and Strengthener

Said a druggist today. "No doubt about it, the tonic that gives best results is the biggest seller, and that is Ferrozone. It enriches and purifies the blood, restores strength and energy to the feeble and is a scientific reconstructor that was always popular. In Chlorosis, Anaemia, Tiredness, Languour, Brain Fag, Indigestion and Dyspepsia its action is prompt, and satisfactory cures always follow. Yes, I recommend Ferrozone to my customers because I believe it is the best tonic and strengthening medicine that money can buy." Large boxes cost 50c.

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills the Greatest Wonder of the Age

Editor of the Morning Times:

Sir,—I am only too pleased to write a letter to the press, as I firmly believe that all who suffer from rheumatism or any troubles of the blood can get sure and certain relief. I was ill for many years, and am now entirely well. Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills are without doubt the greatest wonder of the age in medicine. They cured me, and I know they will cure others who are even worse than I was. I write this of my own accord in the hope that it will do some good. Evans Blair, G. T. R. News Agent, Union Station, Toronto.

A. R. Legge, Stanstead, Que., writes "Six boxes of Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills entirely cured me of indigestion after years of torture."

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills are positive and certain cure for rheumatism, asthma, paralysis, coughs, lame back, indigestion, all stomach and liver troubles, female complaints, even when the diseases have been standing for many years; the most stubborn cases will yield. Sold by Ormond & Walsh, Peterborough, price 50c. per box.

Not Enough Beets to Keep the Big Mill Going.

Berlin, Feb. 18—The last of the season's beets were sliced at the Berlin Sugar Factory this afternoon. The immense beet sheds, with all the appliances requisite for washing and slicing beets, will be idle, from now until the next season's crops are produced. This immense and costly machinery might just as well be in operation for another month or six weeks, if there was a supply of beets to keep running, says the Berlin Telegraph, which adds: The great superiority of the climate of Ontario is manifest in this particular, compared with California and some other beet sugar producing companies, inasmuch as the beets keep perfectly up till the middle of March, while in most other beet-growing countries the beets begin to deteriorate soon after the new year. The beets sliced this morning at the Sugar Factory were in just as good condition for the manufacture of sugar as those sliced in November of last year. This shows that factories situated in this part of Ontario have the advantage of a longer season for operating by about two months. In consequence of this advantage the Berlin Sugar Factory could manufacture a third more beets into sugar this season if the beets were available. It is evident that a much larger average of beets can be handled this year than was grown last year. As the farmers are becoming more familiar with the cultivation and handling of beets there is reason to believe that many labor-saving devices and less expensive methods in thinning and harvesting will be adopted, thus making beet growing much more remunerative.

U.S. OFFICIALS AT CARACAS LEAGUED WITH CASTRO

Report of the Former British Minister, W. H. D. Haggard--Grave Charges Made

London, Feb. 17.—A blue book on the Venezuelan dispute was issued this evening. The most interesting despatch in the book is an official letter from the former British Minister at Caracas, W.H. D. Haggard, to Foreign Minister Lansdowne, dated Trinidad, December 30, concerning the alleged illegal detention of the British schooner, Harry Troop, by the Venezuelan Government in an unhealthy place from May to November, 1902, whereby the crew were decimated by dysentery. Mr. Haggard says in his letter: "I regret to say that it would appear that I placed too much faith on the complete accuracy of the statements of the Secretary of the United States Legation, W. W. Russell, as to the improvement in the conditions of the Harry Troop, etc., when he saw her. These statement may probably be accounted for by the facts, which appear undoubted, that Mr. Bowen was most anxious for reasons best known to himself, to report the conduct of the Venezuelan authorities in the most favorable light possible, and that he had inspired his subordinate in the same direction. To put it briefly, Mr. Russell did not dare to say a word outside the Legation contrary to President Castro's mode of procedure."

Another noteworthy despatch is Sir Michael Herbert's report to Minister Lansdowne on his disagreement with Mr. Bowen, dated Jan. 29.

London, Feb. 18.—Immediately after the House of Commons returned from the House of Lords yesterday, the Speaker read a letter from the Lord Chief Justice, announcing the conviction and sentence of Mr. Lynch, the member for Galway.

The conviction, of course, vacates the seat, and it seems to be assumed that a new writ will be forthwith issued for the borough of Galway. This, however, is by no means certain. Among the Unionist members there is a strong feeling that the borough of Galway should be punished as well as its member. Some gentlemen would go the length of supporting permanent disfranchisement, but probably the strongest enemies of the Nationalists would regard the suspension of the writ for the rest of the present Parliament as quite sufficient. The decision of the matter rests with the Government. If they determine on suspending the issue of the writ their party will support them. Such a course would, however, bring them into angry conflict with the Nationalists, and in the present position of affairs they may deem it more prudent to avoid a struggle with the Irish party. In any event, a section of the Ministerialists will, however, oppose the issue of a new writ for the borough of Galway.

While "Colonel" Lynch was in Holloway Prison he received his Parliamentary papers and blue-books as regularly as legislators dwelling in Mayfair and Belgravia. When he was transferred from Holloway to Brixton, where most of his time awaiting trial was spent, the Note Office, as the distributing agency of the House of Commons is curiously called, was not notified of his change of address and continued sending his papers to the north instead of the south. It was only when the Governor of Holloway refused to receive them that the matter was put right. It is a debatable point whether the "Colonel" is still entitled to official literature until such time as a new writ for Galway is issued. Meanwhile, one thing is certain—an annual amendment to the address until the "Colonel" is released. Also frequent interrogatories the the Home Secretary as to the state of his health.

London, Feb. 18.—The Times Paris correspondent says that a writer in The Siecle, declares that the Monroe doctrine, as interpreted by the United States, does not accord with the significance given it by its founder. This, the writer says, was not even admitted by Prince Bismarck, who regarded it as an "indescribable impertinence," and says that it is of more importance now in consequence of the Venezuelan conflict and the recognition by the powers, and more particularly by Germany, of the Monroe doctrine in its new and emphasized form, which is even more impertinent than that against which Bismarck protested. The writer regards the signing of the protocols as a triumph for Mr. Bowen, whose conduct of the negotiations leading thereto implied recognition of United States hegemony over the American continent.

THE LARGEST SHIP ON ATLANTIC OCEAN

The Cedric Now en Route to New York from Liverpool

A Description of the New 21,000-ton Nine-decked White Star Liner Cedric

New York, Feb. 19— The largest ocean-going ship ever built will be on view here in a day or two. The vessel which holds this proud distinction is the giant Cedric, of the White Star Line, which sailed from Liverpool Wednesday of last week.

Of course, the principal point of interest in connection with the Cedric is her great dimensions. Her gross tonnage is 21,000 while her displacement figures total 38,200. Her extreme length is 700 feet, her greatest breadth 75 feet, while her depth is 49 1-3 feet. The Cedric is designed to attain a speed of 17 knots (nearly 20 miles an hour.) and is expected to make the transatlantic passage in between seven and eight days. This is not as fast as recent ocean greyhounds go, but it will do pretty well.

There are nine decks on the Cedric. She is built on the cellular double bottom principle, and has numerous water-tight compartments that make her practically unsinkable. She has four masts, and like all the other great White Star liners two massive buff funnels. It may be interesting to note that the distance from the top of the funnels to the keel is 131 feet. The diameter of the funnels is 14 feet 3 inches by 11 feet.

The passenger accommodations are as follows: In the first saloon, 350; in the second saloon, 250, and in the steerage, 2,000. Her crew will number 335, making a total population on board when all the accommodations are taken of 2,935 souls. In addition to the ordinary staterooms their are suites of bed, sitting and bath rooms, enabling those who desire the greatest possible comfort and room to find both aboard the great ship.

Of the various handsome apartments none will be handsomer than the saloon dining room. It is situated on the upper deck, extends the full width (seventy-five feet) of the ship is lofty and airy, beautifully decorated, and has a seating capacity of about 340. The library is another luxuriously appointed room, as is also the smoking room and the various other lounging apartments in both the first and second saloon sections.

With the Cedric, the White Star line will own the two largest vessels in the world, and thirteen ships of over 10,000 tons each.

Bank of Commerce 12 The Ontario Bank 9

The Ontario Bank team met their first defeat last night on the Brock street rink, the winning team being the Bank of Commerce team, of Toronto.

The ice was in good condition, and the spectators witnessed a fair exhibition of hockey. At one stage of the game in the first half the local team led by 4 goals, and at half time the score was 7 to 6 in favor of the Ontario team. Brundrette, who strengthened the Commerce team considerably, broke his skate shortly after the game had commenced, and left the ice until he had secured another skate. This weakened the the visiting team considerably, and the home team lost no time in running up a score. At the expiration of time the score stood 12 to 9 in the visitors favor.

Mr. Ernie Watson made a capital referee.

In the junior O.H.A. the Kingston Beach Grove defeated Varsit II. at Belleville last night by a score of 5 to 4. Mr. Jas. T. McCabe refereed the game.

An Old Investment.

Toronto, Feb. 15—At a recent meeting of Simcoe County Council a couple of members, after search of the official archives, discovered that about 53 years ago the county had invested £50,000 in the Ontario, Simcoe & Huron Railway, under conditions which assured the County a dividend when the road became a paying concern. Some years ago the Northern Railway Co. assumed control, and now the line is a part of the G.T.R. System. The County Council passed a resolution instructing the [illegible] to make a demand on the [illegible] Company for the amount of [illegible] paid dividends.

THE REASONS WHY

Newspaperdom, a journal for the newspaper men prints a little old-straight-from-the-shoulder talk on matters near to our heart. There seems to be a feeling among some business men that a newspaper has no business to make money. Why not? It is the most exacting business in the world, the most trying in every way; it means long hours and the greatest care in its conduct. The newspaper has the entire public to deal with. It is criticised on all occasions. It has to deal with all the cranks in the community, and to do this successfully requires judgment and patience. It has power, and that power, to the credit of journalism, is nearly always yielded for public good. No question of vital concern to the home or people, fails to find a strong support in the home newspaper, and this, too, without remuneration. The publisher spends his money to further these projects and the community never gives a thought to the matter of cost to him if it is not paid out of the public pocket.

THE TARIFF

The manufacturers of Ontario are moving on to Ottawa in the promotion of higher tariff views.

As already explained in The Times a deputation of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association waited upon Premier last week, and the binder twine manufacturers were next in order. Since twine was made duty free it has not been cheapened to the consumer, and the Canadian manufacturers point out that they are badly handicapped by another set of conditions which has arisen of late. Owing to the acquisition of the Philippines by the United States the American binder twine makers are able to get Manila fibre from the Philippines at three-eighths of a cent per pound cheaper than it can be sold to Canadians. This handicap, it is claimed, throws the trade entirely in the hands of the American makers with no corresponding benefit to consumers in Canada.

The representatives of the Canadian manufacturers present the foregoing facts to the administration, it is said, with a strong hope that a protective duty will be placed on twine.

MUNICIPAL CONTROL

Municipal control is making rapid headway in Great Britain. Of street railways one hundred undertakings belong to civic corporations. Twenty-five towns own their own railways, and lease them, but the tendency is for municipal operation. Tramways are operated as well as owned by forty-five municipalities. Edinburgh receives from the street companies annually $200,000 in rentals and has a surplus profit of $25,150 after making sinking fund payment. The main objects are reductions in fares, improvement in the service and symmetrical development of suburbs. In Glasgow civic ownership and control of public utilities is carried farther than in any other city. Last year it had a balance of $586,940 from horse and electric traction alone; of this $62,500 went to the common good after provision had been made for interest, depreciation, general reserve and sinking funds. Liverpool had a balance of $785,890, and nearly every town had a handsome surplus.

NEW TRANSVAAL LIQUOR LAW

The provisions of the new liquor law which has been promulgated in the Transvaal by Lord Milner, will interest the people of Ontario at this time, rightly remarks the Brantford Expositor. By its terms all existing licenses lapse, and all intoxicants containing two per cent. of alcohol come within its scope. It also provides for total prohibition of liquor selling to natives, under heavy penalties. No colored person can secure a license, neither can a person convicted of selling to natives. No selling to persons under 16 is allowed, and bars must be closed on election days and Sundays, the same as here. The law there is more stringent than ours, in that on Good Friday and Christmas Day bars must be closed. No wages can be paid in public houses; there are heavy penalties for serving drunken persons, for permitting gambling or the presence of loose women in licensed places, and the objection of a policeman, resident or representative of a municipality is sufficient to prevent the issue of a license. A court may refuse a license without giving a reason, and no license will be granted near a church, school, or native compound. On requisition of one-tenth of the voters a poll may be taken in any village, ward or municipality, and a bare majority will be sufficient to prohibit the sale of liquor in the locality for three years, or longer, unless the law is repealed. On a similar vote the local authorities or a commission appointed by them, may conduct the liquor taffic, and apply all profits to public improvements, under approval of the Lieutenant-Governor. Taken in connection with the recent restrictive legislation passed in Great Britain, and the success of the temperance vote in New Zealand and Ontario, this new South African Legislation indicates unmistakably the growth of temperance sentiment in the British Empire.

A Cosmopolitan Crowd.

In the absence of the King, the attention of London has turned to the picturesque delegates of royalty from the far corners of the earth who are now in the metropolis. "Never have the streets of London presented so cosmopolitan an appearance," says a London correspondent; "the guests of the nation from the farthermost quarters of the earth have been exploring the empire's capital. Black, yellow and brown faces, surmounting gaudy, fantastic costumes, are met everywhere. Muffled gibbering and a soft, monotonous pattering of feet are heard, and one turns to see a big burly figure in a short, heavy blue coat, under which is suspended a kind of linen apron drawn close around the hips and reaching to the knee, while below are a pair of ebony legs and huge, bare feet. After him come some twenty more, all smiling and chattering, and all similarly attired, each of them carrying a small rattan cane tucked under the right arm in the fashion popular with Tommies. These picturesque men are merely the Fiji police, come to London to do honor to their emperor. Then there are splendid native Indian soldiers, in their picturesque turbans, or puggarees, and glittering buttons. With black, shifting eyes, they stride along like kings, and, to tell the truth, the average London man who walks near them seems ridiculously insignificant. These fighting men, devoid of much that civilisation is supposed to bestow, are superb in their indifference to the gaping crowds. There are also little men from Japan in top-hats; frocked men with round button-like hats from China; skirted and coiffured men from Ceylon; spectacled and much-withered men from the remote Straits Settlement; mild-looking, tawny-complexioned Hindoos, in snowy white robes and pink or red turbans; stout, black-frocked Bengalese, with no head-covering at all; and men from every British colony or dependency, as well as almost every other nation in the world.

"The princes from India, however, have given London its greatest treat. Swathed in costly silks and satins, wearing beautiful turbans bedecked with priceless jewels, they have been the sensation for London's highest as well as its lowest society. Never has a more glittering body of men been seen on horseback than the group of princes who rode behind the Prince of Wales when he reviewed the military contingents from the Indian Empire, and rode through their stolid, impassive ranks. Only quick, stealthy glances betrayed the fact that they were alive and not automatons. These princes were seen to better advantage at the reception given in their honor by Earl and Countess Roberts. The scene was brilliant, the dresses and jewels worn by the princes far outshining the lovely dresses and tiaras of the ladies present. A most delightful air of friendliness prevailed, rajahs conversing most willingly when possible with guests, among them many Anglo-Indians renewing happy acquaintances and recalling pleasant associations. The most impressive figure, perhaps, was that of Colonel Sir Pertab Singh, in uniform of white, laced with gold cords, wearing a turquoise blue turban, with a fawn aigrette. The most impressive group certainly was that of the Maharajah of Jeypour and his followers, whose velvet robes were gold-trimmed, and from whose turbans hung bunches of jewels. Their dignified bearing suggested something distinctly biblical. The historic Maharajah Sindia of Givallore wore a white frock narrowly edged with red. His quaintly shaped turban was red. His necklaces of pearls were worth an emperor's ransom. There were four rows of big round pearls, then a row of long pear-shaped beauties, some more than an inch long and shaped in proportion. The Sultan of Perak wore a dark-blue cloth uniform, with the ribbons of the various orders. His black satin head-dress blazed with the finest diamonds set in most grac-

Author of "The House in the Marsh," "A Prince of Darkness," etc.

"I'm not sure," he said gently, "that the prospect, as you put it, is altogether reassuring."

"Oh, but I shouldn't murder you, if you mean that," said Norma, quickly, but smiling a little. "You wouldn't really be afraid of that, would you?"

And then she turned upon him a look, the first of the kind she had ever given him, eloquent of womanly feeling and charm.

Decidedly she was too good for Bascot! Astley involuntarily came a little nearer, as if to speak low.

"Perhaps not," said he. "But—there's something else I should be afraid of."

She might have known what was coming, but she did not. She met his eyes full, enquiry only in hers.

"And what's that?"

"Why, I might fall in love with you, you know."

The girl laughed almost harshly.

"I wouldn't let you," she said quickly. "I would keep you to the bond. My mother used to say that no man falls in love with a woman without some sort of invitation."

"And you're not afraid," suggested Astley, half amused, and half resentful, "that you might some day be inclined to give the invitation?"

"Not a bit," said Norma, frankly. "I respect you too much. I should be very sorry to see a man I liked sink down into a husband like my uncle, meek in the presence of his wife before other people, a tyrant in private. Or to see him become another sort of husband, openly neglectful and cynical. No, no, no. It's better for a man to feel free."

"Yet not to be free?"

Norma was silent. But there was a deep flush in her cheeks as she looked away, and he saw that he had pained her by the words.

"Look here," he began again, in a humble tone. "I don't quite understand yet what you propose to do, supposing we were to—"

She moved impatiently.

"Oh, don't let us talk any more about it," said she. "Forget that I ever—"

"But I don't want to forget it; I want to talk it out and help you if I can. I want you to tell me, supposing you were to go to the registry office mademoiselle and to come out madame, what would you propose to do?"

"Nothing," said Norma, quickly, "at first, but just to tell them what I had done, so that they would know it was of no use to worry me to marry Robert; and so that they would have to let me have my money."

"I see. But if you proposed to remain with them, surely they would make it more uncomfortable than ever after that?"

"I don't think they could," said Norma. "You see, I should be absolutely my own mistress directly; and instead of doling me out a wretched allowance of a hundred a year, more than half of which I have to pay them as my share of the household expenses, they would be at my mercy, since I could threaten to go away at once, and then my money would go with me. It's all a miserable, sordid affair," she went on restlessly, "but I'm obliged to tell you all, am I not?"

"Yes," said he, "of course you are. Well, you wouldn't stay with them permanently, would you?"

"Oh, no; I should go to London, to the East End, where the poorest people are, and try to do some good there. There are lots of associations, charities, and bodies there for doing good, aren't there?"

"Oh, yes, plenty. They all do good, some to the poor, and some to themselves," said Astley, rather cynically. "I expect I should have my work cut out for me in keeping you out of the hands of rogues, advertising charity-mongers, and such folk."

"You need not worry your head about that," said Norma, superbly. "I've given up all idea of this, and I quite agree with you that I was mad to speak of it."

"Now, don't be nasty. I only wanted you to understand what you were doing," said Astley, humbly. "But I quite agree we've talked enough about this for the present. Now I must see you home. You're getting cold. I walk so slowly with this stiff leg of mine."

So they turned back, and said never a word more on the subject of Norma's frank until he had delivered her up safely at her uncle's door. But perhaps there was a sort of self-conscious look on their faces, for the parlor-maid peeped out after him when she had admitted the young lady, with a sly look in her eyes.

She at least was not astonished when, a little more than a fortnight later, the news became known in the household, and filtered down quickly to the kitchen, that Miss Norma had gone and got married to Mr. Darwen.

Poor Norma had ill-calculated the force of the disappointment to the whole family which the news of her suddenly-announced marriage created. She had had half a dozen secret meetings with Astley since the day when she startled him so greatly by her unconventional proposal, and each time he saw her Astley was more attracted to the passionate and wayward girl. Not that he was in love with her: Norma's pronouncement that no man could love a woman without invitation not being without truth, and she herself refraining distinctly from giving such an invitation, it was interest rather than love which he felt in her; but it was interest strong enough to make him throw prudence and common sense to the winds, and become in his turn the proposer that she should take his name and thus free herself from the hateful position in which she now was placed.

There was of course just this difference between their attitudes towards each other: Norma believed that the business footing on which they started could be maintained; Astley knew that it could not. But to his prophecies that they would hate or love each other within a year she turned the deaf ear of scorn, and told him that she thought better of both him and herself than he did.

When, however, she announced at ten one afternoon that she had been married that day "at a registry office" to Astley Darwen, the rage and despair of her aunt in particular knew no bounds; and during the scene which followed, both that lady and her husband, to say nothing of Robert, reviled Norma and Astley in such bitter terms that the girl rushed from the room, put on her hat and jacket and started at once, before any one could discover her intention, for Astley's hotel.

Under the old-fashioned wide entrance she went quickly, and presenting herself with a loudly beating heart at the office, asked tremulously whether Mr. Astley Darwen was at home.

As she uttered the name, Norma saw that a quietly dressed woman, who was

PROPERTY OF THE COMPANY.

This Company has secured 10,000 acres of the choicest wheat lands in Assiniboia, Canada, having paid to the owners in addition to cash, 60,000 shares of its Capital Stock, for which the owners are completely equipping the property with all the necessary buildings, steam plows, steam threshers, drills, wagons, tools, fences, and everything necessary to operate the said 10,000 acres. In addition, the Company is to pay to the Canadian Pacific Railway Company and the other vendors of the said lands $50,000 in yearly installments of $10,000 each, being the balance of the purchase money.

These lands are capable of producing, at a fair estimate, 30 bushels to the acre of the best wheat produced in the world, or a total capacity of 300,000 bushels per year. Owing to the rich, prolific nature of the Northwestern Canadian soil, this product can be duplicated each year indefinitely. The Company's property will always be equipped with all the latest improved steam plows, drills, threshers, and necessary machinery to produce wheat at the lowest cost. It is the intention of the Company to have its own elevator, of a capacity sufficient to store its entire production, thus enabling them to take advantage of the highest market prices from time to time. The market for wheat is the same as for gold—it is unlimited.

The Company also has an option on 10,000 additional acres of the same character of wheat land as the 10,000 acres above mentioned, the property being located seven miles from the Canadian Pacific Railway, where large elevators are ready to receive the product.

This is an investment that will enhance in value as time goes by, not only from the large production of wheat, but the increased value of the Company's lands from year to year.

APPROXIMATE EARNINGS OF THE COMPANY

Are Estimated as Follows:

The average yield of wheat in Western Canada varies but little under all conditions. In some years the average has been over thirty-five bushels per acre. Many individual cases report as high as forty-five and even fifty-five bushels to the acre. But, taking the lowest average, there is no industry that will produce better profits. Owing to the modern steam machinery and economical methods employed in cropping, harvesting, threshing and marketing, as well as the especial ease with which in the prairie country of Western Canada, wheat is produced, there is always a splendid profit. The cost of raising an acre of wheat, being placed by farmers and experts at about $5.00 per acre, there have been cases in the past few years where as much as $35.00 has been realized, less the cost of $5.00, leaving a net profit of $30.00 per acre.

A safe and conservative estimate of the Company's earnings, taken much below the above figures, is herewith given:

APPROXIMATE YEARLY STATEMENT.

Estimated Surplus, after payment of Dividends					37,500

ESTIMATED NET PROFITS PER YEAR.

It will be seen that, after paying the expenses of raising wheat on 10,000 acres, amounting to $50,000 each year, and paying $10,000 per year to the Canadian Pacific Railway (for 5 years) as yearly payments on the property, it is estimated there will still remain a profit of $120,000 per year, or over 20 per cent. per annum on the stock issued.

TREASURY ASSETS.

The Company now have, after paying the 60,000 shares to the owners for the lands, improvements and equipment, 140,000 shares still in the Treasury, the same being set aside as a Treasury Fund. 50,000 of these shares are now being offered for subscription in Canada and England, and are to be sold for the purpose of taking up the option, and acquiring the 10,000 acres of new wheat territory, and the equipment of the same, together with working capital.

By acquiring the additional 10,000 acres, making 20,000 in all to be owned and operated by the Company, the profits will be more than doubled, or over 40 per cent. on the 110,000 shares of stock issued.

The balance of 90,000 shares will be held as an asset of the Company, which can be sold when required for extending the operations of the Company.

DIVIDENDS.

Dividends of, say, 15 percent. per year, it is estimated, can be paid semi-annually, December 1st and June 1st of each year. Outside of the amount paid in dividends, the surplus earnings will be accumulated, and will either be divided among the shareholders as extra dividends, or used to purchase new wheat territory; or be otherwise employed as may be hereafter determined.

WESTERN CANADA

is fast becoming the Eldorado of Great Britain. Its wheat lands will create more wealth than all the gold and diamond mines of the Empire. The failure of a crop is unknown. (See the report of Hon. Clifford Sifton, Minister of the Interior, Canada, extracts of which are published in the prospectus of this Company.) The wheat of Western Canada is well known to be extremely Hard No. 1, the best quality grown in the world; the yield also being considergbly more per acre than in the United States. The sub-soil throughout the intense heat of summer is kept moist by the slow melting of the deep winter frosts, the moisture ascending to the surface and moistening the roots of the grain, thus stimulating growth and producing a bountiful crop.

DEMAND FOR WHEAT.

The demand for wheat from England alone is over 160,000,000 bushels per year, and from other European countries about 250,000,000 bushels, most of which is obtained from the United States, but of a poorer quality than can and will be furnished by Canada. The Canadian Pacific Railway runs within easy hauling distance of the property and is doing everything in its power to increase wheat raising.

A RELIABLE INVESTMENT.

This Company has an advantage over other industrial enterprises through the fact that while the Company's earnings from its wheat products will be constantly growing, and advancing the price of the Company's shares, the land of the Company is continually enhancing in value, creating a double source of values.

There is no business in the commercial world so profitable as raising wheat, and the investment is as safe as first-class Railroad Bonds, for the reason that the land and improvements of the Company are always a security for its shares, besides its ability to raise immensely profitable crops. The possibilities of this Company are unlimited, as the surplus earnings can be devoted to the acquisition of additional wheat lands, thereby increasing the earning capacity of the Company and lowering the average cost of production.

Owing to the intrinsic value of the property of this Company, and its estimated vast earning power, a rapid advance in the price of these shares will doubtless take place, and we confidently expect that this issue of 50,000 shares will be largely over-subscribed.

SUBSCRIPTION TERMS.

The full amount of $5.00 per share must accompany the order. The right is reserved to allot a smaller number of shares than the amount subscribed for, in which event the balance of the money will be returned with the shares allotted.

Application will be made for a settlement of these shares on the London, Montreal and Toronto Stock Exchanges in due course.

REPORT BY EX-SUPERINTENDENT OF MINE

Cecil R. Gold Mining and Milling Co., Los Angeles, California.

Ballarat, Cal., Nov. 1st, 1902.

Gentlemen,—Your request for my opinion as to the "Santa Rosa" group of mines, and other claims in which you are interested in this territory, to hand, and in reply will say:

The "Santa Rosa" group, which is located southeast of Ballarat some three and a half miles, consists of twelve claims, equal to 240 acres. The ledge crops out more or less the full length of these claims, showing the same character and formation of work as where development work has been done. In most of the outcroppings it shows highly mineralized rock, with pyrites of iron, mica, schist, slate, slate porphyry, gouge, quartz and quartzite, all bearing more or less. Where work has been done, it shows a very marked improvement in both quantity and quality of gold-bearing rock. Commencing with the surface, the ore shows much iron and copper stain. All mill tests show rich ore commencing with the surface; in fact, I milled for several days and recovered $40 and over per ton, yet the milling process does not pay more than two-thirds of the value of the ore, the tailings ofttimes running as high as $25 per ton, and never less than $12.50. To save the entire value of your ore it will be necessary to install either concentrators or a cyanide plant. From careful study and frequent examination of the surface of the ground, and down as far as has been opened below the surface, I am highly pleased with the property. It is certainly a fine property, and as good as any I have ever had the pleasure of examining. Considering your mill site, with tramway facilities added, water, fuel, and cheapness of mining the ore, the Cecil R. will be capable of paying enormous dividends when your capacity for milling is increased to what it ought to be.

Wishing you every success, I remain, Yours very truly,

(Signed) G. W. FLEMING,

Ex-Mine Supt. Cecil R. Gold Mining and Milling Company.

RURAL MAIL DELIVERIES

Washington System Examined, [illegible] Government

Brockville, Ont., Feb. 17—R. H. Macarow, Post Office Inspector, Kingston, is in Brockville, on his return from Washington, D.C., where he was sent by the Postmaster-General to make a personal investigation into the system of rural mail delivery as established in the United States, with a view of adopting it in Canada. He was given much valuable information by the Postmaster-General. There are 13,104 rural mail routes already established there; 152 more will be added in a few days and [illegible] more by March 1st, and when the service reaches its contemplated limit there will be about 25,000 routes in operation. By April 1st there will be [illegible] rural mail routes running in New York state alone.

It is reported that the section between Athens and Brockville a distance of 15 miles will be given a trial in the rural mail delivery system, and it would not be surprising to see postal delivery in Brockville become a reality in a short time. Mr. McMacarow will make some important recommendations along that line.

RUN DOWN AGITATORS

Chinese Reformers are Very Active in the United States

Washington, Feb. 17—Advices received at the Chinese legation here tell of the activity in San Francisco New York, and other cities in this country, of Chinese "agitators, calling themselves "reformers." They are said to be soliciting subscriptions from Chinese for the importation of arms into China to be used by the Pao Wong as their society is known.

The Pao Wong society, it is thought, may be responsible for much of the unrest that is reported from China and which is causing considerable apprehension among the powers.

In the peace protocol the Chinese government pledged itself to prevent the importation of arms, but the officials claim that they have no control over agitators in this country, and must look to the United States and the other powers to do their part in preventing the exportation of arms.

INDIANA GRAVE ROBBERS

Jury Eight to Four to Acquit the Accused Physician

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 18—After being out forty-eight hours the jury in the case of Dr. J. C. Alexander, charged with grave offenses, failed to reach an agreement, and was discharged at 10 o'clock yesterday morning. On the final ballots the vote stood eight for acquittal and four for conviction. The attorneys for the state have not decided what they will do.

Eating, Drinking and Table Conversation.

When Boswell complained to Dr. Johnson of having dined at a splendid table without hearing one sentence worthy of being remembered, Johnson said: "Sir, there is seldom any such conversation." "Why then meet at table?" Boswell asked. "Why, to eat and drink together, and to promote kindness; and, sir, this is better done where there is no solid conversation; for when there is, people differ in opinion, and get into bad humor, or some of the company, who are not capable of such conversation, are left out, and feel themselves uneasy. It was for this reason, Sir Robert Walpole said, he always talked bawdy at his table because in that all could join." The stout-hearted old doctor, by the way, was not of Sir Robert's opinion, for Boswell elsewhere relates that Dr. Johnson received the greatest compliment ever paid to a layman when a certain person apologized to him for having used profane words in a story which he had just told.

The man or woman who can be relied on to talk well at table or in a parlor will never lack invitations. Good conversation is the finest product of brains, breeding, society and civilization, but it is very rare, and one who is a master of it is welcome in every company and a friend in need to every host. How anxiously, in making up a dinner party, do people run over all their friends to find one or two who will help keep the table talk from flagging! No one, who has not sat at the head of a table heroically warding off the silence which threatens to fall at any moment, can appreciate duly the gratitude a host feels for the man or woman guest who catches and tosses back to him the ball of conversation and keeps it in the air, who helps him draw out the more taciturn members of the party by gentle banter and artful questions, and who lightens the talk, when it becomes heavy and serious, by throwing in some jest or frivolity. Such a jest, if hosts were judges, would do more to gain the sweets of heaven for the jester than a rosary of prayers.

Much is said and written of the duties of hosts, but have guests no reciprocal duties? Are they not bound, by some hospitable rule of honor, to prepare themselves to entertain the company and bandy conversation? Has a guest a right to sit silent, receiving much of the golden coin of table talk and giving nothing in exchange except, perhaps, a copper penny or two, a "yes" or a "no" in answer to a point blank query?

Except to a blessed few the gift of conversing does not come by nature. Many fine minds there are who, like a much-quoted college lad, are chock-full of an elegant vocabulary, but can't get it out. Oliver Goldsmith, who wrote so well, was dull in company, and even the great Dr. Johnson, who talked so wonderfully when he thawed, was ordinarily silent. How many hosts loved the crafty Boswell for drawing out the lion, as only he could do it? Boswell confesses that in order to start the doctor's tongue he used to utter some heresy in religion or politics which, he was aware, would rouse the great man to a fury of disputation in which poor Boswell would be crushed by the first sentence. But the Boswellian ruse never failed to set the doctor going, and we owe many delightful pages of the "Life" to the canny Scotchman's trick. Would there were more Boswells at our dinner-tables—and more Johnsons!

Conversation ought to be learned and cultivated, just as music or any other entertaining art is learned and cultivated. Young women will employ expensive masters to give them lessons on the piano or the violin or to train their voices, so that they may have "accomplishments" and appear well in company, but they totally neglect the greatest and finest of all accomplishments, the art of conversation. There ought to be masters of conversation to teach men and women how to talk well at a dinner table. The girl who can interest a table for five minutes at a time three or four times during a dinner has a more graceful and ingratiating accomplishment than she who cannot talk, but who can play all of Chopin beautifully and by heart. The tongue is a greater instrument than the pianoforte. Let a girl take conversation for her accomplishment; let her give to reading and thinking the time which the pianist gives to practice; let her go in seriously for conversation, though not entirely for serious conversation, and she will become the paragon of her circle and men will fight duels for her hand. And men, too, ought to study conversation as they study anything else, and practice, practice, practice. In France conversation is esteemed a fine art, and it is the conversation of France which proves it the most polished nation.

Eating and drinking seem to be necessary concomitants of conversation. If a man invited friends to his house just for conversation, and gave them nothing to eat or drink, he would soon be town talk. Doubtless some people could trace a subtle connection between dining, drinking and talking, dragging their audience through a psychological maze, but the vulgar truth seems to be that when a man—or, strange to say, a gentle woman, either—has a full stomach and feels the pleasant afterglow of wine, there is a tendency to sit at ease and unburden the mind of whatever lies upon it. However that may be, it is a fact that hungry people will not converse and that nothing so expands the mind and loosens the tongue as a good dinner does.

The Snail as Food.

The popularity of the snail as an article of food is not confined to Paris, but extends throughout Southern Europe and some parts of Africa. Dr. Edrard, a French writer, in a pamphlet says that ninety thousand pounds of snails are sent daily to Paris from the gardens at Poitou, Burgundy, Champagne, and Provence. Those reared in gardens are fed on aromatic herbs to improve their flavor. Their market price is from two to three francs a hundred, while those from the hedges, woods and forests bring somewhat less. The proprietor of one snailery in the vicinity of Dijon nets over seven thousand francs annually. The snail is reared and fattened with great care in some cantons of Switzerland as an article of luxury, and is exported in a pickled state. It is also eaten as a relish and nutritious article of food in Austria, Spain, Italy, and in some sections of the United States. The Ashantees and other African tribes smoke them and eat them as daily food all the year around. In Algeria, in the markets, large heaps of snails are sold by the bushel and the hundred as an article of food. Vendors hawk them in the streets of Cairo. In modern Rome fresh gathered snails are hawked by women from door to door.

Found Dead in Bed

Brockville, Ont., Feb. 17—Robert Wilson, a representative farmer of the Township of Lansdowne, was found dead in bed at Gananoque Saturday, where he was visiting his daughter, Mrs. Murtukin. He had been dead for some hours and heart disease was the cause. Mr. Wilson was [illegible] years of age and lived in that locality since emigrating from Scotland in [illegible]. He leaves a widow and five children.

THE KING IS READY FOR PARLIAMENT

Opening of Westminster Houses To-morrow to be Accompanied by Great Ceremony

London, Feb. 16.—The King is determined that at the opening of Parliament to-morrow, when he will read the speech from the throne, shall be invested with all the dignity and magnificence at his command. At a grand military apgeant it is expected to excel his first opening of Parliament, but nothing like so much interest is being taken in the function by the court and society.

For the sake of pleasing the women of her court, Queen Alexandra has caused it to be known, through an official medium, that they may appear in their coronation robes on this occasion, but without the coronets. Instead of this announcement causing pleasure it has been the cause of no end of tribulations and lament in some quarters, for while after the coronation many sent their robes back to the robe makers to be carefully packed away for further use, there were others who had them cut up, while others only hired them for that occasion, and now they cannot afford, even if there were time, to get new State robes ready.

In view of to-morrow's function the King is taking great care of himself. He attended the Drury Lane pantomime Thursday night, along with the Queen, but that is the only liberty he has taken with himself since his recent cold, which prevented his visiting Chatsworth. He is determined not to risk anything which might interfere wiht his carrying out in person Tuesday's programme. To-night is to be devoted to the usual official dinners.

Another Electric Railway

The Brockville Times says; "It is stated that the electric road scheme from Toronto to Montreal along the frontier, spoken of a year or so ago, is by no means dead but very much alive. Report from good authority states that Boston capitalists have the scheme well in hand, and that the engineers have carefully inspected the route and will begin operations in the near future. The first section to be built will be between Brockville and Prescott. Water powers along the route, notably those at Cornwall and Trenton, will be utilised to furnish motive power. A general freight and passenger traffic will be catered to. The cause of the delay in promoting the scheme was the slump some months ago in the New York stock market which tied up so much capital. Now that the stringency has abated the electric road will be pushed along as fast as possible."

An Old Investment.

Toronto, Feb. 15—At a recent meeting of Simcoe County Council a couple of members, after search of the official archives, discovered that about 53 years ago the county had invested £50,000 in the Ontario, Simcoe & Huron Railway, under conditions which assured the County a dividend when the road became a paying concern. Some years ago the Northern Railway Co. assumed control, and now the line is a part of the G.T.R. System. The County Council passed a resolution instructing the Clerk to make a demand on the G.T.R. Company for the amount of the unpaid dividends.

ENTIRELY OUT OF THE ORDINARY

Yet one of the ways that LEAD TO FORTUNE

Why not make a small investment in oil lands right ahead of good producing wells, some having wells producing oil on adjoining farms? The oil now brings $1.50 per barrel, bought by the Standard Oil Co., without any transportation charges, and is bound to go higher; a few hundred dollars often invested in property of this kind yields thousands of dollars profit. I personally know of parties who made over $[illegible] in 60 days time on an investment of this kind; also have wells making from 10 to 200 barrels a day. Parties desiring to organize a company will do well to investigate this opportunity, getting thereby the advantage of years of experience, and if you don't want to drill the wells wait until the wells drilling close to you have come in and reap the benefit of their outlay. The oil business conducted on business principles, with honest management, is bound to succeed. You do not have to look farther than the Standard Oil Co. to see what honest management founded on facts will produce, they have drawn very heavily on stocks the past three years and there is not enough of this grade of oil now above ground to run the country for more than two years, so you can readily see the profits that will be realized by starting now and cheapening the big price the Standard Oil Co. will be compelled to pay for crude oil to supply the demands of the country. For particulars write THE BADGER CO., MARIETTA, OHIO.

COAL

PROPERTY IN FULL OPERATION

Company owns 9,600 acres of coal property known throughout the coal trade as the New Campbellton Colliery, located on Bras D'Or Bay, County of Victoria, Cape Breton, Nova Scotia. Mine is fully equipped, producing and marketing 100 tons of coal a day at a net profit of $1.00 a ton. Improvements are now being made that will increase the output to over 1,000 tons a day. On present output, figuring 300 working days in year, the net result will more than pay interest on entire issue of preferred, with output of 1,000 tons a day net result will be $300,000 per annum.

IRON

RICHEST ORE IN THE WORLD

Company owns in fee simple, free and clear of all incumbrances, 4,000 acres of iron ore deposit, located at Natashquan (tidewater) situate on North shore of Gulf of St. Lawrence, in the County of Saguenay, province of Quebec.

Deposits contain 20,000,000 tons of ore ABOVE SEA LEVEL ALONE.

Quality of ore is highest ever discovered, running from 69 to 72 per cent. in Metallic iron.

More orders for the sale of this ore have been received by the Company than can possibly be accepted, and at a price netting the Company a profit of $2 a ton F. O. B. vessels at Company's docks.

The Cracker Jack as an Investment

APPEALS TO THE CONSERVATIVE

THE CRACKER JACK group of mining claims consists of 120 acres of property in the Cracker Creek district, Baker county, Eastern Oregon. This group of claims contains the extension of the Cracker-Oregon veins on the south; a split from the E. & E. on the southwest and parallel values of the North Pole mine on the west.

The trend of values in the Mother Lode system of this district is NORTHWARD. It starts in the Golconda and continues through the Columbia, E. & E., Cracker, Oregon, and North Pole, increasing in value up to and into the Cracker Jack claims.

In four months the Cracker-Oregon stock advanced from 25 cents to $1.00—its par value. In four months the Golconda stock increased more than 100% over its original selling price.

The Cracker Jack contains the valves. They can be traced; the veins out crop and the focus of the richest fissures is in the Cracker Jack property.

The Cracker Jack is not a mine; neither is it merely a prospect. It has been proved. Next April a force of men will be put to work and development will be continued day and night.

This is a tunnel proposition. It can be opened by a series of tunnels and shafts, and the free milling ore can be treated on the property. As an investment, the Cracker Jack is secure. It has vast ore bodies as its security; it has a conservative management as further security.

The policy of the Cracker Jack Consolidated Gold Mines Company is to open this rich property, build a mill and PAY DIVIDENDS. This is an investment for conservative men. It is not sensational. The mine will produce ore just as rich in value as that brought out by any of the surrounding properties.

The stock will advance in price and it will earn.

This is a proposition that commends itself to investigation of the most searching kind. Look into it, learn something of its directorate; find out if these claims are well founded. In other words, write for a prospectus to

THIS STOCK PREPARING FOR AN ADVANCE

New York, February 18—One of the prime Wall Street speculative favorites when active is American Sugar Refg. Once speculation awakens in these shares they are specially attractive to stock traders owing to lively and wide fluctuations, affording splendid market opportunities. The stock at present appears to be preparing for a period of activity and indications are strong that the movement is to be in the upward direction. Inquiry for the stock has recently increased materially. The lower Wall Street interests which are usually correct on the movements have been large and prominent buyers. The large banking houses usually identified with the larger movements of these shares, are conspicuously bullish and have also bought largely. The stock in exchange parlance is acting remarkably well, and sugar specialists upon the Exchange who stand in the sugar stock crowd all day long, say recent recent has been infinitely superior to the selling. The buying has been constant, but cautious, evidently with the intention of avoiding attraction of attention to its existence. It has been more or less slow owing to market narrowness, but has been practically continuous. We deem it time to call the attention of our clients to it, in order that they may avail themselves of the opportunity offering to make money by buying some of the stock. We advise taking on some of it at current prices, and doing so very soon. Sugar is doing remarkably well at present. It has just finished the annual cleaning and repairing of its plants and is now running at full capacity, with plenty of orders and a goodly margin between the prices of raw and refined sugars. The company also has on hand $15,000,000 in undivided profits made out of coffee business. It is earning far in excess of its current dividends and has an enormous surplus. To trade in with liberal margins it is one of the best and most attractive stocks dealt in upon the Exchange. No matter at what price one may make a trade in sugar and how much it might go against him, it is certain to return to one's original trade price. This has been the history of the stock for the fifteen years it has been dealt in. Seeing the commencement of a new upward movement in the stock, we hasten to notify our clients in time for the information to be of profit to them. Buy some sugar.

Summary—To-day's dealings continued to be limited owing to the general prevalence of the wire trouble in western and northern points, due to the storm. It kept a large amount of buying orders from reaching the market. Traders grasped the consequent opportunity and continued to hammer the market. Pool buying carried copper up to a new high point 74, for the current movement, upon a large volume of business. It receded somewhat later in sympathy with the general list. Sugar was largely bought by inside interests all day. Both copper and Sugar will sell higher. Good buying appeared for B.R.T. carrying the stock to 71. The stock looks good for 75 or 76 very shortly. Prices for railway stocks receded fractionally for the day. Stocks look to be an excellent purchase upon any weakness. Money closed 2 3-4. Sales 393,500.

To-morrow's letter—"Up to Freight Rates."

HAIGHT & FREESE.

Peculiar Plants.

In the botanical garden at Washington is an odd plant called the "barber plant." It comes from the Orient, and is not used, as its name might imply, to help barbers, but rather to their detriment, since it is rubbed on the face to keep the beard from growing. It is not supposed to have any effect on a beard that is already rooted, but merely to act as a preventive, boys employing it to keep the hair from getting a start on their face. It is also employed by some Oriental people who desire to keep parts of their heads free from hair, as a matter of fashion.

A curious looking tree from the Isthmus of Panama bears a round red fruit as big as an apple, which has this remarkable faculty, that its juice, rubbed on tough beef or chicken, makes the meat tender by the chemical power it possesses to separate the flesh fibre.

A visitor is interested to observe in the botanical greenhouse three kinds of plants that have [illegible] consumption of the lungs—the lungs, of course, being the lungs of a plant. The disease is manifested by the turning of the leaves from green to white, the affection gradually spreading from one spot until, when a leaf is all white, it is just about to die. The gardeners try to perpetuate the disease for the sake of beauty and curiosity, all plants of those varieties that are too healthy being thrown away.

Drawing the Line.

A well-known judge on a Virginia circuit was reminded very forcibly, says "Harper's Magazine," of his increasing baldness.

One of his rural friends looked at him and drawled, "It won't be so very long, judge, 'fo' you'll hev to tie a string round your head to tell how far up to wash yer face."

INTERNATIONAL ELECTRIC MINING Co
185 SUMMER ST., - BOSTON, MASS.

A Dividend Payer for the Past Five Years.

12 PER CENT GUARANTEED

Capital Stock, $500,000. Par, $1.00, full paid and non-assessable

Over eight thousand tons of $50.00 ore mined and smelted from this group of mines.

A limited number of shares of the stock of this Company now offered at seventy-five cents per share. This price will shortly be increased to par. Stock registered by the International Trust Company, Boston, who is also the transfer agent.

This Company has a small capital stock.

The International Electric Mining Company owns seven mines and milling plant.

The Brooklyn and New York mines of this Company lie north of and join the Victor and the Hoodlum—two rich mines that are now being worked by California parties. On the west lies the Electric Mining Company's mines. In these mines are millions of dollars' worth of rich ore in sight. On the south, adjoining the Berlin mine of this Company, is the Montazuma and Clipper. From the Montazuma over three million dollars has been taken within 30 feet of the grass roots.

This Company owns free and clear seven mines of twenty acres each, all containing rich ore, located in the Arabia and Trinity mining districts, Humboldt County, Nevada. The Company has worked these mines for the past five years, and is now driving a tunnel to cut out a rich ledge about 400 feet from the surface. The Arabia mining district, in which these mines are located, is a lively district—a great many men being employed there. The tunnel now being driven on the Brooklyn mine has about 350 feet already completed. When the tunnel cuts the main ledge, which has just been reached by the Victor tunnel about 600 feet, the Brooklyn will have about 300 feet stoping ground, which runs high in gold and silver, over $60.00 per ton.

The Company is offering for a short time a limited amount of stock for the enlargement of its plant and the working force at the mines and for the completion of the Brooklyn tunnel.

This Company has thousands of tons of rich ore in sight.

We are not making a lot of talk, because it is unnecessary. What the investor wants is dividends, which we have paid for the past five years. Now if you want a safe 12 per cent. investment, let us hear from you.

THE OLD COMSTOCK

A California mining paper has this to say: "Nevada, that grand old stamping ground of mushroom millionaires, who plucked enough wealth from her prolific fields to build mansions, banks, and big hotels in San Francisco, and palaces in Paris and London, is again astonishing the world by making more millionaires and by yielding millions in gold and silver from a new field which rivals the old Comstock lode in the days of its pristine splendor. Not only in Tonopah and Arabia districts, where within the past year nearly ten millions have been exposed, are operations active, but in every mining district in the Silver State are operations active, and Nevada will once more take her place among the big producers, the peer of any of them."

Dear Sir,—During the six months of October and November of this year I visited the mines of the International Electric Mining Company, situated in Arabia and Trinity mining districts, Humboldt County, Nevada. I found the country remarkably mineralized; in fact, the possibilities of the country as a mineral producing country are yet unknown. For years it certainly has produced well. The work now being done in the Arabia and Trinity districts establishes the fact that they are fine producers.

I also found that there is a great deal of interest being taken in these properties, which have produced a great deal of wealth the past quarter of a century.

THE ELECTRIC SPARK GOLD MINING COMPANY

Is in this famous little kingdom, and is surrounded by mines that are making their owners wealthy.

CAPITAL STOCK $200,000 Par Value $1.00

We are working this mine every day doing a great amount of development work which will enable us to commence regular shipping very soon. Our shaft is now 175 feet deep, with a streak of pay ore starting at the grass roots, the vein is over 3 feet wide at the bottom of shaft, and runs from $46.00 to $88.50 per ton, mostly gold. We are only three-quarters of a mile from railroad and have a well traveled wagon road from mine to depot. There are thirteen stamp mills at Black Hawk, three-quarters of a mile from this property. Our company is managed on conservative lines by practical mining men who understand the business and are familiar with this field of gold.

We have placed a small block of this stock on the market at 20 cents per share which will be worth $1.00 in a short time. Now is the time to buy.

"THE FRIDAY MINE"
Located at Pearl, Willow Creek, Boise County, Idaho
About 28 Miles Northwest of Boise City

THE FRIDAY GOLD MINING CO. is a corporation duly organized under the laws of the State of Oregon, with head office at Sumpter, Oregon, owning and controlling "The Friday Mine." Capital Stock $1,000,000, divided into 1,000,000 shares. Par value $1.00 per share, fully paid and non-assessable, no personal liability. 250,000 shares have been set aside and placed in the treasury of the Company to be sold for the purpose of equipping the "Friday Mine" with machinery. It is for this purpose we are offering you stock in this great mine. This plant will handle 60 tons of Friday ore every 24 hours. The general average of the Friday ore is over $30 per ton. The ore as it was shipped to the smelters at Salt Lake averaging over $65.00 per ton. The Friday is highly developed, great quantities of ore blocked out and in sight ready for the mill. As soon as the mill is completed the Friday Mine will again pay dividends.

Large ore bodies which will net to the company $50,000, for the first few months, are now blocked out ready for the mill. As soon as the mill is completed you will draw your regular monthly dividend. It is safe, certain and conservative.

We are not soliciting your money for the purpose of developing the mine, but only for the purpose of erecting a mill to work the ore bodies in the mine. The company is officered by men of well known business ability, mining experience and strict integrity.

Hon. Martin H. Jacobs, State Mining Inspector of mines for the State of Idaho says: "The Friday has a large amount of good ore in sight, and there is no question about its being a good paying property."

Thunder Mountain!

is the richest gold producing camp in the United States, and also the largest. The Thunder Mountain district, in central Idaho, is twenty miles wide and forty miles long. In comparison with this we have Cripple Creek, four miles wide and seven miles long. In many of the Thunder Mountain mines ore has already been reached that carries ONE THOUSAND DOLLARS IN GOLD TO THE TON. All of the Thunder Mountain ore is free milling, which means that it can be treated by the cheapest extraction process known—the ordinary stamp mill. It can be both mined and milled at a cost not to exceed $2 a ton. The past years operations in the several working mines have opened up millions of tons of ore that will give a net profit of from $10 to $30 a ton, enabling the respective companies to pay dividends at a rate never before equalled. Such is the showing and the prospect of the

which unless all indications are at fault, will become the largest producer in the district. The EAST DEWEY mine, which it owns outright, is located directly on Thunder Mountain, just east of the famous "Dewey" mine, which already has $20,000,000 of ore in sight. The surface area of the East Dewey mine is one hundred and twenty acres—six full quartz claims. The company has also secured the big GOLDEN GATE mine, in the Big Creek section of the Thunder Mountain district—which has been so aptly termed "The Pot of Gold"—and is now developing the mine with all possible speed. For a distance of 9,000 feet, nearly two miles, the Golden Gate mines cover a mineralized ledge that is 900 feet wide, with an average height above the tunnel level of 500 feet, thus giving it the largest exposed tonnage of any mine in the west.

If you would share in the enormous profits which these figures indicate and which these developments promise, invest your money in "East Dewey" Stock. It can be bought to-day for 10 Cents a Share. Its par value is $1.

If the East Dewey mines are what they appear to be, and there is absolutely no reason to doubt or question these indications, this stock will eventually be worth at least $10 a share, and to-day you can buy it for ten cents. PRICE ADVANCES TO FIFTEEN CENTS ON FEBRUARY 28th. 5% discount allowed for cash. Stock sold at flat price of 10 cents on deferred payments, 10% with application, and 10% monthly until paid. Full particulars, prospectus, etc., on request.

BUY! WHY?
BECAUSE THE SOUR LAKE OIL CO.

Has placed four-fifths of its stock in the treasury for development work; and because

Oil is reached in less than half the depth required on Spindletop Heights in Beaumont;

The people in Canada are well acquainted with the management, which is in the hands of HON. JOHN L. BITTINGER, United States Consul General to Canada; F. S. Ashley, Vice-President of the Massachusetts Securities Co., and W. L. Marston, Vice-President of the American Union Oil and Refining Co.

These gentlemen have made a dividend payer out of one company and have raised the value of its stock from 5c per share to par value, or 25c, within a very short time;

The company is operating in the Sour Lake field, where fewer wells will tap the oil than at Spindletop; this insures a greater flow of oil, and it is of a better quality;

This is the first allotment of shares at the present price of TEN CENTS PER SHARE; it is the lowest price at which you can buy, and the time left in which to buy at TEN CENTS is short.

LAST NIGHT'S MEETING

The Revival Continues to Increase in Popularity

A STIRRING ADDRESS

The Methodist Church Again filled to the Doors Last Night

The special religious services which are being conducted by Rev. Mr. Kerby, in the George street church, are being largely attended. Last night, notwithstanding the cold weather, the church was filled to the doors.

Rev. Mr. Kerby delivered a powerful sermon on "Man's duty to the truth." He took his text from John 14 and 6. "Jesus said unto them I am the way, the truth, and the life."

This is an age of criticism, investigation to be untenable. This has led some people to question the reality of anything.

On every hand we meet the question "What is the truth?" There is only one answer; that answer is complete and final. It is in the words of our text to-night—Jesus the truth; the whole truth, and nothing else but the truth.

What then is man's duty to the truth?

First: To seek it.

Better a thousand times spend our time and talent in seeking to find out what is true, than what is not true.

The noblest men and women of all ages have been truth seekers.

Men usually get what they seek after in this life. If after the good and true, they will find it; if after the thought of the untrue, they will find that. Therefore let us make truth the object of our pursuit.

Second: Our duty to the truth is to believe it. A negative creed will not do; we must have a positive one.

The statliest manhood and womanhood is that which believes something.

We don't have to know everything in order to believe something.

The need of the age is for men to believe something—men who know what they believe—why they believe; whose belief leads them along lines of noble achievements.

Third duty to the truth is to hold on to it.

Hold on to the truth of your own convictions. Conviction is the mother of enthusiasm and the grandmother of achievement.

Hold on to the truth your personality—be your self—hold on to the truth of your convictions with a purpose.

Hold on to everything that is good. Let everything else go—your companions, if they are not helpful—your bad habits, for they are impure—your amusements; if they do not build up your life mentally, morally or physically.

A mans' safety and security, for time and eternity, depends upon his hold of the truth.

Fourth duty to the truth is to live it. It is not enough to believe it. It is not enough to believe it—not enough to hold on to it—a man must live it.

Truth must be enthroned in his being. This is the only interpretation of the Gospel—not of philosophy, not of theology; but a life. There is no argument so convincing as a life—no message so penetrating as a life—no sermon so mighty and powerful as a life.

Therefore practise the truth in your store, bank, factory, farm, home.

To sum up and put in personal form we said our first duty to the truth was to seek it. That means seek Jesus Christ, for He is the truth.

Our duty was to hold on to the truth. That means to hold on to Jesus Christ.

Our fourth duty is to live the truth and that means to live Jesus Christ.

THE NEW DAIRY COMPANY

Directors Met on Tuesday Evening Last

On Tuesday night a meeting of the provisional directors of the City Dairy Company was held, the president, Dr Halliday, occupying the chair.

The object of the meeting was to get as full a report as possible of the progress being made with the stock subscriptions. About 100 of the most prominent citizens of the town have become interested and have taken stock of various amounts.

It was deemed advisable to communicate with Prof. Robertson, of the Experimental Farm; with the Principal of the Guelph Agricultural College; the Principal of the Dairy School in connection with Queen's University, Kingston; and the Manager of the Toronto City Dairy Company, in order to ascertain their views with regard the successful management of the company, and asking for advice regarding the appointment of a suitable manager for same.

It is felt by the directors that a man to fill this position properly must besides having good technical knowledge, be a thorough business man with good ability to act in this special capacity. After the engagement of the new manager a public meeting will take place, when addresses will be delivered on dairy matters from a hygienic standpoint.

To Talk to the Pupils.

The pupils attending the schools of the town are invited to attend a meeting in the George street church, at 4.15 to-morrow afternoon, which will be addressed by the two evangelists, Rev. Mr. Kerby and Rev. Mr. Turk. All are welcome.

WEDDING BELLS

Mr. J. W. Kelly, of Bridgenorth, Married to Miss Cora E. Blewett,

A very pretty wedding was solemnized on Wednesday, Feb. 11th, at the home of Mr. and Mrs Wilson Blewett, Smith, when their daughter, Miss Cora Edith, was married to Mr. James Wilson Kelly, of Bridgenorth. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. W. Bunner, in the presence of about fifty friends and relatives. Miss Gertrude Blewett, of Young's Point, cousin of the bride, was bridesmaid, and Mr. Noble Kelly, brother of the groom, performed the duties of best man.

The happy couple will reside at Bridgenorth.

THE BEET SUGAR MATTER

The Times is Informed that a Second Factory is Contemplated

The Times received a telephone message from Wiarton to the effect that the parties who promoted and built the factory there purposed erecting a similar institution in Peterborough. Mr. J. C. Dumont, the Chief Engineer of the Wiarton Beet Sugar Company, says that Peterborough has been selected as the place for their next factory, and The Times was requested to publish the fact.

He also stated that the treasurer will be in Peterborough in a few days to look over the ground with a view to beginning active operations as soon as the spring opens.

THE EVANGELISTS

A Mass Meeting for Children To-morrow Afternoon

This afternoon the evangelists will hold a meeting as usual in the George street church at 3 p.m. They will be pleased to see as many as can conveniently come to this meeting. By special request the evangelists will sing "I want to go there."

To-morrow afternoon at 4.15 o'clock there will be a mass meeting for all the scholars and teachers of all the day and Sunday schools.

The evangelists are expected and without a doubt will make this one of the most interesting that has been held. They will both sing. This act alone is sufficient for very many to make a special effort to be present.

The public will not forget the Sunday afternoon meeting in the opera house.

LITTLE LOCAL LINES

—Coal is being put on the bargain counter.

—The ice houses are being rapidly filled.

—The prospects for building operations this spring are very good.

—The ball given in the Town Hall Lindsay, on Tuesday evening, by the employees of the Grand Trunk Railway, was a great success. Several attended from Peterborough —The Times is in receipt of a letter for publication on the cocking main. The writer forgot to sign his name, however, and the letter will, therefore, not appear.

Globe: Peterboro is afraid that this city may obtain cheaper waterpower than is sold to the people of that city. The people on the Otonabee should never mind Toronto, but turn to the company that has appropriated the power on that river.

The dredge being constructed by the Dominion Government in Ashburnham for use on the Trent Valley Canal and Rice Lake is progressing favorably under the direction of Mr. Hickey, the well known ship builder. The dredge will be 75 feet long, and the timber used will be principally from British Columbia. It is said the dredge will be in readiness by the time the ice leaves the river.

County Police Magistrate Edmison held court this morning in his own office and disposed of an assault case. The parties interested were counselled to settle their difference in an amicable way, in view of the fact that they were neighbors and destined to live as such in all probability, for a great many years.

The plaintiff and defendant shook hands before going home and agreed to drop the matter and be friends in the future.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL.

—Miss Nellie Wood, Ashburnham, has returned home from a visit in Toronto, where she attended the wedding of her brother, Mr. Rolland Wood.

Found Dead in Bed

Brockville, Ont., Feb. 17—Robert Wilson, a representative farmer of the Township of Lansdowne, was found dead in bed at Gananoque Saturday, where he was visiting his daughter, Mrs. Murtchie. He had been dead for some hours and heart disease was the cause. Mr. Wilson was 82 years of age and lived in that locality since emigrating from Scotland in 1850. He leaves a widow and five children.

SANTAL-MIDY

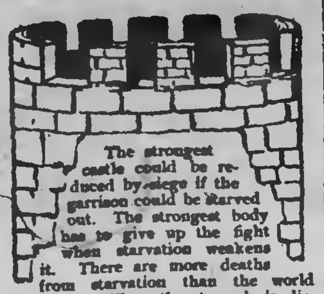
MIDY



The strongest castle could be reduced by siege if the garrison could be starved out. The strongest body has to give up the fight when starvation weakens it. There are more deaths from starvation than the world dreams of. When the stomach is diseased and the food eaten is not digested and assimilated, then the strength of the body begins to fail because of lack of nutrition, and the weak body falls an easy victim to the microbes of disease.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It restores physical strength in the only possible way, by enabling the assimilation of the nutrition contained in food.

"I was sick for over three years with a complication of stomach troubles," writes Mr. John H. Castona, residing at 3911 Arch St., Chicago, Illinois. "Had tried every good physician I knew of, as well as many patent medicines, but received only temporary relief. One day a friend recommended your 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I immediately procured some and began its use. Commenced to gain the first week, and after I had taken only one bottle I could eat as well as any one without experiencing ill effects. I took five bottles, and to-day am happy to announce that I am as well and healthy as any one could be. I owe it all to Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery."

The sole motive for substitution is to permit the dealer to make the little more profit paid by the sale of less meritorious medicines. He gains. You lose. Therefore accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery."

FREE. Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Send 31 one-cent stamps for the book in paper covers, or 50 stamps for the cloth-bound volume. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

The Man With a $1,000 Bill.

Of a man with a one-thousand-dollar bill in his pocket and no smaller amount of money, a story has been written that traced him through many experiences and took him to the verge of starvation. But, as a matter of fact, one man who had nothing smaller than a one-thousand-dollar bill got through his difficulty very easily in this city a few nights ago.

Ten of these coveted promissory notes of the United States had been paid to him in the afternoon. In the pursuit of business and a modicum of pleasure he had, after the receipt of his $10,000, spent the last dime he possessed other than the big bills. He was with some friends, any one of whom could and would have accommodated him with sufficient money for his needs, but a discussion arose about what he would do if he were a stranger in the city and had no money other than that which was in his pocket.

"I wouldn't care if I were dressed as a beggar," he said. "I can get all I want so long as I have a one-thousand-dollar bill in my pocket."

"You would be arrested or turned down if you tried to use it," said one. "There are not many places where $1,000 in change is kept handy. Besides, most people would be shy of taking such a bill from any of us. We don't look as though we carried one-thousand-dollar bills around in our pockets."

"Well," said the man with the $10,000, "I'll bet a basket of champagne with the bunch that I can spend my money as freely as though these were five-dollar bills instead of what they are, and I won't have any trouble about it, either. I'll get change the first time I try, too, or lose the bet. And I won't go to any man who knows me."

The wager was accepted, and the man with $10,000, taking one friend with him, walked out to a pawn shop. He said to the clerk only this:

"I have received $10,000 in ten bills. They are mine and were come by honestly. It is difficult for me, a stranger, to get a one-thousand-dollar bill changed. Here are the ten bills. Look at them. I need some money, and I want to pawn one of these bills for $25. If you are afraid of me, call up police headquarters and I will satisfy the people there by papers that I can show that I am honest. Or, if you like, call up Mr. ——, who paid the money to me, and he will tell you if I am all right."

The pawnbroker looked at him keenly for a second and then said:

"I never took money as a pledge, but you are sober and seem all right, and you can have the $25. Give me the one-thousand-dollar bill."

The pawnbroker examined the bill carefully and then, to the astonishment of the others, took another one-thousand-dollar bill out of his safe and compared them. Then, just as he would make out a ticket for a ring or a watch, he issued a ticket for a "one-thousand-dollar bill," turned over the $25 and closed the transaction.—N. Y. "Tribune"

$16,000,000 EXPENDED ON RAILWAYS AND CANALS

DOMINION'S REVENUE NEARLY $100,000,000

The Annual Report of the Department Gives the Mileage of Canadian Railways at 18,868.

Ottawa, Feb. 19—The annual report of the Department of Railways and Canals will be out in a few days. This report, containing, as it does the statistics of all the railways in he Dominion, is to a great extent an index of Canada's growth, and the report this year shows many very marked increases. The following figures will be of interest:

Expenditure on railways, $13,407,152, of which $5,430,266 is chargeable to capital account $2,115,891 to income and $5,861,000 to revenue.

Canals, $2,978,770, of which $2,114,669 is chargeable to capital, $216,768 to income and $647,377 to revenue.

Adding to the above a further sum of $34,138 for miscellaneous expenses, there is a grand total of expenditure for railways and canals of $16,420, 061.

The total revenue for railways is $5,918,980, for canals $390,412 of which $333,037 is derived from tolls and $57,375 from hydraulic rents.

The Government has expended upon railways prior to and since Confederation up to June 30th, 1902, the amount of $130,200,3?8, including the sum of $25,000,000 granted to the Canadian Pacific Railway for the purpose of constructing its main line. In addition there has been expended on consolidated fund, including $27,831,590 paid as subsidies to railways other than the C.P.R. and $62,901,523 paid as working expenses of the Government railways a total of $121,870,316, making a total of railway expenditure of $252,[illegible]. Of this amount the sum of $12,861,400 was expended prior to Confederation on the construction of the Intercolonial Railway.

The total revenue from 1st July, 1867, up to June 30th last, was $84,357,783.

The Government expended on canals from Confederation to June last $82,513,168, and on account of consolidated fund $18,665,441 making a total of $102,[illegible]. The total revenue from canals during that period was $12,617,783.

The total expenditure on railways and canals from Confederation to June last was $351,240,200, to which must be added a sum for miscellaneous expenditure, embracing both, of $557,431, making a grand total expenditure of $351,[illegible], with a total revenue of $97,[illegible].

The number of railways in operation on June 30th last was 166, but of these many are amalgamated or leased, so that the total number of controlling railways is 79.

There is 18,868 miles of railway completed, being an increase over the previous year of 574 miles, and in addition, there are 2,833 miles of sidings; of these 16,751 miles are laid with steel rails, of which 647 are double tracks.

There are 18,714 miles in operation as follows:

	Miles
Canadian Pacific Railway	7,2[illegible]1
Grand Trunk Railway	3,107
Intercolonial	1,333
Canada Atlantic	448
Canadian Northern	1,248

The paid-up capital is $1,0[illegible] being an increase over the previous year of $[illegible],667.

The gross earnings were $[illegible], being an increase of $10,787,574. Working expenses were $57,343,542, increase $6,974,[illegible], leaving the net earnings, $25,[illegible], increase of $3,[illegible].

The number of passengers carried was 20,679,904, increased 2,14,252; freight carried 42,376,527 tons, increase 5,377,186 tons.

The total number of miles run was 55,729,856, increase 2,300,402. Of rolling stock employed for passenger service, 2,000; for freight service, 72,240 cars of all descriptions.

The accident returns show that 1,228 persons were injured, of whom 176 were passengers, 822 employes, and 230 others. There were 330 killed of whom 19 were passengers, 14 employes, and 165 others.

There are 660 miles of electric railway laid. The gross capital invested is $41,[illegible], of which municipal and other aid composed $173,000. The number of miles in operation is 557. The gross earnings were $6,486,426; increase $778,[illegible]; the working expenses, $3,[illegible]; increase, $367,000; leaving the net earnings $2,[illegible]; increase, $360,463. There were passengers carried, 137,[illegible]; increase 16,744,746; freight carried amounted to 226,182 tons, decrease 2,[illegible]. The car mileage was 25,[illegible],841.

The report goes on to deal with the Intercolonial Railway, the figures of which have been already published.

A QUEER COLONY AT SIOUX CITY

Dakotas Becomes Mecca of Discontented Women From All Over the United States

Great Secrecy is Observed in Many Celebrated Cases Disposed of Fargo, N. D., February 19.—Now that Mrs. Alexander Payson Knapp of Baltimore, has established herself at Sioux Falls, N. D, for the purpose, it is alleged, of securing a legal separation from her lord and master, local interest is once more directed toward the South Dakota divorce colony—one of the queerest aggregations of discontented humanity in all probability, that the world has ever seen. New Jersey, by passing "easy" incorporation laws, became the home of the trusts. The Dakotas, by legalizing painless methods of severing the marital tie, have become the home of the mismated.

Originally the divorce laws of South Dakota required a residence of only three months in order that mismated couples might have their matrimonial bonds severed. The leniency of the law and the influx of divorce applicants from all corners of the earth finally resulted in a strong demand that the laws be made more stringent. The leader in this movement was the Right Rev. W. H. Hare, Episcopal bishop of South Dakota, and the agitation resulted in the three months' residence feature being increased to six months, which law is still in force.

The bulk of the divorce business then went to North Dakota, where only three months' residence was required. The people there also protested against the laxity of the law, and the legislature fixed the period of residence at six months. Since then South Dakota has succeeded in winning back its share of the divorce business.

IN THE EASY DAYS.

In the days of easy divorce various persons who were not averse to notoriety permitted the newspapers to print detailed stories of their lives in the divorce colony of Sioux Falls. Some timid people, who were opposed to publicity, were thus prevented from coming to the then acknowledged divorce Mecca of the country, and went elsewhere, where their presence would not attract any particular attention.

At present eastern people who come to the State are almost wholly of a class who live in fear lest the newspapers give them and their cases write ups, such as many of the earliest "colonists" courted. Therefore, every effort is made by their attorneys to keep the cases out of the newspapers. The attorneys, who reap a rich harvest from such cases, are, from their standpoint, justified perhaps in eluding the vigilance of the newspaper man, for, were all the divorce cases brought to Sioux Falls or other South Dakota towns to be aired in the newspapers, it would speedily result in driving to other and more remote localities practically the whole of this lucrative business.

When a divorce case is started the papers are sometimes filed at some small county seat town. The applicant may, for instance, take up his or her residence in Sioux Falls, while the papers in the divorce case may be filed with the clerk of court of any county in the state, other than that in which the applicant resides. Another method of eluding the vigilance of the newspaper man is for the attorneys to retain possession of the papers in the case, the complaint, etc., after they have been taken to the office of the clerk of court and have had the filing time noted upon them by that official. This is permitted under the South Dakota statutes, the attorneys being required simply to furnish the clerk of courts with a receipt for the papers. Should the attorney for the defendant desire to examine the papers, which are found to be in the possession of the plaintiff the clerk of courts will procure them for him, or he may go to the attorney for the plaintiff and examine them. However the usual practice is for copies of the papers to be served on the opposing attorney.

HOW SECRECY IS MAINTAINED.

In many cases, in which the applicants for divorces have resided at Sioux Falls, the final hearings have been held in some remote point in the state, where a term of state circuit court was in session, and where the papers in the case had previously been filed.

One of the most celebrated divorce cases disposed of in Sioux Falls during the palmy days of easy divorce was that of Mme. Margaret L. de Steuers vs. Alphonse E. L. de Steuers. The plaintiff before marriage was a Miss Cary, and was closely connected with the Astors. Her husband was prominent in French political affairs, and had been minister from France to both Spain and Belgium. The decree in the case was granted Feb. 5, 1892.

When Mme. de Steuers arrived in Sioux Falls to establish a residence she was accompanied by a man who went under the name of William Elliot, and pretended to be her private secretary. The couple spent money lavishly, virtually throwing it broadcast. During their stay affairs in the divorce colony were not permitted to lag for a moment.

While a resident of Sioux Falls, Mme. de Steuers gave to the Episcopal church of that city the sum of $1,500 which she wished expended for the purchase of a memorial window in honor of her mother. The Right Rev. W. H. Hare, Episcopal bishop of South Dakota, declined to accept the money, and it was returned to the donor.

After Mme de Steuers secured a decree of divorce her "private secretary" discarded his assumed name and stood revealed as Count Elliot Zoborowski. The day after the decree was granted the couple were married and departed for the east. It was said that the minister who performed the marriage ceremony received a fee of $500.

One of Count Zoborowski's peculiarities was to have a large deposit in a bank at any place where he was even temporarily stopping. This was the case in Sioux Falls and when he departed for the east with his bride he apparently gave no thought to his balance in one of the local banks. When the bank failed several years later the books still showed a large deposit to his credit.

ANOTHER FAMOUS CASE.

Another famous case in divorce annals was that of Edward E. Pollock vs. Ellen Pollock. The plaintiff's father was a wealthy shipchandler in New York city, with a residence at Nyack. The testimony in the case showed that Mrs. Pollock had been a servant in the Pollock family. By threats of prosecution, it was alleged, she had compelled the son of her employer to marry her.

After the marriage they lived together, two children being born. When the young husband came to Sioux Falls and filed the suit for divorce against her she determined to fight the case. It happened that she arrived in Sioux Falls on the same train with the father of her husband, who had come to aid his son in securing his release from her. Considerable local sympathy was aroused for the wife by the fact that the elder Pollock rode into town in a drawing room car, while the young wife and her children, being without means, rode all the way from New York city in a common coach, getting such rest as they could be reclining in the cramped car seats.

She had no funds with which to employ legal council, but local attorneys took up the case in her behalf. It is said that just prior to the hearing the elder Pollock offered $15,000 in cash if she would not fight the case, and permit his son to obtain a divorce. She declined. On October 12, 1892, the divorce was granted. As the result of the hearing she secured $50 a month for the care of the children.

Bitterly disappointed at the outcome of the case, she appealed to the state supreme court, which affirmed the decision of the lower court. She then returned to New York state with her children, and brought suit against the elder Pollock for alienating the affections of her husband. She secured a verdict of $50,000 against him. Pollock appealed to a higher court, where the judgment of the lower court was set aside on the ground that the sum allowed to the plaintiff was exorbitant. Another action was started, but before it was disposed of the case was settled.

ROSE COGHLAN'S DIVORCE.

It was in Sioux Falls that Clinton J. Edgerly, a New York insurance man, secured a divorce from his wife, who was Rose Coghlan, the actress. The testimony showed that upon going home one night in June, 1890, his wife notified him that she didn't want him any more and ordered him out of the house. She refused to live with him and he went to Sioux Falls and instituted suit for divorce. He obtained his decree September 24, 1890.

Among other distinguished "colonists was Mrs. James G. Blaine, jr., who although she obtained her divorce at Deadwood, was a resident of Sioux Falls. Her suit was not opposed, the only contest being for possession of her child, James G. Blaine, 3d. It was while a resident of Sioux falls that Mrs. Blaine wrote her famous open letter to James G. Blaine, the statesman. Some time after securing her divorce, Mrs. Blaine married Dr. Bull, the New York physician.

Ten years ago, William Dupont, of Wilmington, Del., pending a suit for divorce from his wife, which he started in Union County, S.D., purchased a farm near Elk Point, erected a fine mansion and furnished it luxuriously at a cost of about $25,000. As soon as he obtained his divorce he returned to his former home in the east, leaving his property in this state in charge of an agent.

Judge C. S. Palmer, then a resident of Sioux Falls, was Dupont's attorney in the divorce proceedings, and when the decree was granted the later greatly surprised the attorney by handing him a check for $5,000 for his legal services.

The suit involving the most aged people in the history of South Dakota divorces was that of William Moore vs. Maria Moore. At the time of the suit the plaintiff was 68 years of age, and the defendant 71. They had lived together for over forty years. The plaintiff was wealthy, being the owner of a large shirt and collar manufacturing institution at Cohoes, N.Y.

The latest persons of prominence to procure South Dakota divorces were Mrs. William Hunt, Mrs. Margaret Watrous, Fred. Gebhard, Mrs. T. Suffern Tailer (nee Lorillard), and Mr. Hamilton, all of New York.

Mrs. Roland B. Molineaux, wife of the man recently acquitted of murder in New York, is now at Sioux City, preparing to bring suit for divorce.

THE POPE'S LONG REIGN WILL BE CELEBRATED TO-DAY

Twenty-fifth year of the Reign of Pope Leo XII

A REMARKABLE MAN

The Aged Pontiff Receiving the Congratulations of the World.

Rome, Feb. 20—His Holiness, Pope Leo XII will celebrate the 25th year of his reign today. Presents are pouring in. Already 5,000 gifts, representing several millions of dollars, have been received from all over the world. The most important is a gold triple crown from the faithful of the entire church.

London, Ont., Feb. 19.—His Lordship, Bishop McEvay, has issued an address to the clergy of the Diocese of London reminding them that today will occur the twenty-fifth anniversary of the reign of the Holy Father, Pope Leo XIII, on the throne of St. Peter.

"Such an event is a rare and glorious event in the history of the church of Christ," his Lordship remarks, "and therefore, it is proper that it should be celebrated in a special manner by the reverend clergy, the religious communities and the faithful laity of this diocese."

The Bishop announces that "on Friday, February 20th, at 10 o'clock a solemn pontifical mass will be celebrated in the Cathedral, and the pastors of the diocese are requested to have in their respective parishes either a solemn or a high mass at a convenient hour for the people, and at the end of mass to have sung the Te Deum.

"The religious communities are expected to do likewise as far as possible. Pastors are also requested to exhort the faithful to receive holy communion, for the welfare of the Holy Father, on Feb. 20th, or the Sunday following, or the 3rd of March, which will be the anniversary of the coronation of illustrious Pope Leo XIII."

TO PREVENT COLLISIONS

A Young Man Has an Important Invention

Ottawa, Feb. 19—John L. Taylor, a young man from Bozeman, Montana, came to Ottawa a couple of weeks ago to secure Canadian patents on certain improvements in agricultural machinery. While here he thought out another invention, which, if it does what he claims for it, will hardly leave it worth his while to think much of harvesting machinery.

He claims to have found the long sought means of communicating with moving trains. Each railway station is to be equipped with a simple apparatus, the point of the invention is to be placed in each locomotive. Often by mistake of the part of despatchers, two trains happen to be running on the same track, the service automatically completes the circuit and the alarm signal is rung at the ear of the engineer in each cab. The device is to be applied to prevent rear-end collisions in similar manner.

The inventor's name is, as stated, above, John L. Taylor. He has interviewed Mr Collingwood Schreiber, the deputy minister of railways and canals and has received from him the warmest encouragement for experiment with his scheme on the Intercolonial at Moncton. Mr. Taylor had a similar interview with Mr. C. W. Spencer, superintendent of the C.P.R. who was here this week.

Mr. Taylor has taken out a caveat for interim patent in Canada, and has engaged Messrs. Sutherland and Cameron to look after his interests here.

MR. CHAMBERLAIN IS NOT SO HOPEFUL

Race Antagonism in South Africa Has Now Become Chronic

REBELLION EXALTED HEROISM

Thinks it Will Take Time to Bring About Union of the Two Races

Cape Town, February 19—Mr. Chamberlain, Colonial Secretary, and his party arrived here this morning, and met with a hearty reception from a crowd of about 10,000 persons awaiting them in Green Market Square.

A number of addresses were presented to Mr. Chamberlain.

During the reading on one of these Prime Minister Sprigg arrived on the platform and was hooted with much vigour.

Mr. Chamberlain, in the course of his speech, made a powerful appeal for the union of the races. He admitted, however, that since his arrival in Cape Colony, he had become less hopeful of immediate satisfactory results from his visit, as he found the antagonism of the two races had become chronic.

Rebellion was exalted into heroism and loyalty was discountenanced and ostracised, even the pulpit joining in the propoganda tending to intensify the separation of the races.

On leaving the platform, Premier Sprigg again was made the subject of a hostile demonstration.

London, Feb. 18.—Mr. Joseph Grose Colmer, C.M.G., informs me today that he has resigned the post of Secretary to the High Commissioner for Canada which position he has held since 1881.

Mr. Colmer, although born in London, has been identified with Canada for many years, having proceeded in early life to Montreal, where he took a position in the Merchants' Bank. After a few years he was appointed private secretary to Hon. J. J. C. Abbott, and in 1880 was made private secretary to Sir Alexander Galt, Canada's first High Commissioner to London.

Mr. Colmer has since served under Sir Charles Tupper and Lord Strathcona. He leaves his Canadian office with the keenest regret, but with the warmest friendship for the staff.

Mr. Colmer is to join the well-known banking firm of Coates, Son & Co., as a partner. He says he will maintain his interest in the Dominion as he feels he is Canadian in everything but birth.

Belleville Defeated by Marlboros by 9 to 4

The Belleville hockey team, winners of this district of the O.H.A., were defeated in the first of the home and home games with the Marlboros in the O.H.A. series, on the Mutual street rink last night by a score of 9 to 4.

Norwood and Fenelon Falls played the first of their home and home games in the T.V.L. last night on the Norwood rink, which resulted in a win for Norwood by a score of 8 to 1.

On the team representing the Bank of Commerce, Toronto, in their game with the local Ontario Bank seven on Wednesday night, were to be found only three players of the Commerce team, the rest of the players being the "pick" of the other bank teams and financial concerns in Toronto. The locals, who can justly be proud of themselves, belong to one institution, the Ontario Bank. On the list of names of players sent down on Tuesday, only three of the same appeared on the ice. Had the locals been unsportsmanlike they too could have rung in players other than the Bank team, and brought a crushing defeat to the visitors. But they preferred to be true sports, and chose defeat rather than misrepresent their team by playing those not employed by the Ontario Bank. If the Bank of Commerce had brought down that institution's team there would have been a different tale to tell, the score of 12—9 in favor of the amalgamated team from the different hockey aggregations in Toronto would have resulted in the Ontario seven having the long end of the score.

Norwood and the T.A.S. will play here on Monday night.

VIOLATION OF THE LIQUOR LAW

A Charge Laid Against a Well Known Hotel Keeper

At the Police Court yesterday morning a well known hotel man was charged with allowing liquor to be sold during prohibited hours, and three men were up for buying liquor during prohibited hours.

The case against the former was laid over till Saturday.

The three were accused of obtaining liquor on Saturday night after seven o'clock. The first defendant acknowledged having bought a drink after seven o'clock and he stated that he treated one of the others in question. He was found guilty and fined $2 to be paid in ten days.

The second defendant denied what the former had said regarding his being treated and stated that he had not entered the bar room that evening and was in the hotel but a few minutes altogether. The first defendant was then called upon as a witness and he again swore that he had treated the second defendant. The magistrate said that there must have been a serious error somewhere as the statements of the two men were exactly adverse to one another; he said to be guilty of perjury was far worse than to have to pay a small fine which would be the result of a conviction in the case in question. The second defendant was asked to again make his statement and upon swearing that he had not taken liquor he was discharged. The third defendant was also discharged.

WANT 5,000 IMMIGRANTS FOR BEET SUGAR INDUSTRY

A Deputation from Berlin Wait Upon Premier Ross and Hon. Mr. Dryden

A deputation from Berlin representing the Ontario Sugar Company, waited upon Premier Ross and Hon. Mr. Dryden this morning, and asked for Government assistance in bringing out, if possible, 5,000 immigrants, preferably from Germany, to settle in the neighborhood of Berlin, and help in the sugar-beet growing industry of the district. Last year the farmers of the Berlin district who put in large crops of sugar beets were greatly handicapped in their harvesting operations by the scarcity of labor. It was found almost impossible to take off the harvest with the help available. Chinamen were brought in from Toronto and other cities, some 400 Indians were hired, and finally a great harvesting bee in which hundreds of school children assisted, was gotten up to save the crop. This year it is expected that the area under crop will be quite as large as last year, and that the labor problem will be just as serious unles active steps are now taken to bring immigrants into that part of the country. New sugar factories are also talked of in Whitby, Peterborough, Lindsay, Newmarket and St. Catharines, and in case they materialize and the industry grows accordingly, the Government will have its hands more than full in meeting all the demands for assistance in securing labor.

The Berlin deputation preferred German immigrants, if possible, because the Germans are best adapted for the character of the work required. The German farmer is assisted in the field by his whole family.

Premier Ross promised favorable consideration of the request made, and Government assistance will be given the effort to induce immigrants to settle in the sugar-beet districts. —Toronto News.

VAST WORK CARRIED ON BY THE BRITISH IN INDIA

Vast Works of Irrigation to Redeem the Country

MILLIONS OF ACRES BEING MADE FERTILE

Details Given in an Official Report by a United States Consul-General.

Washington, Feb. 19.—A report to the state department by R. F. Patterson, United States consul general at Calcutta, tells how the British government in India has long been carrying on an irrigation work—the most extensive in the world. In the past fifty years the government has spent $150,000,000 in this way.

SOME OF THE WORKS.

The works on the Ganges were opened in 1854 by Lord Dalhousie, then Governor General of India. Since that date, however, they have been vastly enlarged and improved, and now the total length of the main canals and branches is 1,606 miles and the area irrigated 1,605,740 acres.

The Bari Doab Canal, 363 miles long, irrigates 77,451 acres. The East Jumna and West Jumna Canals, 488 miles long, irrigated 946,239 acres.

The Sirhind Canal, 319 miles long, irrigates 782,700 acres.

The Sone project, which is only partly completed, extends 267 miles, and irrigates 440,706 acres.

The Chenab Canal, opened in 1887, when it irrigated only 10,854 acres, now, through a succession of extensions, irrigates 1,500,000 acres, and this area will be increased in the near future to 2,000,000 acres. The total length of its main channel and branches is 429 miles.

The Jhelum Canal, recently opened, will irrigate the large tract of arid country lying between the town of that name and the Indus River to the south of the Salt Range.

In the Bombay Presidency there are several large works which, combined, irrigate 1,908,793 acres.

IN MADRAS PRESIDENCY.

But the irrigation works in the Madras Presidency are on the most colossal scale. They were projected in 1836 by Sir Anthony Cotton, a hydraulic engineer of great ability. His object was to cover all India with a system of canals which would serve both for irrigation and navigation. If this project had been carried out, the material condition of the country would have been transformed. Among Sir Anthony's great works are those on Cavery and Coleroon Rivers, in the districts of Trinchinopoly, Tanjore and South Arcot.

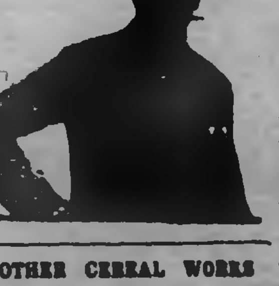
The financial success of the Cavery Delta Works, which irrigate 894,123 acres, has been marked. The last official return—1900—1901—gives the earnings on the capital invested as 31 per cent., while the increased value of private property has been equally large. In seasons of scarcity these districts have not only been free from the horrors of famine, but have also been able to pour large supplies of food into the stricken provinces.

The next great work of Sir Anthony Cotton was the dam across the Godavery River. It is of greater magnitude and presented more engineering difficulties than the dams on the Cavery and Coleroon. The total width of the river at the point where it was decided to build the dam is rather more than 3 miles. Intercepting islands, however, reduce the length of the dam proper to 2 1-2 miles. The profits from these works are less than those returned by the Cavery system, as the cost of keeping up the former is considerably greater. But despite this fact they yield over 15 per cent. on the money invested, irrigate 749,812 acres of land, and have converted a region once among the poorest in India into one of the most prosperous.

Further south, on the border of the Madura district and of the native state of Travancore, there has recently been constructed an irrigation work commonly known as the Periyar project, even more ambitious in design and presenting greater difficulties of execution than any yet undertaken in India. It consists of turning eastward the course of the River Periyar, a large stream rising in the Travancore hills, which, flowing northward, has hitherto fruitlessly poured its fertilizing treasure into the Arabian Sea. Now, by means of a great dam, one of the largest in the world, and a tunnel through the Ghats, 1 1-2 miles in length, it has been compelled to mingle with the Vaiyar River, and the vast volume of water spreads plenty through the land as far as the Bay of Bengal. When fully completed the works will irrigate at least 1,500,000 acres, excellent for the cultivation of rice.

There are many other similar works of considerable magnitude, but those Mr. Patterson mentions will give an idea of the vast scheme of irrigation that is being carried out in India.

LORD KITCHENER NAMED THE SILENT DESTROYER



The Hero of the South African War is a Coming Man

London, Feb. 19—Lord Kitchener is already spoken of as the successor of Lord Roberts as the Commander-in-Chief of the British army. He is regarded as the coming man, and worthy to be classed with Marlborough, and Wellington.

Kitchener is a frightening, silent man—well fitted to go down in British history as the silent destroyer. Less man than soldier, less man than slayer, less man than machine—mark him as he moves through the dead routine of field survey, the dead routine of drilling hopeless native troops, the dead routine of a practice march—iron-jawed, wordless, expressionless, emotionless—mark him moving living men toward other living men on the battlefields. Dongola, Atbara, Omdurman. Move after move, check, checkmate! For all that any man knows this man moved other men, discarded them, took them, lost them as calm minded as the chess player loses and takes chessmen.

All the world saw the man, with his unreadable, stiff face, move to its place on the vast, bloody chessboard of the Transvaal—a chessboard from which England's pieces were being swept fast; all the world saw him move the pieces. All the world saw the game still wavering, going here and going there, with England's pawns still being swept away. And then! Checkmate!

ANOTHER CEREAL WORKS

Hamilton to have a big Cereal Concern

Hamilton, Ont, February 19.—Hamilton has secured another new industry and an important one. Edward Ellsworth & Co., manufacturers of cereals and proprietors of the Force Food Company, of Buffalo, have leased the Copp Bros.' building on York street, from the McClary Manufacturing Co., of London, and will be in operation here within 25 days. The tenders for the alterations to the building, new boilers and machinery, a large new stack and other improvements have been forwarded to Buffalo, and the work will be begun in a few days, the specifications calling for the completion of all the work before April 1st.

The company will employ between 150 and 200 hands in this city at the outset.

A GOOD CIVIC MOVEMENT

The Times has once or twice referred to the splendid work that has been done by the American League for Civic Improvement since its organization in August, 1901, when it was evolved, at a convention held in Buffalo, from the National League of Improvement Associations, organized in Springfield, Ohio, October 1900.

The League was founded in response to a positive popular demand and it is now a concrete force in the civic life of the Republic— with aims and objects that commend it to every progressive community having a desire to improve itself. Attached to the League are many of the most eminent men in the United States —scholars, statesmen, and scientists who have devoted a portion of their time to the study of civic questions. Our friends south of the line have a rare capacity for organization. They believe that by collective effort only can men and women holding views that require to be crystallized into legislation accomplish the purpose they have in hand. The American League for Civic Improvement has broadened the life of the municipalities of the Republic. It has issued pamphlets by the thousand. Magazines have been established. Books on Municipal Progress, Engineering, School Decoration, Improvement of Towns and Cities, have been printed, and the counsel and expert services of leaders in thought and action have been engaged to promote work along progressive civic lines.

That the influence of this League should spread to Canada need surprise no one who takes an interest in the movements of the day. Nature has been lavish to us, but the materialism of the age has destroyed too many of her beautiful works. The feeling is now, that our villages, towns and cities should steadily pursue a policy of progress in the betterment of our surroundings, and many of Ontario's municipalities are at present earnestly engaged in the work of improvement.

WHY WAS THE HAGUE TRIBUNAL CREATED

The governments of Europe would satisfy a natural curiosity all over the world, if they would explain just why they created the Hague tribunal of arbitration. This was a purely European idea. Russia suggested it, France advocated it, the central powers took it up, and Great Britain came in. The United States took just as much part as was needed to protect its interests; heartily favoring the idea, but having no great confidence in the sincerity of its great and good friends, the powers of Europe.

The Hague tribunal has been in existence for three or four years, and only one case has been brought before it. That was a dispute between the United States and Mexico which arose out of the California cession. No European case has been sent to the tribunal, not even any case to which a European power was a party. There have been no end of disputes which properly belonged in this court. Not one European power has kept its solemn pledge to resort to The Hague and invite other contending parties to do so. The very creators of the tribunal avoid it like a pestilence, and resort to every kind of shift and evasion rather than go before it.

Is this because the great powers do not seek justice in the settlement of international disputes? That is what is said of private persons when they avoid the courts and try to enforce their claims by domineering violence. These Venezuela claims—apart from those which involve national honor and must be paid in cash—seem precisely the sort the Hague tribunal was made to adjudicate. All of them are mysterious and some of them are suspicious. The best are for losses sustained by deliberately taking risks for high profit and the worst are believed to be honeycombed with fraud.

Surely litigants who wanted only justice would submit to have such claims sifted by an impartial court; but the allies, influenced chiefly by Germany, have wriggled away from this proposal every time it was made. Even the question of preference of their claims which was to be sent to The Hague, is so guarded in the protocols that it will be possible to adjust it outside.

—The prospects for building operations this spring are very good.

To Set Her Free

(COPYRIGHTED)

By FLORENCE WARDEN.

Author of "The House in the Marsh," "A Prince of Darkness," etc.

standing with her back turned towards the new comer, and whom she had not noticed as she entered, started perceptibly, and moved so that she could get a look at the speaker. Even before the manageress could answer Norma's question, the other woman, with a stealthy glance at Norma as she went, passed quickly and quietly out into the street.

CHAPTER V.

Yes, Mr. Darwen was in the hotel, the manageress said. Then Norma hesitated and asked:

"Did the lady who's just gone out ask for Mr. Darwen?"

The manageress look surprised.

"I thought she was with you," she answered. "She came in just before you did, and hadn't spoken when you followed her."

It was rather a strange circumstance, Norma thought, as, much too shy to send up her married name, she gave the message that some one wished to see Mr. Darwen.

So she was shown into the coffee-room, and in a few minutes Astley came in. He seemed surprised to see her.

"You never sent up any name," said he, "or at least they didn't give me any."

"I didn't like to," said Norma, who suddenly found herself afflicted with an overpowering shyness in Astley's presence. She was realizing to the full the strangeness of the fact that this man, who yesterday had been but an acquaintance, was to-day legally her husband.

Astley, who had been considering the matter also, smiled a little.

"Why not?" said he.

They had the room all to themselves and could talk at their ease. But there was something soothing, too, in the knowledge that it was a public apartment, and that, as they were liable to the entrance of a waiter or a chance visitor at any moment, there was a sufficient excuse for keeping the conversation at a pleasantly common-place level.

There was a pause before Norma said, rather hurriedly, as she looked down at the fire before which she was standing:

"Were you expecting anybody else, then?"

"Oh, no. Jack Fielding sometimes looks in, but they know him and bring up his name, if he doesn't come straight up himself. But to see you is an unexpected pleasure."

Norma raised her eyebrows and shrugged her shoulders dismally. She had inherited the habit of certain little demonstrative gestures from her mother.

"Pleasure!" she echoed, with mocking lips.

"It is a great pleasure," returned Astley, as he came close beside her, and leaned against the mantelpiece, as she was doing. "Or at least it would be, if I were not afraid that something has happened to worry you or put you out. Come, what is it?"

He did not touch her, but he bent his head a little towards her and smiled reassuringly into her face, as if to remind her that he was her staunch friend at least.

Then her face quivered, and she almost sobbed out:—"It's been dreadful! Worse, much worse than I expected. They were hateful, all of them, especially my aunt. At least I suppose Robert was really as hateful as she, only I despise him so that he doesn't count. But oh! It's beautiful to be able to despise him only, and not to be afraid of him, too."

Astley laughed, but not mirthfully.

"I'm afraid this is only the beginning of the trouble," said he. "Why couldn't you keep your secret until I was there to back you up?"

"Well, I thought it wasn't fair, for one thing, that they should set upon you and tear you to pieces when you were not in fault. So I thought I would break it to them and get the explosion over by myself. Only I didn't know how bad it was going to be. And then, I suppose, being only a woman, I was bursting with my secret, too. So that when Robert made one of his favorite allusions to the happy time we should have when I was married to him, I couldn't help flashing upon him the answer that that was impossible, as I was married already."

"I can imagine the effect of such an announcement at Mrs. Bascot's trim tea-table," laughed Astley.

Norma smiled a little too.

"It was rather funny, though, as you may guess, I wasn't able to see the fun of it at the time. Now I come to think of it, they were really like a cageful of lions when the keeper takes their dinner away. They spared neither me nor you, and at last they made me so furious that I ran away and came here, to give them time to settle down."

"You must dine with me," said Astley. "It will be rather fun, won't it?"

And he looked at her with a gleam of mischief in his eyes.

Norma hesitated, and looked puzzled and distressed. The complications brought about by their new relationship suddenly appeared to her as they had never appeared before. Supposing one of her uncle's acquaintances were to hear of her dining here with Astley Darwen, how everybody would talk! What rumors would be set flying about, making it doubtful whether confession or concealment would be best! Even matrimony in a registry office had its claims, its disadvantages.

Astley, meanwhile, had rung the bell, and, when the waiter appeared, startled Norma by ordering dinner for himself and Mrs. Darwen. She was confounded. The moment the man had left the room, she turned abruptly to Astley:

"Why did you say that? You shouldn't have said that," she remonstrated, breathlessly. "You know how people talk, especially here."

"It's precisely because I do know how they talk, especially here," retorted Astley, calmly, "that I couldn't allow my wife to run the risk of gossip at her expense."

Never Too Old To Get Well.

Stricken With Paralysis at Eighty-Eight Years of Age, Mr. F. A. Knapp Comes Very Near Death's Door.

Without Hope of a Cure He Tried Powley's Liquified Ozone and Was Pleasantly Surprised With Beneficial Results.

Gradually He Improved, Day by Day Growing Stronger, Until Every Trace of This Usually Fatal Disease Was Eradicated.

POWLEY'S LIQUIFIED OZONE CURES DISEASE BY DESTROYING DISEASE GERMS WHEREVER LOCATED.

It is with great pleasure I add a few particulars of the perfect relief of a somewhat dangerous and very disagreeable ailment with which I have been afflicted for about three years past.

The several consultations I have had on the nature of this complaint doubtlessly convinces medical men that I was suffering from paralysis, and the only advice possible to give under the circumstances was to keep quiet, without any hopes of a perfect eradication of the disease itself.

In order to exhibit to you a more detailed synopsis of the usual operation of the disease I will state how the last attack proceeded in its course. On May 14, 1902, while spending the day with friends at Shannon street, the first symptoms appeared in the third finger of the left hand, very similar to a gentle shock of electricity. In this manner it crept up the arm, reaching the brain, when all power of articulate speech ceased and a comatose state supervened, lasting about four hours, when sensation gradually returned. Since that time very slight symptoms of ptylism have been experienced, but at present no remains exist.

Now, in order to account for so sudden a total cure of such a generally fatal affliction, we have to refer to two causes, either the intermediate counsel of Higher Powers or the result of happily having taken the contents of a small bottle of Powley's Liquified Ozone, taken, not with the hope of curing paralysis, but to try its effect on the system.

I have since seen wonderful results from the use of this remedy, and earnestly recommend its application to all sufferers.

I am, yours sincerely,

The Reason Why Ozone Cures

"How is it," enquires a correspondent, "that Ozone cures Rheumatism as well as Consumption, Asthma as well as Kidney Trouble, and Catarrh as well as Dyspepsia? These diseases are not at all similar, and a medicine that would cure one of them would probably be useless with the other."

The answer to this is: Powley's Liquified Ozone is not a medicine. It contains no drugs, but simply cures by destroying disease germs wherever located. Medical men are unanimous in stating that nine-tenths of all disease is caused by disease germs in some form. It has been conclusively proven in hundreds of different cases that Ozone destroys these germs and that when they are destroyed the patient invariably gets well. It is for this reason that Ozone effects cures that seem almost impossible and it is also the reason it cures so many different diseases.

Powley's Liquified Ozone is sold only by reliable druggists—never by peddlers. The price is 50 cents and $1.00 per bottle. Our free booklet on receipt of your name and address.

The Cracker Jack as an Investment

APPEALS TO THE CONSERVATIVE

THE CRACKER JACK group of mining claims consists of 120 acres of property in the Cracker Creek district, Baker county, Eastern Oregon. This group of claims contains the extension of the Cracker-Oregon veins on the south; a split from the E. & E. on the southwest and parallel values of the North Pole joining on the west.

The trend of values in the Mother Lode system of this district is NORTHWARD. It starts in the Golconda and continues through the Columbia, E. & E., Cracker, Oregon, and North Pole, increasing in value up to and into the Cracker Jack claims.

In four months the Cracker-Oregon stock advanced from 25 cents to $2.00—its par value. In four months the Golconda stock increased more than 100% over its original selling price.

The Cracker Jack contains the values. They can be traced; the veins out crop and the focus of the richest fissures is in the Cracker Jack property.

The Cracker Jack is not a mine; neither is it merely a prospect. It has been proved. Next April a force of men will be put to work and development will be continued day and night.

This is a tunnel proposition. It can be opened by a series of tunnels and shafts, and the free milling ore can be treated on the property. As an investment, the Cracker Jack is secure. It has vast ore bodies as its security; it has a conservative management as further security.

The policy of the Cracker Jack Consolidated Gold Mining Company is to open this rich property, build a mill and PAY DIVIDENDS. This is an investment for conservative men. It is not sensational. The mine will produce ore just as rich in value as that brought out by any of the surrounding properties.

The stock will advance in price [illegible].

This is a proposition that commends itself to investigation of the most searching kind. Look into it, learn something of its directorate; find out if these claims are well founded. In other words, write for a prospectus to

STOCK MARKETS

UP TO FREIGHT RATES

New York, Feb. 19—The receipts for services rendered are the basic points determining the dimensions of earnings. Advances in rates mean improved net results; improved net results mean a higher market, also a sustained one at the advanced figures. All the roads are putting advanced rates into effect. An important meeting of railway interests convened at the hotel Schenley, Pittsburg, on Tuesday last. It was the representatives of the Western Pennsylvania and Eastern Ohio Traffic Association. The purpose of the meeting was to fix freight rates for coal for the coming year. There was a general advance in all directions. The vice-president of the Pennsylvania lines, the new manager of the Pittsburg and Lake Erie, the vice-president of the Baltimore and Ohio, and the general manager of the Norfolk and Western attended. The other roads represented were the Lake Shore, Erie, Baltimore and Ohio, South Western, Wheeling and Lake Erie, Hocking Valley, Chesapeake and Ohio, the C. H. & D., and Detroit Southern. Rates from Pittsburg to Chicago were raised to ten cents, the base rate being $1.05; from Ohio points to Chicago the advance was from $1.50 to $1.60; and from West Virginia to Chicago from $1.50 to $2.00. The Lake rates from the Pittsburg districts were put up from .63 to .65. Those from the Ohio districts, from 75 to 85, and from the West Virginia districts from 81 3-8 to 91 3-4. Commercial rates from mines in all districts were increased from 90 to 100 the latter rates applying to the coal not shipped over. The lakes. Short haul rates were increased from 60 to 70. All the western, south and northwestern lines have been advancing their freight rates; the southern roads are doing likewise. Eastern lines are also following suit. Despite the increased charge there is not the slightest diminution in business offering. Net results for February and the coming March and April will consequently be magnificent. Prices of railway shares must feel the result. There can be no question as to ultimate results. Fears of trouble at the Balkans can at the most have but temporary effect. Should it cause temporary concessions in prices take advantage of them by purchasing stocks. It is easier and more advantageous to purchase in moments of market weakness thus brought about than to do so when prices are on the upward swing. Cause always brings effect in Wall Street. We have today laid before you the most powerful and certain reasons for anticipating a most decided spring advance in market prices.

Summary—There was more of the sagging market today and in the afternoon the bears made a vigorous demonstration against prices. The delayed mails and crippled wire service kept buying orders out of the market, while the advent of the three days holiday also deterred buyers. The short interest has greatly increased. The reaction in copper at its extreme was three points. It was to have been expected after its sharp and continued advance. At the lower range of prices the clique absorbed offerings. To sell stocks now over the holidays will be, in our opinion, to lose them, or pay more for them afterwards. The weakness of Penna., N.Y.C. and M.R. is as pronounced now, and the gossip, given circulation is as bearish as prices were bullish and gossip likewise, last Sept., when Penna. was 170 and N.Y.C above 165. Both should be accepted with a grain of salt. Money closed last loan 2 3-4. Sales 654,300.

INTERNATIONAL ELECTRIC MINING Co
185 SUMMER ST., - BOSTON, MASS.

A Dividend Payer for the Past Five Years.

12 PER CENT GUARANTEED

Capital Stock, $500,000. Par, $1.00, full paid and non-assessable

Over eight thousand tons of $50.00 ore mined and smelted from this group of mines.

A limited number of shares of the stock of this Company now offered at seventy-five cents per share. This price will shortly be increased to par. Stock registered by the International Trust Company, Boston, who is also the transfer agent.

This Company has a small capital stock.

The International Electric Mining Company owns seven mines and milling plant.

The Brooklyn and New York mines of this Company lie north of and join the Victor and the Hoodlum—two rich mines that are now being worked by California parties. On the west lies the Electric Mining Company's mines. In these mines are millions of dollars' worth of rich ore in sight. On the south, adjoining the Berlin mine of this Company, is the Montazuma and Clipper. From the Montazuma over three million dollars has been taken within 50 feet of the grass roots.

This Company owns free and clear seven mines of twenty acres each, all containing rich ore, located in the Arabia and Trinity mining districts, Humboldt County, Nevada. The Company has worked these mines for the past five years, and is now driving a tunnel to cut out a rich ledge about 200 feet from the surface. The Arabia mining district, in which these mines are located, is a lively district—a great many men being employed there. The tunnel now being driven on the Brooklyn mine has about 250 feet already completed. When the tunnel cuts the main ledge, which has just been reached by the Victor tunnel about 800 feet, the Brooklyn will have about 300 feet stoping ground, which runs high in gold and silver, ever $60.00 per ton.

The Company is offering for a short time a limited amount of stock for the enlargement of its plant and the working force at the mines and for the completion of the Brooklyn tunnel.

This Company has thousands of tons of rich ore in sight.

We are not making a lot of talk, because it is unnecessary. What the investor wants is dividends, which we have paid for the past five years. Now if you want a safe 12 per cent. investment, let us hear from you.

THE OLD COMSTOCK

A California mining paper has this to say: "Nevada, that grand old stamping ground of mushroom millionaires, who plucked enough wealth from her prolific fields to build mansions, banks and big hotels in San Francisco, and palaces in Paris and London, is again astonishing the world by making more millionaires and by yielding millions in gold and silver from a new field which rivals the old Comstock lode in the days of its pristine splendor. Not only in Tonopah and Arabia districts, where within the past year nearly ten millions have been exposed, are operations active, but in every mining district in the Silver State are operations active, and Nevada will once more take her place among the big producers, the peer of any of them."

Mr. Geo. D. Burton, Treas.,
International Electric Mining Co.,
Boston, Mass.

Dear Sir,—During the six months of October and November of this year I visited the mines of the International Electric Mining Company, situated in Arabia and Trinity mining districts, Humboldt County, Nevada. I found the country remarkably mineralized; in fact, the possibilities of the country as a mineral producing country are yet unknown. For years it certainly has produced well. The work now being done in the Arabia and Trinity districts establishes the fact that they are fine producers.

I also found that there is a great deal of interest being taken in these properties, which have produced a great deal of wealth the past quarter of a century.

in the 190 foot shaft of The Electric Spark Gold Mining Company's property is an absolute assurance of large dividends at no distant day; and those who buy now, and take advantage of this exceptional opportunity will make from 50 to 100 per cent. yearly on their investment.

There has never been a mining investment offered where the future value of the property could be more clearly shown than in this, or where the returns could be estimated more certainly or accurately.

It is simply a question of time and work. The risk has all been taken, and the investor today can look forward to future dividends with certainty and satisfaction. Incorporated as we are for only $200,000, par value $1.00, makes the stock all the more valuable, and located in the midst of some of the best mines in Gilpin County, Colorado, the smallest county in the State, which in 1902 produced $4,000,000.00, is another assurance of a big dividend payer.

By permission the Company refers to the Rocky Mountain National Bank, and the Weekly Register Call, of Central City, Colorado.

A limited amount of shares for sale at 20 cents per share. Remember this stock is fully paid and non-assessable; is all common and in a company organized expressly to operate this mine.

"THE FRIDAY MINE"
Located at Pearl, Willow Creek, Boise County, Idaho
About 18 Miles Northwest of Boise City

THE FRIDAY GOLD MINING CO. is a corporation duly organized under the laws of the State of Oregon, with head office at Sumpter, Oregon, owning and controlling "The Friday Mine." Capital Stock, $1 000,000, divided into 1,000,000 shares. Par value $1.00 per share, fully paid and non-assessable, no personal liability. 250,000 shares have been set aside and placed in the treasury of the Company to be sold for the purpose of equipping the "Friday Mine" with machinery. It is for this purpose we are offering you stock in this great mine. This plant will handle 60 tons of Friday ore every 24 hours. The general average of the Friday ore is over $20 per ton. The ore as it was shipped to the smelters at Salt Lake averaging over $45.00 per ton. The Friday is highly developed, great quantities of ore blocked out and in sight ready for the mill. As soon as the mill is completed the Friday Mine will again pay dividends.

Large ore bodies which will net to the company $50 000, for the first few months, are now blocked out ready for the mill. As soon as the mill is completed you will draw your regular monthly dividend. It is safe, certain and conservative.

We are not soliciting your money for the purpose of developing the mine, but only for the purpose of erecting a mill to work the ore bodies in the mine. The company is officered by men of well known business ability, mining experience and strict integrity.

Hon. Martin H. Jacobs, State Mining Inspector of mines, for the State of Idaho says: "The Friday has a large amount of good ore in sight, and there is no question about its being a good paying property."

Thunder Mountain!

is the richest gold producing camp in the United States, and also the largest. The Thunder Mountain district, in central Idaho, is twenty miles wide and forty miles long. In comparison with this we have Cripple Creek, four miles wide and seven miles long. In many of the Thunder Mountain mines ore has already been reached that carries ONE THOUSAND DOLLARS IN GOLD TO THE TON. All of the Thunder Mountain ore is free milling, which means that it can be treated by the cheapest extraction process known—the ordinary stamp mill. It can be both mined and milled at a cost not to exceed $2 a ton. The past years operations in the several working mines have opened up millions of tons of ore that will give a net profit of from $10 to $30 a ton, enabling the respective companies to pay dividends at a rate never before equalled. Such is the showing and the prospect of the

EAST DEWEY GOLD MINING CO.

which unless all indications are at fault, will become the largest producer in the district. The EAST DEWEY mine, which it owns outright, is located directly on Thunder Mountain, just east of the famous "Dewey" mine, which already has $60,000,000 of ore in sight. The surface area of the East Dewey mine is one hundred and twenty acres—six full quartz claims. The company has also secured the big GOLDEN GATE mine, in the Big Creek section of the Thunder Mountain district—which has been so aptly termed "The Pot of Gold"—and is now developing the mine with all possible speed. For a distance of 9,000 feet, nearly two miles, the Golden Gate mines cover a mineralized ledge that is 900 feet wide, with an average height above the tunnel level of 500 feet, thus giving it the largest exposed tonnage of any mine in the west.

If you would share in the enormous profits which these figures indicate and which these developments promise, invest your money in "East Dewey" Stock. It can be bought to-day for 10 Cents a Share. Its par value is $1.

If the East Dewey mines are what they appear to be, and there is absolutely no reason to doubt or question these indications, this stock will eventually be worth at least $10 a share, and to-day you can buy it for ten cents. PRICE ADVANCES TO FIFTEEN CENTS ON FEBRUARY 28th. 5% discount allowed for cash. Stock sold at flat price of 10 cents on deferred payments, 10% with application, and 10% monthly until paid. Full particulars, prospectus, etc., on request.

BUY! WHY?
BECAUSE THE SOUR LAKE OIL CO.

Has placed four-fifths of its stock in the treasury for development work; and because

Oil is reached in less than half the depth required on Spindletop Heights in Beaumont;

The people in Canada are well acquainted with the management, which is in the hands of HON. JOHN L. BITTINGER, United States Consul General to Canada; F. S. Ashley, Vice-President of the Massachusetts Securities Co., and W L. Marston, Vice-President of the American Union Oil and Refining Co.

These gentlemen have made a dividend payer out of one company and have raised the value of its stock from 5c per share to par value, or 25c, within a very short time;

The company is operating in the Sour Lake field, where fewer wells will tap the oil than at Spindletop; this insures a greater flow of oil, and it is of a better quality;

This is the first allotment of shares at the present price of TEN CENTS PER SHARE; it is the lowest price at which you can buy, and the time left in which to buy at TEN CENTS is short.

TOWN AND COUNTY NEWS

DASHES HERE AND THERE BY TIMES' REPORTERS

Apprentices Wanted

We want a good, smart boy, at The Times' Bindery, and also a smart boy to learn press work. Apply at the business office.

A Good Site

Mr. J. J. Turner, jr., writes a very thoughtful letter to the press, suggesting that new city buildings be erected on Central Park. He also suggests that as Mr. Bradburn has given up the idea of erecting an opera house, that the town do so. The Council would do well to consider these matters.

University Boys

A meeting of the Toronto University Alumni Association, for the County of Peterborough, is called for Friday, Feb. 20th, at 8 p.m., in the Y.M.C.A. The meeting is called for the purpose of electing officers and the discussion of important university matters. Mr. Duncan Walker, school inspector, is the secretary of the association.

Mr. Fair's Generosity

Mr. Thomas Rutherford, Chief of the Fire Department, is in receipt of a letter from Mr. Robert Fair, expressing hearty appreciation of the work of the brigade in connection with the recent fire, and enclosing as a token thereof $25. Mr. Rutherford desires to express the thanks of the Brigade to Mr. Fair for his generous gift.

Warm Weather Near at Hand

The welcome information has reached us that the cold spell which has held Peterborough in its grip for the past ten days was practically ended. For to-day higher temperature is promised, and it will be still warmer to-morrow. The lowest temperature yesterday was at 6 o'clock, when the thermometer registered 10 below. The mercury rose during the day to 10 above zero, but by 10 p.m. it had dropped 2 points.

A Matter of Precaution

One of the students of the Business College having been stricken with scarlet fever, Mr. Pringle thought it wise to close the school until Monday. This was done as an act of precaution, and will be appreciated not only by the many students at that popular institution, but also by the citizens of the town. Happily there is no danger of the spread of the disease, as the college is a place where no germs can live, being light, cheerful and healthy.

How to Beautify the Complexion

To have a soft, smooth skin, free from pimples, the blood must be healthy and pure. Ferrozone invigorates enfeebled blood, and cleanses it of all impurities and poisons; it brings color to the lips and cheeks, brilliancy to the eyes, whitens the teeth and sweetens the breath. No tonic compares with Ferrozone in rapid action and permanent results. Try it. Price 50c. at druggists or Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

The "Times" Invited.

The Times is in receipt of an invitation to a reception to be held at the new station of the Chicago Great Western Railway, Marshalltown, Iowa, by Mr. J. A. Ellis, agent of the company. Mr. Ellis is an old Peterborough boy, having been employed here by the Canadian Pacific Railway. His success in the west is not surprising to those who know him, for Mr. Ellis is clever, ambitious and knows his business thoroughly. The Times will not be there in person, but will instead dispatch a full carload, freight prepaid, of good wishes for the genial and popular agent at Marshalltown, and his charming wife.

REVIVAL SERVICES DRAW BIG CROWDS

Yesterday's Meetings were Largely Attended by the Citizens

MR. TURK'S POWERFUL SERMON

The Meeting Last Night in the George Street Church—Meetings to be Held To-day

The business men's meeting in connection with the evangelistic services held in the Y.W.C.A. yesterday forenoon, was the largest and most enthusiastic one held so far in that place.

The bible reading by the Rev. Mr. Karby in the George street church at 3 p.m. was well attended by a very much larger crowd than usual.

In the evening the evangelist, Rev. Mr. Turk, preached the sermon and was listened to with increased interest. The rev. gentleman is peculiarly himself, and stamps every thought with his own strong personality, and his powerful appeals to individual hearers, combine to make him one of the most interesting speakers that Peterborough has heard for some time. The fine singing of the evangelists is a decided attraction.

The Rev. Mr. Turk took for his text I. Thess. 1 and 6.

He said that what Toronto was to Ontario; Thessalonica was to Asia Minor—the chief centre of commercial and political importance.

The Apostle saw that if Christianity was to succeed it must be established in the centre of civilization. He recognized that the cities were the strategical points.

The same is true to-day. We save the world. The epistle, from which the text was taken, is a letter to the Christian church at Thessalonica. The Apostle says "Our Gospel came not unto you in word only; but also in power and in Holy Ghost, and in much assurance."

Our subject, then, is "The power of the Gospel."

First, it came with power, in that it was preached with power.

The Apostle believed in his own message and experience, its power in his own life. No man can be a successful preacher, without this experience.

Second place, the Gospel came with power because it was accompanied by powerful manifestations.

The Thessalonicans turned from their idols, to serve the living God.

The only Christianity that is worth having, is that which manifests itself in the life.

The great question before us tonight, how this Gospel is come to us. We have heard sermons mighty enough to wake the dead; but we have not been moved. We have, all of us, an intellectual belief. But many have not received the gospel into our hearts, and our lives are not affected.

A true revival means that we receive the gospel into our hearts and live it out before the world.

The meeting in the Y.W.C.A. at 10 a.m., and the one to be held in the George street church at 3 p.m., will be the last held at these hours this week.

Every man interested is expected to bring some other man with him to the meeting in the opera house on Sunday afternoon.

The children's meeting this evening at 4 p.m., in the George street church will in all probability attract a very large crowd.

NEW COUNTY BRIDGE

Will Probably Soon be Built at Gannon's Narrows

Warden Crowe, Mr. G. W. Fitzgerald, chairman of the Road and Bridge committee, and County Engineer Belcher, drove down to Wallace Point Bridge to inspect the structure on Wednesday last. The Engineer has recommended that 20 cords of stone be placed around the piers.

Yesterday morning, the Warden, Mr. Fitzgerald and Mr. Belcher visited Gannon's Narrows with a view of taking measurements for the purpose of a bridge at that point from Ennismore to Harvey. If the report is favorable, the matter will have early attention.

AT HYMEN'S ALTAR

Miss Annie O'Connell is Wedded to Mr. D. J. Devine

In St. Peter's cathedral, at 10.30 yesterday morning, a pretty wedding was solemnized by Rev. Dr. O'Brien, when Mr. D. J. Devine claimed for his bride Miss Annie O'Connell, Concession street, Ashburnham. The ceremony was witnessed by a large number of the friends of this popular young couple. Miss Mary O'Connell, cousin of the bride, was bridesmaid, while Mr. W. F. Crowley performed the duties of best man. An enjoyable wedding breakfast was served at the conclusion of the ceremony at the residence of the bride's mother.

Mr. and Mrs. Devine will reside in the Crystal Block, George street.

Beet Sugar Industry

Lindsay and Peterborough people started in together to talk up a beet sugar factory, says the post, but they're not likely to come out together. The enthusiasm of our pioneer agitators was dashed by the cool reception given the project by our farmers, who did not evince any eagerness to cultivate beets at the prices deemed remunerative in Michigan and elsewhere. Peterborough people, however, displayed the right kind of pluck, and as a result there is a strong probability that in the near future many of our farmers will be making contracts with a Peterborough factory.

Baby Costs Too Much

When the price paid is the mother's health and happiness. The father doesn't realize as he romps with the child what years of wifely suffering must be set against the baby's laughter.

Chronic invalidism is a high price to pay for the painful joy of maternity, yet it is at such a cost that many a woman becomes a mother. Such a price is too much because it is more than nature asks.

By the use of Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription maternity is made practically painless, and a quick convalescence is assured in almost every case.

"I am pleased to give my testimony and wish I could find words strong enough to induce other sufferers to use Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription," writes Mrs. Wesley Guy, of Kemptville, Ont., Box 4. "For eight years after my little boy was born I suffered with female weakness, also soreness in ovaries, especially on my right side, and pain in back. Was so miserable sometimes did not know what I was going to do. Tried several doctors but derived no benefit until I began using Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Had only used four bottles, also some of Dr. Pierce's Antiseptic and Healing Suppositories, when I felt like another person. I recommend Dr. Pierce's medicines to all my friends. If anyone wishes to write me I will gladly answer."

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription contains no alcohol and is entirely free from opium, cocaine and all other narcotics.

The dealer who offers a substitute for "Favorite Prescription" does so to gain the little more profit paid on the sale of less meritorious medicines. His profit is your loss; therefore, accept no substitute.

LITTLE LOCAL LINES

—The Special committee on Electric light and franchise met last night.

—The Ashburnham Civic Association has been called to meet this evening.

—The crush at Cressman's still continues, and the doors have to be kept locked most of the time.

—Mr. J. W. Garvin has resigned his position as a member of the Ashburnham School Board.

At the George street church at 4.15 this afternoon the evangelists will address the boys and girls and students of the Public schools and the Collegiate Institute. All other young people are cordially invited.

—The Hamilton Times gives a portrait of Professor Fessenden, whose system of wireless telegraphy is being installed in that city. Professor Fessenden, though residing in the United States, is a son of Mrs. Fessenden, of Hamilton, and a nephew of Mr. C. Fessenden, Principal of the Peterborough Collegiate Institute.

The Day of Miracles not Past

A Toronto "Star" reporter investigated the case of Mr. Geo. Warner and found that after thirteen years of almost total deafness, he had been cured by inhaling Catarrhozone.

This proves that where Catarrhozone treatment is employed, impaired hearing and deafness can be cured. Catarrhozone always brings quick relief, and is warranted to give lasting satisfaction. All sufferers from Impaired Hearing, Deafness, Head Noises and Ringing in the Ears are advised to inhale Catarrhozone and derive the great benefit it is capable of affording. Price $1.00, small size 25c. Druggists, or N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

—The prospects for building operations this spring are very good.

APPLICATION TO PARLIAMENT

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN on behalf of the Corporation of the Town of Peterborough that an application will be made to the Legislative Assembly of the Province of Ontario at the next session thereof for an Act for the following purposes.

1. To amend 62 Victoria (2), Chapter 71 by striking out the following words in the first subsection of the second section thereof, namely, the words "at any point thereon south of and in no way using power obtained from the dam known as the Nassau Dam on the said River Otonabee" in the 3rd, 4th and 5th lines thereof; the words "for Municipal purposes only" in the 17th line thereof, and the words "except commercial lighting or private lighting" in the 18th and 19th lines thereof, and for such other amendments thereto as may be necessary to remove the restrictions imposed on the said Corporation by said subsection.

2. To authorize and empower the said Corporation to erect and maintain poles and other appliances on the streets and public places of the said Town for the transmission of electricity in and through the said Town of Peterborough, and to charge a rental therefor, and to make regulations for the use, management, maintenance and control of same, and to enter into agreements with any company, firm or person now or hereafter supplying electric energy to the inhabitants of the said Town for the use of said poles and appliances on such terms as may be agreed on.

3. To authorize and empower the said Corporation to issue debentures of the said Corporation without the assent of the rate-payers for the sum of $7000 to meet the deficiency on the sale of waterworks' debentures issued for the purchase of the waterworks.

4. To authorize and empower the Commissioners of the Waterworks to form a contingent fund and to retain out of the revenue derived from the said waterworks an annual sum not exceeding one-half of the net revenue for that purpose.

Dated at Peterborough this 29th day of January, 1903.

JOINT COMMISSION DISCUSSED IN MONTREAL

General Opinion Seems to be Against Again Going to Washington

CANADA HAS MUCH TO LOSE AND LITTLE TO GAIN

It is Claimed That Dominion's Interests Were Neglected Before and May be Again.

Montreal, Feb. 21—The opinion of people, as voiced by many seen today, seems certainly not in favor of the re-assembling of the Joint High Commission.

While political considerations influence some of those who spoke on the subject, others were not afraid to come right out and declare that it was useless to expect anything from the Americans, in view of their attitude on the occasion of the previous conference.

One gentleman, who declined to allow the publication of his name, stands high in the councils of the present Government at Ottawa. At first he hesitated about speaking of the matter at all, and did so only under a pledge that his name would not be used. This assurance having been given, the gentleman spoke as follows:

"I am in a peculiar frame of mind on this question. I must say that I am fairly discouraged over it. I would like to see a better understanding between the two countries, but the hoggish disposition evidenced on such occasions, and notably at the last conference by representatives of Uncle Sam render the task almost hopeless. I, therefore, fail to see what good can come, under the circumstances, from another meeting of the Joint Commission."

WILL NOT BE SETTLED.

Mr. Honore Gervais, K.C., who is professor of International Law at Laval University, and therefore particularly qualified to speak on the subject, said: "It has always been understood that the Alaskan boundary question has been the stumbling block in the last conference. That being the case, I fail to see why the conference should meet until that question has been definitely settled. I may add that I fear very much that the Alaskan boundary question will not be settled for a long time, if ever it is. The trouble is that in most of these cases, Canada has not paid sufficient attention to the preparation of its side of the question. That was the trouble in 1794, in the fishery treaty, and it was also the trouble when we lost the State of Maine in the Ashburton treaty.

"In the Behring Sea arbitration our people did a little better, but the trouble has been always that men have been chosen rather for the political services, than for their real knowledge of the questions at issue, or the law of nations affecting these questions.

Mr. Charles Thibault, the veteran of many political struggles, who has gone through several campaigns in the United States presidential and state elections, when asked his opinion on the re-assembling of the Joint High Commission, said: "There can be no good result for Canada. I have met many of the leading men of the United States, and their principle is to do nothing whatever to help Canada. The sooner we realise that, the better. They have given up their annexation campaign, and are now trying to buy up our country peace-meal. The meeting of the High Jointers once more would be an expenditure of many thousands without any hope of return."

M. J. A. C. Madore, M.P., said: "Well I believe there is a chance of some good from the reassembling of the Joint High Commission. The men who compose it could not agree at the time, but they must have changed their minds since on some subjects, or they would hardly propose another meeting. If any good at all can be obtained, the money that will be expended will be a good investment."

Mr. R. Wilson-Smith, ex-Mayor of Montreal, discussing the subject, said: "I have not given the matter sufficient consideration to say anything definite, but it seems to me that it might be desirable to wait until after the Alaskan Commission meets, for two sets of commissioners sitting at the same time would be apt to confuse the issues. Indeed, I have grave doubts as to the desirability of the Commission at all."

Mr. Alex. McFee, ex-president of the Board of Trade, said: "We have nothing to give away at the present time and we are not suffering for the want of any markets so far as they are concerned. What we want to do is to build up our own country and all that we should grant is that only that is expedient to our own welfare."

IRELAND AWAITS THH LAND BILL

Belief in London that the Measure will Pass the Commons Without Difficulty

New York, Feb. 19.—The London correspondent of The Tribune says: "The debate on the address in reply to the speech from the throne has opened sluggishly, without official amendments from the Opposition. The Nationalists are acting under self-restraint, and Mr. Redmond is content with the academical proposal for giving effect to the land conference report. A prominent member of the Nationalist party tells me that the Irish group is convinced that Mr. Wyndham's bill will be satisfactory, and that the agrarian troubles and grievances will cease. He also predicts that Mr. Wyndham's bill will not meet with serious opposition from any section of the House of Commons, but will be helped along by the Radicals and Nationalists and enacted with unexampled rapidity. Old Tories, however, prefer to wait until Mr. Redmond speaks before accepting sanguine forcasts from the Irish benches. Many of the most influential Irish landowners are in London, awaiting with intense interest the introduction of this peace measure.

"Premier Balfour's supporters admit that he is not in good form. He shows signs of physical weakness and nervousness, hesitating and stammering in making replies to the Opposition bench."

LACROSSE IN ENGLAND

The Proposed Visit of the Toronto Lacrosse Club

London, Feb. 20.—The visit of the Toronto lacrosse team and the forthcoming visit of the joint teams of Oxford and Cambridge to the United States and Canada has given a remarkable fillip to lacrosse at both Oxford and Cambridge. At Oxford University the lacrosse club has just formally invited the other committee officials on the regular university athletes to join the team. The players leave June 10 and play their first match against Harvard immediately on their arrival. Lloyd, the present captain at Cambridge, will be leader of the trip. By way of a trial match, the joint teams are to play London at Oxford on March 4.

UNMASKED ROBBERS HOLD UP CAR

Daring Robbery Successfully Carried Out in Los Angeles in Early Evening

MONEY AND JEWELLERY TAKEN

With Pointed Revolvers and Much Bad Language They Force People to Give Up Their Purses

Los Angeles, February 20—The daring deeds of highwaymen who seem to have invaded Los Angeles in force, reached a climax last night, when two unmasked men held up and robbed a carload of passengers on the Los Angeles-Pasadena Electric line. Thirty-two passengers, one half of whom were women, were forced at the points of revolvers to surrender cash and jewellery to the amount of between $500 and $700. The robbers performed their work quickly but effectively. The car was held for ten minutes. The men then left it and disappeared in the darkness. The hold-up was carried out in a way that marked the outlaws as old hands at the business.

The car left Los Angeles at 9 o'clock for Pasadena. Nearing a point just south of the Arroyo, the motorman observed two men making signals for the car to stop. As he slowed down two men clambered upon the steps, one at either end of the car. They presented revolvers at the heads of Conductor Rayluff and Motorman Corwin and drove them inside the car. With revolvers in their hands, they stood in the doors and in foul language ordered everybody to "dig up the coin and jewellery without any monkey business." The robber at the car door stepped upon a box and from this commanding position covered the startled passengers with his revolver. The other one passed down the aisle, taking pocketbooks, coin and watches and thrusting them carelessly into his coat pockets. While taking the property of the passengers the bandit kept up a flow of abuse.

John W. Gay, agent of the Raymond-Whitcomb excursions, narrowly escaped being shot by the robbers. He resisted being searched, pushing the robber back. Instantly the man shoved his revolver towards Gay's face the latter striking the weapon upwards just as the trigger was pulled and the bullet passed through the roof of the car.

The women passengers were terrorized, many of them screaming, others weeping. No distinction of sex was made and the women gave over their cash and watches without a show of reluctance.

The conductor and motorman were told to keep their hands above their heads. The robbers forgot to search conductor Rayluff and consequently missed about fifty dollars. The point at which the robbery occurred is an open spot and peculiarly favorable for robbers. The bandits had but three or four blocks to walk to reach another car line, which would bring them back into the city in ten minutes. Both highwaymen are described as young, smooth shaven and dressed like laborers. The one who did the searching is described as not more than twenty years. The other was about 25.

OUR CHEESE IN ENGLAND

London Times Speaks of Strong Hold Canada Secured on British Market

The London Times says: The strong hold which Canada has secured upon the cheese markets of the United Kingdom is well shown from the fact that in 1902 just over two-thirds of our total imports of cheese were sent from the Dominion. The actual quantity, 1,700,506 cwt., is, we believe, "a record." Furthermore the position is well earned by the Canadian cheesemakers as a reward for their persistent efforts to send us a genuine unsophisticated article. The bulk of this trade was once in the hands of the United States, but they lost it through shipping to us "filled" cheese in which the natural fat of the milk had been withdrawn and replaced by inferior and cheaper fats. The authorities in the United States put an end to this nefarious and suicidal business some years ago, but the fact remains that last year for every pound of cheese we received from the United States more than four pounds reached us from Canada. Our imports of cheese from Holland appear to be slowly diminishing, while from France they are, on the whole, fairly well maintained. Australia is evidently as uncertain a factor in the cheese industry as in the butter trade. For imported cheese we paid in 1902 a total sum of £6,421,430, of which £4,201,250 went to Canada, £902,112 to the United States, £[illegible] to Holland, £131,516 to New Zealand, £118,611 to France, £16 to Australia, and £265,001 to "other countries."

THE EMIGRATION BOOM.

The emigration scheme of Rev. Mr. Barr is rapidly approaching the character of a boom. He has already paid the entrance fee for more than 2,000 homesteads, and is now asking the Canadian Government to allot him forty more townships, guaranteeing settlers within a year, and being prepared to pay the entrance fee now. He says he has one million pounds sterling deposited in banks here by his supporters for his Canadian investments. The fact that his people are all the better class of English, and knowing exactly where they are going, makes the scheme attractive. The Deputy Minister of the Interior, Mr. J. A. Smart, endorses the scheme.

THE ALASKAN TRIBUNAL.

I have just heard that Hon. David Mills, formerly Minister of Justice of the Dominion, and now one of the judges of the Supreme Court of Canada, may be appointed as one of the British members of the Alaskan boundary tribunal. I cannot, however, confirm the report. Sir John Anderson, who accompanied the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York to Australia and Canada, two years ago, is now chief of the Canadian department of the colonial office, and he informs me that the question of the British commissioners has not yet been considered by the Cabinet.

AUSTRALIA.

The Daily Mail is publishing a series of articles to show that Australia is bankrupt. It points to decreased birthrate and immigration, the drought, the heavy borrowings for unreproductive works, the old age pensions, and the national railways as causes of the serious position of Australia. The fact that the labor party rules there is asserted to have a tendency to cause the withdrawal of capital. The Mail, on the other hand, booms Canada, prophesying the largest tide of emigration this year Canadawards, and saying that Canada is the best field for emigrants and investors. The Mail has a million circulation among the emigrating classes; hence the importance of these articles.

In the course of his speech in the House of Commons last night, in reply to Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman the Premier, Right Hon. A. J. Balfour, stated that the Government had warned signatory powers to the sugar convention that in no circumstances would the motherland tax colonial sugar. This puts the Government in the position of accepting the convention and the refusing to abide by one clause. However, the colonies are safe from a sugar tax.

Mr. Robert John Price, the Liberal member for the eastern division of Norfolk, gives notice that he will move an amendment to the address in reply to the King's speech, in which he will urge the admission of Canadian store cattle upon the same terms as those from the Argentine Republic are now admitted.

CONFIDENCE MEN AFTER EMMIGRANTS

Cases in Britain Where Intending Canadian Settlers are Cheated

COMMISSIONER'S PUCLIC WARNING

How the Scheme Has Been Worked—Thousands of Englishmen Are Coming to This Country

London, February 20—The remarkable success of the scheme for an all British colony near Saskatoon has encouraged a number of Canadian emigration swindles, whereby unscrupulous steamship agents are reaping a harvest. In different parts of England they advertise positions alleged to be vacant on Canadian farms for premiums of from two and a half to five pounds, or especially good berths on a bonus arrangement, which may mean emigrants making a payment of from twenty-five to forty-five pounds annually over several years. Another dodge is to promise emigrants instruction in agriculture on their arrival in Canada for a remuneration, often amounting to fifty pounds.

The Canadian Commissioner issues today a public warning pointing out that the official fare from Liverpool to Quebec is five and one-half pounds, and from Quebec to Winnipeg is eight pounds. He warns intending emigrants against bonuses of all kinds, as an agent's aid is superfluous and a letter of introduction, which can be obtained at the Government office here, ensures any emigrant a situation within twenty-four hours of his arrival in Canada.

The statement issued to the press concludes that 50,000 Englishmen are required in Canada this year, and if the present rate of application is maintained that number will be soon reached.

WOMEN, WHY SUFFER?

Paine's Celery Compound

Permanently Banishes Nervousness and the Many Female Weaknesses That Afflict Women Young and Old

Nervous disorders and diseases are on the increase, and women of all ages are sufferers. Digestion gives out, there are pains in the head, the tongue is coated, the muscles ache, there is constipation, heart palpitation, gloomy fears oppress continually, and sleep is broken and disturbed. The only reliable remedy that medical science has given to women for their emancipation from suffering and weakness is Paine's Celery Compound, now so largely prescribed by physicians with the happiest results. In critical cases Paine's Celery Compound has saved life and restored health when all other medicines have proved failures. Jessie M. Bean, Quyon, Que., who found Paine's Celery Compound to be "woman's best friend," writes as follows:

"It affords me much pleasure to testify to the great good that Paine's Celery Compound has done for me. I was completely run down in health and a victim of female weakness, and after using three bottles of your wonderful medicine I was completely cured. It is the best blood purifier I know of, and I recommend it to all who are troubled as I was."

FARM DELEGATES REACH THE CITY OF LONDON

Mr. Chamberlain's Creed Still a Radical, but for the Empire Above All

Galway's Claims Laid Before Lord Strathcona—Canadian Officers For West Africa

London, Feb. 20.—Eight of the fifty Canadian farm delegates brought from Manitoba and the Northwest Territories under the auspices of the Department of the Interior, arrived in London this morning.

The evening papers contain laudatory interviews. The Westminster Gazette booms Canada, calling the delegates modern missionaries of the great Northwest.

The boom in things Canadian continues. There are 700 letters or so received daily at the Canadian Emigration office, as well as an endless procession of enquiries.

A number of artisans formerly employed at the Woolwich arsenal will leave for Sydney, C.B., in a few days to enter the employ of the Dominion Iron and Steel Company.

THE EORESTERS' CARNIVAL

LARGE CROWD OF MASQUERADERS IN ATTENDANCE

Jackson Wins the One Mile Race with Dusty Second

The first carnival in the new rink on Brock street was held under the auspices of Court Peterborough, No. 23, Canadian Order of Foresters, last night, and proved a decided success. There was a large crowd in attendance, including about 250 in comic and fancy costumes, representing all nationalities, etc. Perhaps the best representation ever presented at any carnival in Peterborough and one that deserves special mention, was that of Mr. Reg. Turner as "Canada," which carried off a valuable first prize, presented by Mr. Comstock. On the whole the costumes were far above the average of other years and presented a very pretty spectacular exhibition as they occupied the skating portion of the rink, which was reserved exclusively for masquerading until after the judges had given their decisions.

The one mile championship race, open to the Counties of Peterborough, Victoria, Northumberland and Durham, had three starters, Jackson, Dusty and Walter.

In the first heat Dusty took the lead and led until the 8th lap, when Jackson jumped to the front and kept the lead until the 14th lap, when Dusty fell, Jackson winning the heat. Time—3.21.

In the second heat Dusty again took the lead for the first few laps, when Jackson passed him and continued to lead, when Dusty again tried to lead, and in so doing fouled Jackson, who was given the heat and the race.

The 57th Band was in attendance, and furnished music to enliven the proceedings.

The Foresters are to be congratulated for the excellent manner in which the proceedings were carried to so successful an issue.

General - Sports

Two rinks of Peterborough Curlers went to Lakefield yesterday afternoon, and were very successful, defeating Lakefield by 12 shots. The Lakefield Club played a star game. Mr. Payne and the Messrs. Strickland made some very fine shots. The Lakefield players deserve a lot of credit for the way they entertained the Peterborough boys after the game, a very pleasant time being spent. The party arrived home long before 12 o'clock. The following represented the Peterborough rinks:

The Shares of the British-Canadian Wheat Raising Co., Limited, Selling Rapidly

The Canadian public has taken very kindly to the proposition of the British-Canadian Wheat Raising Co., Limited. We understand that the demand for shares has been very large since the advertisement for subscriptions appeared in this paper. The feasibility of this enterprise and the names of the gentlemen associated with it, should appeal to investors, and we are not surprised to learn that these shares are being rapidly absorbed.

DISCUSS FAST ATLANTIC SERVICE

Canadian Pacific May be Looking for Bonus Offered by Dominion Government.

THE PURCHASE OF STEAMERS

Matter Will Probably Be Brought Up in Parliament at an Early Date

Montreal, Feb. 20.—It is stated on good authority that the hasty, secret and somewhat prolonged visit of Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, to Ottawa, has not alone been to discuss the projected extensions in the North-West, but also regarding the long-talked-of fast Atlantic passenger service, and to secure the Government subsidy of $[illegible] a year.

The negotiations with the Elder-Dempster company only took in what is known as the Atlantic freighters, and it is believed that the fast Atlantic service will again receive the attention of Parliament at the approaching session.

The Morgan merger of the Dominion and Furness, Withy and Leyland lines out of Montreal, said an intimate friend of the Cabinet to-day, renders it absolutely necessary that the Canadian Pacific should have independent ships on the Atlantic.

The question of the purchase of the freighters of the Elder-Dempster as stated by Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, is a pretty big proposition and requires time to complete it, but there is no doubt by the opening of St. Lawrence navigation six or seven of these steamers will fly the Canadian Pacific's pennant.

The important question of the fast Atlantic passenger service will be agitated in Parliament, according to a local M.P., at an early stage of the proceedings by Hon. Mr. Tarte, ex-Minister of Public Works, who has openly declared himself to be a Canadian Pacific man, who is credited with being opposed to Grand Trunk schemes, and who has in La Patrie strongly contested the right of the Government to grant either cash subsidies or land grants for the proposed Grand Trunk Pacific extension.

The Elder-Dempster concern has more than a hundred steamships in commission, thirty-five of which have at one time or another come to Montreal. The class of vessels which are under negotiations now are understood to be the Lake Champlain and Lake Erie, of the Beaver Line; the Monmouth, Montauk, Montreal and Montezuma, of the British and African Steamship Navigation Company, founded in 1868, and the Milwaukee, Montcalm, Montenegro and Montfort, of the Elder-Dempster Shipping Company. They are probably worth $400,000 each.

WAS FIRED OUT

The Sad Fate of the Man Who Undertook a Huge Task

A citizen, who claims to be a sport, called on The Times yesterday in regard to the recent cocking main, a report of which appeared in these columns. Our sporty friend was in a towering rage, and told this great family journal that cock fighting was a glorious sport, and should not be discredited by the press. He said that the man who wrote the report which we printed, or caused it to be written, should get his head punched, and he was prepared to do it on short notice. Then it was that the dignity of this g.f.j. had to be maintained. There was a brief scuffle, a crash as our visitor took his exit, and then the sound of bumping down the stairs as he was thrown out on the market square.

OUR RAILWAYS

The railways of Canada carried twenty million passengers last year of which they killed 29 and injured 176. The dramatic interest of a railway accident concentrates public attention upon the comparatively few killed and injured, but we seldom think of the twenty millions carried in safety. The chances that a traveller runs of being hurt are shown by the above figures to be exceedingly slight. He is almost as safe on a train as in his bed—or, to take a fairer contrast—on the street. Railway officials should be given due credit for this proportion of safety. They are handling immense masses of iron, hurled along a steel track at a rate of, at least, forty miles an hour, meeting and passing other similar masses, and stopping at hundreds of stations and yet they kill only 29 people out of twenty millions. Still, in the United Kingdom, in the same time they carried far more passengers at a greater speed without killing one. The safest place in the world appears to be on board an English express train. This is said to be particularly true in a thunder storm.

THE GROWTH OF NAVIES

Inquiries are frequent as to the relative naval strength of the maritime powers and the rate of increase of national fleets. Public interest in the matter has been increased greatly by the Venezuela affair. There seems to be great public unrest lest we are falling behind in defensive strength, just at the time when the expansion of our commerce, the natural growth of our international pretensions and our great increase of national navy invites the envy and exposes us to the attack of adventurous powers.

It is difficult to answer inquiries as to the relative naval strength of nations when they are building new ships so rapidly. This must depend, not on the number of ships ordered, or the money voted for construction, but on the speed with which the ships are being built in the yards and the efficiency with which they are being equipped, manned and trained for actual service. For example, Germany, Italy and the United States are so near together that the actual superiority of one over the other in a practical test would depend upon the success with which ships in the yards could be gotten into service and the efficiency that might be developed on the sea by fleets that look well in admiralty lists on paper.

A recent article in the London Times on the growth of navies throws more light on this subject than anything we have seen. It appears that every considerable naval power but Great Britain and the United States builds on the program plan. The Russian program, begun in 1898, covered a seven years' period; the Italian program, begun in 1901, extends to 1912; the French program, now well under way, extends to 1907; the German program, the most formidable of all, looks as far ahead as 1916; while Japan has just completed the six years' program of 1896 and decided upon another with an equal period.

Examination of the actual naval work done by the nations in the last year shows that those building under definite program, succeeded in getting their ships completed with most promptness and regularity. Germany has made most remarkable program. Five battleships were launched in 1901 and three last year. Six battleships and four armored cruisers are under construction, begun from 1900 to 1902. France has been less diligent in completing battleships, although she has five battleships and fifteen armored cruisers on the stocks. Russia finished three battleships last year and has seven and one armored cruiser building. Italy has taken a fresh start since the accession of the new king and his intimacy with the German emperor. No ships were finished last year, but eight of the first class are building.

Where does the United States come in? That country made a fairly good record of launchings in 1902, but there its performance ends. Seventeen great battleships and armored cruisers, authorized from 1899 to the last session, besides the four likely to be ordered by this congress, are dragging along in the ship yards.

WHENCE COMETH LIFE?

Much to be admired are the beautiful frost cornucopias which form on plate glass windows during low temperatures in winter, taking the formation of ferns more than any other. The moisture in the air, while being condensed on the glass, is governed in its arrangement by the laws of electricity. They form an interesting subject for thought, and may be considered as a beautiful illustration of the formation, or rather the creation of the earliest forms of plant life. Plant life has developed and reached its present stage, precisely in the same manner as all animal life, progressing from the lower forms upward.

In electricity we live, move and have our being: This is the great secret. Do not suppose that life originated on this planet. It existed untold ages ago, when this earth formed part of that immense body that shot through space, leaving in its path what is known as the "milky way," and of which this little planet is an insignificant member.

As the frost is deposited on the glass so in like manner is the human body built up and maintained under electric influence.

Why not prolong life by the absorption of the elements necessary to sustain and stimulate the electric energy?

KNELT IN PRAYER

Then the Unknown Woman Calmly Sought Death in the Water

New York, Feb. 20.—A handsomely dressed young woman of about 35 kneeled in prayer on the shore of the bay at the foot of Ninety-fifth street and Ft. Hamilton to-day. After remaining in her supplicating position with arms outstretched for fully 15 minutes, she arose suddenly, removed her jacket and gloves and, laying them carefully on the ground, walked into the water. When about 60 feet from shore she calmly lay down and the waves dashed her under.

She was still breathing when taken from the water, but died soon after.

No one knows who the woman was. There is only one clue to her identity. A wedding ring bearing the inscription, "J. H. W. to A. O. January 10 '87," was removed from her left hand.

A NEW POWER IN THE ORIENT

France's Attitude Towards Macedonia Discussed

DELCASSE MAKES A GREAT HIT

Russo-French Alliance Source of Peace in Balkans

Vienna, Feb. 19.—It was to be expected that the initiative taken by M. Delcasse in the publication of his yellow book on Macedonia, and the meeting in the Theatre du Chateau Deaux, giving such well-timed support to his initiative, would attract attention abroad to France's policy in the East. That expectation has not been disappointed. It is not an exaggeration to say that France is now being scrutinized by Austrian diplomatists with quite as keen an interest as is aroused by the Macedonian question itself. Perhaps an inkling of the reason is to be found in a remark made to-day, namely: "What a fortunate thing it is that Russia desires to maintain peace in the Balkans and that France is bound to Russia." France's sudden interest in the peninsula is compared with the action of President Louis Bonaparte in 1850, with regard to the French protectorate over Catholics in the East. It is felt to be a fact that France for the first time in thirty-two years, has asserted the right to lead the European powers. The Neue Freie Presse opens a long editorial on the subject this morning with the phrase "There is a new power in the Orient, and that power is France." The writer then refers to the prominent part formerly played in Eastern politics by France and contrasts it with the indifference she has displayed for the last thirty years. The change has now been affected. The feeling of unavowed disquietude created by the change, betrays itself in the following passage from this article which really gives semi-officially the views taken here of France's attitude. "The renascence of French Eastern policy is significantly shown in the great Macedonian meeting held in Paris last Sunday. No party was unrepresented. A Clerical, M. Denis Cochin, sat next to the Royalist, M. Larolle; a Conservative, M. Anatole Leroy Beaulieu, was next to the Socialist, M. Jaures, and his colleague, M. Pressense. The sharpest political divergencies disappeared in the general enthusiasm for the Macedonian question. Is this sudden enthusiasm solely due to humanitarianism and large-hearted sympathy for the Macedonians? Are we face to face with the extraordinary phenomenon of the demands of humanity overcoming the realistic policy so characteristic of our times?"

ENTIRELY OUT OF THE ORDINARY

Yet one of the ways that
LEAD TO FORTUNE

Why not make a small investment in oil lands right ahead of good producing wells, some having wells producing oil on adjoining farms? The oil now brings [illegible] per barrel, bought by the Standard Oil Co., without any transportation charges, and is bound to go higher; a few hundred dollars often invested in property of this kind yields thousands of dollars profit. I personally know of parties who made over [illegible] in [illegible] days time on an investment of this kind; also have wells making from 10 to 300 barrels a day. Parties desiring to organize a company will do well to investigate this opportunity, getting thereby the advantage of years of experience, and if you don't want to drill the wells wait until the wells drilling close to you have come in and reap the benefit of their outlay. The oil business conducted on business principles, with honest management, is bound to succeed. You do not have to look farther than the Standard Oil Co. to see what honest management founded on facts will produce; they have drawn very heavily on stocks the past three years and there is not enough of this grade of oil now above ground to run the country for more than two years, so you can readily see the profits that will be realized by starting now and obtaining the big price the Standard Oil Co. will be compelled to pay for crude oil to supply the demands of the country. REPORT BY EX-SUPERINTENDENT OF MINE

Cecil R. Gold Mining and Milling Co., Los Angeles, California.

Ballarat, Cal., Nov. 1st, 1902.

Gentlemen,—Your request for my opinion as to the "Santa Rosa" group of mines, and other claims in which you are interested in this territory, to hand and in reply will say:

The "Santa Rosa" group, which is located southeast of Ballarat some three and a half miles, consists of twelve claims, equal to 240 acres. The ledge crops out more or less the full length of these claims, showing the same character and formation of work as where development work has been done. In most of the outcroppings it shows highly mineralized rock, with pyrites of iron, mica, schist, slate, slate porphyry, gouge, quartz and quartzite, all bearing more or less. Where work has been done, it shows a very marked improvement in both quantity and quality of gold-bearing rock. Commencing with the surface, the ore shows much iron and copper stain. All mill tests show high ore commencing with the surface; in fact, I milled for several days and recovered [illegible] and over per ton, yet the milling process does not pay more than two-thirds of the value of the ore, the tailings ofttimes running as high as [illegible] per ton, and never less than [illegible]. To save the entire value of your ore it will be necessary to install either concentrators or a cyanide plant. From careful study and frequent examination of the surface of the ground, and down as far as has been opened below the surface, I am highly pleased with the property. It is certainly a fine property, and as good as any I have ever had the pleasure of examining. Considering your mill site, with tramway facilities added, water, fuel, and cheapness of mining the ore, the Cecil R. will be capable of paying enormous dividends when your capacity for milling is increased to what ought to be.

Wishing you every success, I remain, Yours very truly,

(Signed) G. W. FLEMING,
Ex-Mine Supt. Cecil R. Gold Mining and Milling Company.

Price is now [illegible] cents a share, and we offer [illegible] shares at this price, but it may be advanced by January 1st, 1903, to [illegible] cents a share.

A Greater Golconda

The mine of the GOLCONDA CONSOLIDATED GOLD MINES COMPANY is producing, and it is being enlarged, both in its workings and its equipment. Because of these things, a brief recitation of its possibilities is worth reading.

The properties of this company comprise 85 acres of lode claims. In addition to these there are a large number of quartz and placer claims.

These valuable lands are in the Cracker Creek Mining District, in Eastern Oregon. A wonderful district, too. But, of course, most people have heard of it in a way. For example there is the North Pole mine and the Columbia—neighbors of the Golconda, and wonderfully rich mines. The men who put their money into those properties never had to worry about whether they would get the interest on their mortgages, nor did they scan the papers eagerly every day to see what stocks were up and what were down. To be sure, stockholders in a mine of this magnitude—nor of any size—cannot just say what their dividends will be. Of course that would be prophetic, and prophecy and hard common sense don't go hand in hand

The Golconda group lies six miles north of Sumpter, Baker County, Oregon. Bourne, the nearest town, is but one mile distant. This property is located between Fruit and Silver Creeks, and adjoins the great Columbia, North Pole, "E. & E.," and the Cracker-Oregon group, that brought out such high grade ore this past summer,

During the time that the Golconda mine was the property of English and Son, of Danville, Ill., there were some 5,000 feet of workings driven, a 20-stamp mill installed, and the mine put on an earning basis. The power used is electrical, generated by water power.

As private property the Golconda was all that could be asked for—but its vast body of wealth was scarcely tapped. Now, under the management of the Golconda Consolidated Gold Mines Company, the wealth of the mine—established wealth, too,—is to be brought out. To the person not engaged in mining or conversant with mining, it seems an easy matter to make a good mine better. But stop! There is the equipment. Think of installing new hoisting machinery. It takes money—lots of money. And, then, there must be men put to work driving tunnels, sinking shafts and taking out the ore. But it is not the wages of the men that counts. Sometimes the rock is hard—just as it is in the Golconda - and it is slow work, even with the best machinery. It takes three shifts of men. It takes dynamite, power, equipment. And all of those things come high. But it is worth it! Why should a rich property like the Golconda not be developed?

The mill on the Golconda property has been running continuously since July 6th. However, only ten stamps are in operation. While the ore was being worked from the stoppings from the old tunnels, there was practically no waste rock to hoist. It was ore then. And it would be all ore now if the ore bodies were being worked. Again, to work these would be to keep the mill down to twenty stamps and the company down to this earning capacity. That is the reason that these new tunnels are being driven. In driving them, all the rock has to be taken out. It can't stay in the tunnel, surely! So the little hoist has to take it all to the top. Some of this rock is from the vein—some isn't. Thus, some is ore and some is waste. Because of this waste, the hoist cannot keep the mill busy.

No demonstration could be simpler. Nor could anything be more evident than the fact that, when these tunnels are driven, the ore bodies to be stoped will be practically limitless.

All people are not miners. Therefore all people don't know what these mining terms mean. To stope, for instance, is to take out the ore above a tunnel. If a vein is 1,000 or perhaps 2,000 feet deep, it is impossible to dig right straight down and get the length of this vein. Tunnels are run at different depths, or "levels," and then the ore is stoped from this vein. Now, the Golconda property will be ready to stope from these new tunnels when the plant has been enlarged sufficiently to treat more ore. Of course, the most important thing now is a new hoist—a big hoist of greater capacity. THIS HAS BEEN ORDERED The new boilers necessary to meet the new demand for power are in.

That looks like business and it is business.

When the present company took hold of the property it decided, upon expert examination, that the rich ore shoot of the Golconda mine pitched strongly to the North. No new work was attempted above the 200-foot level. On the fifth level a drift was run North for 215 feet. The values were small, but increased as the work progressed. From this point a cross-cut was driven West 60 feet. This intersected the West vein.

The third level was continued North on the East vein, and passed through an ore shoot running in gold from $4 to $60 per ton. This last tunnel was 158 feet in its extension. At the face of this drift a cross-cut was run West 30 feet and disclosed a shoot of ore assaying as high as $100 per ton. On this shoot, the workmen drifted North about 100 feet, and these workings were in ore the entire distance. From this point a drift was run East 30 feet, passing through two feet of ore running $14 per ton North of the shaft—from which this work is being done—a drift was driven 60 feet on this third level, and from this point a third raise was started to cut the rich ore shoot encountered on the second level.

This raise is 80 feet high and connects with an intermediate drift 20 feet below the second level. The ore shoot was encountered, as expected, and five feet of ore for the mill is being stoped from it. An old cross-cut was opened to the East of this level and a drift, in good ore, is being run South on the East vein.

A rich shoot of ore was also encountered on the second level, in the bottom of the South drift A winze was started here and was sunk to a depth of 20 feet on very rich ore. A drift 35 feet South and 49 feet North was also run, and from the latter a winze of 10 feet was sunk. Had the hoist been sufficiently large to take out the ore and rock, the work would have been continued at this point. However, lacking these facilities, the old North drift on the East vein was retimbered for a distance of 75 feet North of the cross-cut and 35 feet further North another winze was started, being sunk 28 feet in rich ore. A drift was run 39 feet North and wonderfully rich ore was encountered the entire distance. The raise from the third level, as mentioned, connected here. At this level, a raise was also started for the purpose of getting into the old stope opened by the former owners. The stope had caved in and the ground was in a dangerous condition. This raise was started on the East vein 30 feet north of the crosscut, and has been continued to a height of 44 feet. South from this point the ore has been stoped for 70 feet. The face of this drift, across the entire six feet, assays $64 per ton. This is above the old workings and these rich values will no doubt continue to the surface. Work on the 100-foot level has also been started to drift for this ore shoot.

On the first level, 160 feet South of the shaft on the East vein, a stope has been opened 55 feet in length. This ore body is eight feet wide and a good milling ore. On the tunnel level, 235 feet South of the shaft, a cross-cut was started East, and at 23 feet from the main drift a shoot of ore was struck, assaying as high as $200 per ton. A drift 105 feet in length was run on this shoot and the ore was high grade all the way. Stoping is now being done on this ore. After continuing the cross-cut for 27 feet East, the East vein was struck, cutting an ore body eight feet wide and of good values. A drift 46 feet in length was run on this vein, and at present stoping is being done 21 feet above the tunnel level, with the same values inhering. At the bottom of a winze, between the tunnel level and the first level, a cross-cut has been run, encountering, at a distance of 21 feet, the same ore body encountered in the tunnel level. This ore assays from $8 to $100 in gold per ton. Raising is being done on this ore shoot, and a height of 40 feet has been attained. Continuing the cross-cut 53 feet farther East, the East vein was struck, as contemplated. The same ore found in the tunnel and first levels was encountered here, which insures a continuous stope between these two levels. After the tunnel level and on the West vein about 26,000 cubic feet of good milling ore has been stoped.

Prospecting was done on the second level, a drift being run South 82 feet on the hanging wall At this point a cross-cut was driven to the foot wall. Another drift was driven for 54 feet north on the same vein, showing more good ore. Upon the installation of the new hoisting machinery the work to the North on the 300 and 500 foot levels will be taken up.

As reading matter, this long description, is far from entertaining. As a financial matter, it is a tale worth repeating. It shows what has actually been done since the GOLCONDA CONSOLIDATED GOLD MINES COMPANY began operations. It demonstrates, too, that the former owners did not reach the vast ore bodies that this mine contains.

In the face of this fact, is the one that the richest specimen ore the country ever produced came from this mine.

The ore already blocked out is sufficient to keep twenty stamps busy for eighteen months—and below this are levels not yet touched; levels that contain enough ore to run a sixty-stamp mill for years without number!

Between the East, West and intermediate veins are bodies of low grade ore. What this ore will average is not possible to say, but the high value of the ore blocked out is KNOWN,

Two thousand cords of wood are being delivered from the timber properties of the company, and which will furnish ample fuel for the new hoist, and with the completion of this new hoist will come the full running capacity of the mill.

Not only has wood for fuel been cut, but timbers for the mine are on the property. This will meet the purposes of development for at least a year. All water rights and rights-of-way on Silver Creek have been paid for, covering a distance of two miles from and above the power station. The 7,000 feet of steel pipe that furnished the water power has been increased by one foot, giving the mill fully 60 feet more of head. This is an increase of about 25-horse-power over the old 120 horse-power plant. A Pelton motor generates this power into electricity, and from this source comes the entire motive power of the plant—with the exception of the hoist and air compressor, which are run by steam.

It is the intention—in fact, one of the purposes—of this company, to install forty more stamps, making this one of the biggest producers in Oregon. It is not what a mine has in it that makes it valuable, but what can be taken out of it that counts!

The Golconda property is rich—it is one of the richest in the country, but that great wealth has so far been tied up. It has been latent. Inert wealth does no man good. True, this mine may be a rich legacy for posterity, but people now living are the ones to get the worth out of it—or as much worth as they can get in that time.

Right on this great truth hangs the purpose of the GOLCONDA CONSOLIDATED GOLD MINE COMPANY. Incorporated under the laws of Arizona, its stock is exempt from assessments. Capitalized at $3,000,000, it can pay, on par, a good percentage from its earnings. The mine to-day represents tangible worth. No prospect, that. It may be visited, looked over, investigated. It is not a mere ledge, not an outcropping, but a big mine among big mines; and hence it must be put on a paying basis. It is being put on that basis. Think of that development work—that prosaic recitation of tunnels and shafts and stopes! That means money INVESTED—not spent. It means money put into service where it will produce the standard of ALL VALUES—GOLD!

Were one's money invested where it MIGHT bring returns, then it would be a CHANCE. The one great requisite of an investment is the SAFETY OF THE CAPITAL. That is the paramount to all else. If a man or woman puts money into anything whatsoever, there must be an assurance as absolute as evidence can be that the invested capital is safe.

To treasure that money is to hold it—to cripple it. It is as wise for an athlete to remain in bed for fear that he will use the strength he now has. He must INVEST that strength before he gains more strength. Even money spent for fuel and food and lodging is capital invested, because it enables the individual to gain strength and health and thereby EARN more. So should the saving and purpose of all money be that of investment. There is a system of waste and repair to the financial world, just as there is in the human body. To pay no heed to the repair is to foster the waste.

It is the duty of every man and woman who earns money to earn as much as possible, and the achievement of the Twentieth Century brain is INVESTMENT.

And what has all this to do with the great GOLCONDA?

The GOLCONDA CONSOLIDATED GOLD MINES COMPANY is developing. Development costs money. The investor supplies that money. The result is that all the other equipment of this mine not yet purchased will soon be bought. The mine will earn as soon as it gets its new hoist in. That is ordered. Now, this mine should have a mill three times as large as the present one, so that all the ore the new hoist is capable of bringing to the surface may be treated—may be turned into GOLD.

But the stock of the GOLCONDA is temporarily on the market. This is one of the few opportunities of the small investor—or of the large investor. This stock will be closed soon, but that time is the FUTURE, and the great GOLCONDA deals only with the now.

This is the story of a wonderfully rich mine. It is not the history of the mine. History is TRADITION and modern people have not time for folk lore. It is not what it is or will be, but what it is NOW.

As the fiscal agent of the company, I have great confidence in this mine. If I didn't have I would not recommend its stock to anyone. Nor is my confidence enthusiastic or erratic. It is cool confidence backed by the FACTS that make the GOLCONDA a subject worth studying as an investment.

To the names of the managers and directors I commend you. Were they not the people they are the GOLCONDA would still be a great mine. With them it is a GREATER GOLCODDA.

COAL

PROPERTY IN FULL OPERATION

Company owns 9,600 acres of coal property known throughout the coal trade as the New Campbellton Colliery, located on Bras D'Or Bay, County of Victoria, Cape Breton, Nova Scotia. Mine is fully equipped, producing and marketing 100 tons of coal a day at a net profit of $1.00 a ton. Improvements are now being made that will increase the output to over 1,000 tons a day. On present output, figuring 300 working days in year, the net result will more than pay interest on entire issue of preferred, with output of 1,000 tons a day net result will be $300,000 per annum.

IRON

RICHEST ORE IN THE WORLD

Company owns in fee simple, free and clear of all incumbrances, 4,000 acres of iron ore deposit, located at Natashquan (tidewater) situate on North shore of Gulf of St. Lawrence, in the County of Saguenay, province of Quebec.

Deposits contain 20,000,000 tons of ore ABOVE SEA LEVEL ALONE.

Quality of ore is highest ever discovered, running from 69 to 72 per cent. in Metallic iron.

More orders for the sale of this ore have been received by the Company than can possibly be accepted, and at a price netting the Company a profit of $2 a ton F. O. B vessels at Company's docks.

To Set Her Free

(COPYRIGHTED)

By FLORENCE WARDEN.

Author of "The House in the Marsh," "A Prince of Darkness," etc.

Norma said nothing, but she trembled. There was something more than strange, something that almost thrilled her, in hearing the words "my wife" applied to herself by a man. Indifferent as she believed herself to be to all men, cold, hard, inaccessible, the associations connected with the word were, of course, too strong for her to bear it unmoved now that by legal right it belonged to her.

There was something, too, that touched her, as she did not want to be touched, in the tone with which Astley at once took upon himself, as of right, the careful protection of her good name. Her feelings made her restless and shy. She was glad that the door was at this point burst open by the waiter, who came to lay more knives and forks on Astley's table, which was in the corner near the fire.

Astley, who always saw the humorous side of things, began to beam with amusement at the piquancy of this impromptu dinner with his own wife. It was clear that he took a mischievous pleasure in referring to the tastes of "Mrs. Darwen," in informing the waiter that "Mrs. Darwen" drank claret, and that "Mrs. Darwen" would like a footstool. And at last she threw him a reproachful look when the man was out of the room, and told him that it was too bad to tease her.

"Does it tease you?" said Astley. "Doesn't it rather amuse you too? I think this escapade of yours is the greatest fun. And if only your uncle would fling open the door while we were enjoying our cutlet, I feel that the dramatic as well as the humorous possibilities of life would be exhausted."

"Whatever happens to you nothing ever seems able to make you sad or even serious," said Norma with interest.

They were by this time seated opposite each other at the little table, and Norma was able to examine with earnest scrutiny the face of the man she had married. A typical English face it was, with an originally fair skin tanned and reddened by the open air and the African sun, with smooth and shining mouse-colored hair, a moustache with a suspicion of ginger color in it, fairly well cut features, and honest blue eyes. Astley had the further attraction of that exceedingly clean, trim look so distinctive of the upper class Englishman, and particularly of the army man. When he began to return her scrutiny, she looked down on the white table cloth, and tried to think of something to say.

Nobody could have complained of any want of earnestness in his tone as he answered:

"Doesn't it occur to you that I may have gone through experiences so sad and serious that nothing less than a real misfortune can disturb me? And, whatever cause you may have to look upon our—what shall I call it?—partnership?—as a misfortune, it certainly doesn't appear in that light to me."

Norma bent her head and blushed.

"Of course," she said gently, "your illness, and being wounded, and all that, were misfortunes; but that isn't the sort of thing that eats into one, is it?"

"Oh, no," said he readily. "I don't count those things at all. I've gone through much worse things than that, I can assure you, things that would, I really think, make you wonder that you could call your troubles misfortunes at all."

He was serious enough now; and something in his voice thrilled Norma, and made her look at him with eyes full of shy, sympathetic interest.

"Really?" whispered she.

He smiled a little.

"I've a good mind," said he slowly, "to tell you what they were. But I'm not sure. It might give you a lesson in contentment, but, on the other hand, it might pain you, disgust you."

"Tell me," whispered Norma after a pause, and without raising her eyes.

"Well then, I've been married before—unhappily," said Astley, in a tone which was almost gruff.

"Oh!"

The surprising statement made Norma look up quickly: and then a sense of shame rushed through her heart, when she reflected that she had always been so much occupied with her own troubles that she had concerned herself very little about the life and circumstances of this man who had done so much for her.

These thoughts and feelings brought the rich color to her cheeks, and a look of sweetness and softness to her great dark eyes.

Astley met her eyes, smiled a little, and looked down as he went on:

"Yes. I fell in love with a girl I met one winter, when I was staying up at my cousin's, the most beautiful girl, I still think, that I ever saw in my life."

He paused, and Norma made an impatient little gesture, urging him to go on.

"I don't suppose she ever cared for me much; she married me because it was a good match for her, though it would have been a very poor one for any girl of my own rank. She was the sister of a doctor's wife who lived near Astley Haigh, and it was at the doctor's house I met her. I might have known better than to marry her, for she was even then trying very hard, as I could not help seeing, to capture my cousin."

"Sir Hugh Darwen?"

"Yes. And failing in that—for Hugh was a confirmed bachelor at that time—she graciously accepted me. You see, I was a more important person than I am now; for Hugh had declared he never meant to marry, and in that case the property and the title would some day have come to me."

"Has he married since then?"

"No, but he's going to, in about ten days from now. So I look upon it as a foregone conclusion that my chances are knocked on the head. I can't say I care much."

"You never told me all this," said Norma, very much interested. "To think of your having had such an interesting career, while I was too much wrapped up in my own little miseries to so much as ask a question about yours!"

Her tone was sincerely penitent, and there were even tears in her eyes. Astley smiled appreciatively.

"Well, well, it's not too late for me to come in for a little of your sympathy now," said he cheerily. The next moment, however, he again took a more serious tone. "We got on pretty well—Lottie and I, till I was ordered abroad. And then I heard little from her, but disquieting news of her from other people. At first I would believe nothing; but at last I got a plain statement of fact on such good authority that I could not hope to deceive myself any longer."

Astley hurried on, with an uneasy frown on his face: "As soon as I got home I set enquiries on foot, found that the news was only too true, and at once caused the divorce papers to be served on her at her mother's house at Leamington, where she was then living. You may judge of my horror when, immediately afterwards, I learnt that she was dead."

Norma gave a little gasp of horror.

"At first I wondered whether it was true; then I resolved to go up there myself, and found it was no fiction, as I had for a moment suspected. She was lying in her coffin when I got to her mother's house.

"Did you see her?" something prompted Norma to whisper breathlessly.

He shook his head.

"No. But it was quite true," he said, in a low voice. "Well, we won't talk any more about it. But now you'll understand better why it is that I can't see the tragedy of small miseries so plainly as you do."

Norma was terribly shocked and remorseful. She began to think, as she might indeed have thought before, that she had no right to bring fresh anxieties into this man's life. She became uneasy,

Another Electric Railway

The Brockville Times says; "It is stated that the electric road scheme from Toronto to Montreal along the frontier, spoken of a year or so ago, is by no means dead but very much alive. Report from good authority states that Boston capitalists have the scheme well in hand, and that the engineers have carefully inspected the route and will begin operations in the near future. The first section to be built will be between Brockville and Prescott. Water powers along the route, notably those at Cornwall and Trenton, will be utilized to furnish motive power. A general freight and passenger traffic will be catered to. The cause of the delay in promoting the scheme was the slump some months ago in the New York stock market which tied up so much capital. Now that the stringency has abated, the electric road will be pushed along as fast as possible."

PROPERTY OF THE COMPANY.

This Company has secured 10,000 acres of the choicest wheat lands in Assiniboia, Canada, having paid to the owners in addition to cash, 60,000 shares of its Capital Stock, for which the owners are completely equipping the property with all the necessary buildings, steam plows, steam threshers, drills, wagons, tools, fences, and everything necessary to operate the said 10,000 acres. In addition, the Company is to pay to the Canadian Pacific Railway Company and the other vendors of the said lands $50,000 in yearly installments of $10,000 each, being the balance of the purchase money.

These lands are capable of producing, at a fair estimate, 30 bushels to the acre of the best wheat produced in the world, or a total capacity of 300,000 bushels per year. Owing to the rich, prolific nature of the Northwestern Canadian soil, this product can be duplicated each year indefinitely. The Company's property will always be equipped with all the latest improved steam plows, drills, threshers, and necessary machinery to produce wheat at the lowest cost. It is the intention of the Company to have its own elevator, of a capacity sufficient to store its entire production, thus enabling them to take advantage of the highest market prices from time to time. The market for wheat is the same as for gold—it is unlimited.

The Company also has an option on 10,000 additional acres of the same character of wheat land as the 10,000 acres above mentioned, the property being located seven miles from the Canadian Pacific Railway, where large elevators are ready to receive the product.

This is an investment that will enhance in value as time goes by, not only from the large production of wheat, but the increased value of the Company's lands from year to year.

APPROXIMATE EARNINGS OF THE COMPANY

Are Estimated as Follows:

The average yield of wheat in Western Canada varies but little under all conditions. In some years the average has been over thirty-five bushels per acre. Many individual cases report as high as forty-five and even fifty-five bushels to the acre. But, taking the lowest average, there is no industry that will produce better profits. Owing to the modern steam machinery and economical methods employed in cropping, harvesting, threshing and marketing, as well as the especial ease with which in the prairie country of Western Canada, wheat is produced, there is always a splendid profit. The cost of raising an acre of wheat, being placed by farmers and experts at about $5.00 per acre, there have been cases in the past few years where as much as $35.00 has been realized, less the cost of $5.00, leaving a net profit of $30.00 per acre.

A safe and conservative estimate of the Company's earnings, taken much below the above figures, is herewith given:

APPROXIMATE YEARLY STATEMENT.

ESTIMATED NET PROFITS PER YEAR.

It will be seen that, after paying the expenses of raising wheat on 10,000 acres, amounting to $50,000 each year, and paying $10,000 per year to the Canadian Pacific Railway (for 5 years) as yearly payments on the property, it is estimated there will still remain a profit of $120,000 per year, or over 20 per cent. per annum on the stock issued.

TREASURY ASSETS.

The Company now have, after paying the 60,000 shares to the owners for the lands, improvements and equipment, 140,000 shares still in the Treasury, the same being set aside as a Treasury Fund. 50,000 of these shares are now being offered for subscription in Canada and England, and are to be sold for the purpose of taking up the option, and acquiring the 10,000 acres of new wheat territory, and the equipment of the same, together with working capital.

By acquiring the additional 10,000 acres, making 20,000 in all to be owned and operated by the Company, the profits will be more than doubled, or over 40 per cent. on the 110,000 shares of stock issued.

The balance of 90,000 shares will be held as an asset of the Company, which can be sold when required for extending the operations of the Company.

DIVIDENDS.

Dividends of, say, 15 percent. per year, it is estimated, can be paid semi-annually, December 1st and June 1st of each year. Outside of the amount paid in dividends, the surplus earnings will be accumulated, and will either be divided among the shareholders as extra dividends, or used to purchase new wheat territory; or be otherwise employed as may be hereafter determined.

WESTERN CANADA

is fast becoming the Eldorado of Great Britain. Its wheat lands will create more wealth than all the gold and diamond mines of the Empire. The failure of a crop is unknown. (See the report of Hon. Clifford Sifton, Minister of the Interior, Canada, extracts of which are published in the prospectus of this Company.) The wheat of Western Canada is well known to be extremely Hard No. 1, the best quality grown in the world; the yield also being considerably more per acre than in the United States. The sub-soil throughout the intense heat of summer is kept moist by the slow melting of the deep winter frosts, the moisture ascending to the surface and moistening the roots of the grain, thus stimulating growth and producing a bountiful crop.

DEMAND FOR WHEAT.

The demand for wheat from England alone is over 180,000,000 bushels per year, and from other European countries about 250,000,000 bushels, most of which is obtained from the United States, but of a poorer quality than can and will be furnished by Canada. The Canadian Pacific Railway runs within easy hauling distance of the property and is doing everything in its power to increase wheat raising.

A RELIABLE INVESTMENT.

This Company has an advantage over other industrial enterprises through the fact that while the Company's earnings from its wheat products will be constantly growing, and advancing the price of the Company's shares, the land of the Company is continually enhancing in value, creating a double source of values.

There is no business in the commercial world so profitable as raising wheat, and the investment is as safe as first-class Railroad Bonds, for the reason that the land and improvements of the Company are always a security for its shares, besides its ability to raise immensely profitable crops. The possibilities of this Company are unlimited, as the surplus earnings can be devoted to the acquisition of additional wheat lands, thereby increasing the earning capacity of the Company and lowering the average cost of production.

Owing to the intrinsic value of the property of this Company, and its estimated vast earning power, a rapid advance in the price of these shares will doubtless take place, and we confidently expect that this issue of 50,000 shares will be largely over-subscribed.

SUBSCRIPTION TERMS.

The full amount of $5.00 per share must accompany the order. The right is reserved to allot a smaller number of shares than the amount subscribed for, in which event the balance of the money will be returned with the shares allotted.

Application will be made for a settlement of these shares on the London, Montreal and Toronto Stock Exchanges in due course.

STOCK MARKETS

THREE STANDARD ISSUES DEPRESSED, WHY?

New York, Feb. 20—The three soft spots of the current market are three gilt-edged investment issues. They have been persistently and systematically depressed for some little time past by the insiders. Why? Certainly not to sell them. People holding a property when preparing to dispose of it do not offer it down, but ordinarily make it buoyant. Their own brokers being constant buyers, while they are selling through other channels in larger quantities. This they do in the endeavor to disguise their stock disposal. Exactly counter-action is taking place at present in Met. N.Y.C and Penna. Speculation in these stocks is unduly heavy while inside brokers appear to be sellers instead of buyers. while almost every day or so, in one of these issues at a time, some one appears to be selling some stock at as low a price as possible. Bear gossip is also in bountiful supply. This is not the market action of people really trying to sell any quantity of stock, but rather of people who are trying to get the shares down to as low a price as possible by selling as little stock as necessary to establish a low price. On the declines many matched orders are perceptible placed with the evident intent of making people believe that considerable liquidation is in progress. In Penna. and N.Y.C there is also a greatly increased borrowing demand, showing an increased short interest. In M R. it is less large. If the diagnosis that the method of selling now going on in these issues be correct, it is not to sell stock but to bring about low prices; then these stocks are a splendid purchase for people with patience. have another good requisite—all of them are standard investments of best character. You can make no mistake ordinarily in buying such interests when they are depressed. They always recover again after the schemes of the insiders have been accomplished. It would look as if someone was trying to gather in at low prices some gilt edged shares. We have no doubt that the people who will buy at these prices these stocks, even is they go a bit lower first, will make good profits by so doing. Reports were published that the Grand Central authorities in N.Y. C. considered that the decline had gone far enough. As they did not at the same time give out any information on the new financing, the opinion is not probably worth a great deal. Coppers were strong on buying said to be for the inside crowd. Market quiet, but very firm.

Increase of 30 Per Cent. in Duties

Washington, Feb. 19.—The action of Venezuela in declaring as a war measure an increase of 30 per cent. in duties on all imports is regarded here as a keen stroke of political finesse, for practically it amounts to placing the indemnity which Venezuela is to pay the powers wholly upon the shoulders of the foreign merchants who conduct all of Venezuela's imports. The increase mentioned, 30 per cent., is the same figure as the percentage of customs dues at La Guayra and Puerto Cabello to be assigned to the claimant nations (including the United States.)

INTERNATIONAL ELECTRIC MINING Co

185 SUMMER ST., - BOSTON, MASS.

A Dividend Payer for the Past Five Years.

12 PER CENT GUARANTEED

Capital Stock, $500,000. Par, $1.00, full paid and non-assessable

Over eight thousand tons of $50.00 ore mined and smelted from this group of mines.

A limited number of shares of the stock of this Company now offered at seventy-five cents per share. This price will shortly be increased to par. Stock registered by the International Trust Company, Boston, who is also the transfer agent.

This Company has a small capital stock.

The International Electric Mining Company owns seven mines and milling plant.

The Brooklyn and New York mines of this Company lie north of and join the Victor and the Hoodlum—two rich mines that are now being worked by California parties. On the west lies the Electric Mining Company's mines. In these mines are millions of dollars' worth of rich ore in sight. On the south, adjoining the Berlin mine of this Company, is the Montezuma and Clipper. From the Montezuma over three million dollars has been taken within 60 feet of the grass roots.

This Company owns free and clear seven mines of twenty acres each, all containing rich ore, located in the Arabia and Trinity mining districts, Humboldt County, Nevada. The Company has worked these mines for the past five years, and is now driving a tunnel to cut out a rich ledge about 300 feet from the surface. The Arabia mining district, in which these mines are located, is a lively district—a great many men being employed there. The tunnel now being driven on the Brooklyn mine has about 250 feet already completed. When the tunnel cuts the main ledge, which has just been reached by the Victor tunnel about 600 feet, the Brooklyn will have about 300 feet stoping ground, which runs high in gold and silver, over $60.00 per ton.

The Company is offering for a short time a limited amount of stock for the enlargement of its plant and the working force at the mines and for the completion of the Brooklyn tunnel.

This Company has thousands of tons of rich ore in sight.

We are not making a lot of talk, because it is unnecessary. What the investor wants is dividends, which we have paid for the past five years. Now if you want a safe 12 per cent. investment, let us hear from you.

THE OLD COMSTOCK

A California mining paper has this to say: "Nevada, that grand old stamping ground of mushroom millionaires, who plucked enough wealth from her prolific fields to build mansions, banks, and big hotels in San Francisco, and palaces in Paris and London, is again astonishing the world by making more millionaires and by yielding millions in gold and silver from a new field which rivals the old Comstock lode in the days of its pristine splendor. Not only in Tonopah and Arabia districts, where within the past year nearly ten millions have been exposed, are operations active, but in every mining district in the Silver State are operations active, and Nevada will once more take her place among the big producers, the peer of any of them."

Dear Sir,—During the six months of October and November of this year I visited the mines of the International Electric Mining Company, situated in Arabia and Trinity mining districts, Humboldt County, Nevada. I found the country remarkably mineralized; in fact, the possibilities of the country as a mineral producing country are yet unknown. For years it certainly has produced well. The work now being done in the Arabia and Trinity districts establishes the fact that they are fine producers.

I also found that there is a great deal of interest being taken in these properties, which have produced a great deal of wealth the past quarter of a century.

FREE GOLD FOUND

in the 190 foot shaft of The Electric Spark Gold Mining Company's property is an absolute assurance of large dividends at no distant day; and those who buy now, and take advantage of this exceptional opportunity will make from 50 to 100 per cent. yearly on their investment.

There has never been a mining investment offered where the future value of the property could be more clearly shown than in this, or where the returns could be estimated more certainly or accurately.

It is simply a question of time and work. The risk has all been taken, and the investor today can look forward to future dividends with certainty and satisfaction. Incorporated as we are for only $200,000, par value $1.00, makes the stock all the more valuable, and located in the midst of some of the best mines in Gilpin County, Colorado, the smallest county in the State, which in 1902 produced $4,000.000.00, is another assurance of a big dividend payer

By permission the Company refers to the Rocky Mountain National Bank, and the Weekly Register Call, of Central City, Colorado.

A limited amount of shares for sale at 20 cents per share. Remember this stock is fully paid and non-assessable; is all common and in a company organized expressly to operate this mine.

"THE FRIDAY MINE"

Located at Pearl, Willow Creek, Boise County, Idaho

About 28 Miles Northwest of Boise City

THE FRIDAY GOLD MINING CO. is a corporation duly organized under the laws of the State of Oregon, with head office at Sumpter, Oregon, owning and controlling "The Friday Mine." Capital Stock, $1 000,000, divided into 1,000,000 shares. Par value $1.00 per share, fully paid and non-assessable, no personal liability. 200,000 shares have been set aside and placed in the treasury of the Company to be sold for the purpose of equipping the "Friday Mine" with machinery. It is for this purpose we are offering you stock in this great mine. This plant will handle 60 tons of Friday ore every 24 hours. The general average of the Friday ore is over $80 per ton. The ore as it was shipped to the smelters at Salt Lake averaging over $65.00 per ton. The Friday is highly developed, great quantities of ore blocked out and in sight ready for the mill. As soon as the mill is completed the Friday Mine will again pay dividends.

Large ore bodies which will net to the company $50 000, for the first few months, are now blocked out ready for the mill. As soon as the mill is completed you will draw your regular monthly dividend. It is safe, certain and conservative.

We are not soliciting your money for the purpose of developing the mine, but only for the purpose of erecting a mill to work the ore bodies in the mine. The company is officered by men of well known business ability, mining experience and strict integrity.

Hon. Martin H. Jacobs, State Mining Inspector of mines, for the State of Idaho says: "The Friday has a large amount of good ore in sight, and there is no question about its being a good paying property."

Thunder Mountain!

is the richest gold producing camp in the United States, and also the largest. The Thunder Mountain district, in central Idaho, is twenty miles wide and forty miles long. In comparison with this we have Cripple Creek, four miles wide and seven miles long. In many of the Thunder Mountain mines ore has already been reached that carries ONE THOUSAND DOLLARS IN GOLD TO THE TON. All of the Thunder Mountain ore is free milling, which means that it can be treated by the cheapest extraction process known—the ordinary stamp mill. It can be both mined and milled at a cost not to exceed $2 a ton. The past years operations in the several working mines have opened up millions of tons of ore that will give a net profit of from $10 to $30 a ton, enabling the respective companies to pay dividends at a rate never before equalled. Such is the showing and the prospect of the

EAST DEWEY GOLD MINING CO.

which unless all indications are at fault, will become the largest producer in the district. The EAST DEWEY mine, which it owns outright, is located directly on Thunder Mountain, just east of the famous "Dewey" mine, which already has $20,-000,000 of ore in sight. The surface area of the East Dewey mine is one hundred and twenty acres—six full quartz claims. The company has also secured the big GOLDEN GATE mine, in the Big Creek section of the Thunder Mountain district—which has been so aptly termed "The Pot of Gold"—and is now developing the mine with all possible speed. For a distance of 9,000 feet, nearly two miles, the Golden Gate mines cover a mineralised ledge that is 900 feet wide, with an average height above the tunnel level of 500 feet, thus giving it the largest exposed tonnage of any mine in the west.

If you would share in the enormous profits which these figures indicate and which these developments promise, invest your money in "East Dewey" Stock. It can be bought to-day for 10 Cents a Share. Its par value is $1.

If the East Dewey mines are what they appear to be, and there is absolutely no reason to doubt or question these indications, this stock will eventually be worth at least $10 a share, and to-day you can buy it for ten cents. PRICE ADVANCES TO FIFTEEN CENTS ON FEBRUARY 28th. 5% discount allowed for cash. Stock sold at flat price of 10 cents on deferred payments, 10% with application, and 10% monthly until paid. Has placed four-fifths of its stock in the treasury for development work; and because

Oil is reached in less than half the depth required on Spindletop Heights in Beaumont;

The people in Canada are well acquainted with the management, which is in the hands of Hon. JOHN L. BITTINGER, United States Consul General to Canada; F. S. Ashley, Vice-President of the Massachusetts Securities Co., and W. L. Marston, Vice-President of the American Union Oil and Refining Co.

These gentlemen have made a dividend payer out of one company and have raised the value of its stock from 5c per share to par value, or 25c, within a very short time;

The company is operating in the Sour Lake field, where fewer wells will tap the oil than at Spindletop; this insures a greater flow of oil, and it is of a better quality;

This is the first allotment of shares at the present price of TEN CENTS PER SHARE; it is the lowest price at which you can buy, and the time left in which to buy at TEN CENTS is short.

An Enjoyable Affair

The entertainment given at Zion on Thursday night, under the auspices of Court Zion, was in every respect successful. The entertainers' program of "Grave and Gay" completely captivated the audience, and it was said to be the best the court had been favored with for some years.

This "G. F. J." on Kissing.

One of our little local boiler plate contemporaries recently printed the statement that "a kiss on the forehead denotes intellect." This may be true, but the opinion of this g.f.j. is that a man who would waste his time kissing a woman's forehead when she has the rest of her face with her, hasn't got anything that approaches intellect.

His Hand Injured

At the Canadian General Electric Works on Thursday, Herbert Fair, son of Mr. Wm. Fair, was drilling a piece of brass when the drill came off the cutter, and the dog slipped and caught his hand. At the time of the accident the lathe was travelling at a high speed, and two of the unlucky employee's fingers were smashed, while the third was badly torn.

A Small Blaze

Shortly after twelve o'clock yesterday the fire alarm sounded and the brigade had a brisk run to the residence of Mrs. Henry Deane, on George street. Some red hot pipes belonging to a wood-stove in the dining-room, threatened the destruction of the premises, and but for the opportune discovery and prompt action of the firemen would have resulted disastrously. We are glad to be able to state that no serious damage was done.

Turning Down the Doctors

The marvelous cures of Catarrhozone are being much talked about. Thousands are daily recognizing the exceptional merit of this simple inhaler treatment, and instead of running to the doctor with their winter ills, they protect themselves by Catarrhozone; it kills cold in the head in ten minutes; quickly relieves Catarrh, Bronchitis, Asthma, Lung Troubles, and cures even though all other remedies have failed. Catarrhozone is very pleasant, safe, and convenient to use. Its best recommendation is its enormous sale; try it today. Price $1.00; small size 25c. at Druggists.

Farmers in the Legislature

In the Legislature of Ontario, which is about to meet, the farmers as a whole predominate, having eighteen representatives. There are fifteen lawyers, twelve doctors, eleven merchants, ten editors, nine manufacturers, four lumbermen, two undertakers, two drovers, two insurance agents, and a cheese dealer, a financial agent, a land surveyor, a retired merchant forwarder, a mechanical engineer, a general agent, and auctioneer. Pretty nearly all interests are represented except clergymen and teachers.

EVANGELISTIC SERVICES

Large Crowds Attend the Services in Methodist Church

REV. MR. KERBY'S SERMON

Numbers of Seekers Looking for Salvation --The Meetings To-day -- The Afternoon Meeting Yesterday.

Mr. Kerby preached the sermon at the evangelistic services last evening. Only those, who have heard this gifted and polished speaker, can at all realize how earnest and powerful a speaker he is.

The subject of last night's sermon was, "Circles of influence."

Mr. Kerby said: Two texts constitute the keynote to the chart of this illustrated sermon. "Ye must be born again," "Be ye filled with the Spirit."

The chart that illustrates this sermon consists of a series of circles, with a cross in the centre representing Christ. Every human life is a self evolving circle; but the mightiest circle of influence is the one created by the coming of Christ into this world.

The purpose of the sermon is to show some of these Christ circles which is touching the life of the world to-day.

Then, in the second place, to show where we stand in relation to these circles.

In describing a circle the starting point is all important. In this case, it makes all the difference, whether you take Christ or self as the centre.

The first circle is the circle, of social and aesthetic influence.

The second circle is the circle, of the mental or intellectual.

The third circle is the circle, of the moral or ethical influence.

The sermon shows that a man might be in any or all the circles, and yet not know Jesus Christ as his Saviour.

What does it profit a man to be a fine artist; or a distinct social success; or a great scholar; or even a good moral man; if we have not come within the circle of the saving influence of Christ's life and teaching; this leads me to the fourth circle—the circle of saving influence.

The salvation circle. This salvation circle knows no limitation of family, or nation, or class, or creed. It belts the world. Confucius for China; Buda for Japan; Brahma for India; Mahomet for Turkey, but Christ for the world.

In the days of His flesh He received the blind beggar, learned lawyer, and social outcast, on the same conditions. No one ever appealed in vain for His love and sympathy, and saving power.

The last circle described was named the inner circle, of intimate friendship and companionship with Christ. It was within this circle that the joyous abounding and fruitful life of the Christian would live. The sermon closed with an earnest appeal and a powerful exhortation to the young to come within the safety circle.

Trust not in education, or refinement, or personal attractiveness, or morality, but in Christ Jesus the Saviour for sin.

On Sunday the Rev. Mr. Kerby will preach in the Murray street Baptist church at 11 a.m.

The Rev. Mr. Turk will preach in St. Paul's Presbyterian church, at the same hour, and in the evening both the evangelists will be in the George street Methodist church.

On Sunday at 4 p.m. the evangelists hold one of the most important of their services in the opera house, when the Rev. Mr. Turk will preach on "The Church and the Workingman." Singing by both evangelists and a strong male choir.

Services will continue as usual in the George street church each evening next week until Wednesday evening, when the evangelists will preach their farewell sermons.

At 3 p.m. Wednesday a meeting will be held for women only, when the Rev. Mr. Turk will preach on the "Twentieth Century Woman," and the Rev. Mr. Kerby will deliver an address on "The Call to Young Women." By special request they will sing "The Holy City," as a duet.

At St. Paul's Mission Rev. J. A. Wilson will preach at 11 a.m., and Rev. Dr. Torrance at 7 p.m.

The New Saw-Mill

The contract for the excavation in connection with the building of the new sawmill, which is to be erected on Burnham's Point, by the Dickson Company, has been given to Mr. Thos. Rehill. About 3,000 yards of excavating is to be done and Mr. Rehill already has begun operations by putting on a large force of men who are using dynamite in order to blast the frozen ground which aids their program very materially. About 60x100 feet is given as the probable dimensions of the mill.

Gold in Marmora

Marmora Herald: Last week we paid a visit to the Atlas Arsenic properties and found operations being carried on actively. The ore at the Pearce property contains a good deal of free gold, some of which we discovered as it came out of the car. We have a few samples at the Herald Office that should convince the skeptical that Hastings could get up an excitement as great as most districts if it were necessary. One little bottle of samples from two pans of ore is well worth seeing.

The Agonizing Pains of Rheumatism

Swollen, aching joints, muscles are stiff and sore, every movement accompanied by pain. The most potent remedy is Polson's Nerviline, which has five times the pain-subduing power of any other preparation. Apply the Nerviline copiously, rub it on well, and then bind in a hot flannel bandage. This will cure the worst case in a short time. Try Nerviline for Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Sciatica or Lumbago—it's all right and only costs a quarter.

A SERIOUS ACCIDENT

A Young Man in the Electric Works Meets With an Accident

A very painful accident occurred in the Test Department of the Canadian General Electric Works yesterday morning, when a young man named R. Forester came in contact with a 1,000-volt wire and had both his hands badly burned besides receiving a shock of very great severity. That the result was not fatal is deemed little less than miraculous. The unfortunate young man was removed to the Nichols hospital, where he is being attended by Dr. Young.

Mr. Forester is a native of Dublin, Ireland, and has been in the company's employ since September.

AN AT HOME

A Very Successful Event by the Lady Maccabees

The "At Home" given on Thursday evening in the Foresters' Hall, by the officers and members of the Lady Maccabees, was an unqualified success. About 100 ladies and gentlemen were present to enjoy to the fullest the evening's entertainment. The music for the dances was given very acceptably by Miss McCabe, while Mr. A. Moore acted as floor manager. Numerous card tables were also supplied, where many found very much enjoyment. The catering was done by Mr. T. Hooper, who provided most dainty refreshments. The committee in charge are to be congratulated on their good management, to which the success of the affair is due. It was composed of Mesdames Brooks, McCallum, Pratt and Cheverill. Mr. J. Titterson capably filled the position of hon. secretary-treasurer. This "At Home" is to be an annual affair, and will be looked forward to with much interest.

THE SPECIAL SERVICES

Revs. Kerby and Turk Meetings Arranged For

Sunday, Feb. 22.—11 a.m. Rev. Mr. Kerby will preach at Murray street Baptist church, and Rev. Mr. Turk at St. Paul's Presbyterian church. 4 p.m.—Meeting for men only in the opera house, addressed by Rev. G. R. Turk on "The Church and the Working Man." Singing by both evangelists and a special male choir of seventy-five voices. 7 p.m.—Evening service in George street Methodist church, conducted by Messrs. Turk and Kerby.

Monday, Feb. 23, and Tuesday, Feb. 24.—Evangelistic service in George street church at 7.45 p.m.

Wednesday, Feb. 25.—3 p.m. Meeting in George street church for women only, when Mr. Turk will speak on "The 20th Century Woman," and Mr. Kerby on "Call to young womanhood." By special request both evangelists will sing "The Holy City." A special offering will be taken up at this meeting. 7.45 p.m.—Closing farewell meeting in George street Methodist church.

Envelopes for special thank-offering will be placed in the pews of the various churches on Sunday. These may be placed on the regular collection plates on Sunday, or at any of the subsequent meetings, but preferably on Sunday or Monday.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

—Mr. H. P. Kennedy was in Toronto on business yesterday.

—Hastings Star: Mrs. A. Wilson is visiting at the home of Mrs. J. B. Harper, Peterborough.

—Mr. Dickson Davidson has returned from Toronto, where he has been for two or three days.

—Lakefield News: Miss Beattie, who has been visiting friends in the village during the past few weeks, returned to her home on Tuesday.

—Miss Margaret Gamble, Antrim street, leaves for Germany this morning, to join her sister, Mrs. George Dunsford, who is quite ill.

—Miss R. Sharin, of Omemee, had the misfortune to fall on her own verandah on Thursday last and break her arm. She at once drove to town and had the fracture reduced, and is now as comfortable as could be expected.

LITTLE LOCAL LINES

—The Legal committee met yesterday afternoon.

—The Rural Deanery of Northumberland and Durham will hold their next meeting in Campbellford on Monday and Tuesday, May 4th and 5th.

—Lakefield News: A party of young people drove from Peterborough on Thursday evening, and were very hospitably entertained at the home of Miss Young. A very pleasant evening was spent in games and other amusements.

Mr. Henry B. Haines, of Toronto, who is spending the winter in Peterborough, had his hand badly burned on Wednesday evening last while taking a flash-light picture, and consequently is unable to use that member.

—The Ontario Fisheries Department is asking for tenders for 10,000 bags to continue the re-stocking process in inland lakes during the coming year. The results of the work done in restocking during the past two years have been very successful, and many of the inland lakes are once more swarming with fish.

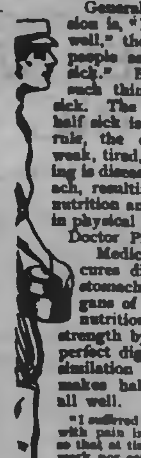
—One of our little local boiler plate contemporaries says that the "eager bargain seekers at Cressman's fire sale will lose more in doctor's bills than they will gain in bargains." It is not likely that the shoppers will take the hint and forsake the sale, notwithstanding this strong appeal.

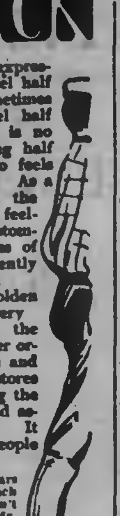
—Read Mr. Cressman's fire sale ad. in to-day's issue.

—Lakefield News: A bus load of young people drove down to Peterborough on Friday evening of last week. The part enjoyed a skate at the rink, after which they were entertained at the home of Miss Cora Lightfoot. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. W. Sharin, Miss Ethel Cox, Miss V. Fitzgerald, Miss M. Fitzgerald, Miss Lightfoot, Miss Montgomery, Miss A. Cox, Miss A. Hunter, and Messrs. B. Horton, T. Crawford, J. Moffatt, W. Stabler and H. Montgomery.

—The sympathy of the community in Dummer is extended to Mr. and Mrs. David Shyrrie, of that township, in the death of their two children who were taken away this week with inflammatory croup. Gerald D., aged 5 years and 8 months, died on Tuesday morning, and before his remains were laid away in the grave his younger sister, Dora Jean, aged 4 years and 1 month, succumbed to the disease. The funeral took place on Thursday afternoon.

HALF SICK





Generally the expression is, "I don't feel half well," though sometimes people say, "I feel half sick." But there is no such thing as being half sick. The man who feels half sick is all sick. As a rule, the cause of the weak, tired, half sick feeling is disease of the stomach, resulting in loss of nutrition and consequently in physical weakness.

Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It restores strength by enabling the perfect digestion and assimilation of food. It makes half sick people all well.

"I suffered for four years with pain in my stomach so that at times I couldn't work nor eat," writes Mr. Frank Smith, of Granite, Chaffee Co., Colo. "I wrote to you about my sickness and was told to use your medicine, which I did with good results. I only used four bottles of your 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and must say that I am entirely cured and feel like a new man, and I can highly recommend your medicine to any sufferer."

"Golden Medical Discovery" contains no alcohol and is entirely free from opium, cocaine and all other narcotics. It is strictly a temperance medicine.

Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." There is nothing "just as good" for diseases of the stomach.

The "Common Sense Medical Adviser," one thousand and eight large pages, in paper covers, is sent free on receipt of 31 one-cent stamps, to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

A Beautiful Canadian Girl Saved From Catarrh of the Lungs by Pe-ru-na.

MISS FLORENCE KENAH.

Miss Florence E. Kenah, 434 Maria street, Ottawa, Ont., writes:

"A few months ago I caught a severe cold, which settled on my lungs and remained there so persistently that I became alarmed. I took medicine without benefit, until my digestive organs became upset, and my head and back began to ache severely and frequently.

"I was advised to try Peruna, and although I had little faith I felt so sick that I was ready to try anything. It brought me blessed relief at once, and I felt that I had the right medicine at last. Within three weeks I was completely restored and have enjoyed perfect health since.

"I now have the greatest faith in Peruna." F. E. KENAH.

WOMEN should beware of contracting catarrh. The cold wind and rain, slush and mud of winter are especially conducive to catarrhal derangements. Few women escape.

Upon the first symptoms of catching cold Peruna should be taken. It fortifies the system against colds and catarrh.

The following letter gives one young woman's experience with Peruna:

Miss Rose Gerbing is a popular society woman of Crown Point, Ind., and she writes the following:

"Recently I took a long drive in the country, and being too thinly clad I caught a bad cold which settled on my lungs, and which I could not seem to shake off. I had heard a great deal of Peruna for colds and catarrh and I bought a bottle to try. I am pleased that I did, for it brought speedy relief. It only took about two bottles, and I considered this money well spent.

"You have a firm friend in me, and I not only advise its use to my friends, but have purchased several bottles to give to those without the means to buy, and have noticed without exception that it has brought about a speedy cure wherever it has been used."—Miss Rose Gerbing.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, O.

GALWAY'S CHOICE POSTPONED, ALASKAN TRIBUNAL

Nationalist Candidate Not Yet Selected--Devlin Still Possible

William Ogilvie Refused to Hoist Union Jack in Alaska - - The War On Crofters

London, Feb. 21—Galaway's selection of a candidate for the Commons has been postponed. Mr. Devlin's choice is still probable, Mr. O'Connor Power having dropped out.

THE ALASKAN TRIBUNAL.

At the Colonial Office to-day I was again told that no names had yet been submitted for the Alaskan tribunal by Sir Wilfrid Laurier, and consequently there are no names before the English Cabinet. No protests have been received from Canada against the American Commissioners.

I have interviewed the first Englishman who tramped through the White Pass. He says that he urged Commissioner Ogilvie to raise the British flag in the autumn of 1897, or offered to do it himself. Mr. Ogilvie, however, refused. This Englishman blames the indifference of both the Imperial and Canadian Governments for the whole trouble.

THE DOMINION LINE.

The "Morganization" of the Dominion line has been completed by the issuance of a circular stating that in future the manager will be Henry Wilding, the British director of the Morgan combine. It also states that new steamers are about to be built.

BAD FOR SCOTLAND.

The House of Commons refused yesterday to consider an amendment to the address to restrict deer forests in the highlands. The landlords are driving the crofters out, which, while good for Canada, is suicidal for Scotland. A week has been spent in the Common's discussing the King's speech, without result. The House of Lords' total sittings do not equal an hour.

A COLONIAL COMPLAINT.

An Australian has a letter in The Times, stating that the non-recognition by the Imperial authorities of departmental and other workers instrumental in equipping colonials for war is causing much disaffection. He also points out that the new Imperial service order does not contain the name of a single official of any of the self-governing colonies. He holds that it is not only the warriors who deserve acknowledgement.

Sir James MacKay, president of the Chamber of Shipping, at the annual dinner yesterday, said that British ships during the recent war carried to Africa a million men half a million animals and million and a half of stores, without the loss of a single life. Right Honorable Gerard Balfour, president of the Board of Trade, said that England had nothing to fear from the Morgan combine, but must keep her eyes open. He suggested treating foreign shipping as foreigners treated British.

London, Feb. 21—It is confidently expected, says the Vienna correspondent of The Times that the Austro-Russian programme in regard to Macedonian reform will be accepted without difficulty. The Sultan has already been confidently informed as to the nature of the proposals.

In referring to the recent negotiations between the powers in regard to Macedonia the Paris correspondent of The Times remarks that one of the satisfactory features distinguishing them is the absence of any petty jealousies. The correspondent says the European concert has been little talked about, but it has kept together, and has been hard at work. There is good reason on this occasion to be satisfied with the progress of the "steam roller."

FOUND DEAD IN BED

Sudden Demise of Mrs. Wm. Elliott of Aspodel

The family of the late Mrs. Wm. Elliott, of Norwood, were terribly shocked, to find her cold in death, lying as if asleep in her bed.

On Wednesday evening she retired, apparently in her usual health, death having overtaken her quietly during the night.

The funeral was largely attended, by a great number of sympathizing neighbors and friends.

TWO TRAINS COLLIDE.

A Serious Mix-Up of the G. T. R. Passenger and C.P.R. Freight Trains

On Saturday afternoon our town was considerably disturbed by the news that the 2.05 Belleville passenger train and a C.P.R. freight train had collided at the diamond and cars belonging to both were derailed and a general blockade was the result. No lives were lost by the mix-up which is a cause for much thankfulness. Wrecking trains from Lindsay and Havelock were wired for and cleared the track as soon as possible.

The baggage car and smoker of the Belleville train were completely overturned, the latter being directly across the C.P.R. track which made traffic impossible for the time. An empty freight car of the C.P.R. was precipitated into the ditch, and disorder reigned supreme. Through it all the ladies in the passenger car, which was badly shaken, although not derailed, maintained the utmost composure.

It is thought, although nothing very definite has been ascertained, that the signals were either misinterpreted or misapplied. The fact that another wreck has been added to the list, which is already much too long, gives rise to the query "Why are railway accidents becoming so frequent?" We pause for a reply.

Travelling Art Exhibit of the Grand Trunk Railway System

Arrangements have been completed by the Passenger department of the Grand Trunk Railway System, whereby its annual travelling picture exhibit, that created such favorable comment throughout the United States, will start out on a three months' tour commencing Feb. 1 The itinerary of the trip covers some of the principal Southern and Middle states, and includes the following cities: —Atlanta, Ga., Birmington, Montromery and Mobile, Ala.; New Orleans, La.; Houston San Antonio and Dallas Texas; Memphis, Nashville, Chattanooga and Knoxville, Tenn; Richmond. Va.; Elmira, Binghampton and Utica, N.Y. The tour is so arranged that the exhibit will be on view at at New Orleans La., during the "Mardi Gras" which will take place February 22-4. The exhibition will be composed of more than 100 of the large advertising pictures, illustrating the several summer districts located on the line of the railway, and including the regions in the "Highlands of Ontario," the several resorts in the White Mountains of New England, and the bathing beaches on the coast of Maine. In addition to these there will be a series of mounted fish, natives to the waters of Canada, including black bass, maskinonge, wall-eyed pike, (dore), brook trout and other varieties. A representative of the Grand Trunk will accompany the exhibit, and handsome illustrated descriptive publications will be distributed gratuitously at each point.

THE CORDAGE COMPANY

A Dividend of Five Per Cent. Has Been Declared

NO FINANCIAL STATEMENT

Is the Dividend Being Paid Out of Capital or Out of Profits?

This is What the Stockholders Want to Know—The Company should have Government Protection—President's Letter

The "management" of the Canadian Cordage Company has issued a circular to the stockholders, which will be read with a very great deal of interest, not only by those who have money invested in the concern, but by the general public as well. The strangest part of the present action is, that no financial statement appears to accompany the announcement of a dividend, as is usual in such cases. The Times is of opinion that the stockholders will not be satisfied with anything short of a full detailed statement from the foundation up, and this should be furnished in advance of the annual general meeting, which it is said, has been called. Several stockholders have so expressed themselves to The Times; They are greatly interested in knowing whether or not the dividend is being paid out of capital or out of profits.

The fact that the demand for the product of the works is far in excess of the supply is a favorable omen, although The Times can hardly see how the stockholders can hope for profit without government assistance. Peterborough should therefore join in urging upon the government the desirability of affording protection in the shape of increased duties on the product of American factories. The following is the circular letter:

Dear Sir,—The Directors take very much pleasure in announcing to the Shareholders that they have declared a dividend of 5 per cent. on the capital stock of this Company, paid up on the 7th day of February, 1903, which dividend will be paid on the 1st day of May 1903, in accordance with the terms of the resolution of the Directors.

To make such a satisfactory showing has called forth a great deal of effort on the part of the Directors of this Company as the following statement will show.

In the first place it was necessary to spend a great deal of time in securing subscriptions for stock before the Directors were justified in proceeding with the establishment and equipment of the plant.

The erection of the buildings, of which a picture is given above, was commenced in October, 1901, and the main building and storehouses were completed the following spring. The machinery in the factory is all new, modern and up-to-date, and was manufactured especially for this company by manufacturers of binder twine machinery in Belfast, Ireland, New York, Boston, and Mamisburg, Ohio. It took a great deal of time to install the machinery, which is quite extensive, and which must be very accurately placed in position, and also to install the electric motors, the automatic sprinkler system for fire protection, the heating system, etc., etc.

It took considerable time to get the new machinery running well and thoroughly polished, and to get the employees of the factory taught to run the machines so that an excellent quality of twine might be turned out which would induce customers in future years to ask for this Company's twine.

It must be gratifying to the shareholders to know that there was a large demand for our twine last year, that it was impossible for the Company to fill all the orders that were offered to them.

In addition to manufacturing twine the Company manufacture all kinds of rope and lath, yarn, etc., out of which the Company from day to day secure very profitable returns.

As this Company has a free site, exemption from taxation on buildings and machinery, electric power at $15 per horse power, for power, light and heating purposes, a low rate of insurance, is favorably situated on both lines of railways, and their machinery is now in first-class running order, and their help thoroughly skilled, the Directors look forward with a great deal of confidence to the results of the coming year and trust that they will receive the active assistance and co-operation of all the shareholders who will make it a point on every occasion to have the farmers, hardware merchants ask for and insist on getting twine, rope and cordage made by this Company.

To operate this Company successfully it is important that the Company should be in a position to carry its raw material independently of the Banks. To carry 2,000 tons of twine at an average cost of 10 cents a pound requires no less than $400,000. It also requires about $100,000 to carry a stock of rope.

To successfully compete with other large manufacturers, it is necessary to carry twine accounts in various parts of the country until the first day of October of each year the same as the large American manufacturers.

To do this requires money. To get the necessary money the Directors require leave to sell more stock and a by-law for that purpose will be submitted for the consideration of the shareholders. It is the present intention of the Directors to issue no more new stock than is absolutely necessary to successfully finance the operations of the Company. This will enable the Company to do more business and to make more money for the shareholders.

As soon as the meeting of the shareholders is over, a full report will be sent to each shareholder for the benefit of those who do not find it convenient to attend.

Yours truly,
ADAM HALL, President.

NO TRAMPLING ON THE DUTCH, TO PACIFY SOUTH AFRICA

The Principle by Which Great Britain Hopes to Pacify the Boers

PREPARING WELCOME FOR CHAMBERLAIN

Steps Towards Reforms–How Broderick is to be Shelved

London, Feb. 21—Mr. Chamberlain soon will be on his way homeward from South Africa. Already the corporation of the city of London has decided to present him with an address of welcome and congratulations. There was one single dissent incident which pretty accurately represents the national attitude towards Mr. Chamberlain's mission. The great mass of Englishmen, forgetful of all personal and political animosities, write it down as a triumph for glass house diplomacy and a good augury for South Africa, in which, as Mr. Chamberlain never ceases to insist, the Dutch, as well as the British, are essential factors. It is ridiculous, of course, to imagine that a century old racial feud, still smouldering after a fresh and terrible outbreak can be healed in one moment or a decade, but few long-sighted Englishmen fail to realize that Mr. Chamberlain points out the only way, and that, as Cecil Rhodes said in his last words to Mr. Stead, "You cannot govern South Africa if you trample on the Dutch. No trampling on the Dutch, on penalty of losing South Africa." Mr. Chamberlain not only says this, but is making it the foundation of his policy. His greatest obstacles are not in the Transvaal or the Orange Colony, where the new situation is frankly accepted by the best elements, but in Cape Colony, among the loyalists, who were more loyal than the King, and the Anglo-Dutch, who were more Boer that the Boers. Mr. Chamberlain frankly admits that he finds their hostility to prolonged and virulent, as to have become almost chronic. The Transvaal and the Orange Colony, which led them into rebellion, may now lead them into reconciliation. Self-interest probably will point that way. The division of the colony into Dutch and British provinces, as Central Canada is divided into French and English, may be advisable. In any case, it is only right to admit that Mr. Chamberlain's mission leaves the situation better than he found it, for he has acted as a pacifier, whose own personal faith and sympathy few South Africans now question.

CONGRESS OF CHAMBERS FOR THE EMPIRE.

London, Feb. 23—The Congress of Chambers of Commerce, of the Empire, at which Canada will participate, will be held next summer. The following subjects will probably be discussed: Alaska boundary, assimilation of trade statistics, bounties, British interests in the far East, commercial education, commercial relations with the Mother Country and the colonies and dependencies, consultative Imperial council, communications with the colonies, codification, of the commercial law of the Empire, death duties, decimal system of weights and measures, defences of the Empire, development of British Central Africa, fast Atlantic mail service, Imperial telegraph communication, income tax levied in colonies on British shipping, Indian railways interchange of publications, light dues, lighting of the Red Sea naturalization laws, secret commissions, South Africa, trade marks, trade with Porto Rico, Cuba and the Philippine Islands.

THE DICKSON COMPANY AND THE LITTLE LAKE

Operations on the New Mill Have Been Discontinued

MAY NOT BUILD MILL

The Company Cannot Change the Site, as Room Must be Had for Piling Ground—A Great Loss to Peterborough should the Work Not Go On

A great deal is being said in regard to the operations of the Dickson Company at Burnham's Point, and one would almost think a terrible calamity was impending. It would be very pleasant to have Burnham's Point remain in its present state, providing, as it does, a splendid playground for young and old. But the exigencies of business forbids it. The town, if it desired to preserve this beauty spot should have acquired a title to the property, and then no one could have molested it. It is perhaps not pleasant to know that even a portion of the lake may be utilized by the company for holding its logs. But why should the Dickson Company not be allowed the same rights in this regard as others? We have for several weeks every year, not only the lake, but the entire river down to Rice Lake, filled with logs, impeding navigation and destroying the pleasure of the tourist during the best days of the summer, and hardly an objection is heard.

On the other hand the Dickson Company, which has done more for Peterborough than any other company can ever hope to do, is viciously attacked for proposing to do exactly what Mr. Macdonald did a few years ago, without a word of complaint being heard. It appears to be a case of whose ox is gored. Mr. Macdonald has done much to improve the end of the town where his mill is located, besides giving employment to many persons. The Dickson Company will no doubt do the same for the other side of the water.

It is deplorable, perhaps, in a way, that any disfigurement of the lake is necessary (if a boom of saw logs may be called a disfigurement) but there is nothing else for it, if the mill is to be built. If we do not want the mill at all, or prefer an acre or two of water to a thriving industry, with its enormous expenditure in wages, its cheap firewood, and its building material, we should say so deliberately. But The Times is sure that no such general feeling exists amongst the people of Peterborough and Ashburnham.

Since the above was written we learn that the committee appointed by the Ashburnham Civic Association waited on Mr. Shook, the manager of the Dickson Company, and asked him to change the site from Burnham's Point to the old Ludgate mill site. Mr. Alf. Macdonald who recently purchased the Ludgate site, offered to sell to the Dickson Company and take what he paid for the property.

Mr. Shook explained that there was not room for a mill on the site proposed. Lumber must be piled at least 300 feet from the mill, and this could not be done, as there was not room. In the meantime building operations have been discontinued, and it may be possible that the Company's fine mill at Lakefield may be utilized, which would prove a very serious loss to Peterborough.

WILL VISIT PETERBOROUGH

Engineer's Club of Toronto to Come to Peterborough this Year

The Engineers' Club of Toronto will come to Peterborough for their annual outing this spring, having formally decided the matter at Thursday night's meeting, at the request of Mr. J. Alexr. Culverwell, of Peterborough. The trip will extend over two days and will take place shortly after the opening of navigation.

It is expected that the Mayor and Council of Peterborough will offer the Society a formal reception, and will take advantage of this opportunity of showing this influential body the large manufacturing and hydraulic developments at Peterborough.

The members of the Society have expressed a particular desire to inspect the hydarulic lift lock on the Trent Canal, near Peterborough, and it should be an oppertune moment for the Trent Valley Waterway Association to explain to the engineering profession of this Province the importance and advantage this national highway will be to the country, and the urgent necessity of its completion.

By invitation of Mr. Culverwell the Society will accept a trip by steamer on the Waters north of Peterborough, and will also be tendered a luncheon by him at Burleigh Falls.

The Engineers' Club of Toronto, has a membership of twenty-five, distributed throughout Ontario, and the President is C. H. Rust, City Engineer Toronto; Vice-pres. C. M. Canniff; Secy. Willis Chipman; Treas. H. F Duck; Chairman Finance Committee, J. Alexr. Culverwell. The past Presidents are Kivas Tully, A. L. Hertzberg, of the C.P.R., and Major Henry A. Gray, of Public Works Dept.

ASHBURNHAM CIVIC ASSOC'N.

The Dickson Company and the Little Lake Discussed

A meeting of the Ashburnham Civic Association took place in the Council Chamber, Ashburnham, on Friday night, Mr. E. A. Peck in the chair

A lengthy discussion took place regarding the Dickson Company and the Little Lake, after which the following resolutions were carried:—

Moved by Mr. Strickland, seconded by Col. J. Z. Rogers,—That in the opinion of this meeting the use of the lake for booming of logs, as indicated by the boom anchors as being placed by the Dickson Co., would be most detrimental to the interests of the village and town residents by depriving them of the privileges, pleasures and rights in the waters of the lake, which they have so long enjoyed.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. McAllister, seconded by Mr. McCarthy,—That Messrs. Strickland, Adams, Neill and Peck be a committee to wait upon the Dickson Co., Mr. Macdonald and Mr. Lundy to see if arrangements cannot be made for the erection of the Dicksons Co's mill on the old Ludgate mill property—Carried.

UNION DISCUSSED.

A discussion took place with regard to union with Ashburnham, about which there is a considerable divergence of opinion.

Mr. R. B. Rogers suggested that a committee be appointed to collect facts on the conditions of union, and that they be submitted to a special meeting of the Civic Association.

On motion of Mr. McCarthy, seconded by Mr. Rogers, the meeting adjourned, subject to the call of the chair, for the purpose of discussing matters in reference to union.

CHAMBERLAIN'S DIFFICULT TASK WITH THE CAPE COLONY DUTCH

The Rebel Colonists are Heaping Up Trouble For Themselves

London, Feb. 23—No one will be much surprised that Mr. Chamberlain found a more sullen feeling in Cape Colony than in the two fighting Republics. Naturally it was the men who were worn down by the tireless Kitchener tactics who best realise the folly of struggling against the inevitable, and they are now ready to accept the new conditions and so behave as to bring to their sons at the earliest possible moment the opportunity of free self-government. But the Cape Dutch, who remained restively inactive during the struggle, may fancy that British rule is not inevitable; and are minded to risk their present constitutional government for the satisfaction of growling at the hated heels of the Colonial Secretary.

But they may find it an expensive pleasure. If Mr. Chamberlain comes back to London with the report that Lord Milner's advice must reluctantly be accepted and the Cape Constitution suspended, it will cost them many years of better behavior to get it back. against Britain was generous at the close of the war, and ardently desires to be more generous still; but any lingering fear of trouble at the Cape will dry up that generosity and bring on a relentless policy of stern, just rule.

Mr. Chamberlain may not look like a dove with an olive branch, but it is poor policy to throw stones at him in any case.

General - Sports

Last Wednesday a challenge appeared in one of the local papers from the Cordage Company hockey team, challenging the Wm. Hamilton machinists to a game, which was at once accepted by the machinists and arrangements made to play on Saturday night. But for some reasons unknown the Cordage Company team backed down, and it is claimed by the machinists in a very unsportsmanlike manner, without giving any notice of their intentions not to play until a few hours before the game was called. The machinists telephoned the Auburn team who gladly gave them a helping hand and a hot game. The machinists would be glad to hear from the Binder Twine sluggers gation this week.

The machinists of the Wm. Hamilton Co. played a draw game with Auburn on Saturday night, each team scoring 3 goals.

The T.A.S. and Norwood play to-night.

The Young Ladies' Hockey team will play Hamilton Young Ladies to-morrow night.

Belleville and the Marlboros play second home and home game at Belleville tonight.

A CHANGE OF HANDS

Mr. E. W. Gardiner Becomes Proprietor of a Thriving Business on George Street

No doubt it will be a matter of considerable surprise to many of our citizens to learn that Mr. James H. McQuay, who has for years conducted the flourishing and up-to-date confectionery store on George street is retiring from business and is being succeeded by Mr. E. W. Gardiner. The store does not change hands till March 1st, and in the meantime Mr. Gardiner is engaged in its personal supervision.

This store has always been known by reputation as first class in every particular. The various dainties prepared there can always be relied on as most pure and wholesome. It is the intention of the new proprietor to devote much of his time to the preparation and cooking of oysters and the oyster-lovers of Peterborough are invited to go to this popular establishment and taste and see.

Everyone appreciates the quick lunch and the steaming tea and coffee at moment's notice. At all hours of the day these can be had by all who wish them. Mr. Gardiner has gained the full confidence of the public already and with his genial manners and good executive ability the success of the new business is assured.

THE ANNUAL MEETING

Election of Officers of the University Alumni Association

The graduates of Toronto University in the county of Peterborough held their annual meeting in the Y.M.C.A parlor on Friday evening last. E. B. Edwards, K.C., president, was in the chair.

There were present W. T. Harrison, M.D., Hampden Burnham, M.A, F D, Kerr, B.A., R. F. McWilliams, B A; O B. France, C.E., Arthur Stevenson, B A. and others.

The election of officers resulted in the election of D. W. Dumble, B.A, as President for the ensuing year, and Arthur Stevenson, B.A., Secretary. A committee composed of the officers and Messrs. Burnham and McWilliams were appointed to take charge of a banquet to be held on March 6th, next, at which the Chancellor, Sir William Meredith is to be present and give an address upon the past and future of the Varsity. There are 72 graduates of Toronto University in the county in the various faculties, and of them 21 had already signified their intention of being present. Subscriptions were taken up by Mr. Sadler, of Toronto, in behalf of the new Convocation Hall.

Mr. Sadler delivered a most interesting address, and urged the necessity of impressing upon the government the need of funds, if Toronto University was to maintain its high standing and worldwide reputation.

SHOULD THERE BE A BACHELOR'S TAX

The taxation of unmarried men as a sound economic principle is being advanced seriously by European writers on social science and is a vital topic for discussion in this, the favorite month of Cupid. By a somewhat devious course of reasoning the conclusion is reached that the modern bachelor is an incubus upon society, an undeserving object of charity, since his living expenses are defrayed in large measure by the fathers of families. Living as he does in lodgings by himself, he makes no direct contribution to the coffers of the state in the shape of taxes. Exceptions there are, to be sure, bachelors who are extensive owners of property upon which they pay taxes, but single-blessedness provides no incentive to the owning of one's home, writes Robert Webster Jones in the February Housekeeper. The expenses of the state must be met somehow and it is upon the married men of the nation, already burdened with family expenses, that they fall most heavily.

The bachelor pays his trifling rent for a room or two and either thinks he has wiped out the score or rejoices that those noble philanthropists, the married men, are helping him foot the bill. But the complaint of the state against the bachelor rests not only on financial reasons. The bachelor is a shirker of responsibilities, a dodger of duty, a laggard in the procession of progress. The family is the foundation of the state, the granite base that supports its prosperity and perpetuity. But in the laying of this foundation the bachelor plays no part. He lives unto himself alone. His interest in all public questions that affect the family must, necessarily, be but lukewarm, and it is difficult to enlist his activities in public affairs.

The voluntary bachelor is selfishness personified. So it is proposed to try taxing him. "Where singleness is bliss 'tis folly to have wives," says some cynic, artfully adapting the old adage to suit his jaundiced point of view, and too many of the present masculine generation prove poor targets for Cupid's arrows. Will taxing the bachelor do any good and is not the poor creature miserable enough as he is, without adding to his sorrows? Should he be forced to pay for a home and yet not enjoy its benefits? These are questions that cannot be answered offhand, but deserve the most thoughtful consideration. One of the great reforms that would cause the twentieth century to take its place among the golden ages of the history would be the abolition of the voluntary bachelor.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Maud Gonne, the Irish Joan of Arc, is to be married to Major McBride, who led a Boer brigade during the war. The Home Rule question will now be fought out in a restricted arena.

The Canadian Pacific Railway Company has made a proposition to the Dominion Government to take, as part of the 3,300,000 acres of land still to be allotted to it a block of 2,500,000 acres in the arid belt between Calgary and Medicine Hat, the remainder to be selected in Manitoba and the Northwest Reserve, which reverted to the Government when the Manitoba and Northwestern railway failed to earn its subsidy. If they can make this arrangement, they would spend, so they say, $3.50 to $4 per acre in irrigating the tract.

After an experience of fifty years Vermont has voted to abandon its prohibitory law in favor of a license system, with local option for the cities and towns. The vote of the cities, where the prohibitory law has been a rank failure, swamped the rural vote.

Mr. Chamberlain was not singular in his visit to Spion Kop, for it has already become almost a place of pilgrimage. The Natal papers tell us that coach drives to its vicinity take place regularly from Ladysmith. In a word, Spion Kop, like Majuba, promises to be one of the "lions" of South Africa. The battlefields of South Africa give a sad, new topographical interest to that country.

More Trouble in China

London, Feb. 19.—The belief of the Russian peasantry in the divinity of Father John, of Kronstadt, is still largely held, says the St. Petersburg correspondent of The Times. Trustworthy newspaper reports are to the effect that twenty peasants living at Karpovko, in the Don territory, journey 1,000 miles to Kronstadt in order to worship Father John, persisting in maintaining that he was Christ. They were discovered by the police, and were sent home, to be dealt with by the ecclesiastical authorities.

Increase of 30 Per Cent. in Duties

Washington, Feb. 19.—The action of Venezuela in declaring as a war measure an increase of 30 per cent. in duties on all imports is regarded here as a keen stroke of political finesse, for practically it amounts to placing the indemnity which Venezuela is to pay the powers wholly upon the shoulders of the foreign merchants who conduct all of Venezuela's imports. The increase mentioned, 30 per cent., is the same figure as the percentage of customs dues at La Guayra and Puerto Cabello to be assigned to the claimant nations (including the United States.)

gentle, almost tearful; and, try as he would to raise her spirits, Astley could get nothing but soft and deprecatory answers and looks from her until they had finished dinner, and he was seeing her home.

She was still oppressed by the feeling that her selfishness had been unexampled, and presently she told him so. He laughed at her fears.

"You are selfish!" he admitted simply. "And quite absurdly sensitive and impulsive. But I did what I did with my eyes open, quite willingly. I suppose I was selfish, too, and bent upon getting a new sensation out of life, the sensation of being married to a lady who was not my wife."

She was walking beside him, but not very close: he saw that she shivered at his words.

"I—I didn't know what you'd gone through," she stammered hoarsely. "You only said that you were 'a poor devil'—that was what you called yourself—who didn't know how to manage on 'a pitiful pension'—that was what you called it. So—so—"

"So you were quite justified, and not to blame a bit," added Astley cheerily.

And then silence fell on them both. On Astley, because this unburdening of his life's secret had made him thoughtful; on Norma, because she began to fancy that the woman whom she had seen in the hotel courtyard was hovering about, following them sometimes on the one side of the street, and sometimes on the other.

She could not, however, be sure enough of the woman's figure to think it worth while to mention her fancies to Astley; and it was not until he had left her on her uncle's doorstep, after her flat refusal to let him come in and brave the storm, that she was sure, on seeing the same figure close behind Astley, that the woman whom she had seen in the hotel office had followed them to her uncle's house, and was now following Astley back again.

He had been very anxious to come in and "beard the lion in his den," which was the way he expressed his intention of encountering the displeasure of Mrs. Bascot. But Norma was so passionately earnest in her entreaties that he would not, in her assurances that she would allow him to do so on the morrow, and that in the meantime she would be very gentle and patient and meek, that he had at length given way to her wishes.

"I expect," she shrewdly said, "they will have been so frightened by my disappearance this evening that they will be inclined to 'climb down' a little, and to make it easier for me than seemed likely this afternoon."

Her expectations proved to be well founded. Her aunt and uncle, realizing that her marriage was an accomplished fact, and that she was now indeed mistress of her person and her money, had had time to learn the bitter truth that their solicitude had overreached itself, and that in trying to force on the girl a distasteful marriage in their own interests, they had but hastened the time when she would emancipate herself from their control.

They were heartily thankful to see her back, and both took care to assure her that they were sorry for the manner of their reception of the news of her marriage, and anxious for her to remain with them as long as she pleased. For Norma told them that she was quite ready to stay with them, if they wished, until Astley's visit to his cousin at Astley Haigh was over.

So the stormy and eventful day ended peacefully, and Norma woke next morning in a very chastened mood, half regretting her hasty action in getting married to Astley, and yet at the same time anxious to see him again. He had become a very interesting personality since her discovery of his history: she could think of little else.

And the woman? The mysterious woman? Who could she be?

CHAPTER VI.

Now Norma was soon to discover that a distinct change had taken place in the attitude of her family towards her since the night before.

Then they had been all contrition for their anger and unkindness on hearing of her marriage. Now, however, that they recognized more fully the position of affairs, and began, too, to have dim doubts whether she had not married rather to spite them than to please herself, a reaction was inevitable. So at breakfast Mr. Bascot was stiff, Mrs. Bascot was reserved, and Robert was irritating and inquisitive.

The two gentlemen, to Norma's great relief, had to go away, soon after breakfast, to their respective duties; but her aunt was more difficult to escape from.

And when the young girl had settled down to some needlework by the dining-room fire, Mrs. Bascot glided into the room, sat down opposite with a basket of undarned socks, and fastened upon her prey.

"Rather an unfortunate circumstance for you, this marriage of Sir Hugh Astley's, isn't it?" was her first remark, as she explored a defective heel, and began to draw the sides of a yawning gap together.

Norma's face flushed, and she bit her lip, but in a moment she recovered herself and said:

"How—unfortunate for me?"

"Oh, my dear girl, surely you know that, at present, Mr. Astley Darwen is the heir to the baronetcy as well as the property of his cousin: but now that Sir Hugh is going to marry, he may very likely have a son to succeed him."

"Indeed, I hope he will," replied Norma quickly. "And I'm sure Astley wishes his cousin every happiness."

"Of course, of course, my dear. Still, it's not in human nature to be pleased at losing such brilliant prospects. And I suppose it was this change in his life which made Mr. Darwen anxious to make a good match."

These words slipped out quite simply, and as if the speaker had no afterthought in her mind. But Norma well understood the ill-nature which prompted the speech, and it was with difficulty that she controlled her rising temper.

"Was he anxious to make a good match?" she asked quietly. "I didn't know that he was; and yet I think I ought to know as much about his ways of looking at life as anyone here."

"Don't be angry, my dear. Nobody is blaming him. But tell me now, isn't it true that the marriage is a better one for him than for you? From a worldly point of view, of course?"

"I think it's a good match, as you call it, for both of us," said Norma, with spirit. "I marry a man of excellent family and social position. He marries a woman with a little money, to help to keep the position up. I think he is the most charming man I ever met; and I suppose he's satisfied with me, or he wouldn't have married me."

ENTIRELY OUT OF THE ORDINARY

Yet one of the ways that LEAD TO FORTUNE

Why not make a small investment in oil lands right ahead of good producing wells, some having wells producing oil on adjoining farms? The oil now brings $1.50 per barrel, bought by the Standard Oil Co., without any transportation charges, and is bound to go higher; a few hundred dollars often invested in property of this kind yields thousands of dollars profit. I personally know of parties who made over $100,000 in 60 days time on an investment of this kind; also have wells making from 10 to 300 barrels a day. Parties desiring to organize a company will do well to investigate this opportunity, getting thereby the advantage of years of experience, and if you don't want to drill the wells wait until the wells drilling close to you have come in and reap the benefit of their outlay. The oil business conducted on business principles, with honest management, is bound to succeed. You do not have to look further than the Standard Oil Co. to see what honest management founded on facts will produce, they have drawn very heavily on stocks the past three years and there is not enough of this grade of oil now above ground to run the country for more than two years, so you can readily see the profits that will be realized by starting now and obtaining the big price the Standard Oil Co. will be compelled to pay for crude oil to supply the demands of the country. REPORT BY EX-SUPERINTENDENT OF MINE

Cecil R. Gold Mining and Milling Co., Los Angeles, California.

Ballarat, Cal., Nov. 1st, 1902.

Gentlemen,—Your request for my opinion as to the "Santa Rosa" group of mines and other claims in which you are interested in this territory, to hand, and in reply will say:

The "Santa Rosa" group, which is located southeast of Ballarat some three and a half miles, consists of twelve claims, equal to 240 acres. The ledge crops out more or less the full length of these claims, showing the same character and formation of work as where development work has been done. In most of the outcroppings it shows highly mineralized rock, with pyrites of iron, mica-schist, slate, slate porphyry, gouge, quartz, and quartzite, all bearing more or less. Where work has been done, it shows a very marked improvement in both quantity and quality of gold-bearing rock. Commencing with the surface, the ore shows much iron and copper stain. All mill tests show pay ore commencing with the surface; in fact, I milled for several days and recovered $50 and over per ton, yet the milling process does not pay more than two-thirds of the value of the ore, the tailings ofttimes running as high as $35 per ton, and never less than $12.50. To save the entire value of your ore it will be necessary to install either concentrators or a cyanide plant. From careful study and frequent examination of the surface of the ground, and down as far as has been opened below the surface, I am highly pleased with the property. It is certainly a fine property, and as good as any I have ever had the pleasure of examining. Considering your mill site, with tramway facilities added, water, fuel, and cheapness of mining the ore, the Cecil R. will be capable of paying enormous dividends when your capacity for milling is increased to what it ought to be.

Wishing you every success, I remain, Yours very truly,

(Signed) G. W. FLEMING,

Ex-Mine Supt. Cecil R. Gold Mining and Milling Company.

Price is now 25 cents a share, and we offer 10,000 shares at this price, but it may be advanced by January 1st, 1903, to 50 cents a share.

The Cracker Jack as an Investment

APPEALS TO THE CONSERVATIVE

THE CRACKER JACK group of mining claims consists of 120 acres of property in the Cracker Creek district, Baker county, Eastern Oregon. This group of claims contains the extension of the Cracker-Oregon veins on the south; a split from the E. & E. on the southwest and parallel values of the North Pole mine on the west.

The trend of values in the Mother Lode system of this district is NORTHWARD. It starts in the Golconda and continues through the Columbia, E. & E., Cracker Oregon, and North Pole, increasing in value up to and into the Cracker Jack claims.

In four months the Cracker-Oregon stock advanced from 25 cents to $1.00—its par value. In four months the Golconda stock increased more than 100% over its original selling price.

The Cracker Jack contains the values. They can be traced; the veins out crop and the focus of the richest fissures is in the Cracker Jack property.

The Cracker Jack is not a mine; neither is it merely a prospect. It has been proved. Next April a force of men will be put to work and development will be continued day and night.

This is a tunnel proposition. It can be opened by a series of tunnels and shafts, and the free milling ore can be treated on the property. As an investment, the Cracker Jack is secure. It has vast ore bodies as its security; it has a conservative management as further security.

The policy of the Cracker Jack Consolidated Gold Mines Company is to open this rich property, build a mill and PAY DIVIDENDS. This is an investment for conservative men. It is not sensational. The mine will produce ore just as rich in value as that brought out by any of the surrounding properties.

The stock will advance in price and it will earn.

This is a proposition that commends itself to investigation of the most searching kind. Look into it, learn something of its directorate; find out if these claims are well founded. In other words, write for a prospectus to

CHAMBERLAIN'S PROBLEM

Has Now to Meet the Men Who Fought Only by Mouth

London, Feb. 19.—The cold attitude of the Paarl Dutchmen toward Mr. Chamberlain, says the Cape Town correspondent of The Times, was due to the conviction that he was implicated in the Jamieson raid or connived at it. This became a fixed idea years ago, and has probably been assiduously revived. The Dutchmen who heard Mr. Chamberlain's speech recognized its conciliatory tone, but thought its effect would be small on account of this prejudice.

Mr. Chamberlain is now confronted with a third type of Dutchmen. He met in the Transvaal and in the Orange River Colony those accepting the new state of affairs after fighting to the last, and also a few irreconcilables, like De Wet and Hertzog. Now he meets the wire-pullers and mischief-makers, men who never fought or thought of fighting, but who are ready to urge others to fight. The crux of the problem is, whether these will defeat the efforts at conciliation, or whether the increased prosperity of the country will leave them a discredited clique.

IRELAND AWAITS THE LAND BILL

Belief in London that the Measure will Pass the Commons Without Difficulty

New York, Feb. 19.—The London correspondent of The Tribune says: "The debate on the address in reply to the speech from the throne has opened sluggishly, without official amendments from the Opposition. The Nationalists are acting under self-restraint, and Mr. Redmond is content with the academical proposal for giving effect to the land conference report. A prominent member of the Nationalist party tells me that the Irish group is convinced that Mr. Wyndham's bill will be satisfactory, and that the agrarian troubles and grievances will cease. He also predicts that Mr. Wyndham's bill will not meet with serious opposition from any section of the House of Commons, but will be helped along by the Radicals and Nationalists and enacted with unexampled rapidity. Old Tories, however, prefer to wait until Mr. Redmond speaks before accepting sanguine forecasts from the Irish benches. Many of the most influential Irish landowners are in London, awaiting with intense interest the introduction of this peace measure.

A Deluded Peasantry

London, Feb. 19.—The Indian mail The Times, brings bad news in regard to the internal situation of China. The agitation of secret societies is extending in several provinces, and the spread of brigandage causes much alarm in Pekin. General Tung Fu Siang is the soul of the movement. It is reported that he is aided by an ex-officer of the German army.

The Shanghai correspondent of The Times says that the Chinese treaty revision negotiations with Japan and the United States continue but spasmodically, pending a British decision in regard to Sir Jas. L. Mackay's treaty. Teh delay is embarrassing. It is understood that it is due to British desire for further information on the subject of the new consumption tax and other provisions of the treaty.

This Company has a small capital stock.

The International Electric Mining Company owns seven mines and milling plant.

The Brooklyn and New York mines of this Company lie north of and join the Victor and the Hoodlum—two rich mines that are now being worked by California parties. On the west lies the Electric Mining Company's mines. In these mines are millions of dollars' worth of rich ore in sight. On the south, adjoining the Berlin mine of this Company, is the Montezuma and Clipper. From the Montezuma over three million dollars has been taken within 80 feet of the grass roots.

This Company owns free and clear seven mines of twenty acres each, all containing rich ore, located in the Arabia and Trinity mining districts, Humboldt County, Nevada. The Company has worked these mines for the past five years, and is now driving a tunnel to cut out a rich ledge about 300 feet from the surface. The Arabia mining district, in which these mines are located, is a lively district—a great many men being employed there. The tunnel now being driven on the Brooklyn mine has about 250 feet already completed. When the tunnel cuts the main ledge, which has just been reached by the Victor tunnel about 600 feet, the Brooklyn will have about 300 feet stoping ground, which runs high in gold and silver, over $50.00 per ton.

The Company is offering for a short time a limited amount of stock for the enlargement of its plant and the working force at the mines and for the completion of the Brooklyn tunnel.

This Company has thousands of tons of rich ore in sight.

We are not making a lot of talk, because it is unnecessary. What the investor wants is dividends, which we have paid for the past five years. Now if you want a safe 12 per cent. investment, let us hear from you.

THE OLD COMSTOCK

A California mining paper has this to say: "Nevada, that grand old stamping ground of mushroom millionaires, who plucked enough wealth from her prolific fields to build mansions, banks, and big hotels in San Francisco, and palaces in Paris and London, is again astonishing the world by making more millionaires and by yielding millions in gold and silver from a new field which rivals the old Comstock lode in the days of its pristine splendor. Not only in Tonopah and Arabia districts, where within the past year nearly ten millions have been exposed, are operations active, but in every mining district in the Silver State are operations active, and Nevada will once more take her place among the big producers, the peer of any of them."

Dear Sir,—During the six months of October and November of this year I visited the mines of the International Electric Mining Company, situated in Arabia and Trinity mining districts, Humboldt County, Nevada. I found the country remarkably mineralized; in fact, the possibilities of the country as a mineral producing country are yet unknown. For years it certainly has produced well. The work now being done in the Arabia and Trinity districts establishes the fact that they are fine producers.

I also found that there is a great deal of interest being taken in these properties, which have produced a great deal of wealth the past quarter of a century.

FREE GOLD FOUND

in the 190 foot shaft of The Electric Spark Gold Mining Company's property is an absolute assurance of large dividends at no distant day; and those who buy now, and take advantage of this exceptional opportunity will make from 50 to 100 per cent. yearly on their investment.

There has never been a mining investment offered where the future value of the property could be more clearly shown than in this, or where the returns could be estimated more certainly or accurately.

It is simply a question of time and work. The risk has all been taken, and the investor today can look forward to future dividends with certainty and satisfaction. Incorporated as we are for only $200,000, par value $1.00, makes the stock all the more valuable, and located in the midst of some of the best mines in Gilpin County, Colorado, the smallest county in the State, which in 1902 produced $4,000,000.00, is another assurance of a big dividend payer.

By permission the Company refers to the Rocky Mountain National Bank, and the Weekly Register Call, of Central City, Colorado.

"THE FRIDAY MINE"
Located at Pearl, Willow Creek, Boise County, Idaho
About 28 Miles Northwest of Boise City

THE FRIDAY GOLD MINING CO. is a corporation duly organized under the laws of the State of Oregon, with head office at Sumpter, Oregon, owning and controlling "The Friday Mine." Capital Stock, $1 000,000, divided into 1,000,000 shares. Par value $1.00 per share, fully paid and non-assessable, no personal liability. 250,000 shares have been set aside and placed in the treasury of the Company to be sold for the purpose of equipping the "Friday Mine" with machinery. It is for this purpose we are offering you stock in this great mine. This plant will handle 60 tons of Friday ore every 24 hours. The general average of the Friday ore is over $20 per ton. The ore as it was shipped to the smelters at Salt Lake averaging over $66.00 per ton. The Friday is highly developed, great quantities of ore blocked out and in sight ready for the mill. As soon as the mill is completed the Friday Mine will again pay dividends.

Large ore bodies which will net to the company $50 000, for the first few months, are now blocked out ready for the mill. As soon as the mill is completed you will draw your regular monthly dividend. It is safe, certain and conservative.

We are not soliciting your money for the purpose of developing the mine, but only for the purpose of erecting a mill to work the ore bodies in the mine. The company is officered by men of well known business ability, mining experience and strict integrity.

Hon. Martin H. Jacobs, State Mining Inspector of mines for the State of Idaho says: "The Friday has a large amount of good ore in sight, and there is no question about its being a good paying property."

Thunder Mountain!

is the richest gold producing camp in the United States, and also the largest. The Thunder Mountain district, in central Idaho, is twenty miles wide and forty miles long. In comparison with this we have Cripple Creek, four miles wide and seven miles long. In many of the Thunder Mountain mines ore has already been reached that carries ONE THOUSAND DOLLARS IN GOLD TO THE TON. All of the Thunder Mountain ore is free milling, which means that it can be treated by the cheapest extraction process known—the ordinary stamp mill. It can be both mined and milled at a cost not to exceed $2 a ton. The past years operations in the several working mines have opened up millions of tons of ore that will give a net profit of from $10 to $30 a ton, enabling the respective companies to pay dividends at a rate never before equalled. Such is the showing and the prospect of the

EAST DEWEY GOLD MINING CO.

which unless all indications are at fault, will become the largest producer in the district. The EAST DEWEY mine, which it owns outright, is located directly on Thunder Mountain, just east of the famous "Dewey" mine, which already has $20,000,000 of ore in sight. The surface area of the East Dewey mine is one hundred and twenty acres—six full quartz claims. The company has also secured the big GOLDEN GATE mine, in the Big Creek section of the Thunder Mountain district—which has been so aptly termed "The Pot of Gold"—and is now developing the mine with all possible speed. For a distance of 9,000 feet, nearly two miles, the Golden Gate mines cover a mineralized ledge that is 900 feet wide, with an average height above the tunnel level of 500 feet, thus giving it the largest exposed tonnage of any mine in the west.

If you would share in the enormous profits which these figures indicate and which these developments promise, invest your money in "East Dewey" Stock. It can be bought to-day for 10 Cents a Share. Its par value is $1.

If the East Dewey mines are what they appear to be, and there is absolutely no reason to doubt or question these indications, this stock will eventually be worth at least $10 a share, and to-day you can buy it for ten cents. PRICE ADVANCES TO FIFTEEN CENTS ON FEBRUARY 28th. 5% discount allowed for cash. Stock sold at flat price of 10 cents on deferred payments, 10% with application, and 10% monthly until paid. Full particulars, prospectus, etc., on request.

BUY! WHY?
BECAUSE THE SOUR LAKE OIL CO.

Has placed four-fifths of its stock in the treasury for development work; and because

Oil is reached in less than half the depth required on Spindletop Heights in Beaumont;

The people in Canada are well acquainted with the management, which is in the hands of HON. JOHN L. BITTINGER, United States Consul General to Canada; F. S. Ashley, Vice-President of the Massachusetts Securities Co., and W L. Marston, Vice-President of the American Union Oil and Refining Co.

These gentlemen have made a dividend payer out of one company and have raised the value of its stock from 5c per share to par value, or 25c, within a very short time;

The company is operating in the Sour Lake field, where fewer wells will tap the oil than at Spindletop; this insures a greater flow of oil, and it is of a better quality;

This is the first allotment of shares at the present price of TEN CENTS PER SHARE; it is the lowest price at which you can buy, and the time left in which to buy at TEN CENTS is short.

Fined $20 and Costs

On Saturday at the Police Court a well known hotel man was fined $20 for selling liquor during prohibited hours. Mr. Haverson, K.C., legal adviser of the Ontario Licensed Victuallers' Association appeared for the defendant. Dunn has formerly offended under the liquor Act, but the charge in that case was for allowing persons in the bar after hours. Mr. Haverson held that the present charge could not be considered a second offence, since it was for selling liquor, and hence was not similar to the former charge. This view was agreed in by the Court, and a fine of $20 and costs, $27 in all, was imposed. The penalty for a second offence is from $40 to $80.

EVANGELISTIC SERVICES

Large Crowds Attend the Meeting in the Opera House

FOR THE WORKINGMAN.

The Service in Murray Street Baptist Church—Able Addresses Delivered

The opera house was crowded to overflowing, to hear the evangelists conduct the meeting for men only. The large male choir, under the leadership of G. W. Mulligan, added to the interest by their fine singing.

Mr. Kerby opened the meeting in a short exhortation urging on all young men and men of all ages to hearken to the message to them, from the King of Kings.

"Canada Shall be Free" was sung by the evangelists as a duet and was listened to with intense interest.

The Rev. Mr. Turk then preached the sermon, the subject being, "The Church and the Workingman."

The church stands for the enlightened conscience of the world. The evangelist defined who was the workingman—the people who produced something for the use of mankind, saying there was no room for the tramp or dead head. The Rev. Mr Turk said he claimed to be a working man, but had not got down to eight hours yet. He gave a great many illustrations showing how important the help of the workingman in the church was, and the duty of the men was to carry on the work of Jesus Christ, both in the church and out.

A great many men had fallen off in their attendance at church by mere carelessness.

He thought some found all the worship they supposed was required in the lodge room. The evangelist did not wish to be understood to cast any reflections on these fraternal organizations. On the other hand he admired those who had stood by each other in the hour of affliction, sickness and death and had put down their hands into their pockets and supported the dependent and bereft widows and orphans; but he did not think that men should make the lodge room their church.

He thought that the churches kept too far away from the workingman.

The preacher showed his sympathy with the working man. He read the resolution passed by the General Conference of the Methodist church held at Winnipeg, expressing the opinion that laboring men had the right to organize for their protection. He referred to Mr. John Mitchell, of labor organization, as the uncrowned king of mankind. He showed, however, that the workingman should be temperate. He told many touching incidents showing the baleful influences of the liquor traffic.

He hoped that the church would stand by the temperance organizations and how the church should assist the authorities in maintaining the majesty of the law.

The evangelist referred to the cocking main which was held two weeks ago and read the account of this affair which appeared in The Times and said that every newspaper should be bold and independent enough to expose such nefarious work.

The rev. gentleman closed his address by a tender expression and earnest appeal to men to take Jesus Christ as their personal Saviour.

The evangelists sang with great feeling, "Let Jesus Come into Your Heart."

The Rev. Mr. Kerby closed the meeting with prayer and a short message to the men of Peterborough. Thus came to a close a meeting which will remain a pleasure to all who participated in it. A great number of prominent citizens stood up for prayer, at the earnest solicitation of Mr. Kerby in the after meeting.

AT THE CHURCHES.

Rev. Mr. Kerby preached to a large and appreciative audience in the Murray street Baptist church yesterday morning. His subject was, "The Death and Burial of Moses." His text was taken in Deuteronomy, 34-36: "So Moses, the servant of the Lord, died there in the land of Moab, according to the word of the Lord."

He commenced by saying that Moses was a man who made a great many mistakes, nevertheless he also was the author of much good, very much good. He counselled his hearers to avoid the mistakes made by this illustrious patriarch, and to endeavor to follow him in his earnest and whole-souled pursuit of righteousness. The reverend gentleman's description of the country, through which the children of Israel passed in following Moses to the Promised Land could not be surpassed, and the portraying of the leader of the Israelites climbing the mountain and surveying the distant promised land was simply perfect. Rev. Mr. Kerby's powers of description are marvellous and interesting in a marked degree. His earnest and powerful exhortation to his hearers to be faithful, created a profound sensation. The evangelists sang "My Lord and I" as a solo in fine voice and with good effect.

A DUMMER HOLOCAUST.

Infant Burned to a Crisp and Another Injured

THE LATTER MAY LIVE.

The Dead Child Only Three Months Old and the Other Three Years.

News of a terrible accident reached The Times on Saturday, in which one child lost its life and another may die. The accident occurred at the home of Mr. James Drain who lives near Purdy's Mills, in Dummer township. It appears that Mrs Drain had gone out leaving the two children at home. About a quarter of an hour after she had left the place the neighbors noticed flames arising from the Drain house. When the children were reached the little boy was burned to death, and the clothing of the three-year-old child was in flames. It is not known how the accident occurred.

The injured child may recover, but it is very doubtful. Medical aid was summoned, and everything possible is being done for him.

Satisfactory Financial Position of the Water Works—Balance on Right Side of the Ledger

We publish below a statement of the receipts and expenditures of the Board of Water Commissioners for the year 1902:

Peterboro, Feb 3rd, '03.

To the Peterborough Water Commissioners:

Gentlemen,—I herewith submit the financial statement of the Waterworks Department for the year 1902.

The amount owing by the water consumers at the end of the year was largely due for metre and other rates for which accounts were sent out at the end of the year.

The amount expended in extension of mains was $4,200.49, and in laying services $1,173.23, a total of $5,373.72. In addition material to the value of $674.90 was purchased and not used, and is available for future work

Respectfully submitted.

CANADA'S GREAT STRIDES AS SEEN IN BRITAIN

Comments of a Prominent London Newspaper on the Dominion's Progress

A LAND OF GOOD CLIMATE AND OPPORTUNITIES

London, Feb. 24.—The St. James' Gazette, commenting on an article which appears in the same issue on "The Advance of Canada," says Evidence has lately been forthcoming of the extraordinary rapid advance of Canada to prosperity during the past year or two, which reveals by far the most satisfactory condition of things prevailing in any part of the British Empire at the present time. And its brightest feature is that not only is there no reason to doubt its continuance, but the prospect of a vast, indeed an almost limitless expansion is opened up by the reports of the undeveloped possibilities of this country. Such accounts of the country as we publish may gladden the hearts of sojourners in the Old Country who hear doleful stories, and see around them hopeless scenes, of overcrowded cities unemployed workers and struggling industries.

NEEDS NO PITY.

No man in England, especially if he be young, active, and enterprising needs the pity of his fellows no matter what his circumstances may be; for Canada is holding out an invitation to him to come over to a land enjoying a climate preferable to that of the mother country, inhabited by the people of his own race, and affording the certainty of a comfortable living and the fair possibility of fortune to all who choose to work for it. The sons of struggling crofters from Scottish island and Irish congested districts have but to enter the Dominion to obtain steady farm employment for a year or two, during which period they can with care and thrift earn enough to start farming on their own account. Thus in Manitoba of the Northwest Territories the settler can procure for the asking a farm of generous land of 160 acres on terms which after three years and with only the expense of a registration fee of two guineas will make him the absolute owner of the soil he tills. For those who possess a small amount of capital the road to a comfortable livelihood is open without even this short preliminary apprenticeship.

OUR ONE NEED.

The one need of the country is men and women. Population is now streaming into Canada from the United States; and the question for Englishmen to ask themselves is whether they are going to let this magnificent colony be peopled and developed by American citizens and American capital, while we in the Mother Country sit twirling our thumbs and lamenting our overcrowded conditions and the lack of openings for our sons. Lately we published an account of an enterprising scheme of an Anglo-Canadian clergyman, who is taking some three thousand British settlers to the Northwest, thus setting an example that others would do well to follow.

How striking has been the advance of Canada may be gathered from recently published statistics. The number of homestead entries, for example, increased during 1902, as compared with the previous twelve months from nine thousand odd to upwards of twenty-two thousand, representing some 80,000 people and more than three and a half millions of acres. The banks of the Dominion tell the same tale. The clearings of the past year show an increase of $500,000,000, the largest increase in the whole history of the colony, while the volume of business in other channels similarly.

BROKE ALL RECORDS.

That Canada should be becoming the granary of the United Kingdom is wholly satisfactory, since we cannot produce sufficient cereals in these islands for our own support; but when we learn that her exports to the mother country of dairy produce, fruit, bacon and other products which our own farmers, with enterprise and knowledge and with such assistance as the Government could render, might be expected to supply, our gratification is less unqualified. As we have more than once insisted lately this is a matter in which England especially needs to give ear to this injunction to wake up given us by the Prince in the light of his colonial experience. But the chief lesson to be learnt from the facts to which we call attention is, we repeat, that our great colony in North America is offering to Englishmen to-day such an opening as has not perhaps been presented as an outlet for the energies of the race since the Elizabethan adventurers first sailed to the western hemisphere.

BRITAIN PLEASED AT CHAMBERLAIN

Appeals for South African Race Unity Having Effect

London, February 23—Speaking to the Dutchmen at Middleburg, Saturday, Hon. Joseph Chamberlain said:

"It is not unnatural that after a great war there should be some bitterness. This likely will die out soon of its own accord in the new colonies, but unfortunately in Cape Colony, though Dutch and British have lived together for a century, a racial feeling has grown up and seems to have become chronic."

Hon. Mr. Chamberlain said he would like to see the present opportunity taken as the occasion for a fresh start. An obligation had been laid upon both loyal and disloyal, and he hoped both would take advantage of it.

Mr. Chamberlain's speeches this week have been one long appeal to British and Dutch alike to live in amity as joint-heirs of the glorious traditions of Britain. Unbiased reports show the reluctance to coalesce comes not from the new colonies but from extremists, loyalists and Boers alike. In Cape Colony Mr. Chamberlain's frank friendliness is having good effect. Englishmen at home congratulate Chamberlain, and are content that appeals in the future will have a better effect than those in the past.

London, Feb. 21—The Times reports that Right Hon. Gerald W. Balfour President of the Board of Trade, in speaking at a dinner of the London Chamber of Shipping last evening said he did not think that the British need fear that the results of the American shipping combination would seriously injure the interests of the British mercantile marine. At the same time, there was no doubt that they had had a fright and that the alleged disadvantage to British shipping from the operation of British laws had been brought into great prominence. Mr. Balfour said he sympathized with the argument, and the same restriction as imposed on British shipping should be imposed on foreign vessels. He assured his audience that the Government would facilitate an inquiry into the regulations of The Board of Trade if this were desired.

In reply to a question in the House of Commons, Mr. Balfour said the agreement between the British Government and the International Mercantine Marine Company, and the Government and the Cunard Steamship line were approaching completion. They had been delayed by a complex diversity of interests and points of law.

BRITISH POLITICS.

At home, the Ministerial troubles centre round Mr. Brodick and the War Office. It is reported today that Mr. Brodick will succeed Lord Curzon as Viceroy of India. This would be the happiest solution. Mr. Brodick, so long as he remains in the Cabinet, will be too stubborn in his earnest but mediocre way to abandon his policy which aims to give Great Britain a grand-coup army, which she does not want at the expense of the naval efficiency, which is England's one bulwark and at the expense also of the vital home volunteer movement. Moreover, Mr. Balfour, so loyal to his colleagues, would have the greatest reluctance to abandon Mr. Brodick, however great his failure; but if the latter should take a new bride to Calcutta, he and she would be glorified, while the Cabinet would be enabled to put the home defence system upon commonsense lines, namely, a navy which shall outdistance all rivals and an army, small, but of the highest efficiency, deputed to police the Empire, and a home volunteer force, no longer snubbed and starved, but encouraged to become the popular embodiment of the manhood of the nation.

THE ENGLISH RAILWAY WAR.

The first round of the railway duel was ended in favor of "the men in possession," led by Lord Stalbridge, chairman of the Northwestern, who may be called the slow reformers, as against the quick change variety, who are led by Mr. Burdett-Coutts. Lord Stalbridge's position really amounted to this: "Our customers are English, not American. That we suit them is proved by the dividend, 7 1-4 per cent.

Also, I hold proxies for ten millions of stock, as against the reformers' six and three-quarter millions." Nevertheless no board can long ignore the wishes of so large a proportion of the stockholders, especially seeing that the obstructive tactics of the board have prevented the reformers from appealing to 20,000 smaller holders. Reform must come from within or without.

The same comment applies to Mr. Balfour's defence in the House of Commons last night of the practice of Ministers of the Crown retaining their company directorships. Thirty-three Ministers hold sixty-eight directorships.

"Why not?" replied Mr. Balfour. "I have absolute confidence in my colleague's devotion to the public service. Only on the basis of absolute confidence in Ministers can the business of the country proceed."

The House smiled and Sir William Harcourt muttered something, which was interpreted as a gibe against Lord Rosebery, who is a director of the Great Northern Railway; but the Government majority fell from the customary 130 to 93.

Such debates, ending thus, are milestones on the road to reform.

Winnipeg, Feb. 21—The Wabigoon district is highly worked up over an attempt to murder one or more of the leading citizens by means of poisoned candies.

On Friday last a man named Chiverton received at the Gold Rock post-office a small box containing a dozen or more candies of the kind generally known as chocolate creams. The box had been mailed to Wabigoon and forwarded to Gold Rock. Chiverton opened the box which, besides the candies contained a slip of paper with the words "Jack, a few candies for yourself."

Chiverton offered some to his companion, Mason, at the time. Immediately on tasting the chocolate Mason was seized with violent pains, exhibiting all the symptoms of being poisoned. Fortunately the candies were no more than tasted or the results would certainly have been fatal.

John Joy was staying at the doctor's and some hours after, seeing the tempting candies on the table, put one in his mouth before the doctor had time to warn him they were poisoned. Almost before he could spit the candy out Joy was seized with a series of convulsions, which were well nigh having a fatal termination.

As there is no constituted authorities in Gold Rock, nor any representative of the law Dr. Murdock has forwarded the package to the Provincial authorities at Toronto.

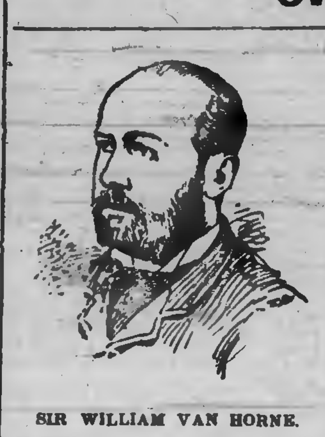
C. P. R. PURCHASE FOURTEEN STEAMSHIPS OF THE BEAVER LINE.



SIR WILLIAM VAN HORNE.

Deal with Elder-Dempsters Finally Closed--Liver Pool to Hong Kong

Sir William Van Horne's Ambition is Realized—Can Now Ship Freight Under the Company's Good Management

London, Feb. 23—It is officially announced today that the Canadian Pacific Railway Company has purchased fourteen steamships of the Beaver Line from the Elder-Dempster Company. These ships have an aggregate tonnage of 100,000 tons, and include the steamships Lake Manitoba, 8,000 tons; Lake Michigan, 8,000 tons; Lake Champlain 7,000 tons and Lake Erie, 7,000 tons, all of recent construction. In addition to the fourteen definitely purchased, the Canadian Pacific has eight other vessels under consideration.

This news is confirmed by both Sir Alfred Jones, head of the Elder-Dempster Company, and by Mr. Archie Baker, European traffic manager of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company.

ANOTHER ACCOUNT.

London, Feb. 23—The negotiations for the purchase by the Canadian Pacific Railway Company of fourteen Beaver Line steamers from the Elder-Dempster Company were satisfactorily concluded this morning. The price paid is not yet announced, but it is said to be about $7,500,000.

The deal is regarded here as having an important bearing on the proposed Canadian fast mail service, as it will probably eliminate the tender of the Elder-Dempster Company therefor, and leave the Canadian Pacific Railway Company in a better position to secure the contract.

THE REVIVAL GROWS.

Another Immense Meeting Held Last Night.

AN ELOQUENT DISCOURSE

By Rev. Mr. Turk—Many Sinners Seek Forgiveness—The Meetings To-Day

The Rev. Mr. Turk preached the sermon last evening in the George street church to a crowded house.

His subject was "A Message to Sleepers." His subject was found in Ephesians, 5th chapter, 14th verse:—"Therefore He saith, awake thou that sleepest and arise from the dead, and Christ shall give thee light."

He said that in the scripture sleep was taken to illustrate man in his natural condition, apart from God. Sin, like sleep, affects all mankind. A man in sin is like a man asleep—insensible.

It is not very complimentary to any that a man in sin is estranged from every feeling that [illegible] him, which ought to regulate his affections and life. A man in sin is like a man asleep—is ignorant of things transpiring around him. He may know much of the world, but is ignorant of the noblest truths of which the mind of man can conceive.

A man in sin is like a man asleep—is helpless, and at the mercy of every passion and evil influence.

The text is a clarion call to awake. It requires the power of the sun to wake up nature. Only the power of God can awaken man from the sleep of sin. Once awake man's duty is to arise. It is the business of the hotel porter to arouse the guests; and then his responsibility ends. God is responsible to awaken man from his sleep of sin, and then man's responsibility begins. The saddest sight on earth is the sight of a man once awakened, and has relapsed into the sleep of sin.

The text also contains a gracious promise—"Christ shall give the light." God does not awaken a man and let him stumble on and lose his way again,—all about him the sun is shining. For every pilgrim there is an "evangelist" and "wicket gate." The evangelist made very earnest appeals to his hearers to awake from the sleep of sin in his closing remarks.

The evangelistic meetings will continue as usual in the George st. church until Wednesday evening, when these worthy preachers will bid farewell to their Peterborough audiences.

There will be a meeting for ladies only on Tuesday at 3 p.m. The Rev. Mr. Turk will speak on the "Twentieth Century Woman." Both the evangelists will sing by special request, "The Holy City." Rev. Mr. Kerby's subject will be "A Call to Young Womanhood." At this meeting a very large audience is expected.

SUGAR BEET GROWERS HOLD AN EXPERIENCE MEETING

Berlin Farmers Tell What They Know About Growing Beets

Berlin, Feb. 23.—In Berlin a day or two ago a number of sugar beet growers held a meeting to discuss experience and exchange ideas. Here is what some of them said:

MR. WENDEL SHANTZ.

Mr. Shantz said his land was not ploughed deep enough in the fall. Both his fall and spring work had been too shallow. Where he expected best beets he was disappointed. He had two acres that produced 20-1-2 tons. Seeding should not be too early, say about May 15th, and don't sow until the land is in thorough condition. Sow plenty of seed. He put 20 lbs. to the acre on some land and had good results. He put the cost of cleaning at $15 an acre, sow. He believed he could reduce the cost of harvesting, as it was costing him $2 less an acre at the last than at the first. One five acres had yielded him exceptionally well. With five acres of first-class land carefully prepared as for turnips there would be good profits. His beets tested 15.2 sugar, but this could be improved too with experience.

MR. ALLAN SHANTZ, BERLIN.

This gentleman gave minute figures. He had 25 acres, and put the figures this way per acre: Seed, $2.25; seeding, 25c.; drilling, 10c.; cultivating, $1.00; thinning, $6.00; ploughing out $1.25; pulling, topping and covering up, $8.00. Total, $21.65. He put the hauling at 75c. a ton. His average yield was 2 1-2 tons per acre, which tested 14.1. Tare 11.5 per cent. Total expense $785.75, Profit $474. Mr. Shantz is well satisfied with the crop.

MR. FRANK SHUH.

Mr. Frank Shuh had 20 acres, which averaged over 12 tons and some went over 16 tons. They tested 14.7 and 85 purity. Some land had been in roots before and was not suitable. The government, the company and the farmer must all work together. Foreign sugar should be kept out. He had paid out $305 and had left over $500, which allowed him rent on his land at $10 an acre, and himself good wages. He is ready to grow beets again.

MR. GEO. W. RIFE.

Mr. Geo. W. Rife, of Hespeler, had grown 30 acres. He commenced to sow early to get through. With a big acreage one drawback in his case was that much labor was required at once, and this being scarce, some hoeing and thinning was too late. Early thinning gave best results. He had not been so successful as some of the others, yet he had every confidence in sugar beets. It was the best industry that had yet struck Waterloo County.

MR. JACOB Y. SHANTZ.

Mr. Jacob Y. Shantz spoke on harvesting. Some his had cost $7 an acre and some a little more, but with fine weather he could have reduced the cost $3 an acre. He pitted half of his, which cost a little more. He used tables in harvesting to good advantage. He believed they could be topped with a hoe. By lengthening the prongs on his lifter and elevating them behind, he had been able to raise the beets right out on the surface. He could reduce the cost of harvesting a good deal this year. He had invented a machine for bunching the beets, which did the work of 20 to 25 men, and by actual test gave better results than the hoe.

The T. A. S. Have a Lead of Two Goals on Norwood

About 2,000 people witnessed the Hockey match on the Brock street rink last night between the Norwood hockey team and the T.A.S., it being the first of the home and home games in the T.V.L. series. The game was a stubborn battle from start to finish and was a good exhibition of hockey. At half time the score was 3 to 2 in favor of the home team, Norwood scoring their 2 goals while Meagher, the T.A.S point player was on the fence. In the second half both teams went at it with a determination to win, but after a few minutes play the T.A.S. had booked another to their credit. Norwood was putting up a plucky fight and made frequent attacks on the T.A.S. nets which were intercepted by Crowley and Meagher while McCoy in goal stopped some hard shots. The T.A.S were playing the more aggressive game and kept the rubber pretty much in Norwood's territory but seemed unable to score, Norwood adding two to their score making it 4 all. Play was again resumed, with the puck travelling toward the T.A.S. nets but Crowley relieved taking it down the ice, but Pearce, for Norwood got possession of the puck and cleared the goal the T.A.S. scoring and thus making the score 5-4. Norwood had reached their limit of scoring, the T.A.S. adding one more to their number giving them a lead of 2 goals. Score 6—4.

The Norwood team are a husky bunch, are good stayers and have good combination and direct their shots well. For the T.A.S McCoy in goal played a good game, stopping some well placed shots. Every man played his game although their combination was rather deficient at times.

The T.A.S. do not speak in the highest terms of Mr. Wasson, who officiated as referee, he having penalized offending T.A.S. players for 3, 4 and 5 minutes for very slight offences, some of the players going off for three or four minutes for unintentional fouling, when 1 minute or 2 at the most would have been sufficient punishment.

Some of the Norwood players also decorated the fence at different stages of the game for tripping, which was quite noticeable.

The return game will be played in Norwood on Friday night, when a special train will be run.

The following players represented the T.A.S. team—Goal, McCoy; point, Meagher; cover point, Crowley; forwards, Parnell, McGrath, George, Lynch.

During the game Fred McGrath was struck in the mouth with the puck and as a result is minus a tooth.

Port Hope will play Peterborough Intermediates here on Friday night.

The game for tonight has been postponed, the Hamilton ladies being unable to come.

LACROSSE.

All the members of the T.A.S. who are interested in athletic sports are asked to attend a meeting in the T.A.S. rooms tonight at 8 o'clock. When the lacrosse outlook for the season will be discussed.

Belleville defeated the Marlboros at Belleville last night by 3 to 2, winning the round by 1 goal.

Will Re-Open To-morrow

It is announced by Mr. Pringle that the Business College will re-open tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock for regular classes. Permission has been given by the local health authorities and there is in reality very little possibility of danger, as it has not been ascertained for a fact that any infectious disease had its origin in this institution. The course adopted in this case by Mr. Pringle, the principal, is very much to be commended as it effectually prevents any danger of possible contagion.

COMPENSATION FOR LEGISLATORS

A leading political contemporary is in favor of increasing the grant to members of the Ontario Legislature to $1500 a year. It says that a lawyer, for instance, could hardly afford to throw up his law practice for $1500 a year. If such be the case, the "legal" statesman should resign office, so as to give his entire attention to admiring clients. We doubt that the people will uphold any amendment which proposes that assemblymen receive greater compensation. As a matter of fact, nine-tenths of the boss-ridden legislators now making the laws of the Province and Dominion are not worth more than their salt. This is the opinion of this great family journal, and we don't care a button who knows it.

THE SAW-OFF IN ENGLAND

The Montreal Star points out that the "saw-off" is a criminal offence in England. the Star says:

The corrupt and illegal practices prevention act, 1883, of the imperial parliament affords a good model for imitation by those Canadian statesmen who desire to see some legislation enacted to minimise corrupt and illegal practices in our federal and provincial elections. One of the best provisions in the act is section 41, which makes what is known in Canada as a "saw-off" a crime punishable by both imprisonment and fine for all directly or indirectly concerned. The high court may at its discretion grant leave for the withdrawal of an election petition, but only after all the parties and all their solicitors have filed affidavits setting forth that to the best of deponents' knowledge and belief no agreement or terms of any kind has or have been made. Sub-section 4 provides as follows:

> "If any person makes any agreement or terms, or enters into any undertaking in relation to the withdrawal of an election petition, and such agreement, terms or undertaking, is or are for the withdrawal of the election petition in consideration of any payment, or in consideration that the seat shall at any time be vacated, or in consideration of the withdrawal of any other election petition, or is or are (whether lawful or unlawful) not mentioned in the aforesaid affidavits, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be liable on conviction to imprisonment for a term not exceeding twelve months and to a fine not exceeding two hundred pounds."

The sooner similar legislation is adopted in Canada the better.

TO GROW SUGAR BEETS

An Enthusiastic Meeting Held Friday Night at Reaboro'

A very enthusiastic meeting was held in Reaboro on Friday evening, Feb. 13th, in the C.O.F. Hall, in the interests of the sugar beet industry. The farmers in this vicinity are up-to-date and are well posted in all matters pertaining to the farming industry, so were very anxious to have a meeting and hear the proposition of the Peterborough Sugar Company.

The meeting was called to order about 8 o'clock, and Mr. Reid was unanimously appointed as chairman. The meeting was addressed by Mr. T. E. Bradburn, President of the Sugar Company, Mr. J. D. Thornton, of Omemee, and Dr. W. H. Jeffs.

Mr. Reid said he was very glad the meeting was called to discuss this question. He said he wanted the farmers to view this as a strictly business proposition. He wished them to look into it.

Mr. Bradburn went into the extent of the sugar industry. He gave the number of foreign beet sugar factories as 1300. Canada imports about $6,000,000 worth of sugar annually and we just had 4 factories in Canada at the present time, while there is room for 20. He said that Peterborough was admirably situated for a beet sugar factory as we had good railroad facilities and through the Trent Valley Canal system a grand opportunity of getting in beets by water. He said with the railroad companies he would be able to haul in beets at 60 cents per ton for a 50 mile limit and also had made satisfactory arrangements with the boat [illegible] to bring in beets by water. He also [illegible] with the industry.

Mr. Thornton [illegible] to the good results the meeting in Omemee had borne, in that the farmers around there were now more enthusiastic in contracting acreage, and that there was talk of an acreage company being formed to grow beets.

Dr. Jeffs referred to the benefit that had accrued to the farmers of Michigan from the beet sugar industry. If it was a good thing for the farmers of Michigan it should be a good thing for us. They have made money out of sugar beets and so can we do the same. The question of labour was taken up, and it was shown that the labour question did not apply to the farmer who was growing 2, 3, 5, or 10 acres of sugar beets, but it was a question only where a man went into growing beets on a large scale of say 25, 50 or 100 acres.

The question of cultivation of the sugar beets was thoroughly gone into and also it was shown that the crop was not hard on the soil.

The interest of the farmer was shown by the number of questions asked the Doctor.

At the conclusion of the meeting a hearty vote of thanks was tendered to the able chairman.

Nutrition For Nursing Mothers

MALT BREAKFAST FOOD

Is a Marvellous Strength Giver

The large majority of our Canadian medical men are convinced that Malt Breakfast Food is the best morning diet for nursing mothers, as it provides a full measure of nutrition for the maintenance of health, strength and vigor. Malt Breakfast Food wonderfully increases the quality and flow of milk. Malt Breakfast Food is the most easily and most rapidly digested of all cereal foods, and no other so largely contributes to the health, comfort and happiness of mothers. Weak and frail women should use Malt Breakfast Food morning and night; it will quickly build them up, give them pure blood and a well regulated nervous system. FAIR PLAY

To the Editor of The Times:

Sir,—I noticed the item in The Times regarding the proposal to place the new civic offices which it is proposed to build, on Central Park.

I would suggest that instead, this place be reserved for public school buildings which will soon have to be erected.

The Roman Catholics have their section fenced in and reserved for school purposes. Let Protestants do the same. Fair play is bonny play.

By FLORENCE WARDEN.

Author of "The House in the Marsh," "A Prince of Darkness," etc.

It was still with a little catch of the breath that Norma uttered those words 'husband,' 'wife,' 'marriage,' and with a burning sense of the strange position in which she had placed herself. Mrs. Bascot laughed a little.

"Well, since, according to you, it was the best possible match for both of you, what reason had you for keeping the matter so very dark, and for getting married at a registry office? A thing people don't usually do when everything is as it should be, and there are no obstacles in the way."

"There were obstacles; at least, there was one," said Norma, readily. "If I had said anything about it, you would have moved heaven and earth to prevent my marrying at all."

Her aunt's face flushed angrily.

"Indeed, you have no right to say any such thing," said she, tartly. "What reason could I have had for trying to prevent a marriage which, if I am to believe you, is the best possible for both of you?"

"Oh, you know as well as I do," said Norma, in a low voice.

And Mrs. Bascot, feeling that the ground was rather delicate, did not pursue that part of the subject.

"It's quite true," she said, after a short pause, "that I should have insisted on a decent interval between your engagement and your marriage, that you might have made the acquaintance of some of his family, and so not have been subjected to the slight of being married without knowing any of his people."

"How is it a slight?" asked Norma. "It was by our own choice that we didn't consult anybody, either his friends or mine."

"And the consequence is that he proposes to go on to his cousin's, and to leave you here," said Mrs. Bascot, drily.

Norma drew her breath sharply through her teeth.

"It was my wish," said she. "Of course the wedding of a man I don't know couldn't be very interesting to me."

"Still, it is a sort of slight upon you, that your husband shouldn't take you with him to Darwen Haigh, isn't it?"

"You had better speak to Astley himself, when he comes to-day, and see what he thinks," said Norma; and, not trusting herself to say more, she left the room abruptly, and took her work upstairs.

How impatient she was for Astley to arrive, and to take her part against these unsympathetic people! It had been arranged that he was to come just after luncheon, when the gentlemen of the family would be at home, so that he might "beard them" all together.

And the girl was surprised to find that her heart beat quite as fast, and very nearly as joyously, at the thought of seeing him again, as if indeed they had made a love match, and had been dying for each other.

More and more did the feeling grow upon her that this generous, chivalrous, quixotic gentleman was in truth what she had called him, "the most charming man in the world," and more and more strongly did she see that she had taken an undue advantage of his good nature, in using him as a means to free herself from the thraldom in which she was kept at her aunt's.

In this mood of repentance, the only consolation Norma had was in the thought that she really could help Astley in a substantial manner, by means of the fortune which was now her own. She resolved that, the moment he returned from Darwen Haigh after his cousin's wedding, she would get him to take her to London, and would call upon her late mother's solicitors, and make an arrangement whereby four hundred a year of her money should be paid direct to Astley every year, whether he liked it or not. It should be paid by the solicitors, without her saying a word to prepare him; as otherwise she knew that he would refuse and protest. With the remaining three hundred a year of her own money Norma knew that she could not only live comfortably in one of the charitable settlements in the East End of London of which she had heard and read, but could give substantial aid to such charities as seemed to her worthy of help.

For, with a not uncommon blindness, Norma, while she had freed herself by an act of undoubted selfishness, was quite determined upon devoting her life to the good cause of helping others.

When she had to go down to luncheon, her heart was beating very fast, and all through the meal she started at the least sound, listening nervously for a ring at the bell.

But the time passed, and Astley did not come. More and more anxious and nervous did Norma become as three o'clock struck and then four, and the tea was brought in, and still Astley did not appear.

Mr. Bascot had had to go out again, and Robert, who spent the afternoon at home, did everything in his power to make the time pass as unpleasantly as possible for Norma, in revenge for what he chose to consider her bad treatment of himself.

Although she declared that Astley had not said at what time he would call, it was evident to her aunt and cousin that she was bitterly disappointed and miserable as the hours passed, and he did not arrive.

Robert took occasion to sneer at his successful rival's remissness.

"I suppose it always happens, as they say," said he, laying out the words over his bread and butter, "that ladies think more of a man who lets them wait for him than they do of one who pays them too much attention. But I must say, Norma, though no doubt you admire your husband for it, I should be ashamed of such conduct if I were in his place."

"He has been unavoidably detained," said Norma, trying to disguise the restlessness she felt, as she played with the tassel of the blind-cord, looking wistfully and eagerly down the road. "You know him better, both you and aunt, than to think he could be guilty of discourtesy."

"Indeed, we know very little about him, except that he was an impecunious person on the lookout for a wife with money," said Robert, sweetly.

"I've known people to whom that description would apply, certainly," retorted Norma, with as much fire as if she had been passionately in love with [illegible]

The Cracker Jack as an Investment

APPEALS TO THE CONSERVATIVE

THE CRACKER JACK group of mining claims consists of 120 acres of property in the Cracker Creek district, Baker county, Eastern Oregon. This group of claims contains the extension of the Cracker-Oregon veins on the south; a split from the E. & E. on the southwest and parallel values of the North Pole mine on the west.

The trend of values in the Mother Lode system of this district is NORTHWARD. It starts in the Golconda and continues through the Columbia, E. & E., Cracker, Oregon, and North Pole, increasing in value up to and into the Cracker Jack claims.

In four months the Cracker-Oregon stock advanced from 25 cents to $1.00—its par value. In four months the Golconda stock increased more than 100% over its original selling price.

The Cracker Jack contains the values. They can be traced; the veins out crop and the focus of the richest fissures is in the Cracker Jack property.

The Cracker Jack is not a mine; neither is it merely a prospect. It has been proved. Next April a force of men will be put to work and development will be continued day and night.

This is a tunnel proposition. It can be opened by a series of tunnels and shafts, and the free milling ore can be treated on the property. As an investment, the Cracker Jack is secure. It has vast ore bodies as its security; it has a conservative management as further security.

The policy of the Cracker Jack Consolidated Gold Mines Company is to open this rich property, build a mill and PAY DIVIDENDS. This is an investment for conservative men. It is not sensational. The mine will produce ore just as rich in value as that brought out by any of the surrounding properties.

The stock will advance in price and it will earn.

This is a proposition that commends itself to investigation of the most searching kind. Look into it, learn something of its directorate; find out if these claims are well founded. In other words, write for a prospectus to

RED SEA QUESTION INTERESTS ENGLAND

Report That Britain Will Sieze Ports Is Not Confirmed

THE SITUATION IN THE BALKANS

Powers Declare that They Will Stand No Trifling on the Part of Turkey

London, Feb. 23—Russian reports that the British Government is threatening to seize several Red Sea ports are not confirmed from any official source here. The King's speech revealed the existence of important negotiations with the Turkish Government respecting frontiers in that quarter, and there is evidence that the Ministers have been seriously disturbed by Turkish intrigues and neglect to fulfil obligations for the control of portions of the coast.

It is not clear whether Russian aggression or the meddlesome activity of Germany is dreaded, but it is certain that officials here have been more deeply interested in the Red Sea question than in the revival of the Balkan agitation. Macedonia lies outside the line of communication with India.

Aden and its approaches are watched with jealous and anxious eyes, especially when Russian torpedo boats have been making experimental runs through the Dardanelles.

THE BALKAN TROUBLE.

London, February 23—The Times says it learns that the form in which the Austrian-Russian proposals will be made to the Porte will be left to the discretion of the ambassadors of those powers at Constantinople. The contents of the note are similar to the fragments already reported in the newspapers. One peculiarity is that the word Macedonia does not appear in the note, owing to the difficulty there would be in defining the geographical limitations of that district. The term substituted is "the Christian population of the three vilayettes."

It is believed that certain powers are willing to go further than Austria and Russia although they do not know what eventual measures of coercion are to be expected. It is safe to assume that measures have been devised to ascertain beyond a doubt whether the programme is applied.

The Times concludes with this statement which it says it derived from a good source: "It is hardly necessary to add that the powers will stand no trifling on the part of the Sultan. Peace in the Balkan peninsula, and perhaps the peace of Europe, is at stake. Permanent agitation in Macedonia is a smouldering ember near a powder magazine which the European government have at last determined to extinguish. There is every reason to believe that this time they are in earnest."

FRANCE AND THE VATICAN

London, Feb. 21—The Paris correspondent of The Times announces that relations between the French Government and the Vatican are greatly strained. A difference has arisen over appointments to three vacant sees. The French Government claims the right of appointing bishops and declines to admit that the Pope's rights under the Concordat extend beyond the formal right of sanctioning nominations by his signature, or that of the Papal Secretary of State. The Vatican insists on previous understanding as to the nominations. The quarrel is regarded by both parties as so important that negotiations are proceeding on the subject of a revision of the formulas used in papal bulls of investiture.

INTERNATIONAL ELECTRIC MINING Co

185 SUMMER ST., - BOSTON, MASS.

A Dividend Payer for the Past Five Years.

12 PER CENT GUARANTEED

Capital Stock, $500,000. Par, $1.00, full paid and non-assessable

Over eight thousand tons of $50.00 ore mined and smelted from this group of mines.

A limited number of shares of the stock of this Company now offered at seventy-five cents per share. This price will shortly be increased to par. Stock registered by the International Trust Company, Boston, who is also the transfer agent.

This Company has a small capital stock.

The International Electric Mining Company owns seven mines and milling plant.

The Brooklyn and New York mines of this Company lie north of and join the Victor and the Hoodlum—two rich mines that are now being worked by California parties. On the west lies the Electric Mining Company's mines. In these mines are millions of dollars' worth of rich ore in sight. On the south, adjoining the Berlin mine of this Company, is the Montazuma and Clipper. From the Montazuma over three million dollars has been taken within 50 feet of the grass roots.

This Company owns free and clear seven mines of twenty acres each, all containing rich ore, located in the Arabia and Trinity mining districts, Humboldt County, Nevada. The Company has worked these mines for the past five years, and is now driving a tunnel to cut out a rich ledge about 300 feet from the surface. The Arabia mining district, in which these mines are located, is a lively district—a great many men being employed there. The tunnel now being driven on the Brooklyn mine has about 250 feet already completed. When the tunnel cuts the main ledge, which has just been reached by the Victor tunnel about 400 feet, the Brooklyn will have about 800 feet stoping ground, which runs high in gold and silver, over $60.00 per ton.

The Company is offering for a short time a limited amount of stock for the enlargement of its plant and the working force at the mines and for the completion of the Brooklyn tunnel.

This Company has thousands of tons of rich ore in sight.

We are not making a lot of talk, because it is unnecessary. What the investor wants is dividends, which we have paid for the past five years. Now if you want a safe 12 per cent. investment, let us hear from you.

THE OLD COMSTOCK

A California mining paper has this to say: "Nevada, that grand old stamping ground of mushroom millionaires, who plucked enough wealth from her prolific fields to build mansions, banks, and big hotels in San Francisco, and palaces in Paris and London, is again astonishing the world by making more millionaires and by yielding millions in gold and silver from a new field which rivals the old Comstock lode in the days of its pristine splendor. Not only in Tonopah and Arabia districts, where within the past year nearly ten millions have been exposed, are operations active, but in every mining district in the Silver State are operations active, and Nevada will once more take her place among the big producers, the peer of any of them."

Dear Sir,—During the six months of October and November of this year I visited the mines of the International Electric Mining Company, situated in Arabia and Trinity mining districts, Humboldt County, Nevada. I found the country remarkably mineralized; in fact, the possibilities of the country as a mineral producing country are yet unknown. For years it certainly has produced well. The work now being done in the Arabia and Trinity districts establishes the fact that they are fine producers.

I also found that there is a great deal of interest being taken in these properties, which have produced a great deal of wealth the past quarter of a century.

FREE GOLD FOUND

in the 190 foot shaft of The Electric Spark Gold Mining Company's property is an absolute assurance of large dividends at no distant day; and those who buy now, and take advantage of this exceptional opportunity will make from 50 to 100 per cent. yearly on their investment.

There has never been a mining investment offered where the future value of the property could be more clearly shown than in this, or where the returns could be estimated more certainly or accurately.

It is simply a question of time and work. The risk has all been taken, and the investor today can look forward to future dividends with certainty and satisfaction. Incorporated as we are for only $200,000, par value $1.00, makes the stock all the more valuable, and located in the midst of some of the best mines in Gilpin County, Colorado, the smallest county in the State, which in 1902 produced $4,000,000.00, is another assurance of a big dividend payer.

By permission the Company refers to the Rocky Mountain National Bank, and the Weekly Register Call, of Central City, Colorado.

A limited amount of shares for sale at 20 cents per share. Remember this stock is fully paid and non-assessable; is all common and in a company organized expressly to operate this mine.

"THE FRIDAY MINE"

Located at Pearl, Willow Creek, Boise County, Idaho

About 25 Miles Northwest of Boise City

THE FRIDAY GOLD MINING CO. is a corporation duly organized under the laws of the State of Oregon, with head office at Sumpter, Oregon, owning and controlling "The Friday Mine." Capital Stock, $1,000,000, divided into 1,000,000 shares. Par value $1.00 per share, fully paid and non-assessable, no personal liability. 250,000 shares have been set aside and placed in the treasury of the Company to be sold for the purpose of equipping the "Friday Mine" with machinery. It is for this purpose we are offering you stock in this great mine. This plant will handle 60 tons of Friday ore every 24 hours. The general average of the Friday ore is over $30 per ton. The ore as it was shipped to the smelters at Salt Lake averaging over $65.00 per ton. The Friday is highly developed, great quantities of ore blocked out and in sight ready for the mill. As soon as the mill is completed the Friday Mine will again pay dividends.

Large ore bodies which will net to the company $20,000, for the first few months, are now blocked out ready for the mill. As soon as the mill is completed you will draw your regular monthly dividend. It is safe, certain and conservative.

We are not soliciting your money for the purpose of developing the mine, but only for the purpose of erecting a mill to work the ore bodies in the mine. The company is officered by men of well known business ability, mining experience and strict integrity.

Hon. Martin H. Jacobs, State Mining Inspector of mines, for the State of Idaho says: "The Friday has a large amount of good ore in sight, and there is no question about its being a good paying property."

Thunder Mountain!

is the richest gold producing camp in the United States, and also the largest. The Thunder Mountain district, in central Idaho, is twenty miles wide and forty miles long. In comparison with this we have Cripple Creek, four miles wide and seven miles long. In many of the Thunder Mountain mines ore has already been reached that carries ONE THOUSAND DOLLARS IN GOLD TO THE TON. All of the Thunder Mountain ore is free milling, which means that it can be treated by the cheapest extraction process known—the ordinary stamp mill. It can be both mined and milled at a cost not to exceed $2 a ton. The past years operations in the several working mines have opened up millions of tons of ore that will give a net profit of from $10 to $30 a ton, enabling the respective companies to pay dividends at a rate never before equalled. Such is the showing and the prospect of the

EAST DEWEY GOLD MINING CO.

which unless all indications are at fault, will become the largest producer in the district. The EAST DEWEY mine, which it owns outright, is located directly on Thunder Mountain, just east of the famous "Dewey" mine, which already has $20,000,000 of ore in sight. The surface area of the East Dewey mine is one hundred and twenty acres—six full quartz claims. The company has also secured the big GOLDEN GATE mine, in the Big Creek section of the Thunder Mountain district—which has been so aptly termed "The Pot of Gold"—and is now developing the mine with all possible speed. For a distance of 9,000 feet, nearly two miles, the Golden Gate mines cover a mineralized ledge that is 900 feet wide, with an average height above the tunnel level of 500 feet, thus giving it the largest exposed tonnage of any mine in the west.

If you would share in the enormous profits which these figures indicate and which these developments promise, invest your money in "East Dewey" Stock. It can be bought to-day for 10 Cents a Share. Its par value is $1.

If the East Dewey mines are what they appear to be, and there is absolutely no reason to doubt or question these indications, this stock will eventually be worth at least $10 a share, and to-day you can buy it for ten cents. PRICE ADVANCES TO FIFTEEN CENTS ON FEBRUARY 28th. 5% discount allowed for cash. Stock sold at flat price of 10 cents on deferred payments, 10% with application, and 10% monthly until paid. The "Monumental Gall" Story Decidedly Misapplied

Lindsay Post:—Peterborough citizens are making use of the town press to denounce the "monumental gall" of the Dickson Lumber Co. in proposing to stretch booms for the storing of logs along the shores of Little Lake and so exclude the public from the pleasure of boating. The canoeists are up in arms."

Our contemporary should not accept the statements appearing in a certain quarter without confirmation. The "monumental gall" referred to is not applicable to the Dickson Co., who are anxious to antagonize no one, and who only desire to keep within their rights. The gall of the individual who would make it appear otherwise is worthy of note.

A DANCE

The last of an interesting series of dances held in connection with the "Never Learn Club" took place last evening in the Forester's Hall. The room was decorated for the occasion by J. J. An excellent programme had been arranged and the invitations which were sent out were responded to by about 60 couples who for several hours "skipped the light fantastic" to the able accompaniment of Miss McCabe, who officiated at the piano. The ladies of the Club, with their usual thoughtfulness, had prepared an excellent spread, and the evening may be voted a genuine success.

A BUSY OFFICIAL

The Medical Health Officer is Working Early and Late

Dr. Bingham, Medical Health Officer, is a busy man these days. Besides inspecting homes where contagious diseases exist and are suspected he attends to the disinfecting of the houses where disease lurks. On Sunday he disinfected two houses, and yesterday three.

It is only by constant watchfulness that scarlet fever, which at one time threatened to become epidemic, is being slowly but surely stamped out, and to Dr. Bingham much credit is due.

Only those connected with the health department know how hard and how earnestly he has worked to clear the town of infectious diseases. We hope the Council will show its appreciation of the Doctor's splendid work, by granting the small advance in salary which he has asked.

THE LATE JOSEPH FITZGERALD

An Esteemed Citizen of Lakefield Passed Away Saturday

On Saturday last Mr. Joseph Fitzgerald, Lakefield, passed away. About a week ago he slipped and fell, which is supposed to have hastened his death, heart failure being the immediate cause.

The late Mr. Fitzgerald was well known, and very highly respected. He lived in the vicinity of Lakefield all his life. He leaves a wife, three sons and three daughters. Mrs. H. Deane, Peterborough, Mrs. Walker, Welcome and Mrs. Murphy, Bobcaygeon, are sisters; and Alexander, George W. Edward and Thomas are brothers of the deceased. The funeral takes place to the Lakefield cemetery today. The family have the sympathy of the community at large in their bereavement.

SCARLET FEVER

To be More Dreaded Than Small Pox, Says Dr. Bryce

"Do you know," said Dr. Bryce, of the Provincial Board of Health to a Times reporter the other day, I dread scarlet fever more than I do either small-pox or diphtheria. Do you know what its mortality was in Toronto during January? It was 20 per cent. Think what that means. Twelve per cent. is considered a high mortality for any serious disease.

"I can remember scarlet fever to be the dread of the neighborhood when I was a boy. It is a most peculiar disease. For twenty years now any outbreaks of it there have been in Ontario have been mild, extremely mild. This year it is virulent. A family of seven in Peterboro swept out of existence. Another family of seven up in Muskoka all taken—the father bringing it home to the family. It acts quickly. A whole family may be taken with it within forty-eight hours from the time one has been exposed to the disease. To stop its spread we must have the same power of quarantine as in the case of small-pox. If the mild cases are to be allowed at large it simply means there will be no stopping the epidemic."

The Sunshine of True Health and Life After Sickness and Suffering

Paine's Celery Compound

Rescues a Sufferer Who Was in a Perilous Condition

The liver, the largest and one of the most important organs of the body is, to thousands of young and old, a source of suffering. It has been truly said that a diseased liver means physical and mental tortures and dangers. The common symptoms of liver complaint are loss of appetite, nausea, vomiting, furred tongue, constipation, impure blood, headache, depression of spirits and a host of other evils.

Are you a victim of liver complaint? Do you experience any of the symptoms noted above? If so, do not fail to make immediate use of Paine's Celery Compound, the only medicine that directly strikes the root of the trouble, and that infuses new life into every inactive organ. Mrs. Rachel McRae, Guelph, Ont., cured by Paine's Celery Compound, writes thus:

"For nine long years I had been troubled with liver complaint, and often had very bad spells from it. I called in a doctor, who relieved me, but I remained weak, and could neither eat or sleep, and suffered so much with my head that I procured a bottle of Paine's Celery Compound, and before I had the contents used I could eat and sleep well, and the pain in my head was gone. I took the second bottle, and have never been troubled with liver complaint since. Your compound has built me up and completely cured me."

HANDSOME NEW OFFICES

Fitted Up for the Use of the Federal Life Assurance Company

The handsome new office of the Federal Life Assurance Company which is situated in the Schneider block, at No. 405 George street, has just been completed and is a model in every particular. The rooms which are perfectly up-to-date and well situated on the ground floor, are in every way calculated to suit the demands of this growing business. Another very desirable feature of the new office is that it is very centrally located and quite convenient to the main business portion of the town.

The work has been under the supervision of the Company's able Superintendent, Mr. J. K. McCutcheon who is to be congratulated on his choice of location and his good taste which is displayed in the choice of fittings. Only one who had had much experience and practice in this particular line could devise such a plan which for convenient offices and consulting rooms could not be equalled.

It has been known for some time that the business of this Company was increasing at such a rate as to demand larger premises and increased accommodation. Therefore it was no surprise to the citizens of town when a new office was contemplated. As a Life Assurance Company, the Federal offers many superior advantages to its policy holders, and is also purely Canadian.

Its capital and assets are $2,500,000 with nearly a million and a quarter of a surplus for its policy holders.

It is to Mr. David Dexter, the President and managing director that the prosperous financial condition of this Company is largely due. Mr. Dexter has been most energetic and indefatigable in the interests of his company and it is a fact that the coming years with him at the head will bring greater success than ever.

In Peterborough and district, arrangements are being made for the further extension of the Company, and the appointment of a District Manager. For the present, Mr. Geo. G. Pope, who has ably occupied the position of district inspector for the Company for the past two years is taking charge of the office in Mr. Meharry's absence. Mr. Meharry leaves for the Northwest about the end of April. On his return Mr. Pope will leave for British Columbia in May to accept a preferment in the employ of the Company. Mr. Meharry, who has been connected with the Company in Peterborough since 1896, is a man who is thoroughly responsible and upright in all his methods of dealing with the public and it is sincerely hoped that the Company will endeavor to secure his continued services.

Band Concert

The public will have an opportunity of listening to a splendid programme of music this evening in the Opera House on the occasion of the concert given by the 57th Band. We hope to see the house full to the doors. The band will play Godfrey's Reminiscences of Ireland for the first time in Peterborough. Admission only 10c.

Nervous and Sleepless

There is just one cure and that is plenty of food for the blood and nerves, which is best supplied in Ferrozone, than which no blood builder, nerve tonic or strength producer is better. Ferrozone promotes healthy digestion, which results in improved nutrition. The blood grows rich and red, furnishes stability to the entire system, and the store of nerve force and energy increased daily. A rebuilding of the constitution, new spirits, health and strength, all come from the use of Ferrozone. This marvelous renovator is sold by Druggists for 50c. a box, or six boxes for $2.50. By mail from Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

Deputation from Buffalo

A deputation of between fifteen and twenty prominent men in the milling business, came to town yesterday from Buffalo and are remaining over today, for the purpose of viewing the new Ultimator machines which are now in operation in the mills of the McAllister Milling Co. This mill enjoys the unique distinction of being the only Ultimator mill in the world.

The men who compose this deputation are very eminent in the milling business and thoroughly understand and appreciate the value of these new machines. Among those here are Mr. Heimson, mechanical superintendent of the American Machine Co., Mr. Ortman, milling superintendent of Banner Mills, Buffalo; Mr. Parks, editor of "Roller Miller" and Mr. J. Knight, superintendent of Dominion Mills, Toronto.

LITTLE LOCAL LINES

—La grippe is quite prevalent in town just now.

—The Minden Echo complains that deer hunting has been going on in the north-east corner of Lutterworth and south-west corner of Anson for some days past. Game Warden Smith, of Belleville, should look into the matter.

—The anti-vaccinationists claim that the Vaccination Act is not workable. Dr. Bryce seems to have admitted this in an address before the Provincial Board of Health on Wednesday. The Toronto Star reports that he recommended the re-casting of the Vaccination Act to make it more workable, and announced that a new bill was under preparation.

—The Hastings Star says: "The local Board of Health met Tuesday evening and after considerable discussion decided to close the schools for an indefinite period. This is done on account of the scarlet fever epidemic in nearly every section surrounding Hastings. One family in Hastings is affected by the disease but being quarantined in proper time is not considered dangerous. The school will not likely be closed for over one or two weeks."

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

—Mr. E. B. Stone was in Cobourg yesterday on business.

—Mr. J. K. McCutcheon, superintendent of the Federal Life Assurance Co., is in town.

—Miss S. Allen, of Bowmanville, is in town the guest of friends.

—Miss Fairweather, of Toronto, is visiting friends in town.

—Saturday night:—Mr. and Mrs. Willie Rundle, of Selby street, entertained a small company of young folks on Tuesday evening, to meet Miss Bradburn, of Peterborough.

—Mr. Manton, superintendent of the C.P.R. Company, of Guelph, was in town yesterday.

—Mr. F. Pattinson, of Bowmanville, is spending a few days in town.

—Mr. Dickson Hall left last night for Toronto. Mr. Hall also intends visiting New York before returning.

—Mr. Alex. Stewart, of the Canadian Express Co., at Walkerton, was in town on business yesterday.

—Mr. A. P. Choate, who has been out of town for some time, has returned home.

—Mr. H. Newton, of the Canadian Savings, Loan and Building Association, is attending the annual meeting of the company Toronto.

—Mr. H. P. Kennedy was in Montreal yesterday on business.

—Miss Annie Keane, of Allandale, returned home yesterday, after a pleasant visit with Miss Adah Newton, Hunter street.

—Mr. Milton Walker, of Winnipeg, is visiting Mrs. Wm. Faint, Ashburnham.

Took 98 Per Cent

The many friends of Miss Abbie Robinson, daughter of Mr. T. W. Robinson, town, will be pleased to know that she took a total of 98 per cent. at the recent examinations for trained nurses at the New York City Hospital. Miss Robinson will graduate on Friday next, when the exercises in connection with the examinations will take place. The Times extends its hearty congratulations to the clever young Canadian, as well a to her relatives in Peterborough.

Ringing in the Ears

This is an unfailing sign of catarrh, and if not checked will ultimately result in deafness. The simplest remedy is Catarrhozone, which if inhaled a few times daily, prevents the catarrhal condition from spreading. Catarrhozone quickly stops the ringing in the ears, head noises, gives permanent relief to catarrhal deafness. For Catarrh in any part of the system, Bronchitis, Asthma, Lung or Throat Troubles, Catarrhozone is a specific, and is guaranteed to permanently cure or your money back. Large size, $1.00; trial size, 25c. Druggists or Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

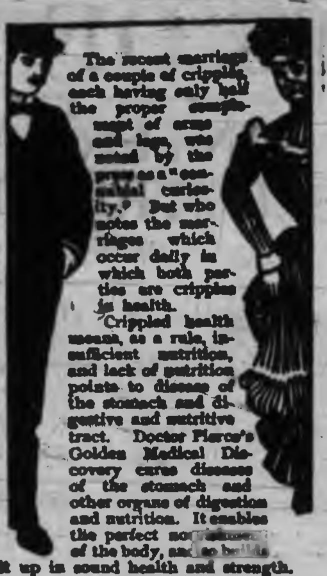
—A large number of crows were observed at the west end of the town yesterday. First harbingers of spring!



The recent marriage of a couple of cripples, each having only half the proper complement of arms and legs, was noted by the press as a "connubial curiosity." But who notes the marriages which occur daily in which both parties are cripples in health.

Crippled health means, as a rule, insufficient nutrition, and lack of nutrition points to disease of the stomach and digestive and nutritive tract. Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It enables the perfect nourishment of the body, and so builds it up in sound health and strength.

"I had been a great sufferer from indigestion for the last nine years," writes Mrs. Margaret Stingle, of Owings Mills, Baltimore Co., Md. "I was such a wreck it seemed death was near, but to-day one say I feel like another woman. I have received much and lasting good from Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and 'Favorite Prescription.' I have taken twenty-five bottles in all, and followed the advice of Dr. R. V. Pierce, and am happy to say that life is worth living now. A thousand thanks for your treatment."

Do not be cajoled into trading a substance for a shadow. Any substitute offered as "just as good" as "Golden Medical Discovery" is a shadow of that medicine. There are cures behind every claim made for the "Discovery."

The Common Sense Medical Adviser, in paper covers, is sent free on receipt of 31 one-cent stamps to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

RUSSIA GETS READY FOR WAR CZAR'S SOLDIERS QUITE ACTIVE

Despite Sultan's Concession on Macedonian Question

OATH OF SECRECY BEING ADMINISTERED

100,000 First-Class and 180-000 Second-Class Reserves to Join the Colors

London, Feb. 21—In connection with the Macedonian situation, the Moscow correspondent of The Times sends word that exceptional activity is being maintained at the Russian general staff headquarters at Kieff and Odessa. A special oath of secrecy is being administered to officers employed in topographical and chancellery departments at Odessa. Absent officers have been recalled, and further leave has been refused, save under exceptional circumstances. The whole of the Russian forces which operated in manoeuvres last summer as a southern army, have been ever since in a condition of perpetual mobilization The fifteenth division of infantry is going through a series of manoeuvres; new appointments are being made in every department of the army in the south and unfit officers are being removed. Arrangements have been completed for 100,000 first-class and 180,000 second-class reserves to join the colors within fourteen days on an emergency call.

SULTAN HAS YIELDED.

Constantinople, Feb. 24 — Tewfik Pasha, Minister of Foreign Affairs, has notified the Austro-Hungarian and Russian Ambassadors that the Sultan has agreed to adopt the scheme for reforms in Macedonia.

The identical note on the subject of reforms in Macedonia presented to the Grand Vizer Saturday by Austro-Hungarian and Russian Ambassadors was translated into Turkish and handed to the Sultan the same evening. The powers recommend, in addition to the appointment of an inspector-general of gendarmerie for three years, with ample powers to act independently and to requisition troops in case of emergency, and the reorganization of the gendarmerie and police under European instructors, that Christians be admitted into the gendarmerie in numbers proportionate to the population without being required to read and write the Turkish language) Amnesty is also demanded for all persons who have been arrested for political offences. The scheme for administration and financial reforms in Macedonia, as proposed by the powers in the note, besides planning a more equitable collection of taxes, provides that local expenses shall be a first charge on the revenues of each vilayet. In the event of there being a surplus, this may be sent to Constantinople. Measures are also demanded for compelling the Albanians to respect the law.

It is understood that the powers are determined to admit of no modifications of the reform scheme, that they demand its application without delay, and that they are prepared to adopt coercive measures to insure its being scrupulously carried out.

An Imperial irade has been issued authorizing the Turkish Minister of War to purchase 10 additional Maxim rapid-fire guns.

A NEW FEATURE OF THE BEET SUGAR INDUSTRY

George W. McMullen, ex-M.P. of Picton, has perfected an invention for evaporating which is applicable to the beet sugar industry. The process dries the water out of the beet reducing the weight 80 per cent., leaving only the sugar and dry pulp. This will effect a large saving in freight and will enable the farmers to assemble the beets at convenient points and have them treated there. The effect upon the industry will be to have a central refinery in operation continuously instead of as at present, only in the winter. Dr. Wyle, the beet sugar expert of the United States Department of Agriculture, Pro. James, Deputy Minister of Agriculture for Ontario, and others who have investigated it, agree that it is the most important development that American genius has given to this great industry now being successfully established in the United States and Canada. With the establishment of an industry in Peterborough under this system, there would be evaporating plants (which would compare in cost with the modern cheese factory) at, say, Lindsay on the west, Millbrook on the south, Campbellford and Tweed on the east. Then outside of that radius there would be another chain of evaporating centres.

Pimples, Blotches and Skin Eruptions

How unsightly, sometimes even disgusting, and certainly very mortifying to the sufferer. They are merely an evidence of impure, poisoned blood, and lowered vitality of the elementary organs which can be quickly changed by taking Ferrozone after meals. Ferrozone cleanses the blood of all poisons and eruptions, makes it rich in red corpuscles that manifest themselves in a healthy, ruddy complexion. To have a pure, soft skin and good complexion simply use Ferrozone regularly. Price 50c. per box, or six boxes for $2.50, at Druggists, or N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

The Revival Services Drawing Many People

MR. KERBY'S BURNING WORDS

Only One More Night and the Services End—The Meetings To-day

Long before the hour for opening, the George street church was filled and when a quarter to eight arrived only standing room was to be had.

Rev. Mr. Kerby preached the sermon with his usual earnestness and power. His subject was "The Five Steps to Christ." The text was "I tell you, nay; but except you repent, ye shall likewise perish." Luke 13th chap., 3rd verse.

The preacher said that if those who were not Christians would take these five steps, as he indicated, they would be Christians before he sat down.

The first step was the step of conviction; or the knowledge of sin—all would take that step; and yet conviction would not save a man. Felix and Agrippa were convicted, but we do not read of their being saved.

The second step is conviction or sorrow of heart for sin—Godly sorrow which, unlike the sorrow of the world, needeth not to be repented of. The sorrow of the publican when he prayed "God be merciful to me a sinner," and yet weeping will not save a man.

The third step is the step of confession. There is hope for a man, when he is willing to confess his sin. First we need to confess our sins to God, and then to one another if we have done others injury. "He that covereth his sins shall not prosper; but whoso confesseth and forsaketh them shall have mercy.

The fourth step is the turning away from sin. It means that if you are a swearer or a drinker or are guilty of any other besetting sins, you will quit the sins and stay quit.

Sin drove our first parents out of the garden of Eden—closed the gate of heaven and opened the gate of hell. Sin has made you bad terms with your neighbor; is hurrying some of you on to an untimely grave.

Sin is a transgression of the law of the universe, of the law of society, of the laws of your own body. Sin is a transgression and rebellion against the father heart of God. Therefore turn away from sin. There is one step more; if you take this step you are a Christian.

The fifth step is to turn to Christ and rest upon him as your only hope of salvation.

If you have taken these steps; then upon the authority of God's word, you may claim the rights and privileges of citizenship in God's kingdom, and sonship in God's family.

The announcements included the meeting for women only in the George street church at 3 p.m. today where the Rev. Mr. Turk will speak on "The Twentieth Century Woman," and the Rev. Mr. Kerby will speak on "The Call to Young Womanhood." The "Holy City" will be sung as a duet by the evangelists. The interest in these meetings seems to increase, rather than diminish. All will be sorry when the evangelists bid farewell this evening.

BROKE QUARANTINE

Members of Marks' Bros. Dramatic Company in Trouble

Although the health authorities all over Canada are supposed to be extremely vigilant in their care that small-pox shall not spread, still it is a deplorable fact that people who are quite aware of the consequences break quarantine and thereby become responsible for some serious outbreaks.

Last week, while Marks' Bros. Dramatic Company were playing in St. Thomas, three of their number were guests in a hotel where small-pox broke out. They were included in the quarantine, but made their escape and came on to Chatham, where they filled a week's engagement with the company. The next place was Blenheim, where on the second day one of their number, Stoutenberg by name, was taken ill. He moved on to Ridgetown, notwithstanding, where he consulted a doctor, but informed him it was a skin disease, and deceived him as to the facts. At the Arlington Hotel, where Stoutenberg was staying, his table was waited on by the daughter of the proprietor, who caught the infection first, and was soon followed by seven others. The result of the mad determination of this unscrupulous man to defy the law and keep moving was that the Arlington was quarantined, where over a score of business and professional men were staying.

Stoutenberg meanwhile continued changing places and intended to favor Blenheim with another short visit. Blenheim did not seem to see the point however, or perhaps did not consider another visit necessary quite so soon, anyway he was met at the station by Constable Grant, who informed him that they preferred his room to his company. He then purchased a ticket for Dresden and has been neither seen nor heard of since. Whether he is still moving or has decided to settle down is a matter for conjecture, but so long as he does not consider it necessary to give Peterborough a call we shall not complain.

PORT HOPE TO PLAY HERE FRIDAY NIGHT

LAST OF THE SEASON.

The Intermediates will play their last home game of the season at the Brock street rink on Friday night with Port Hope. The teams will play home and home games for a $70 trophy The return match will probably be played in Port Hope on Monday night. Friday night's game should draw a large crowd of spectators, as an interesting and close contest can be looked for. The intermediates are practicing hard and are determined to land the prize, while Port Hope seem to be confident that they can win

T.A.S. AND NORWOOD

The T.A.S. will play their return game with Norwood on Friday night when a special train will be run to Norwood to convey the team and their supporters, leaving Peterborough at 7 and returning at 12 o'clock. Should Norwood win, both teams will be a tie and a deciding game will be played on neutral ice.

HOCKEY.

Fenelon Falls Star—This is the first defeat our team had this season and the first time since their organization that they have been beaten on their own ice. We regret it exceedingly, but the players were in bad shape on Tuesday evening, and did not put up their usual game. Besides this their opponents were splendid players. We hope the defeat will have the effect of waking our boys up to the fact that they must do their best for the rest of the season if they wish to hold the cup and championship.

SITUATION IN QUEBEC.

From Montreal Gazette.

The hockey situation in Quebec is an interesting one. Montreal must win two matches to tie with Ottawa, one of these matches is with Victoria, so there is a chance for an upset, and that would give the Vics the chance to play off with Ottawa. Quebec has to play both Montreal teams, but no one looks to Quebec to upset championship plans, so that it seems feasible to believe that either one of the local teams will fight it out with Ottawa.

P.

The Wellingtons will play their return match at Cornwall tonight.

BARRIE'S BIG SCORE.

Barrie, Feb. 21—The Barrie Intermediates won their way into the O.H. A. finals by winning their twelfth victory last night, when they defeated Owen Sound by the decisive score of 11 goals to 0. Up to last night Barrie had scored 84 goals to 36 by opponents, and the players started out to make it an even 100 if possible. They failed by four goals.

In the finals Barrie and Belleville will play off in Toronto on Thursday night, and the winner will play off with Paris.

GERMANY MAY TRY AGAIN

Brazil and Colombia May See a Big Naval Display

London, Feb. 21.—A despatch from Berlin states that Germany has further use for her fleet now in the South American waters. Brazil and Colombia are in debt to the Kaiser's government and naval representations it is said, will be made to enforce payment.

GUESTS OF THE POPE

One Thousand Poor People the Guests of the Pope

Rome, Feb. 22— To-day was a great day for the poor of Rome, a thousand of them being the guests of the Pope at dinner in honor of the Pontiff's jubilee. The guests were waited upon by nuns and the Swiss Guards, in brilliant uniform, kept order, their band playing during the repast. The dinner provided included wine and desert. Great enthusiasm was displayed and there were repeated cries of "Long live Pope Leo!" The Pope desired personally to administer his blessing on the gathering, but, although he was well, the doctors vetoed his desire, in order that he might husband his strength for the coming functions.

THE PRETENDER CRUSHED

Sir Harry Maclean on the Moroccan Revolt

Tangier, Feb. 22—A despatch from Fez, dated February 16, and received here today, says General Sir Harry Maclean, commander of the Sultan of Morocco's bodyguard, in an interview describes the situation as satisfactory.

He considers that the power of the pretender, Bu Hamara, who, according to advices, is lying wounded near Tazza, has been completely crushed. The Moroccan War Minister, El Menebhi, is advancing at the head of a large force, punishing in turn the rebellious tribesmen, many of whom have never paid taxes, even in the days of the grandfather of the present Sultan. The opportunity is now being taken to crush them into absolute submission and to obtain hostages for their good behavior.

Sir Harry denies that the revolt was the result of the Sultan's progressive ideas. The general is convinced of the Sultan's sincerity in his aspiration for reform, and in his Majesty's determination to carry them out.

GERMANY'S DEMAND

Asks Prompt Payment or Part of the Indemnity

Washington, Feb. 22—The German Government through its representative here, Baron Speck Von Sternberg, has made a request of Mr. Bowen for the immediate payment of the £5,500 which it was stipulated in the protocol signed on February 13th should be paid within thirty days from that date as a preliminary to the raising of the blockade against Venezuelan ports and the agreement to send the question of preferential treatment of the blockading nations to the Hague for determination. Mr. Bowen promptly declined to accede to the request but informed Baron Von Sternberg that as provided in the protocol, the money would be paid to the German representative at Caracas thirty days from February 13th which would be on the 15th of March. The reason that animated the German Government in making the request is not disclosed here, nor is Mr. Bowen aware of it. The matter, however, has some significance, perhaps, in view of the fact that the ships taken by the Germans during the blockade have not yet been returned to Venezuela.

Coal in Atlin District

Vancouver, B.C., February 23—Murdock McKay arrived from Atlin today with the statement that he had struck the biggest seam of coal ever uncovered in America on Thalton Creek, ten miles from Telegraph Creek. The coal is well defined for several miles, and is pronounced of the highest quality. McKay has staked out 2,600 acres and is forming a company to work it.

WEATHER NOTES

Wednesday,—Fair, not much change in temperature.

The barometer is higher over the greater part of the continent. There are, however, indications of disturbance near the Gulf of California, and it is not improbable that before the end of the week a storm may move towards the Great Lakes from that direction. The weather is fine throughout the Dominion and the temperature not much below the freezing point At present there are no indications of a return to cold weather.

THINK CANADIAN PACIFIC WILL GET A SUBSIDY

And Put on a Fast Mail Service of Atlantic Boats Opinion in London on the Big Project

London, Feb. 21 —Even yesterday's small note of criticism is drowned in to-day's general approval of the Canadian Pacific's purchase of fourteen Beaver Line steamers. Both the Company and the Elder-Dempsters decline to divulge the price which is variously stated from £1,250,000 to £2,000,000 sterling.

The fact that the Lake Simcoe and Lake Ontario were struck out from the original list of sixteen steamers making the present purchase fourteen only, doubtless accounts for the variations in the statement of the price. Arthur Piers, of the Canadian Pacific Steamship Department has gone to Liverpool to make the necessary arrangements to enable the service to begin in six weeks, the time of the opening of navigation. The suggestion has been made that seeing the short period the Elder-Dempster should continue the management for a time under the Canadian Pacific flag. It is felt the Company should start fair.

Four being passenger steamers, the question is now being considered whether emigrant passengers will be carried. The fact however, that the service begins after the spring rush is over probably caused the Company to defer decision on this point. It is also undecided exactly what British ports will be chosen. It is understood that Montreal will be the Canadian terminus. Liverpool will certainly be a British terminal, and the other two will probably Glasgow and London or Bristol. Little doubt is entertained in well informed quarters here that the Canadian Pacific now stands the best chance for the fast mail service.

HON. DAVID WARK IS THE OLDEST OF LEGISLATORS

THE LATE RIGHT HON SIR JOHN A. MACDONALD.

Was in Politics Before Sir John A. Macdonald Was Known.

Ottawa, Feb. 21—The oldest parliamentarian in the world, as pointed out in the Journal on Thursday, is Hon. David Wark, of Fredericton, N.B., one of the three original members of the Senate of Canada still alive. He has also the honor of having the record for continuous service in a legislative capacity, having been a representative of the people for sixty-one years. Entering the New Brunswick Legislative Assembly in 1842 he sat for eight years and was then appointed to the Legislative Council. At confederation he was appointed by Royal Proclamation as one of the senators from his adopted Province.

Senator Wark was born in Londonderry, Ireland, Feb. 19, 1804 and is thus on the way towards completing his hundredth year. He has already announced that he will be in Ottawa this year as usual to attend to his parliamentary duties, and that he is coming up unattended. In a couple of weeks, therefore, his familiar figure will be seen on the hill.

In 1825 Mr. Wark came to Canada, and for a number of years was engaged in mercantile pursuits in New Brunswick. He entered the political arena in 1842 as representative of Kent in the New Brunswick Assembly, and in 1851 was appointed to the Legislative Council, where he remained until Confederation, when he was called to the Senate. From 1858 to 1862 he was a member of the provincial government without portfolio and later became Receiver-General.

When historians tell of the growth of the Empire, and the fostering of a friendly patriotism between the colonies and the mother land, the work of Senator Wark will be found to figure prominently. Over half a century ago he moved a resolution which first brought about a measure of trade reciprocity between the provinces of British North America. In 1897 he had a resolution adopted in parliament favoring the drawing more closely of the ties binding the Dominion to the mother land.

Not with voice alone has the veteran senator aided the cause of free trade and helped to weld the Empire together. He has written extensively in the press and the reviews in behalf of imperial federation and reciprocal trade relations between Canada and the United States. Nine years ago he published a work on "The Future of Canada and its relation to the British Empire." In 1877 he received the honorary degree of L.L.D. from the University of New Brunswick.

As was said by The Journal some years ago, in referring to Mr. Wark's original free trade resolution: "The broad-mindedness which actuated him then has been a distinguishing feature of his public life."

Senator Wark is a member of the Presbyterian church. He married, 42 years ago, a daughter of the late Isaac Burpee, Sudbury, N.B.

OPPORTUNITY FOR A FRESH START

Friendliness of Colonial Secretary Acknowledged Even by the Irreconcilables

Mr. Chamberlain, speaking at Cape Town yesterday said that as the self-governing colonies grew in influence they must either abandon the thought of the Empire or help to bear its burden. The Imperial burdens were now more than the motherland could could bear. The Birmingham Post, Mr. Chamberlain's organ, yesterday said that a scheme has already been arranged for the colonies to contribute towards the navy, each having a certain amount of control of its contribution.

Deceased Wife's Sister.

General Laurie, M.P., will introduce a bill in the House of Commons to legalize colonial marriages with a deceased wife's sister. Sir Gilbert Parker's bill on the same subject would make such marriages possible in England.

An Imperial Army.

A series of eleven articles on War Office reform, which is concluded in today's issue of The Times advocates that the army shall become more imperial, enlisting colonial officers and men. The writer prophesies that English regulars could thus be drawn from magnificent material available in the colonies.

London, Feb. 21—Sir John Anderson of the Colonial Office said this afternoon that no suggestions or nominations for the Alaskan tribunal had been received from Canada, neither had any protest been received against the selection of Messrs. Root, Lodge, or Turner as American members of the tribunal.

The King recently signed the ratification of the treaty, under which the tribunal is to be appointed. This must be handed to President Roosevelt by Sir Michael Herbert, the British Ambassador to the United States, before the English Cabinet appoints its commissioners.

Montreal, Feb. 22— While discussing the trade between Canada and South Africa both the Elder-Dempster and Allan Line officials announced that it was proving entirely satisfactory to them. The only reason for complaint has cropped up in the want of wharfage accommodation. The Furness-Withy Company, in explaining their complaint stated that they were securing sufficient freight but the service was proving unsatisfactory because they could not be unloaded at South African ports.

Windsor, Feb. 21—Late yesterday afternoon a Michigan Central yard engine with two box cars was running along the river front at a good rate of speed when engineer Kelly noticed that a switch leading to one of the car ferry slips was turned. He and Fireman Hoppe had barely time to jump before the eighty-ton engine went over the slip to the river bottom, the two cars following and standing on top of the engine. The lifting of the e'dedly difficult job.

RURAL MAIL DELIVERY

Inspector Macarow Has Been Looking For Information

P. H. Macarow, deputy post-office inspector, Kingston, has returned from Washington, D.C., where he was sent by the postmaster-general to make a personal investigation into the system of rural mail delivery as established in the United States, with a view of adopting it in Canada. He was given much valuable information by the postmaster-general. There are 13,104 rural mail routes already established there, 152 more will be added in a few days, and 751 more by March 1st. When the service reaches its complete limit there will be about 25,000 routes in operation. By April 1st there will be 946 rural mail routes running in New York State alone.

It is reported that the district between Athens and Brockville, a distance of fifteen miles, will be given a trial in the rural mail delivery system. Mr. Macarow will make some important recommendations along these lines.

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills the Greatest Wonder of the Age

Editor of the Morning Times:

Sir,—I am only too pleased to write a letter to the press, as I firmly believe that all who suffer from rheumatism or any troubles of the blood can get sure and certain relief. I was ill for many years, and am now entirely well. Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills are without doubt the greatest wonder of the age in medicine. They cured me, and I know they will cure others who are even worse than I was. I write this of my own accord in the hope that it will do some good. Bruce Blair, G. T. R. THE ALASKAN BOUNDARY COMMISSION

There is a rumour in circulation that the Dominion Government has made representations to the Imperial Government protesting against the appointment of Messrs. Root, Lodge and Turner as the American Boundary Commission. We hope that the rumour is not founded upon fact. Neither the Dominion Government nor the Imperial Government has any right to voice in the selection of the United States Commissioners. Any such protest as suggested would fail to have effect, because President Roosevelt would not dare make any change at the suggestion of the Imperial Government, and if he dared to do so any commissioner who might be appointed as the result of such suggestion would be torn limb from limb if they dared to make the slightest concession from the last letter of the American contention. The only Americans who are really in a position to admit the justice of Canada's claim are recognized tail-twisters — men who cannot be suspected of pro-British sympathies.

What the Canadian and British Governments have to do is to see that the Canadian and British Commissioners are men of ability, pluck and endurance, equal at least to those of the American Commissioners. If Canada's interests are represented by men who can neither be fooled or bullied into surrendering any portion of them unjustly, it is not a matter of much import or importance what kind of men the American commissioners may be. The worst they can do will be to make the work of the commission barren of conclusive results. If our commissioners do their work faithfully and intelligently, it will at least have the effect of bringing out all the available evidence on the boundary question, and this may prove educational for the people of the United States. For the Dominion and British Governments to betray signs of panic at the mention of the names of the American commissioners is a little beneath their dignity.

TUBERCULOSIS

Dr. Biggs, of New York, has been doing some figuring on the tuberculosis question. He first calculates the loss to New York city by putting a value of $1,500 upon each life at the average age at which deaths from tuberculosis occur. This gives a total value of the lives lost annually of $15,000,000. But this is not all, for at least nine months prior to death these patients cannot work, and the loss of services at $1 a day, together with food, nursing, medicines, attendance, etc., at $1.50 a day, results in a further loss of $8,000,000, making a yearly loss to the municipality of $23,000,000. From the whole country the 150,000 deaths from tuberculosis represent in the same way a loss of $330,000,000.

MANITOBA FILLING UP

The recent movement of the United States farmers and other settlers into our prairie country is not a transient, short-lived thing, but a continuous and more or less organized movement. A letter from a gentleman in a prominent position in Winnipeg, addressed to a contemporary, says: "Every indication points to an immigration that will exceed anything that we have had any experience of in Canada. None but those in immediate contact with the immigration work can possibly realize what we shall have to face this year in taking care of the people who will arrive in the West during the spring and summer. Winnipeg is fairly full of Americans who are, as individuals, acting for groups of people in the different States in looking into the situation here, and learning if the good reports published of this country are correct. And you would be surprised to know how unanimously they join in recommending it to their friends in the States."

COUNT CASSINI AT WASHINGTON

He says the Present Situation in China Quite Serious

Washington, Feb. 24—Count Cassini Russian Ambassador at Washington, is of the same opinion of Dr. Robt. Coltman, formerly physician to Li Hung Chang, as to another Boxer rising in China. The count for five years represented his country in China, and professes to speak with intimate knowledge. He says the present situation is very serious, and unless affairs are handled with great care, a worse outbreak than that of three years ago may take place. A great many arms are being shipped to China, by Belgium, Germany and the United States. If the masses of the Chinese should be again incited to violent assaults upon foreigners in China, the slaughter that would ensue would be terrible, because they would be armed with modern weapons. Count Cassini further observes that the 400,000,000 of Chinese are more amenable to modern ideas than the world gives them credit for. It is true they are conservatives. They cannot be moved to new ways suddenly. They must be reasoned with. But when they understand they adopt new manners and methods for transacting business. For example a few years ago there were only fifty kilometers of telegraph in the entire country; now there are forty thousand miles. This illustrates the willingness of the Chinese to adopt the modern instrument of business and intercommunication when they come to understand their value. The Count speaks of the Dowager Empress as a woman of marvellous strength of character, and gives her credit for having used her influence in behalf of the legationers who were besieged in Pekin for so many dreary weeks in 1900, saving them from massacre. He says the world owes the Dowager Empress a debt of gratitude which has not yet been paid, if acknowledged. To the question "is the Chinaman a fighter?" Count Cassini says the world seems misinformed on that point. "The Chinaman is not a warrior now, because, through centuries of training, he has been taught to have contempt for the soldier and his calling; but I fear the Chinese are learning from their recent contact with the outer world that armies and a proper military spirit are modern necessities. A fighter—yes, he can be made one of the world's most terrible fighters. He is a fatalist, you know. He does not fear to die. Given these qualities and add to them a lust for war or revenge, and what a fighting machine the Chinaman would be! The Japanese have shown what the Orientals can do when they turn their minds and energies to war. The Chinese are larger than the Japanese and have more endurance; besides the Chinaman can live on a handful of rice a day."

GRAND TRUNK AND C. P. R.

Sir Thomas Shaughnessy has expressed himself as strongly opposed to the government granting assistance to the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway in any "shape, manner or form." The announcement is not altogether unexpected. The Canadian Pacific Railway has received from the Dominion of Canada at various times twenty-five million acres of land, part of which is now selling, we believe, at from five to six dollars an acre. This land has from the time it was granted, is now, and promises to remain for a considerable time, free from taxation of all kinds. There is a dispute as to the interpretation of the Act of Parliament under which the grant was made. The company's view practically is that its land should be free from taxation until it passes into the hands of people who would bring it under cultivation. That is really what its contention amounts to. Some of the more radical of the members of the party which insisted upon the bill of endowment going through Parliament in the indefinite form in which it was introduced in face of the protests of the Liberals that there would be a dispute over its interpretation, at the last session of the House were disposed to insist that the company should be compelled to accept the popular reading of the act. That is, that Parliament should interpret its own act. However, it was successfully urged that such a matter is usually left to the courts. And so the courts, after their own deliberate fashion, will settle the dispute between the people and C.P.R. Whatever the decision will be, it is apparent that the railway company for which Mr. Shaughnessy speaks has not been dealt with in a niggardly manner by the country.

But, in addition to the land grant, which has proved quite a valuable estate, the Canadian Pacific Railway Company received nearly sixty-three million dollars in cash from the Canadian government. We do not cite the bestowal of this extraordinarily generous gift as an excuse for assistance of any kind being extended by the government to the Grand Trunk Pacific, but rather as reason why Sir Thomas Shaughnessy and all his organs should hold their peace while the subject is under discussion. It is but just to admit, however, that Sir Thomas contends that the great rival of the Canadian Pacific should not be enabled by public aid to penetrate a region which has been opened up and proved by his company, that if the Grand Trunk desires to profit by conditions not of its own creation it has no right to put its hand in the public treasury to enable it to do so. The weakness of Sir Thomas's argument lies in the fact that it fails to take into account the case of the public which would be served by the new system. The people of the North-west maintain that the existing transportation facilities are altogether inadequate for the transportation to market of the products of the settlers at present established. And they have the facts at hand to prove their case. Settlement is proceeding so rapidly that it is out of the question for the companies at present in the field to overtake the demands of the incomers for the conveniences without which they can do little and the absence of which may not only cause much distress, but give the most promising portion of the Dominion a setback from which it would not recover for years.

If a large portion of the Grand Trunk Pacific is to be built through just such virgin territory as the C. P.R. was, can any reason be given for granting public aid in the one case and withholding it in the other? The new line will pass through much of such territory in Ontario, the Territories and in British Columbia. The road will precede population. It will not be a result of the demands of settlers, but a pioneer line, an artery, letting in and spreading forth the tributary streams of life necessary to raise Canada to her true place in the great national sisterhood. Really the only substantial reason that can be urged against granting to the Grand Trunk Pacific just such an unreasonable, extravagant and wholly unnecessary subsidy as was voted by a reckless party to the Canadian Pacific is that the first transcontinental road seemed somewhat of an experiment to the unpractical men who thus sacrificed the money and the estate of the people.

The application of the new line for assistance will be one of the most interesting subjects Parliament will deal with at the coming session. The probable effect of the construction of such a road upon the fortunes of the people of the West and upon the future of that great storehouse of Canada will receive just as intelligent consideration as its speculative effect upon the stock of the C.P.R. A great cry has gone up for better transportation facilities. The government is morally bound to do all in its power within reason to open up the country as speedily as possible to the land-hungry multitudes who are in search of homes for themselves and permanent establishment for their children.—Victoria, B.C., Times, February 3, 1903.—Advt.

Yet one of the ways that LEAD TO FORTUNE

Why not make a small investment in oil lands right ahead of good producing wells, some having wells producing oil on adjoining farms? The oil now brings $1.10 per barrel, bought by the Standard Oil Co., without any transportation charges, and is bound to go higher; a few hundred dollars often invested in property of this kind yields thousands of dollars profit. I personally know of parties who made over [illegible] in 60 days time on an investment of this kind; also have wells making from 10 to 200 barrels a day. Parties desiring to organize a company will do well to investigate this opportunity, getting thereby the advantage of years of experience, and if you don't want to drill the wells wait until the wells drilling close to you have come in and reap the benefit of their [illegible]. The oil business conducted on business principles, with honest management, is bound to succeed. You do not have to look further than the Standard Oil Co. to see what honest management founded on facts will produce, they have drawn very heavily on stocks the past three years and there is not enough of this grade of oil now above ground to run the country for more than two years, so you can readily see the profits that will be realized by starting now and obtaining the big price the Standard Oil Co. will be compelled to pay for crude oil to supply the demands of the country. An Opportunity

We are offering for public subscription a limited amount of stock of exceptional merit affording an unusual opportunity for a very profitable investment. We desire to be conservative in our representations, but do not hesitate to state that the stocks of the properties we are representing are absolutely certain to rapidly increase in value, and the fortunate purchasers of the stock at the present prices will have more than reason to congratulate themselves for grasping this opportunity.

Success lies in being alive to that which is going on around you, and they who "grasp the skirts of happy chance can breast the blows of circumstance."

We have the disposition of a certain amount of treasury stock in four corporations. We have thoroughly investigated the present value of the properties owned by the Companies and have full cognition of the immense profits that are awaiting only the further development and equipment of the properties.

We are offering an equal number of shares in each of the four corporations at a price that makes the combined issue a most attractive feature, giving also to the purchaser an unusual safe guard on his or her investment; in other words, you are not placing all your eggs in one basket. Or if you prefer you can purchase separately the stocks we offer.

As the money received from the sale of the stock is strictly for the purpose of equipping the properties with the necessary machinery, etc., the time will not be long before handsome dividends are available. We are not asking your subscriptions to pay for the properties; they are already owned by the Companies, and there are no outstanding obligations.

This preliminary notice is to advise the public in general that an opportunity now presents itself for a safe investment of unusual character, embodying also speculative possibilities sufficiently great to make even a small investor a competency within a few years.

You can invest in any amount from Ten Dollars up, and, if so desired, you can have the privilege of paying in instalments the amount of stock paid for from time to time being non-forfeitable in the event of your ceasing payments, thus relieving those of small or uncertain income from possibility of loss, should they for any reason become unable to continue payments.

Our business is to aid responsible Companies in the disposal of their treasury stock for the thorough equipment of their properties; we do not and will not handle indiscriminate mining or other stocks under any circumstances. We make a thorough personal examination and investigation as to the merits and possibilities before undertaking to assist in financing any Corporation: the paramount issue with us is to give complete satisfaction and cause much success to our patrons.

We have furnished the publishers of The Times with an outlined description of the Companies we represent, and the names of the Directors of each Company whose stock we offer to their subscribers and friends. We have also furnished The Times with bank references as to our own bona fides and standing. We desire to command the utmost confidence of all subscribers and to retain same along with their friendship for all time; you add riches without effort and increase our brain and labor; you increase your rr without effort and increase our power to make you still richer. In ordinary everyday experience a man's expenses nearly equal his income and he has little chance to make a turn for the betterment of his condition. This is anyone's opportunity; you can invest Ten Dollars or One Thousand Dollars on the same basis as one who invests Ten Thousand Dollars. You cannot afford to neglect your opportunities and this is a chance to get in on the ground floor and reap the profits of substantial, quick money making enterprises. Your money need not be tied up for a long time; we know that one of the Companies at least, will pay handsome dividends this year. It is an easy matter to become rich; just watch for the opportunity and take advantage of it. This is your opportunity; will you grasp it?

Write immediately for prospectuses, reports and full details.

The Cracker Jack as an Investment

APPEALS TO THE CONSERVATIVE

THE CRACKER JACK group of mining claims consists of 120 acres of property in the Cracker Creek district, Baker county, Eastern Oregon. This group of claims contains the extension of the Cracker-Oregon veins on the south; a split from the E. & E. on the southwest and parallel values of the North Pole mine on the west.

The trend of values in the Mother Lode system of this district is NORTHWARD. It starts in the Golconda and continues through the Columbia, E. & E., Cracker, Oregon, and North Pole, increasing in value up to and into the Cracker Jack claims.

In four months the Cracker-Oregon stock advanced from 25 cents to $1.00—its par value. In four months the Golconda stock increased more than 100% over its original selling price.

The Cracker Jack contains the valves. They can be traced; the veins out crop and the focus of the richest fissures is in the Cracker Jack property.

The Cracker Jack is not a mine; neither is it merely a prospect. It has been proved. Next April a force of men will be put to work and development will be continued day and night.

This is a tunnel proposition. It can be opened by a series of tunnels and shafts, and the free milling ore can be treated on the property. As an investment, the Cracker Jack is secure. It has vast ore bodies as its security; it has a conservative management as further security.

The policy of the Cracker Jack Consolidated Gold Mines Company is to open this rich property, build a mill and PAY DIVIDENDS. This is an investment for conservative men. It is not sensational. The mine will produce ore just as rich in value as that brought out by any of the surrounding properties.

The stock will advance in price and it will earn.

This is a proposition that commends itself to investigation of the most searching kind. Look into it, learn something of its directorate; find out if these claims are well founded. In other words, write for a prospectus to

Price Concessions

In some of the Standard Issues the past week, to some extent due to crippled wire service, offer excellent opportunity at present for purchasing some of the gilt edged stocks. Pools in many stocks are again accumulating their specialties, preparatory to a spring bull campaign. To buy these special issues will be to make good profits. We will be pleased to enumerate the stocks we deem the most profitable to buy at present, giving our reasons for our opinions. We will also purchase and carry any of the active issues dealt in upon the exchanges, stocks in multiples of 10 shares and upwards, upon a minimum margin of $5.00 per share; cereals in multiples of 1000 bushels upwards upon a minimum margin of 3 cents per bushel, cotton in multiples of 100 bales and upwards, upon a minimum margin of $1.00 per bale. All these three staples are especially active at present, consequently attractive to quick traders.

STOCK MARKETS

Preparing for an Upward Jump in T.C.I Stock

New York, Feb. 24.—T. C. I. stock has been very strong recently. It looks as if with any kind of market the stock would bound upwards merrily. There are good and sufficient reasons for its doing so. Improvement of most marked character is reported by the company for the year ending December 31st last. It proved to be the most productive year for a long time, not excluding even 1900, when the company paid 6 per cent. upon its common stock. Net revenues for mining and manufacturing, including a small amount of outside income, aggregated for 1902 $2,649,053 as against $1,646,105 for 1901. This was a year's net gain of almost one million dollars, the increase over 1900 in net amounts to $362,056. It is a matter of record how much higher the stock sold in the market both in 1900 and 1901 than it is now selling while it was earning much less net and gross. Cost of operation was decreased also while the company has accumulated new property out of earnings and not through additional capitalization. The Sheffield property which was unprofitable to the company has been disposed of for cash. The money is being used for the erection of new furnaces at Ensley, where both coal and ore are abundant and in close proximity the gas formerly wasted is now being utilized for making steam. This will further reduce cost of production. The company's iron mines on Red Mountain are being equipped throughout with compressors and hoists of most modern design, the former with power far beyond those now in use, and the latter with rope capacity for hoisting ore from a depth of 450 feet. With these improvements a reduction in the cost of mining limestone of 21 cents per ton has been accomplished, and a further reduction yet is expected. New crushers have been placed at nearly all of the company's iron mines on Red Mountain. The production of the steel mills have been materially increased last November. The company purchased a tract of ore land containing sufficient supply for many years to come. The company is in splendid shape. It shows at present ability to pay six per cent. upon its stock. It has sold as high as 126. A pool has existed in the stock for some time. They own stock costing them more than prices now ruling. It will be their own opportunity to advance the market.

INTERNATIONAL ELECTRIC MINING Co

185 SUMMER ST., - BOSTON, MASS.

A Dividend Payer for the Past Five Years.

12 PER CENT GUARANTEED

Capital Stock, $500,000. Par, $1.00, full paid and non-assessable

Over eight thousand tons of $50.00 ore mined and smelted from this group of mines.

A limited number of shares of the stock of this Company now offered at seventy-five cents per share. This price will shortly be increased to par. Stock registered by the International Trust Company, Boston, who is also the transfer agent.

This Company has a small capital stock.

The International Electric Mining Company owns seven mines and milling plant.

The Brooklyn and New York mines of this Company lie north of and join the Victor and the Hoodium—two rich mines that are now being worked by California parties. On the west lies the Electric Mining Company's mines. In these mines are millions of dollars' worth of rich ore in sight. On the south, adjoining the Berlin mine of this Company, is the Montazuma and Clipper. From the Montazuma over three million dollars has been taken within 30 feet of the grass roots.

This Company owns free and clear seven mines of twenty acres each, all containing rich ore, located in the Arabia and Trinity mining districts, Humboldt County, Nevada. The Company has worked these mines for the past five years, and is now driving a tunnel to cut out a rich ledge about 800 feet from the surface. The Arabia mining district, in which these mines are located, is a lively district—a great many men being employed there. The tunnel now being driven on the Brooklyn mine has about 350 feet already completed. When the tunnel cuts the main ledge, which has just been reached by the Victor tunnel about 600 feet, the Brooklyn will have about 800 feet stoping ground, which runs high in gold and silver, over $60.00 per ton.

The Company is offering for a short time a limited amount of stock for the enlargement of its plant and the working force at the mines and for the completion of the Brooklyn tunnel.

This Company has thousands of tons of rich ore in sight.

We are not making a lot of talk, because it is unnecessary. What the investor wants is dividends, which we have paid for the past five years. Now if you want a safe 12 per cent. investment, let us hear from you.

THE OLD COMSTOCK

A California mining paper has this to say: "Nevada, that grand old stamping ground of mushroom millionaires, who plucked enough wealth from her prolific fields to build mansions, banks, and big hotels in San Francisco, and palaces in Paris and London, is again astonishing the world by making more millionaires and by yielding millions in gold and silver from a new field which rivals the old Comstock lode in the days of its pristine splendor. Not only in Tonopah and Arabia districts, where within the past year nearly ten millions have been exposed, are operations active, but in every mining district in the Silver State are operations active, and Nevada will once more take her place among the big producers, the peer of any of them."

Dear Sir,—During the six months of October and November of this year I visited the mines of the International Electric Mining Company, situated in Arabia and Trinity mining districts, Humboldt County, Nevada. I found the country remarkably mineralized; in fact, the possibilities of the country as a mineral producing country are yet unknown. For years it certainly has produced well. The work now being done in the Arabia and Trinity districts establishes the fact that they are fine producers.

I also found that there is a great deal of interest being taken in these properties, which have produced a great deal of wealth the past quarter of a century.

FREE GOLD FOUND

in the 191 foot shaft of The Electric Spark Gold Mining Company's property is an absolute assurance of large dividends at no distant day; and those who buy now, and take advantage of this exceptional opportunity will make from 50 to 100 per cent. yearly on their investment.

There has never been a mining investment offered where the future value of the property could be more clearly shown than in this, or where the returns could be estimated more certainly or accurately.

It is simply a question of time and work. The risk has all been taken, and the investor today can look forward to future dividends with certainty and satisfaction. Incorporated as we are for only $200,000, par value $1.00, makes the stock all the more valuable, and located in the midst of some of the best mines in Gilpin County, Colorado, the smallest county in the State, which in 1902 produced $4,000,000.00, is another assurance of a big dividend payer.

By permission the Company refers to the Rocky Mountain National Bank, and the Weekly Register Call, of Central City, Colorado.

A limited amount of shares for sale at 20 cents per share. Remember this stock is fully paid and non-assessable; is all common and in a company organized expressly to operate this mine.

"THE FRIDAY MINE"

Located at Pearl, Willow Creek, Boise County, Idaho

About 28 Miles Northwest of Boise City

THE FRIDAY GOLD MINING CO. is a corporation duly organized under the laws of the State of Oregon, with head office at Sumpter, Oregon, owning and controlling "The Friday Mine." Capital Stock $1,000,000, divided into 1,000,000 shares. Par value $1.00 per share, fully paid and non-assessable, no personal liability. 200,000 shares have been set aside and placed in the treasury of the company to be sold for the purpose of equipping the "Friday Mine" with machinery. It is for this purpose we are offering you stock in this great mine. This plant will handle 50 tons of Friday ore every 24 hours. The general average of the Friday ore is over $30 per ton. The ore as it was shipped to the smelters at Salt Lake averaging over $55.00 per ton. The Friday is highly developed, great quantities of ore blocked out and in sight ready for the mill. As soon as the mill is completed the Friday Mine will again pay dividends.

Large ore bodies which will net to the company $30,000 for the first few months are now blocked out ready for the mill. As soon as the mill is completed you will draw your regular monthly dividend. It is safe, certain and conservative.

We are not soliciting your money for the purpose of developing the mine, but only for the purpose of erecting a mill to work the ore bodies in the mine. The company is officered by men of well known business ability, mining experience and strict integrity.

Hon. Martin H. Jacobs, State Mining Inspector of mines for the State of Idaho says 'The Friday has a large amount of good ore in sight, and there is no question about its being a good paying property.'

Thunder Mountain!

is the richest gold producing camp in the United States, and also the largest. The Thunder Mountain district, in central Idaho, is twenty miles wide and forty miles long. In comparison with this we have Cripple Creek, four miles wide and seven miles long. In many of the Thunder Mountain mines ore has already been reached that carries ONE THOUSAND DOLLARS IN GOLD TO THE TON. All of the Thunder Mountain ore is free milling, which means that it can be treated by the cheapest extraction process known—the ordinary stamp mill. It can be both mined and milled at a cost not to exceed $2 a ton. The past years operations in the several working mines have opened up millions of tons of ore that will give a net profit of from $10 to $30 a ton, enabling the respective companies to pay dividends at a rate never before equalled. Such is the showing and the prospect of the

EAST DEWEY GOLD MINING CO.

which unless all indications are at fault, will become the largest producer in the district. The EAST DEWEY mine, which it owns outright, is located directly on Thunder Mountain, just east of the famous "Dewey" mine, which already has $20,000,000 of ore in sight. The surface area of the East Dewey mine is one hundred and twenty acres—six full quartz claims. The company has also secured the big GOLDEN GATE mine, in the Big Creek section of the Thunder Mountain district—which has been so aptly termed "The Pot of Gold"—and is now developing the mine with all possible speed. For a distance of 9,000 feet, nearly two miles, the Golden Gate mines cover a mineralized ledge that is 900 feet wide, with an average height above the tunnel level of 500 feet, thus giving it the largest exposed tonnage of any mine in the west.

"If you would share in the enormous profits which these figures indicate and which these developments promise, invest your money in "East Dewey" Stock. It can be bought to-day for 10 Cents a Share. Its par value is $1.

If the East Dewey mines are what they appear to be, and there is absolutely no reason to doubt or question these indications, this stock will eventually be worth at least $10 a share, and to-day you can buy it for ten cents. PRICE ADVANCES TO FIFTEEN CENTS ON FEBRUARY 28th. 5% discount allowed for cash. Stock sold at flat price of 10 cents on deferred payments, 10% with application, and 10% monthly until paid. DASHES HERE AND THERE BY TIMES' REPORTERS

Apprentices Wanted

We want a good, smart boy, at The Times' Bindery, and also a smart boy to learn press work. Apply at the business office.

Wanted

Man of good address, to handle a new specialty in Peterborough, good seller and large commission. Apply to Mr. Cameron, Munro House, Saturday p.m.

Goes to the "Soo"

Word was received from the provincial committee of the Y.M.C.A. that Mr. H. A. Pearson of the Training school for Y.M.C.A officers at Toronto, had been appointed Secretary pro tem at Sault Ste. Marie. He left for the Soo last night.

Died of Pneumonia

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. John McFarlane, 12 Boliver street, will sympathize with them in the death of their darling little son, who passed away yesterday morning from pneumonia. The child was two years and four months old. The funeral will take place this afternoon at 2.30 o'clock.

Valuable Advice to Rheumatics

Eat meat sparingly, and take very little sugar. Avoid intoxicants, keep away from dampness, drink water abundantly, and always rely on Nerviline as a quick reliever of Rheumatic pains. Being five times stronger than ordinary remedies, Nerviline's power over pain is simply beyond belief. It cures also Sciatica, Lumbago, Neuralgia and all pain, whether internal or external. Large bottles, price 25c.

Dislocated His Leg

Ex-Alderman Dawson suffered a painful dislocation of one of his legs on Monday afternoon, as he was proceeding up the hill from Hunter st. bridge to Ashburnham. He was removed to his home where Dr. Bradd reduced the dislocation. Mr. Dawson's many friends will regret to learn of his mishap. He is most unfortunate, having but recovered from the effects of a fall that occurred some weeks ago.

A Worthy Example

The hotelkeepers of the Town of Wiarton have entered into a mutual agreement to observe strictly the law against Saturday night and Sunday selling, no exception to be made under any circumstances. If hotelkeepers everywhere had always been careful to live up to the requirements of the license law the demand for prohibition would not have become so strong as it is today. The example set by Wiarton might with profit be followed by Peterborough hotel men.

A Noble Institution

The quaint, white house at the corner of Stewart and Charlotte streets with its pretty lawn and stately trees is not the most imposing of our many institutions, and yet it is one of the noblest. It is the Children's Shelter. It is here the Children's Aid Society send the poor and forlorn waifs and strays which their officers find from week to week, and where they are cared for and taught in a manner they never knew before. It is truly a grand Christian employment and it is the duty of every right-minded person to uphold it. It is true the heathen have many claims upon us but too much attention cannot be given this matter of home mission work which is eminently Christian in its every undertaking and is firmly based on the principle of remembering the poor whom we have always with us.

—The joint installation of the officers of Mount Hebron and Hiawatha Encampments of the I.O.O.F. took place last night.

A NEW BAND

The T. A. S. Organizing a Large Brass Band

The announcement is made that St. Peter's Total Abstinence Society is to have a brass band of forty pieces. It is said that a first class teacher has been engaged, and the work of formation will soon begin.

Funds for the band have been coming in quite freely, and the required amount is now said to be in sight.

THE BAND CONCERT

Successful Entertainment by the Band in the Opera House Last Night

The concert given last night in the Opera House by the fine band of the 57th Regiment, was a splendid success. There was a large attendance and the high character of the music made the affair a most enjoyable one. Mr. Halpany, Peterborough's popular entertainer, gave a song, and was loudly encored. Altogether the concert was one of the best ever given by this band.

HARWOOD WINTER RACES

Under Auspices of the Harwood Turf Club on Thursday Next

Yesterday posters were issued from The Times' job rooms announcing the winter races under the auspices of the Harwood Turf Club, which are to be held on Rice Lake on Thursday next, March 5th.

There will be two races, best three out of five heats—the "Free for All," for a $30 purse, and "Green Race," for like amount. Purses are divided into $15, $10 and $5. Mr. P Clunan, town, will act as starter.

This will afford an excellent opportunity for an enjoyable drive, as the distance is only 15 miles from Peterborough.

WEDDED AT ST. PETER'S

Nuptials of Mr. James E. Wall and Miss Grace Gibson

On Monday at 8 p.m. a quiet wedding was solemnized in St. Peter's cathedral by Rev. Father O'Brien, when Miss Grace Gibson, daughter of Mr. John Gibson, No. 544 Park street, was married to Mr. James E. Wall, son of the late Edward Wall, Esq., of Ashburnham. Miss Maggie Traynor performed the duties of bridesmaid, while the groom was supported by his cousin, Mr. Will McAuliffe, of Harwood.

A dainty wedding dejeuner was served at the house of the bride's mother where the bridal party drove at the conclusion of the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Wall have a large circle of friends in town who tender their best wishes for success and happiness.

FOR THE HISTORICAL SOCIETY

An Old Fashioned Yoke for Oxen and an Ancient Document

Mr. Wm. White, of Ashburnham, left with The Times an old fashioned yoke used by the early pioneers of the county, in harnessing oxen to the plow. The yoke is still used in many parts but many of the younger citizens have never seen one. It is intended for the Historical Society Museum.

Another interesting document has been presented to the museum, being the original assessment roll of the Township of Smith for the year 1828. The documents consists of two sheets foolscap size, fastened together with wafers. The total of the assessment which is certified to by Thomas Stothart and Wm. Kelso, is £3,402, 8s., and there were registered 1 saw mill, 7 horses, "three years old and upwards," 76 oxen "four years old and upwards" and 62 milch cows.

THOSE SLIPPERY WALKS

A Remedy for Them Suggested by an Elder Alderman

During the past week or two the granolithic walks throughout the town have possessed a surface as slippery as a glarry sheet of ice, caused by an almost invisible covering of snow on the hard, smooth facing. Walking has been a precarious task, and many an unsuspecting citizen has found himself unceremoniously tumbled into an undignified position through his feet "slipping him up," reminding one of the fact that the unrighteous walk in slippery places; likewise the righteous.

The Times suggests a remedy, which if put into practice will afford temporary relief at least, and cause heaps of blessings to be showered upon his head. Our plan is to put two men to work on the walks, one with a sprinkling can and another with a pail of sand. As the water is sprinkled on the walks, the sand should be instantly scattered over them; the water freezing would hold the sand and present a rough, unslidable surface. We charge the Town Engineer nothing for this information.

A BENSFORT WEDDING

Miss Ada Fair is United in Marriage to Mr. Thomas Thorn

A very pretty wedding was solemnized on Wednesday evening of last week at the residence of Mr. Robert Thorne, of Bensfort, when Miss Ada Fair and Mr. Thos. Thorn were united in the holy bonds of matrimony. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. W. McIntosh, of Centreville Presbyterian church in the presence of a large number of friends and relatives. The bride was attended during the ceremony by her sister Miss Minnie Fair and both were attired in handsome gowns of white organdie trimmed with satin and lace.

At the conclusion of the ceremony the guests partook of a very dainty wedding supper, after which a very pleasant evening was spent. The bride has been connected since childhood with the Presbyterian church at Centreville and was ever a most helpful worker. In her departure the choir loses a valued member. The presents received by the happy couple were many and handsome.

Mr. and Mrs. Thorne will reside in Otonabee, and it is the wish of their many friends that they may be attended by numberless blessings and abundant prosperity.

—Toronto Globe—The outbreak of scarlet fever in the neighborhood of Peterborough is still causing alarm. In Westwood, in Asphodel township, five deaths have occurred in eleven cases of scarlet fever. Diphtheria is prevalent in the township of Dummer.

DEATH OF MRS. BECK

One of Peterborough's Most Esteemed Citizens Passed Away Yesterday

We exceedingly regret to chronicle the death of Mrs. Beck, relict of Rev. J. H. Beck, late rector of Peterborough. The demise of Mrs. Beck was very unexpected, she having been in the best of health until yesterday when heart failure caused her death at about eleven o'clock. For over thirty years the deceased lady has resided in Peterborough and will always be remembered by her labors of love and charity in connection with St. John's Church.

The late Mrs. Beck was born in 1826, the daughter of Allan Brown, of Fermanagh, Ireland. Coming to Canada about the year 1840, she resided in Cobourg until the year 1860, when she was married to the late Rev. J. W. R Beck, who died on the 7th of December, 1889. The surviving children are Mrs. Arthur Stevenson and Mrs. R. M. Dennistoun.

The funeral will be held on Thursday afternoon at 2.45, from the residence of Mr. R. M. Dennistoun, 176 Water street, and proceed to St. John's Church, where funeral service will be performed and afterwards to Little Lake Cemetery.

LITTLE LOCAL LINES

—The Board of Health will meet tomorrow morning.

—The evangelistic services will conclude tomorrow evening in the George street church.

—The increased price of oats brought a great many farmers into town yesterday.

—Messrs. Robert Hicks & Co. had a heavy run on coal for the last few days. The quality and price did the trick.

—Mr. T. Rehill has stored away an enormous quantity of ice for his summer trade.

—The rich, the poor, the lame and even the blind can be seen daily in the crowd of bargain seekers at Cressman's.

—We want a good man to canvass for The Times, to whom we will pay a good salary, with permanent employment.

—There was a large number of skaters at the rink last night, notwithstanding other attractions.

—The Pancake social, sale of work and concert at St. Luke's church last night, was well attended, and proved a most enjoyable affair.

—The flag upon St. John's Church is flying at half-mast out of respect to the memory of the late Mrs. Beck.

—Ash Wednesday services will be held in St. John's Church at 11 a.m. and 8 p.m. today. At the latter service the first of a series of Lenten addresses will be given by Rev. E. Daniel, M.A., rector of Port Hope. His subject will be "The Growth and Development of Christian Life."

Provincial Appointments

The following Provincial appointments have been made:—A. Saunders of Watford, to be local registrar of the High Court, Clerk of the County Court and Registrar of the Surrogate Court for the County of Lambton; Amos Spotton, of Harriston, to be a notary public; George Bigelow of Cornwall, to be Clerk of the Third Division Court for the United Counties of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry; to be License Commissioners, William Cumming, Amos Marselis and Richard Gibbons, for Dundas, and G. A. Hunter, Alexander McIntyre and William Hallam for Sault Ste. Marie.

Hotel Changed Hands

The Mount Julian Hotel, so favorably known to Peterborough excursionists, has changed hands. Mr. Armstrong, after eight or nine years successful business, has sold out to Mr. Harry Mann, of Havelock, and Mr. Wm. Thompson, of Otonabee. These two gentlemen have entered into partnership in the hotel business, and there is no doubt that they will do a prosperous business at this popular summer resort. Mr. Armstrong has not as yet decided where his future home will be, but The Times wishes success, wherever it may be cast.

A Sunday School Story

The following was given to The Times for publication and its truth is vouched for by a citizen: A Sunday school teacher had two boys in her class, each of whom had saved up half a dollar through her advice. A Sabbath or two since she suggested to them that they try and double the amount for an Easter offering. The following Sabbath they reported. One boy said he had lost his half dollar. The other, to the delight of the teacher, said he had doubled his money. On further inquiry she found that the boys had flipped up to see which should have both half dollars.

Asthma Can be Cured

Thousands of testimonials conclusively prove that Asthma can be permanently cured by inhaling Catarrhozone, a vegetable antiseptic that destroys at once the germs causing the disease. Catarrhozone gives immediate relief to the distressing cough and suffocating sensations, makes breathing easy and regular and insures undisturbed sleep. Catarrhozone cures Asthma that doctors are unable even to relieve and can cure you. The Catarrhozone inhaler is made of hard rubber, fits into vest pocket, can be used at work, in church, in the street, in bed—any place—at any time. Two months' treatment (guaranteed), price $1.00; trial size 25c. Druggists, or N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

DOMINION WANTED ALASKAN BOUNDARY DEFINED

When Russia Sold Region--President Grant was Willing to Grant Request

Ottawa, Feb. 25.—Renewed enquiry revealed the fact that no correspondence has yet passed between the Dominion and Home Government as to the personnel of the American representation on the Alaskan boundary judiciary enquiry. The Canadian memo, it is learned, will simply call the attention of the British Government to the fact that the agreement calls not for arbitration, but for judicial enquiry, and that the American representatives are not properly qualified to sit in an important tribunal.

NO PRECEDENT.

So far as memory serves, the constitutional authorities whom your correspondent has consulted, there is no precedent for the withdrawal of one of the parties to a such an agreement by reason of the alleged fitness of the representatives of the other party. There does not seem to be any such desire in the present case.

SOME HISTORY.

An exceedingly interesting memo has been prepared to show that Canada has been pressing for a settlement of the Alaskan boundary ever since the purchase of the territory from Russia by the United States. On March 12, 1872, the Legislative Assembly of British Columbia adopted a resolution setting forth that "it will materially assist in maintaining peace, order and government within the said Province to have the now boundary line between Alaska and British Columbia properly laid down," and requesting the Dominion Government to take some action at an early day, to have the boundary line defined. The Government of Canada pressed on the Imperial Government the importance of the subject, and her Majesty's Minister at Washington was instructed to enquire whether the Government of the United States would be willing to agree to an appointment of a commission for this purpose.

A despatch from Sir Edward Thornton, then Her Majesty's Minister at Washington, to Earl Granville, dated Washington, 18th November, 1872 reads as follows: "In compliance with the instructions contained in your Lordship's despatch, No. 279, of the 30th ult., I enquired of Mr. Fish on the 11th inst., whether the United States Government would be willing to agree to an appointment of a commission for the purpose of defining the boundary line between Alaska and British Columbia. Mr. Fish replied that he was perfectly satisfied of the expediency of such a measure, but he feared that Congress might not be willing to grant the necessary funds. But when I saw Mr. Fish again on the 16th inst, he told me that he had talked over the matter with the President, who was so impressed with the advantage of having the boundary line laid down at once, that he had expressed himself as disposed to recommend to Congress in his next message at its opening, that he should be authorized to appoint a commission and the necessary assistance for the purpose on the part of the United States."

This promise was fulfilled by General Grant, who, in his message to Congress on the 2nd of December, 1872 recommended the appointment of a commission "to act jointly with one that may be appointed on the part of Great Britain, to determine the line between our territory of Alaska and the coterminous possessions of Britain." The question of expense alone stood in the way.

It will thus be seen that within five years after the United States Government purchased Alaska from Russia and now over 30 years ago, Canada was pressing the United States to join in a commission for the settlement of the boundary question. The only reason why it was not settled then was that the value of the territory did not warrant the expense of delimitation. This opinion was expressed by Mr. Fish himself.

RUSSIA WILL NOT SHED A DROP OF BLOOD

To Aid Macedonians if They Push Matters to a Crisis

St. Petersburg, Feb. 25.—It is officially announced that the Russian Government has instructed its representatives throughout the Balkans to give the widest possible publicity to the warning that while Russia is prepared to safeguard the interests of the Christians she "will not sacrifice a single drop of Russian blood nor the smallest portion of the heritage of the Russian people if the Slav States should attempt by revolution or force to change the existing state of affairs in the Balkan peninsula."

BOER COMMANDANT NOW IN OTTAWA

Dejongh Fraternizing With the Victorious Canadians

SURRENDERED TO A CANADIAN

And Will Now Eat Salt With Him at His Home in Pembroke

Ottawa, Feb. 25.—"Yes," I was proud to proclaim myself a Boer, but now I am equally proud to call myself a British subject." In the above words Mr. W. J. deJongh, of Krugersdorp, who is a visitor at Ottawa, announced his allegiance. He now stands ready to serve under the flag he once fought against. In the seventeenth century Mr. deJongh's ancestors, sturdy liberty-loving Huguenots, settled in South Africa. There he was born and educated, his profession being that of an advocate. A course at Cape Town normal college gave him a perfect command of English. A mild mannered young man with a boyish look on his clean shaven face, he is one of the last that would be taken for a fighter. Memory of numerous hawkish-browed "oujs" of fighting Boers would not tend to strengthen the conjecture that Mr. deJongh, slight of build and smooth of face, was one of their number. Scars on his forehead, chin and left hand, however, furnished ample proof that he was "amongst those present" when the British and Boers exchanged leaden courtesies. As a matter of fact he was a leader amongst his people, occupying the position of landdrost or military governor of Griqualand [illegible] districts west of Kimberley. He fought as commandant through the war, until forced to surrender in June 1900.

"Did you run across the Canadians?" he was asked in a chat at the Russell on Saturday. "Yes, I fought against them at Paardeberg, Magersfontein, Graspan, Belmont, and Houtwater. Of course we weren't in a position to single them out in action, but I must say that when we met them under a flag of truce we found them to be gentlemen and we admired them all the more because they fought bravely." "On May 29th, 1900," said Mr. deJongh, with a mental glance backward, "we engaged a detachment under Capt. Mackie at Faberspruit and fought for an hour and a half at a range of thirty yards."

"When did you surrender?" he was asked.

"I surrendered 21 days afterwards to Capt. Mackie, who followed me up with a small force. We were hemmed in and cut off from the main body; our transports had broken down, and we were in a bad shape in the matter of food supply, having had practically nothing but mutton for three months."

Discussing De Wet's wonderful success in evading capture Mr. deJongh said: "The jealousy of the British officers aided him in his movements. Each one was apparently anxious to have the individual honor of the Boer general's capture. They were unwilling to co-operate to the extent they should have done."

Discussing the peace topics the visitor said: "Hon. Joseph Chamberlain's visit to South Africa was a wise move. He's now on the spot and can see for himself just what the situation is. I do not think there will be any clash between Boers and British, but there will be friction amongst the Boers themselves for several years. The leaders Piet De Wet, Christian De Wet and Botha are at loggerheads, and each has his own supporters and sympathizers, the parties ranged like the leaders one against the other. However, while a heretofore independent people will feel the loss of their independence, I'm sure the Boers will prove loyal subjects.

Questioned on military formation, with special reference to the commando, as applicable to Canada, Mr. deJongh spoke in an interesting manner. "From what I've seen of Canada, with its scattered rural population, I think the commando would be just the thing," he remarked enthusiastically. "There's less militarism, less officialism about the commando than about the corresponding unit in the British army. In the former, when a man's led into action, he knows exactly what is expected of him and he takes his alloted position without a delay. I can get the 300 men in a commando into position in three minutes. It's different with a British column of 300 men. Section drill is the rule there, and the individual soldier cannot do anything until he's told to, and the officers have to receive instructions themselves before hand. This means a loss of time and time is a big consideration. Why, the very nature of the country out here seems to me," continued the visitor, "to point to the commando as the ideal military unit. Conditions here are very much as they were with us. What you want out here is fewer militayr maneuvers and more rifle clubs. Youths from the age of 15 should go in for it. Regular competitions should be arranged for and suitable prizes offered.

Discussing prospects in South Africa the visitor said: "The young man who leaves Canada to engage in any line of business or trade or agricultural pursuit in South Africa is giving up good prospects for very poor chances across seas."

"Mr. deJongh was reticent about his mission to Canada. It is understood, however, that he purposes looking up land in the Northwest for a number of well-to-do countrymen. On Saturday, in company with Mr. Thomas Mackie, M.P., he called on Hon. Clifford Sifton. In Pembroke for a week. It is his intention to proceed to the Northwest in the spring.

IN ONE YEAR

Magnets That are Attracting Capital—Western Canada Has Easy Access to Every Every Continent—on the Globe.

Made $2,007.85 in one year from 160 acres, besides paying for the farm and its running expenses! This is the report of one farmer who has gone into the wheat raising business in Western Canada. Such returns are the magnets that are attracting capital into the country at a rate that is astonishing Canada and that promises a development unparalleled in any agricultural country. The risks attending investment in the western prairies for wheat raising are at a minimum. The soil is practically inexhaustible in fertility, the climatic conditions furnish all requisites for perfect maturing of crops and make crop failure an impossibility. The railroads are keeping pace with the rapid increase in production and are making extensions into the newer districts. The Canadian wheat is of the best quality and commands first place in all markets. The Canadian wheat is of the best quality and commands first place in all markets. She can ship her products from two seaboards and has easy access to every continent on the globe. Wheat raising on a large scale is attended by less expense proportionately than on the small farm. The figures given above are not exceptional and indicate the possibilities in the case of extensive operations. Great aggregations of capital are going into the country for this purpose. Investments are regarded as safe as government bonds. One of the first companies to take advantage of the situation is the British-Canadian Wheat Raising Co., which represents 10,000 acres of the choicest wheat lands in Assiniboia, and is considering extensions. Its present holdings represent a wheat producing capacity of 300,000 bushels per year, and owing to the prolific nature of the western Canadian soil, this product can be duplicated each year for a century to come.

A PROMISING COAL DISCOVERY MADE

A Chicago Genius Claims to be Able to Make Anthracite Coal.

MAY GREATLY CHEAPEN COAL

The Idea is to Use Soft Coal Dust—The Discoverer Has Been Successful in Other Things

Chicago, Feb. 25.—J. M. Hirsch, a chemist of this city, claims to have invented a process for making anthracite coal cheap from soft coal.

In ordinary bituminous coal the volatile matter amounts from 30 to 40 per cent. When this volatile matter is reduced to 15 or 20 per cent, it becomes semi-bituminous or semi-anthracite coal. When the volatile matter is reduced to 5 or 10 per cent. it is anthracite coal, averaging 82.4 per cent. of fixed carbon like the Lehigh Valley coal.

Hirsch says that the process consists in the manufacture of hard coal briquettes from soft coal dust, with certain additions. The slack coal used in this process brings ordinarily 90 cents to $1.15 per ton in Chicago. Half a dollar covers all additional expenses so that the coal can be produced for less than $2. Anthracite costs ordinarily in Chicago about $6, so that Hirsch claims he could sell his briquettes at $4 or $5 and make 100 percent. profit.

A company owning extensive soft coal fields, about 50,000 acres after having made numerous tests of the product described, expects to exploit the invention, its coal fields guaranteeing a reliable, ample supply of coal dust.

Hirsch is a noted and successful inventor. He invented and introduced in his country during the civil war, when sugar was 11 cents a pound, his method of manufacturing sugar sirup (glucose) from corn. To-day a trust of more than $100,000,000 of capital is using his process. He also introduced the first process of making water white kerosene in one distillation from petroleum, which has become the standard process of today and has not yet been improved upon. He introduced the application of petroleum in tanning and the utilization of all the by-products; also a process for producing white granulated sugar from the beet or cane without the use of expensive bone black.

THE CLOSING SERVICE

The Evangelistic Meetings Concluded Last Night

CHURCH CROWDED TO DOORS

Rev. Mr. Turk Delivers the Parting Sermon—A Powerful Sermon

The concluding meeting in connection with the evangelistic services took place last night in the George street church, which was filled to overflowing.

The Rev. Mr. Turk preached, what was, in all probability his last sermon in the George street church.

The service began early with hearty singing by the choir and congregation and by a tender earnest introduction by that inimitable and eloquent pleader, the Rev. Mr. Kerby.

The Rev. Mr. Crossley was on the platform along with the resident ministers of the town.

By special urgent request the evangelists sang the "Holy City," in their usual touching style.

Before the sermon began the Rev. Mr. Kerby took occasion to thank all the people of Peterborough for their kindly welcome; the pastors for their hearty co-operation and sympathy; the choir for their faithfulness and the press, especially one (The Times) for its full and comprehensive reports of their sermons, and of the meetings, for sending their reporter to the evangelists' rooms and to the church in order to obtain correct information. The evangelists here sang "They Tell of a City," as a duet.

The Rev. Mr. Turk's took as his text the 5th chapt. of Daniel, 30th verse. "In that night was Belchazar, King of the Caldeans slain."

The preacher gave a beautiful descriptions of the city of Babylon and its hills and rivers, and of the gorgeous surroundings of its haughty king. He described the insults offered to the King of Kings by this autocrat at his great feast. His description of how he drank deeply of wine and in his drunken revelry he, sees the handwriting on the wall. The preacher here gave a grand picture of Daniel's interpretation of the mystic handwriting and the visiting on him of the sin of the king's father—Nebuchadnezzar and of his own sin, and of the downfall of his kingdom.

This brought him to the three thoughts expressed by this picture—

1st—God weighs man.
2nd—God warns man.
3rd—God judges man.

He showed how God weighed men. How many men were weighed, and found wanting; that very often the woman, instead of receiving the husband with kindness, the very reverse was the case, and very often drove the husband to the saloon. He showed how many a man, by his cruelty and neglect had broken the heart of the woman he promised to love and cherish.

God warns men. He warned Belchazar, but the great king heeded not. God warned his father, Nebuchadnezzar; led him to feed with the beasts of the field, but all warning to both this king and his unworthy son, went unheeded until God had to drive both from their thrones, and wrench their kingdom out of their hands.

The evangelists here showed how many, many warnings God was giving to the young men and women of Peterborough. He warned the young men not to tamper with strong drink. Believing that the use of liquor was on the increase, he cautioned the young women not to countenance the young men who used strong drink. Rev. Mr. Turk told very many instances where young men were led to ruin by the first drink. How easy to begin! How hard to stop.

The last warning of God will come, may come soon, may come late, but come it will.

God will judge man when we have done with all warnings, whether we have heeded them or not. The time is hastening when we shall all appear before the judgment seat of Christ. As the tree falleth so it must lie. While we are here, and have the opportunity to take warning, we need not care to exchange our positions with the angels of heaven. Here the evangelist almost excelled himself in his lucid explanation of the plan of salvation of the nobleness of such an act on the part of his hearers. He drew his short, powerful and comprehensive sermon to a close with a touching appeal to his hearers to listen to the warning of our God.

The Times has secured a promise from the Rev. Mr. Kerby that he will give a synopsis of his sermon on "The Call to Young Womanhood," for publication tomorrow morning. The Times was led to ask the rev. gentleman for this sermon by the entreaties of its readers, and we are sure will be exceedingly thankful to Rev. Mr. Kerby for writing as much as his memory will allow of this grand discourse.

The Times wishes to thank the evangelists for their courteous treatment, for their kindly mention of the Times in their rooms and in the church; and we hope that they may always be as welcome in the places they have yet to visit, as they were here in Peterborough; and that they may be as prosperous as their hearts can desire.

WEDDED AT FRASERVILLE

Mr. R.N. Wyatt, of Melita, Man., is Married to Miss Bessie Wood, of Fraserville

A very pretty wedding took place on Wednesday evening, February 18th, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. David Wood, Fraserville, when their only daughter, Miss Bessie, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. R. N. Wyatt, of Melita, Manitoba.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. T. P. Steel, of Hastings, assisted by Rev. N. D. Drew, in the presence of a large number of guests.

The bride, who was becomingly gowned in white silk organdie, and carried white carnations and ferns was assisted by Miss Ruby Pue, who was also attired in white silk organdie over blue and carried pink carnations and ferns.

Mr. Arthur Wood, brother of the bride, acted as best man.

A large number of beautiful presents were received by the bride, among them being a very fine Bell organ from her father.

A dainty wedding breakfast was served at the conclusion of the ceremony, after which a pleasant evening was spent.

Mr. and Mrs. Wyatt left on the 5 o'clock train on Thursday morning for their future home in Melita, Manitoba, where Mr. Wyatt has a very fine business as builder and contractor.

Mr. and Mrs. Wyatt are two of Cavan's most popular young people and it is the sincere wish of their many friends that their life in the West may be abundantly blessed.

MANAGED TO LIVE IN SACRED LHASSA

A Priest Spent Two Years Disguised in the Forbidden City

WHAT HE SAW IN THE CITY

The Successful Efforts to Keep Foreigners Out of the Sacred City

Victoria, Feb. 25.—After six years wandering in search of religion like Kims' red lama, who sought a hidden spring, a Japanese Buddhist priest has returned to his shrine at Kobe, and he has told Kobe newspapers of having penetrated into that forbidden capital of Tibet, Lhassa, where he remained disguised as a lama for two years seeking to study the Lamaistic doctrines.

It was in 1897 that the Japanese priest left Kobe and proceeded to Darjeeling, where he made a study of the Thibetan customs and language for two years before starting for the hidden country of the "roof of the world." On leaving Darjeeling the the priests cut off all communication with his friends and disappeared into the deserts, like one dead. He says he passed "fifty barriers" and terrible privitations were endured, but gives no details of the journey to Thibit other than he was twice turned back from the frontiers because of the suspicions of the guards.

Ultimately, however, he reached Lhassa, spent two years there and made several friends in the Tibetan capital, to whom he confided his secret. At length he was discovered, and on being warned that his life was in danger he fled through the deserts toward Darjeeling and went thence by way of India to Kobe where he is now.

The Japan Mail, which tells the story, gives no details of the return journey, other than many perils threatened him, and the hardships and suffering were almost insurmountable. The paper states that since his return he has learned that some of the friends who assisted him and gave him hospitality in Lhassa, have been executed and others have been banished.

The attempts of the Tibetan government to keep foreigners away from the sacred white city of Lhassa have for a century been entirely successful. When Henry Savage Landor had nearly reached the city, which is the "Holy of Holies" as the home of the Grand Lama, he was seized, tortured and barely escaped with his life. Mr. William Woodville Rockhill, laterly the American envoy in China, explored eastern Thibet, but he did not try to reach Lhassa.

A hundred and fifty years ago the lamas were not so fiercely exclusive and even after the expulsion of the Jesuit priests, about that time. It was not difficult for a foreigner observing the Buddhist religion to enter the country. An Englishman named Manning entered Lhassa in 1811 disguised as a lama, and in 1846 two French priests, Fathers Huc and Gabet, accomplished the same feat and have left a description of the enthronement of a new Grand Lama. Since then no European is known to have set foot within the gates of the city. Many native travellers Asiatics, however, have explored the city, and brought back sketches and even photographs of Lhassa and its Buddhist temples and monasteries.

EUROPEAN POWERS HAVE FIRM GRIP UPON THE SULTAN

No Loophole by Which He May Evade the Reforms in Macedonia

London, Feb. 25.—The correspondent of the Times in Paris says provision has been made in case of the Sultan's procrastination in carrying out the scheme of reform in Macedonia, and arrangements will probably be made with a view to ascertaining beyond doubt whether or not the administration improvements agreed upon are actually carried out. The possibility of the Sultan evading his promises is precluded, and he finds himself in the presence of a situation that leaves no alternative but compliance. All the great powers concerned in the Berlin treaty are insisting with equal earnestness upon better government in Macedonia.

The Times' Sofia correspondent says the Macedonian reform scheme may be regarded as embodying the maximum that the Sultan would accept and the minimum that the powers could propose without rendering the reforms altogether illusory. The main defect in the scheme is the absence of any arrangement to enable the powers to exercise even indirect control over the administration of the vilayets. The recommendation that the Ottoman Government should without delay find means of compelling Albions to respect the laws probably provoked hilarity in the Yildiz Kiosk.

Thursday—Continued fair.

MR. CHAMBERLAIN GIVES EMPIRE NEW MOTTO

A Bargain with the Irish Party--Members of Lords and Commons are Coming

London, Feb. 25.—Arrangements are being made for members of the Houses of Lords and Commons to visit Canada at the end of August. It is probable that two special steamers will be chartered. The plan is to arrive at Quebec and visit the various centres to the Pacific coast and back to Halifax. The project is endorsed and supported by the Earl of Aberdeen, Lord Strathcona, and Lord Lyveden, who are arranging for members of both Houses to join the party. Dr. Lunn, the world-travel organizer controls the details. The idea catches Imperial sentiment in view of Mr. Chamberlain's example in South Africa and the existing Canadian boom.

LAST NIGHT'S DIVISION.

The general opinion is that last night's division upon the vote of censure of the Secretary of War, for the conduct of the War Office, shows a tacit agreement between the Government and the Irish members for the introduction of the Irish Land Purchase Bill. Sixty Nationalists abstained and 20 Unionists, including Sir Gilbert Parker, voted against the Government. Seventy Conservatives obtained from the division. Mr. Beckett, M.P. for Whitby, the mover of the resolutions, said the War Office had made a mess and a muddle of things.

The Colonial Club will give a banquet to-night in honor of the Canadian members of the House of Commons Lieut-General Wimburn Laurie, M.P., and Mr. Bonar Law, M.P., will be present, but letters of regret have been received from Hon. Edward Blake, M.P., Mr. O D Ross, M.P., Sir Gilbert Parker, M.., and Mr George M Brown M.P. Among those who have promised to attend are Mr. W. M. Macpherson, president of the Molsons Bank of Montreal, and Mr. William Power, M.P., of Quebec.

PRAISE FOR CANADIANS.

Before the War Commission yesterday General Stopford, who was Military Secretary to Sir Redvers Buller, in Natal, praised the intelligence and capacity of the men of Strathcona's Horse. He considered that the English soldiers lacked individuality.

THE STEAMSHIP DEAL.

The fourteen Beaver line steamers sold to the Canadian Pacific Railway Company were insured at Lloyds for £1,200,000, so that it is probable the price paid by the Canadian Pacific approached a million and a half sterling.

A CONSUL NEEDED.

Judge Prowse, of St. John's, Newfoundland, writes to the Daily Mail today saying that there is a wholesale smuggling in Canada and Newfoundland from St. Pierre, Miquelon. The French should, he urges, be compelled to permit the appointment of a British consul at St. Pierre.

A JAPANESE FREEMASON

Viscount Hayashi, the Japanese Ambassador, was yesterday iniated as a member of the British Empire Lodge of Freemasons. He is the first Japanese Freemason and said that as Japan was proud to be allied to the British Empire, he was proud of being a brother of British Masons.

THE EMPIRE'S MOTTO.

Mr. Chamberlain sailed from Cape Town for home today. His last words yesterday were: "All the divergent races making up the British Empire must have as their motto: "One life, one flag, one fleet and one Empire." The Colonial Secretary is due at Southampton on March 13.

CHAMBERLAIN'S GREAT SPEECH ON BRITAIN AND COLONISTS

Colonies Must Share in the Glory and Expense.

THE EXAMPLE TO BE MAINTAINED

Britain Never So Great as She is To-Day.

London, Feb. 25.—In his speech at Kimberley, Mr. Chamberlain referring to the attitude of the Mother Country during the war, said that a minority of the pessimists had prophesied that the nation would be sick of the war when it had to pay the bill. This prediction was false. The nation, on the contrary, had granted more and more. The Mother Country in this instance had nobly sustained her claims to the headship of the British race. With an Empire stretching from pole to pole, and covering a large portion of the earth's surface, the demands upon her were ever increasing, so that the gates of the Temple of Janus were never shut. The motherland alone could not much longer sustain the burden, and therefore called her children from the four corners of the world to help her to maintain what in the past she had maintained by her sole efforts.

NOT TO BE WEIGHED IN BALANCES.

"You," said Mr. Chamberlain, "are invited to share the privileges and glories of the Empire which is yours as well as ours, and was made by your forefathers as well as ours; and you are also asked to share the burdens of the Empire. If I have ever been in any doubt as to what answer you would give it has been removed by my experiences since I have been in South Africa. There is a small minority in the United Kingdom and elsewhere which is apt in great questions of policy to haggle about the cost. A conception of the empire will be gained if treated in a huckstering spirit. (Loud cheers. The Empire is a great and priceless possession which we cannot weigh in balances putting so much empire against so much gold. My opinion is that the people of the colonies will resent any imputation on their loyalty to this great ideal, and will feel no sacrifice too great to maintain their fundamental position. A Canadian statesman has said that the British are now one people, animated by one spirit, and that they shall in future stand shoulder to shoulder in support of their common rights. (Cheers.) That is the tone in which the matter should be treated. I call on all the colonies to sustain it to the end. If this be achieved I venture to predict that the British Empire, standing four-square to all the winds that blow, will carry down the distant ages those ideals of humanity, justice and freedom, on which they have been based."

SPEAKS WELL OF BOERS.

In his speech at the banquet at night Mr. Chamberlain said:

"A statesman must expect criticism and abuse, and he is never disappointed. (Laughter. South Africa is the grave for many reputations. I came in fear and trembling lest I should leave my political bones here; but I was guided by kindness throughout my trip, and I may yet avoid the pitfalls prepared for me. I do not want to paint too rosy a picture. I am well aware that such is the situation that there are still many difficulties to be overcome. There are still irreconcilables still disturbing agents who, if they had their way would make many more irreconcilables; but I venture to predict that, with the continuance of a policy of justice, coupled with sympathetic treatment of the feelings of those whom we have to govern, we may hope to see lasting peace. Long before it is anticipated the full concession of free institutions may be made to those who so recently were our bitter opponents. (Cheers. If the prediction comes true, what an achievement it will be for the British race! We have been accustomed for generations to control the destinies of many races and of different countries, and we have had unexampled success, and if we can now include under British brotherhood, under one flag, the Boer people and our own, we shall add strength to the nation. We shall gain as well as they, for we recognize in the Boer people qualities which every Briton must honor—qualities not altogether dissimilar to those on which we pride ourselves. The fusion of the races will add strength and power to the British Empire."

MUST SHARE BURDENS AND PRIVILEGES.

Referring to the danger that in the movement towards union and federation Cape Colony might be left out in the cold, Mr. Chamberlain said:

"To prevent such a disastrous consummation I ask all of you to co-operate. I beg of you who are engaged in commercial life to give a thought occasionally to the rest of South Africa and the Empire at large; not to live for yourselves alone. There is a certain danger in absorption in personal interest against which Mr. Rhodes's life was a continuous protest. You must bear in mind that we are above parochial and provincial patriotism, for patriotism in itself is worthy of a wider and nobler conception of Imperial life, which it behoves us all to cultivate. These times are critical and creative times. On what is done now the future of South Africa depends. Every one may contribute, according to his means and opportunity, to secure the greatness of the union. A new nation is now springing up and growing under our eyes to be a great free nation under the British flag. (Cheers. Do not forget the Empire. Do not forget the motherland that bore you and in your time of stress and difficulty came to your aid. She may yet need your support. She may prepared at all costs to give it. (Loud cheers. What an Empire it is for which we are all responsible! It is the greatest in extent that the world has ever known, with a population of nearly four hundred million inhabitants, which includes hundreds of different races, which embraces every climate, and which produces every necessary and luxury of life. (Cheers.) What a heritage! You are co-heirs with us in its privileges and glories. Are you going to be content to the sleeping partners? (Cries of 'No.') You must claim your share in all that the Empire represents; you must claim as an honor and a privilege your share in the burdens and obligations; you must join with us to do everything to maintain the union and confirm the strength, power and influence which I believe in the future you will find to be the greatest force in civilization and in the peace of the world."

CHILLED BEEF

To this question "What is chilled beef?" most people would probably reply, "Give us something hard," but a court at Sheffield, England, has just wrestled with that apparently easy question without any very definite result. Three defendants were accused of purveying frozen meat under the advertisement that it was prime chilled meat. Indirectly, the case was brought by leading butchers, who claimed that chilled beef was only a subterfuge for frozen beef. An expert testified at the trial that he had never seen "chilled, frozen beef," but he had sometimes seen chilled beef hard. Chilled beef, he said, is not beef that has been frozen once and then the frost gradually taken from it, nor is it beef in an intermediate state between frozen and ordinary beef. Asked how he could distinguish between frozen and chilled beef, he said that frozen beef would be quite hard, while chilled beef would cut fairly easy. The interesting point was brought out during the trial that chilled beef, so-called, came from America, and was rated equal to home-killed beef, while frozen beef, was shipped from New Zealand and other more distant points, and was much inferior. Chilled beef sold for more money, because it looked like English beef.

The good reputation of American beef in the English markets came out during the summing up of the case in which the defendants were charged with buying New Zealand frozen beef and, after thawing it out, representing it to be chilled, "a term generally used to designate American beef." The question of what chilled beef really is was not answered, the clearest definition being that it "came from America in a chilled room." The case was dismissed on a technicality, and the merits remain in dispute.

RADIUM

Radium, the new metal which has such surprising properties, that Lord Kelvin has said of it that it threatens to overthrow the law of the correlation of forces, is rare, and extremely difficult to procure. It is a constituent of pitchblende, which is found in many places, but only in a very small way. All that has so far been segregated has come from a mine in Cornwall. A ton of pitchblende carries about 15 1-2 grains of radium, and it is difficult to extract. This quantity, a gram by the metric scale, is at present estimated to be worth about $2,000, and a kilogram (2.2046 pounds) is theoretically worth somewhere in the neighborhood of $2,000,000. It has many curious and yet inexplicable properties, and also entails many dangers to those who handle it carelessly. Prof. William Crookes, in describing it recently, said: "Probably if half a kilogram were in a bottle on that table it would kill us all. It would almost certainly destroy our sight and burn our skins to such an extent that we could not survive. The smallest bit placed on one's arm would produce a blister which it would need months to heal." This would seem to indicate that it [illegible] Heat and actinic energy must make up a large part of its radiation. It also emits electrons with a velocity so great that, according to Prof. Crookes, "one gram is enough to lift the whole British fleet to the top of Ben Nevis; and I am not quite certain that we could throw in the French fleet as well." This is popular rather than scientific, but it warrants the conclusion that radium will always be a laboratory metal, and that efforts to recover it in large quantities will not meet with much commercial encouragement.

AN AMERICAN VIEW

The Minneapolis Tribune says: The remarkable emigration of Americans into Canada has started a strong movement from England in the same direction. One project has a capital of $5,000,000 and requires a concession of 2,000,000 acres of land. Whether this British movement is due to jealousy of the increase of American population, or to a belief that Americans know a good thing when they see it, it is mighty wholesome for Canada and North America generally. The more Anglo-Saxons we get in this country, the better for all of us. It is said, however, that this movement towards Canada is a great disappointment to the British Government at a time when it is trying in vain to turn emigration to South Africa.

TYPHOID AND WATER

The typhoid fever epidemic in Ithaca, N. Y., continues. The number of cases increases daily, and already a couple of dozen deaths testify to the virulence of the outbreak. In the city of Cleveland a similar epidemic is causing alarm, there being an increase of fity cases in one week. The Leader states that several hundred persons are suffering from this malady in that city, and recommends the boiling of all drinking water.

It is pleasing to report that in London at the present time, according to the testimony of medical men, there is not a case of typhoid. A short time ago, however, there were a dozen or more under treatment. Some cases that were noted last autumn were said to have been contracted at summer resorts, where the water, in many places, is under strong suspicion.

The comparative immunity of London from this form of disease, is doubtless due in part to the purity of the water supply, and in part also to the sound sanitary rules in force.

Still, would it not be well, in order to reassure the people, to have an analytical test made of the city water at the sources of supply, to determine whether any change for the worse has taken place in the last few years? It may seem to many to be as necessary to keep watch over the purity of the water sources as over the milk delivery.

THE PRETENDER CRUSHED

Sir Harry MacLean on the Moroccan Revolt

Tangier, Feb. 22—A despatch from Fez, dated February 16, and received here today, says General Sir Harry Maclean, commander of the Sultan of Morocco's bodyguard, in an interview describes the situation as satisfactory.

He considers that the power of the pretender, Bu Hamara, who, according to advices, is lying wounded near Tazza, has been completely crushed. The Moroccan War Minister, El Menebbi, is advancing at the head of a large force, punishing in turn the rebellious tribesmen, many of whom have never paid taxes even in the days of the grandfather of the present Sultan. The opportunity is now being taken to crush them into absolute submission and to obtain hostages for their good behavior.

Sir Harry denies that the revolt was [illegible] The general is convinced of the Sultan's sincerity in his aspiration for reform, and in his Majesty's determination to carry them out.

a desire to make things pleasant for everybody.

"In any case, I'm sure it's a comfort to think that your fortune will really do some good, as you have often expressed a wish that it should. It will relieve Sir Hugh from the burden of continuing to make an allowance to his cousin."

"I don't suppose he considered it a burden," said Norma, who was surprised herself at the patience she was showing. "In good families like his, people are not so sordid."

And with this parting shot, she went out of the room, before Robert could do more than open his little mouth for some ill-natured answer.

Norma could not rest. The uneasy thought had taken possession of her mind that Astley's delay in fulfilling his intention of calling was in some way connected with the visit of the mysterious woman who had called at his hotel, followed her and him, and then turned to dog his footsteps when he left her at her uncle's door.

After a few moments spent in pacing up and down her own room, she hastily put on a hat and cloak, and ran softly downstairs and out of the house. It was dark enough for her to escape easily, and although she found herself blushing at the notion that it was she who now seemed to be pursuing poor Astley, she still did not relax in her intention of going towards his hotel, hoping that she should meet him on the way.

But she did not: and when at last she got into the High street and found herself close to his hotel, her heart beat so fast and her breath came so quickly that she began to wonder whether people would notice her and wonder who she was.

With furtive eyes directed to the upper windows, she went backwards and forwards on the opposite side of the street until, ashamed of her own actions, she suddenly darted across the road and went quickly into the office.

"Is Mr. Darwen in?" she asked, with a tremor in her voice.

The manageress, recognising her, smiled, but raised her eyebrows in surprise.

"Dear me, ma'am, didn't you know? He's gone away," she said.

Norma did not wait for another word. She had a vague idea that something more was said to her, but she did not catch the sense of the words. With a throbbing heart full of agony she could not understand, with dim eyes and a singing in her ears, she got out somehow into the street, and instinctively turned towards home.

"Gone! Gone!"

The word rang in her ears and seemed to echo in her heart.

Surely it must be the unknown, mysterious woman who had taken him away! Wild thoughts flew through Norma's brain, fancies inconsistent with probability, with what she knew of Astley. Her whole being seemed to be absorbed in acute consternation; she felt that if this one staunch friend who had done so much for her had deserted her, she was desolate indeed.

When she had got out of the crowd and into the wide, open suburban roads with their rows of trim, detached villas and spruce front gardens, she slackened her steps a little, and tried to think. Why had he gone without a word? Selfishly as she felt she had treated him, it yet seemed to her incredible that he should choose to punish her like this, by going away without a sign.

That she would hear from him presently she knew; but the fact gave her small consolation. Every thought she had had during the last few days had been so entirely of Astley, that this sudden breaking off of the odd, pleasant, piquant relations between them was a grievous pang. Strange as it seemed, she could not help thinking that the tortures she was suffering must be something akin to that unknown passion of jealousy of which she had heard, but which she had never expected to feel.

Finding all attempts at connected thought vain, Norma crept back to her uncle's house and rang as softly as she could.

The servant who let her in had news for her at once.

"There's a letter for you, miss," she began. "I've taken it up to your room. And—"

Norma did not wait to hear more: she flew up the stairs, found the letter on the dressing-table and tore it open. She was so much excited that she turned out the gas instead of turning it up, and wasted precious minutes hunting for matches and relighting it.

The letter was evidently written in great haste, and was headed:

"Four o'clock.

"My Dear Norma—I'm afraid you will be awfully surprised when I don't turn up, but I have just had the most shocking news. My cousin Hugh has met with an accident in the hunting field, and they are in dread lest he should not live through the night. I'm off for Darwen Haigh at once. Poor Hugh! It has upset me so much that I don't quite know what I'm about, or what to say to you. You will make allowances. Poor old Hugh and I were always great pals, as you know, and I'm sick with fears of what news may meet me. Good-by. You will forgive me for not coming to-day when you hear what it is. I'll wire or write as soon as I get to the Haigh. Yours, A. D."

Norma sat down, trembling so much that the paper rustled and crackled in her hand. She felt for him with all her heart. Affectionate and kindly as he was, she knew how real the emotion was [illegible] simply worded letter, and she prayed that the news he met might be better than he expected. Prayed! Ay, and with a fervor which was personal, too.

And while she still sat shivering, she heard a voice outside her door, and her aunt came in.

Mrs. Bascot looked interested and rather agitated, and in her hand she held a telegram.

"This came while you were out, Norma," she said. "Is it—"

The girl had snatched it from her hand and torn it open. She read at a glance the few words it contained, and uttered a low cry.

"What! What is it! Speak, child, can't you speak?" cried Mrs. Bascot, as she tried in vain to get the paper out of her niece's hand.

"Dead!" said Norma, with shaking lips. "He's dead!"

"What! Your husband? Mr. Darwen?"

"No, no. His cousin—Sir Hugh," faltered Norma, in a hoarse whisper.

It was Robert's thin voice that piped out from the passage, where he had been, if not listening, at least hovering conveniently near. "Why, then he's Sir Astley now, and Norma's—Lady Darwen!"

PROPERTY OF THE COMPANY.

This Company has secured 10,000 acres of the choicest wheat lands in Assiniboia, Canada, having paid to the owners in addition to cash, 60,000 shares of its Capital Stock, for which the owners are completely equipping the property with all the necessary buildings, steam plows, steam threshers, drills, wagons, tools, fences, and everything necessary to operate the said 10,000 acres.

The Company's property will always be equipped with all the latest improved necessary machinery to produce wheat at the lowest cost. It is the intention of the Company to have its own elevator, of a capacity sufficient to store its entire production, thus enabling them to take advantage of the highest market prices from time to time. The market for wheat is unlimited.

The Company also has an option on 10,000 additional acres of the same character of wheat land as the 10,000 acres above mentioned, the property being located seven miles from the Canadian Pacific Railway, where large elevators are ready to receive the product.

This is an investment that will enchance in value as time goes by, not only from the large production of wheat, but the increased value of the Company's lands from year to year.

DIVIDENDS

Dividends of 15 per cent. per year, it is estimated, can be paid semi-annually, December 1st and June 1st of each year. Outside of the amount paid in dividends the surplus earnings will be accumulated, and will either be divided among the shareholders as extra dividends, or used to purchase new wheat territory; or be otherwise employed as may be hereafter determined.

Send for the Illustrated Prospectus and Maps of the Company's property, which will be mailed Free on Request.

SUBSCRIPTION TERMS.

The full amount of $5.00 per share must accompany the order. The right is reserved to allot a smaller number of shares than the amount subscribed for, in which event the balance of the money will be returned with the shares allotted.

Application will be made for a settlement of these shares on the London, Montreal and Toronto Stock Exchanges in due course.

ENTIRELY OUT OF THE ORDINARY
Yet one of the ways that
LEAD TO FORTUNE

Why not make a small investment in oil lands right ahead of good producing wells, some having wells producing oil on adjoining farms? The oil now brings $1.50 per barrel, bought by the Standard Oil Co., without any transportation charges, and is bound to go higher; a few hundred dollars often invested in property of this kind yields thousands [illegible]. I personally know of parties who made over $100,000 in 60 days time on an investment of this kind; also have wells yielding from 10 to 200 barrels a day. Parties desiring to organize a company will do well to investigate this opportunity, getting thereby the advantage of years of experience, and if you don't want to drill the wells wait until the wells drilling close to you have come in and reap the benefit of their outlay. The oil business conducted on business principles, with honest [illegible], is bound to succeed. You do not have to look farther than the Standard Oil Co. to see what honest [illegible] founded on facts will produce, they have drawn very heavily on stocks the past three years and there is not enough of this grade of oil now above ground to run the country for more than two years, so you can readily see the profits that will be realized by starting now and obtaining the big price the Standard Oil Co. will be compelled to pay for crude oil to supply the demands of the country. An Opportunity

We are offering for public subscription a limited amount of stock of exceptional merit affording an unusual opportunity for a very profitable investment. We desire to be conservative in our representations, but do not hesitate to state that the stocks of the properties we are representing are absolutely certain to rapidly increase in value, and the fortunate purchasers of the stock at the present prices will have more than reason to congratulate themselves for grasping this opportunity.

Success lies in being alive to that which is going on around you, and they who "grasp the skirts of happy chance can breast the blows of circumstance."

We have the disposition of a certain amount of treasury stock in four corporations. We have thoroughly investigated the present value of the properties owned by the Companies, and have full cognition of the immense profits that are awaiting only the further development and equipment of the properties.

We are offering an equal number of shares in each of the four corporations at a price that makes the combined issue a most attractive feature, giving also to the purchaser an unusual safe guard on his or her investment; in other words, you are not placing all your eggs in one basket. Or if you prefer you can purchase separately the stocks we offer.

As the money received from the sale of the stock is strictly for the purpose of equipping the properties with the necessary machinery, etc., the time will not be long before handsome dividends are available. We are not asking your subscriptions to pay for the properties; they are already owned by the Companies, and there are no outstanding obligations.

This preliminary notice is to advise the public in general that an opportunity now presents itself for a safe investment of unusual character, embodying also speculative possibilities sufficiently great to make even a small investor a competency within a few years.

You can invest in any amount from Ten Dollars up, and, if so desired, you can have the privilege o paying in installments the amount of stock paid for from time to time being non-forfeitable in the event of your ceasing payments, thus relieving those of small or uncertain income from possibility of loss, should they for any reason become unable to continue payments.

Our business is to aid responsible Companies in the disposal of their treasury stock for the thorough equipment of their properties; we do not and will not handle indiscriminate mining or other stocks under any circumstances. We make a thorough personal examination and investigation as to the merits and possibilities before undertaking to assist in financing any Corporation; the paramount issue with us is to give complete satisfaction and cause much success to our patrons.

We have furnished the publishers of The Times with an outlined description of the Companies we represent, and the names of the Directors of each Company whose stock we offer to their subscribers and friends. We have also furnished The Times with bank references as to our own bonafides and standing. We desire to command the utmost confidence of all subscribers and to retain same along with their friendship for all time; you add riches without effort and increase our brain and labor; you increase your [illegible] without effort and increase our power to make you still richer. In ordinary everyday experience a man's expenses nearly equal his income and he has little chance to make a turn for the betterment of his condition. This is anyone's opportunity; you can invest Ten Dollars or One Thousand Dollars on the same basis as one who invests Ten Thousand Dollars. You cannot afford to neglect your opportunities and this is a chance to get in on the ground floor and reap the profits of substantial, quick money making enterprises. Your money need not be tied up for a long time; we know that one of the Companies at least, will pay handsome dividends this year. It is an easy matter to become rich; just watch for the opportunity and take advantage of it. This is your opportunity; will you grasp it?

The Cracker Jack as an Investment

APPEALS TO THE CONSERVATIVE

THE CRACKER JACK group of mining claims consists of 120 acres of property in the Cracker Creek district, Baker county, Eastern Oregon. This group of claims contains the extension of the Cracker-Oregon veins on the south; a split from the E. & E. on the southwest and parallel values of the North Pole mine on the west.

The trend of values in the Mother Lode system of this district is NORTHWARD. It starts in the Golconda and continues through the Columbia, E. & E., Cracker, Oregon, and North Pole, increasing in value up to and into the Cracker Jack claims.

In four months the Cracker-Oregon stock advanced from 25 cents to $1.00—its par value. In four months the Golconda stock increased more than 100% over its original selling price.

The Cracker Jack contains the valves. They can be traced; the veins out crop and the focus of the richest fissures is in the Cracker Jack property.

The Cracker Jack is not a mine; neither is it merely a prospect. It has been proved. Next April a force of men will be put to work and development will be continued day and night.

This is a tunnel proposition. It can be opened by a series of tunnels and shafts, and the free milling ore can be treated on the property. As an investment, the Cracker Jack is secure. It has vast ore bodies as its security; it has a conservative management as further security.

The policy of the Cracker Jack Consolidated Gold Mines Company is to open this rich property, build a mill and PAY DIVIDENDS. This is an investment for conservative men. It is not sensational. The mine will produce ore just as rich in value as that brought out by any of the surrounding properties.

The stock will advance in price and it will earn.

This is a proposition that commends itself to investigation of the most searching kind. Look into it, learn something of its directorate; find out if these claims are well founded. In other words, write for a prospectus to

HOW WABASH WENT TO PITTSBURG.

New York, Feb. 25.—There are some Wall street tales worth telling, the scene is usually located directly within the precinct of Wall street. The story of Wabash entrance into Pittsburg is located right in the City of Iron and Steel. A short time ago the political powers and influence commanding the situation were given to understand that if Wabash was successful in securing entrance into Pittsburg, that certain amounts of the preferred stock could be bought below 47 and carried by certain people and, that it would be guaranteed that an opportunity to get out around 63 would be afforded. The plan pleased. It was arranged that the road get the right, and there was a mad rush for the different brokers' offices at Pittsburg to buy. The stock soon after was bid up to 63 as promised directly after the road secured the right to come into the city. Upon reaching that price stop orders were placed by the former buyers, ranging from a little below 53 down to 50, in order to insure the paper profits. The powers representing the interests of the road had kept their part of the contract, a speedy fall to 49 7-8 was then resultant, catching the several stops, and the market the following day then recovered to above 53, with the guaranteed buyers out of it. Wabash issues are going much higher. It is one of the improving properties of the New York Stock Exchange. The shrewd manipulators, after affording the opportunity for the essential elements (to make their certain profits, then swept the speculative chess board, gathering unto themselves again the shares. They would not have done so were the shares not going higher. The best kind of buying is going in these stocks, more in the preferred than the common. The road has succeeded in getting an entrance into Pittsburg. It will be worth a fortune to it. It holds more valuable and important freight contracts with the Carnegie Steel Company. They will become prolific of profit. Think for a moment that Pittsburg supplies nearly 20 per cent. of the freight of the Pennsylvania system, won't it prove valuable for Wabash. We should rather say so. Buy and hold both Wabash preferred and common stock.

Summary.—Copper and sugar were in good demand at improved prices, the former crossing [illegible] and the latter 128. Both will do better yet. There was good buying of the Peoples Gas. R. B. C. was better, while the prices for steel issues were slightly shaded. Wabash had a natural reaction after its sharp advance. It will however go higher yet, so it is a good purchase at the concessions. Grangers were distinctly strong in contradistinction to yesterday's heaviness, while tractions dropped, led by M. R. where special efforts to depress prices were in evidence. T. C. I. rose on spirited dealings, falling off somewhat in the last hour. The buying was excellent. Other stocks were steady without particular variation. San Francisco continued its aimless and wide fluctuations, falling off some three points. We cannot but view the situation bullishly. Money closed at 2 1-2. Sales 466,200.

FREE GOLD FOUND

in the 190 foot shaft of The Electric Spark Gold Mining Company's property is an absolute assurance of large dividends at no distant day; and those who buy now, and take advantage of this exceptional opportunity will make from 50 to 100 per cent. yearly on their investment.

There has never been a mining investment offered where the future value of the property could be more clearly shown than in this, or where the returns could be estimated more certainly or accurately.

It is simply a question of time and work. The risk has all been taken, and the investor today can look forward to future dividends with certainty and satisfaction. Incorporated as we are for only $200,000, par value $1.00, makes the stock all the more valuable, and located in the midst of some of the best mines in Gilpin County, Colorado, the smallest county in the State, which in 1902 produced $4,000,000.00, is another assurance of a big dividend payer.

By permission the Company refers to the Rocky Mountain National Bank, and the Weekly Register Call, of Central City, Colorado.

A limited amount of shares for sale at 20 cents per share. Remember this stock is fully paid and non-assessable; is all common and in a company organized expressly to operate this mine.

"THE FRIDAY MINE"

Located at Pearl, Willow Creek, Boise County, Idaho

About 28 Miles Northwest of Boise City

THE FRIDAY GOLD MINING CO. is a corporation duly organized under the laws of the State of Oregon, with head office at Sumpter, Oregon, owning and controlling "The Friday Mine." Capital Stock, $1,000,000, divided into 1,000,000 shares. Par value $1.00 per share, fully paid and non-assessable, no personal liability. 250,000 shares have been set aside and placed in the treasury of the Company to be sold for the purpose of equipping the "Friday Mine" with machinery. It is for this purpose we are offering you stock in this great mine. This plant will handle 60 tons of Friday ore every 24 hours. The general average of the Friday ore is over $30 per ton. The ore as it was shipped to the smelters at Salt Lake averaging over $65.00 per ton. The Friday is highly developed, great quantities of ore blocked out and in sight ready for the mill. As soon as the mill is completed the Friday Mine will again pay dividends.

Large ore bodies which will net to the company $50,000, for the first few months, are now blocked out ready for the mill. As soon as the mill is completed you will draw your regular monthly dividend. It is safe, certain and conservative.

We are not soliciting your money for the purpose of developing the mine, but only for the purpose of erecting a mill to work the ore bodies in the mine. The company is officered by men of well known business ability, mining experience and strict integrity.

Hon. Martin H. Jacobs, State Mining Inspector of mines, for the State of Idaho, says "The Friday has a large amount of good ore in sight, and there is no question about its being a good paying property."

Thunder Mountain!

is the richest gold producing camp in the United States, and also the largest. The Thunder Mountain district, in central Idaho, is twenty miles wide and forty miles long. In comparison with this we have Cripple Creek, four miles wide and seven miles long. In many of the Thunder Mountain mines ore has already been reached that carries ONE THOUSAND DOLLARS IN GOLD TO THE TON. All of the Thunder Mountain ore is free milling, which means that it can be treated by the cheapest extraction process known—the ordinary stamp mill. It can be both mined and milled at a cost not to exceed $2 a ton. The past years operations in the several working mines have opened up millions of tons of ore that will give a net profit of from $10 to $30 a ton, enabling the respective companies to pay dividends at a rate never before equalled. Such is the showing and the prospect of the

EAST DEWEY GOLD MINING CO.

which unless all indications are at fault, will become the largest producer in the district. The EAST DEWEY mine, which it owns outright, is located directly on Thunder Mountain, just east of the famous "Dewey" mine, which already has $20,000,000 of ore in sight. The surface area of the East Dewey mine is one hundred and twenty acres—six full quartz claims. The company has also secured the big GOLDEN GATE mine, in the Big Creek section of the Thunder Mountain district—which has been so aptly termed "The Pot of Gold"—and is now developing the mine with all possible speed. For a distance of 9,000 feet, nearly two miles, the Golden Gate mines cover a mineralized ledge that is 900 feet wide, with an average height above the tunnel level of 500 feet, thus giving it the largest exposed tonnage of any mine in the west.

If you would share in the enormous profits which these figures indicate and which these developments promise, invest your money in "East Dewey" Stock. It can be bought to-day for 10 Cents a Share. Its par value is $1.

If the East Dewey mines are what they appear to be, and there is absolutely no reason to doubt or question these indications, this stock will eventually be worth at least $10 a share, and to-day you can buy it for ten cents. PRICE ADVANCES TO FIFTEEN CENTS ON FEBRUARY 28th. 5% discount allowed for cash. Stock sold at flat price of 10 cents on deferred payments, 10% with application, and 10% monthly until paid. Full particulars, prospectus, etc., on request.

OBITUARY

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Dyell, of Otonabee, have the sympathy of a large number of friends and acquaintances owing to the death of their eldest son which occurred on Monday last. The little fellow, who was ill for only a few days, was a bright little fellow of five years. Death was due to scarlet fever. The rest of Mr. Dyell's children are suffering from the same dread disease.

Peterborough Man in Atlin

A letter received yesterday from Mr. J. T. Began, Atlin, B.C, states that his winter has been an unusually cold one in the Atlin district, the thermometer ranging from 30 to 60 degrees below zero. Mr. Began says that Captain John Martin has not been in the district for over two years, having sold out his interests there for a large sum.

Preparing for the Dog Days

T. A. Rebill must be going to keep the town cool this coming summer as he has stored a great amount of ice at his own yard near the C.P.R. station and in addition to that he has leased the ice house from the Dickson Company, formerly used by the Point St. Charles Ice Company, and last year by the Atlin Ice Company. He has a large number of men and teams at work and will be finished in a few days.

Stomach and Bowel Troubles

A promptly satisfactory cure for Cramps, Colic, Indigestion, Heartburn, Billiousness, Sick Stomach and Summer Complaint, is a few drops of Nerviline in sweetened water. Nerviline at once relieves pain and suffering, erradicates the cause of the trouble and cures permanently. Polson's Nerviline is the best general purpose remedy for internal pains known; it acts so quickly that no household should be without it. Buy a 25c. bottle of Nerviline to-day, it's all right. Hamilton's Pills cure Constipation.

Demonstration Day in Peterborough

A committee from the Peterborough Fire Brigade met a deputation from the Peterborough Turf Club Association on Tuesday, for the purpose of holding a monster demonstration in the Driving Park on the First of July. Mr. James Haggart was voted into the chair, while Mr. John Gibbs was appointed secretary. A committee was appointed to send out invitations to the fire brigades of the surrounding towns, asking them to take part in exhibitions of skill and fireworks and such other amusements as will be required to interest and excite a large gathering. A programme will be prepared as soon as possible.

A SMITH WEDDING

Nuptials of Miss Aggie Tully and Mr. Ed. Sanderson

A very pretty wedding was celebrated last evening at 6.30 p.m., at the residence of the bride's father, the late Andrew Tully, of Smith, when Miss Aggie Tully was united in marriage to Mr. Edward Sanderson, a prosperous farmer of the same township.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Sanderson are well known to the people of town, who, we are sure, join in wishing the newly married couple a happy and prosperous future.

The presents received by the bride were numerous, some of which were also very costly.

WEDDING BELLS

Nuptials of Miss Lottie Cameron, of Town and Mr. E. Parker Crossley of Boston

Yesterday morning a very pretty wedding was solemnized at the residence of Mrs. Duncan Cameron, 763 George street, when his daughter, Miss Lottie E., was united in marriage to Mr. E. Parker Crossley, of Boston, formerly of town.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. D.O. Crossley, father of the groom, assisted by Rev. J. P. Wilson, pastor of the George street Methodist church.

The bride was assisted by her sister, Miss Irene Cameron, while Mr. Bruce McFarlane acted as groomsman.

The happy young couple left for a short honeymoon trip to Belleville and other eastern points, after which they will reside in Boston.

HOW BROCKVILLE DOES IT

Exacts a Large Deposit in Money From All Outsiders

"The Peterborough Council ought to go to Brockville to learn how to deal with transient traders," remarked a merchant yesterday. He had been in Brockville on business and, being interested in the subject of transient traders at home, had made enquiries and found that an outsider desiring to open business there must first deposit with the town treasurer, as a guarantee of good faith, $250. This money the town retains for three years, when it is returned, if the merchant remains and he is still a ratepayer of the town.

This may keep away a sincere intending merchant, but for everyone lost that way it yields a double blessing, inasmuch as it keeps out fake merchants, who do incalculable harm to the merchants who pay taxes and help to keep the wheels of the municipal machinery in motion.

THE HOCKEY RINK COMPANY

Complaints Being Made Regarding the Recent Meeting

Complaints have reached The Times regarding the meeting of the Skating Rink Company, held on Monday night, at which a resolution was passed authorizing the directors to negotiate a loan of $5,000 on the property of the Company.

It is said that the proceedings were irregular and that a formal protest is likely to be entered. A standing vote was taken, which was declared carried by the chairman. It is said that this is illegal, and that a two-thirds vote of the actual stockholders present is necessary.

The chief causes of complaint seem to be that no financial statement was presented to the stockholders, and no necessity appears to exist for borrowing money, as it is said that more stock could easily be sold to cover any shortage that may exist.

It might be well for the directors to hold another meeting, and reconsider the whole matter.

THE TURF CLUB

A Magnificent Summer Meet to Take Place in August Next

The Peterborough Association have decided to hold their summer meet on the 5th and 6th of August next. The Napanee meet will be held in third week of the same month. The Belleville association hold theirs on the second week, and the Kingston meet will be held in the last week of Aug. A purse of $500 for each of the 2.50 and the 2.20 class will be given by the Peterborough Association. Entries close on the 15th of April. Two per cent. of the entrance money must be paid on the first of May, one per cent on June 1st and one per cent on the first day of July. All horses must be named on the last named date. There will be a great many other races, the class of which has not yet been given to the public. The Turf Club are asking the town to supply them with "lift lock" envelopes, as the invitations sent out will cover the country from Temiscaming to Kentucky and from Vancouver to old Newfoundland, thus advertising the town very largely. Mr. J. M Brooks, the President of the Club, and Mr. Arthur Rountree, the energetic Secretary, are evidently the right men in the right place.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

—Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Neild, of Kamloops, B.C. are in town visiting friends.

—Mr. J. A. Sutcliffe has been in Toronto for a few days on business.

—Mr. Henry Thompson, of the firm of Lee and Thompson spent yesterday in town.

—The old man Hurley attended the bankers' dance in Lindsay on Monday evening, and as usual provided excellent music for the occasion

—Mr. Walter John Kidd, of Dummer was in town yesterday and gave The Times a call. Mr. Kidd reports the roads as in good condition.

—The Rev. Mr. Crossley was in town yesterday, attending the wedding of his son. His many friends gave him a hearty welcome.

—The many friends of Miss Gussie Daly, eldest daughter of Mr. W. W. Daly, of Kingston, formerly of Peterborough, will exceedingly regret to learn that she is ill with typhoid fever, and her recovery is very doubtful.

LITTLE LOCAL LINES

—The T. A. S. is running a special train to Norwood on Friday night.

—The annual meeting of the Cordage Company will be held next Monday.

—The choir of St. Paul's Church will meet for practice this evening at Sowick. Every member is requested to be present.

A Present Duty.

It is a mistake to postpone the pleasures and recreations of life until one has done his hard work; a mistake which a great many frugal and otherwise sensible people make. There are hosts of men and women working with might and main for the purpose of enjoying life when they have laid a solid foundation of fortune under their feet. They are acting upon the belief that it is possible to get the hard work of life done, to press it into a few years, and then to begin to live. This is a misleading belief, says "Outlook." In the first place, the work of life is never done, and ought never to be done; and, in the second place, he who postpones indefinitely the hour when he will begin to enjoy life, postpones entirely the possibility of enjoying it. No man can work with might and main for twenty years, committing all his strength to his task and permitting himself to be entirely absorbed by it, without suffering atrophy or deadening of the faculties of enjoyment. At the end of twenty years he will find nothing left of life for him, so far as occupation is concerned, except the things he has been doing. He will have so fashioned himself that he has become only a hand or a tool to do a specific thing; he will have lost the capacity of turning from one occupation to another, of taking up one interest after another, of giving himself out freely on many sides. He who would enjoy nature cannot begin too early. The first acquaintance with the outward world ought to be made at the time one begins to talk, so that one fits his words to trees and flowers and birds and clouds just as soon as he sees them, and sees them just as soon as he is able to fit words to them. The boy who grows up with access to the woods and fields and knows the habits of birds, because he learns them in the leisure hours of childhood, will acquire a knowledge of nature which the mature man can never obtain. It is impossible to shut oneself up for twenty years and then step out of the room and enjoy the sky and the landscape. It is impossible to work with might and main for twenty years with the expectation that, at the end of that time, one will take up music, painting, sculpture, architecture, and find delight in them. Delight in these things comes with education, with early and intimate contact; and when one comes out of a business which he has made a prison for twenty years, he can no more see what art has to reveal to him than can a blind man.

The power of enjoyment must be educated by use just as truly as any other power; it withers and dies by disuse. If one is to enjoy life he must enjoy it from day to day; if he postpones enjoyment, he loses the power of securing it at the end. There come brief moments in life, swift crises when everything is put by for the doing of a piece of work, the performing of a specific task, the facing of a great peril; but these are only moments. The lives are few in which there are not opportunities of enjoyment as one goes along which will minister to one's working power and not subtract from it. He makes the best living who keeps himself fresh by keeping his interests varied; and he only can make a life who lives in every part of his nature. Enjoyment is as much a necessity as work; to find pleasure in life is as much a duty as to find profit; and the only man who lives a wholesome, normal, successful life is he who combines pleasure and work, toil and recreation, from day to day, from the beginning to the end. Pleasure is a duty which cannot be postponed.

Jewish and Christian Intolerance.

I have known Jews, and, doubtless, you have, who, despite education and so-called culture, were so narrow, so bigoted, that they practiced a spirit of aloofness; who, though willing to buy from or sell to the Christian, and to receive from or render professional service to the non-Jew, were unwilling to eat or drink with him, to worship with or cultivate a feeling of fellowship for a Christian neighbor.

I have known Christians, and so have you, who, likewise, despite education and so-called culture, were the creatures of such narrowness of spirit, such littleness of soul, that they would draw the line of fellowship at the non-Christian.

Jews might be good enough to have given them their Bible, their Saviour; good enough to have given them their moral code, and their religious spirit; good enough to do their shares in the world's great economic, industrial and commercial work; but not good enough for fellowship, whatever might be their moral, mental or social excellences.

What, think you, would happen if the Galilean rabbi, Jesus, were to come back to life and appear before them as the meek and humble Jew that he was? His Jewish name and face and lineage would cause them to bar against him the doors of their homes, their hotels, and their club-houses, despite the fact that they would continue in their churches to bow down, worship and adore him as God's only anointed.

God have pity on such Jews and on such Christians. God have mercy on such petty, narrow and misguided souls. Such as these surely need your sympathies and mine, despite the fact that their conduct carries with it its own punishment—the punishment of depriving themselves of the benefit and blessings which come from contact with good men and women, whatever their race, or creed, or belief. How small would such souls seem to the broad and tolerant Nazarene! How he would lay the lash on the back of Jews and Christians, whose arrogance would lead them to look upon themselves as better than their neighbors, no matter how great the virtues of such neighbors!—From "Jesus the Jew," by Harris Weinstock.

Proper Dress For a Groom.

One of the largest ready-made clothing houses in the city received not long ago from a remote place a letter, the substance of which was, "What is the proper dress for a groom in the afternoon?" The clerk who opened the mail, naturally enough, referred the enquiry to the livery department. The head of that branch in turn dictated a brief reply, something like this: "Bottle-green coat, fawn-colored trousers with top boots, silk hat with cockade. We can make prices as follows, et cetera." A week elapsed, and the big store received a plaintive little note: "I always knew it was expensive to get married; but can't you suggest something a little less elaborate?"

WAR STRENGTH OF OUR ARMY DO NOT KNOW MILITARY NEEDS

Canadians Naturally Apapted to War Instruments

LARGE CENTRAL CAMP

Lord Dundonald Has So Advised Minister of Militia

Ottawa, Feb. 26—The 26th annual meeting of the Dominion Artillery Association was held at 11 o'clock this morning in the Railway Committee room of the House of Commons, Col. W. H. Cotton, Quartermaster-General, president of the association, was in the chair.

His Excellency, in reply to the usual vote of thanks, expressed his pleasure in having been able to assist the association. He had not taken part in the expert discussions of the association, but he had been pleased to observe the growing interest in the study of artillery science.

A vote of thanks was moved to the Minister of Militia by Major Hendrie, of Hamilton, and Major Morrison, D.S.O., Ottawa. Without the grant from Parliament, they said, the work of the Association could not be carried on.

LORD DUNDONALD'S VIEWS.

Lieut.-Col. Costigan of Montreal, moved a resolution of welcome to Lord Dundonald, who, in reply, said that he was present at this first meeting largely as a listener. These meetings tended to produce a proper military spirit. He was one of those who believed in publicity, and the people should be told of the needs of the service in time, and an association of this kind, open and free, was the best means of informing them. He had never met a people more naturally adapted to the use of the mechanical instruments of war than the Canadians. He had recommended to the Minister what he thought the country needed, not one gun too much nor one gun too little. The garrison artillery needed arming with modern guns of long range, and the people should be so instructed. The instructional corps were lamentably short of officers. The two batteries at Kingston had only one subaltern.

OUR IGNORANCE.

The people did not know their military needs. He had lined up before him on Tuesday the Royal Military College Cadets, as fine a body of Britons as could be found anywhere. Of eighty students only three were down for permanent corps. Of the old students 144 are serving in the Imperial army, fifteen in the militia and fourteen in the permanent corps. This could be remedied only by money. Some future must be found for the student.

PUT ON WAR STRENGTH.

He announced that there are now on order twelve 4.7 guns, two 6-inch guns, and two 6-inch howitzers. Lord Dundonald announced that he had recommended that all establishments be on war strength and that the Minister, subject to details, had consented. He would like to see a large central camp where all army could work together, receiving mutual instructions. He hoped that would come. If the Deseronto camp was not found satisfactory, the wider scheme might be concluded.

The reports were adopted, and the usual votes of thanks were received.

Will Ask a Subsidy

Ottawa, Feb. 25—Mr. Drinkwater Secretary of the Canadian Pacific Railway, says that doubtless the company will seek a Government subsidy for its Atlantic steamship service, if it gets the mail contract.

CANADA'S APPEAL FOR FAIR PLAY

Our Protest Against Choice of American Members of the Alaskan Tribunal

Dignified Expression of Opinion Made at Ottawa—Adhere to Agreement

Ottawa, Feb. 24—"There is a fair public opinion in the United States if we can only get at it," said a gentleman today who has given many years to the study of international affairs of Canada, "and I think we on this side can make no mistake if we give dignified but emphatic expression of our opinion in the Alaskan boundary matter. There is also a fair section of the press over there which is not to be carried away necessarily by the always popular argument as to the justice of holding what you happen to have. In Great Britain also there must be fair-minded men who may be ready to see that Canada, in her relations with the United States has already made great sacrifices to the Imperial interests; that she is still ready to do so, but that a time might come, when she would be justified in something more than formal protest where she saw her undeniable rights assailed. We in Canada have, perhaps, better cause to remember Maine than the Americans have to "remember the Maine," in their war with Spain."

Such correspondence as may be passing between the Dominion and Home American representation on the judicial tribunal on the Alaska boundary, is, of course, entirely confidential, and speculation as to the result is plainly premature. But some such view as is outlined above seems to be the basis of the Canadian demand for a rigid adherence to the agreement for the appointment of an impartial tribunal.

On the other hand, it is argued that an insistence on these demands might tend only to make the American authorities more than ever set on forming a tribunal of which one-half the members at least would be determined to abate not a single point of the American contention. In that event, it might be hard to see how much farther in protest the Canadian authorities could properly go. For the present, at any rate, there seems to be no inclination at Ottawa to do anything to break off the negotiations. The matter is one of the greatest international importance and diplomatic delicacy, and it is exceedingly difficult to obtain anything like a definite pronouncement from anyone who is in a position to speak with authority.

PEOPLE ON THE SUN

According to a Well Known Indiana Astronomer's Claim

La Porte, Ind., Feb. 23—Alexander Young, of La Porte, an astronomer, yesterday announced that from observations made by him; he is confident that the sun's inhabited; that with his instruments he has seen on the sun's surface mountains with great and precipitous rocks which glow with prismatic colors, mingled with the greenness of a perenial vegetation and with a floral radiance more beautiful than on earth.

Besides these mountains he says he saw valleys and plains where people live.

He says the solar spectrum is a division of the component parts of the electric current proceeding from the sun after it enters the confines of the earth's atmosphere, upon which is electrographed the image of the solar fields of color and which spread over the vast surface of the sun.

BALFOUR SAVED FROM DEFEAT

Vote of Non-Confidence in Brodrick Rejected

The Irish Party Did Not Vote—Winston Churchill's Criticism and Mr. Balfour's Reply.

London, Feb. 26—The vote of censure on the Government over the [illegible] of Mr. St. John Brodrick, Secretary for War, ended last night in a division in which the Ministry had a majority of 116. This division revealed fewer defections in the Unionist ranks than had been expected. Lord Charles Beresford and several other Unionist members abstained from voting. Eighteen Unionist members including Winston Churchill and Sir Gilbert Parker, voted against the Government.

The Irish party walked out in a body when the division bells rang and did not vote. It is a curious circumstance that the amendment was rejected by precisely the same majority, 116, as Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman's amendment on the same subject two years ago, but on that occasion the Nationalists supported the Liberal leader. The Government's normal majority is 205.

WINSTON CHURCHILL'S VIEWS.

The debate was resumed in the afternoon by Mr. Winston Churchill, who declared that the whole army corps scheme was a "humbug and sham," and was only introduced with the object of militarizing England. He asked where the Government expected the three army corps intended for foreign corps to operate. It was not in South Africa, and such a force was not needed on the Indian frontier, and they certainly could not contemplate the three army corps operating in Canada, for the United States was "no more prepared to invade Canada was prepared to invade the United States." Mr. Churchill added, amid cheers: "And long may that salutary neglect continue."

In the course of the debate Mr. Asquith expressed the general feeling when he remarked that the debate was of greater significance than the division itself, and would be remembered long after the army corps had vanished into thin air.

THE PREMIER'S DEFENCE.

Premier Balfour, in winding up the debate for the Government, complimented Mr. Asquith on going to the heart of the question, namely, whether the army was too large and costly for the Empire's needs. Of course, he said, the fleet stood first; but there were limits to the uses of the fleet. It was impossible to bring a war to an end with a fleet, which could not even strike a heavy blow at most enemies with which Great Britain might be engaged, without a strong attacking force of soldiers, and it would be folly to deprive the country of a means of offensive action in the event of an emergency. Mr. Balfour contended that three army corps were necessary for work outside the empire. They had to consider the defence of India. He regarded a war between Great Britain and Russia as in the highest degree improbable, but it was impossible to forget that the Indian frontier was the key of Great Britain's military position in the event of such a war, and, without being an alarmist, he wished to impress upon them that events moved rapidly in Central Asia. In conclusion Mr. Balfour claimed that the Government deserved well of the country. The Government did not trim its sails to popular favor, and if the House desired an army on a scale that the Government thought inadequate the House must look to another Government.

IRISH LEADER REDMOND IN CONCILIATORY MOOD

Hopes it is True That Government is Honest in Attempt at Settlement

London, Feb. 25—The Irish leader, John Redmond, in the House of Commons today, moved an amendment to the address in reply to the speech from the throne, on the subject of the Irish land question. Mr. Redmond's speech was quite conciliatory. He said the amendment was not intended as a hostile demonstration against the Government, but as a "friendly warning" to the Ministry that he and his friends believed the Government is engaged in framing a great measure of justice and appeasement for Ireland, which, in the words of the King's speech will "complete the abolition of the dual ownership of the land." All he, Mr. Redmond, wanted was an assurance from the Chief Secretary for Ireland, Mr. Wyndham, that the Government is engaged in an honest attempt to solve the problem on the lines suggested by the report of the recent land conference, which, the speaker added, offered an unexampled opportunity to end the agrarian troubles and conflict between classes in Ireland.

BOARD OF HEALTH

Met Yesterday Morning and Transacted Some Business

The Board of Health met yesterday morning, when the following members were present: Mr. R. Neill, chairman, Messrs. Wand, Eyres, A. Parker, G. Schneider, Mayor Roger, Dr. Bingham and Dr. McNulty. The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed.

A letter was read from Mr. J. A. Harper, asking on behalf of the Trades and Labor Council that a competent plumbing inspector be appointed.

Dr. Burnham moved, seconded by Mr. Eyres, that the Council be again requested to appoint an inspector of plumbing.—Carried.

A letter was read from Mr. W. F. Elliott, claiming that he was unlawfully quarantined. The communication was received.

A report from Dr. Bryce was read regarding the four samples of water sent him by Dr. Bingham. The sample of the water in well at [illegible] McDonnel st. was reported unfit for use, and the Board resolved to require the owner to have the well closed.

It was moved and seconded, that samples of water from a district as far south as the C.P.R. station, north to Brock st., west to Stewart st., and east to River be sent to Dr. Bryce for examination.—Carried.

It was moved and seconded, that after hearing the reports regarding the well at [illegible] London st., the owner be required to close it.—Carried.

The letter from Dr. Bingham, which was laid over from a previous meeting, asking that the Board recommend the Council to give him an increase of salary of $100, owing to much heavier duties which he has now to perform was received. After considerable discussion, it was moved and seconded that the Town Council be requested to grant Dr. Bingham an increase in salary of $100.—Carried.

The Mayor said he did not consider the condition of the town regarding contagious diseases was as serious as was considered by many. He cited a case where a small family had moved to another city, owing to the reports regarding the health situation in the town.

The Chief of Police said he thought as careful precautions were being taken in town as in any place in the province. It was his opinion that people from the surrounding country brought considerable disease of a contagious nature to town.

The Board then adjourned.

One Army Defeated

Caracas, Feb. 24—Gen Olivares, at the head of the Government troops from Barcelona, has defeated the rear guard of the revolutionist force, commanded by Gen. Caribe Vidal. The fight lasted ten hours.

Gen. Olivares is continuing his march on Caracas in order to take the revolutionist army under Gen. Rolando, which is near Caracas, between two fires. The revolutionists presented a sad spectacle, being almost naked, and practically without provisions.

WARSHIPS ARE HELD READY TO PUT DOWN HOLLAND RIOTS

Excitement Over Labor Troubles Has Reached the Fever Point

The Hague, Feb. 26—All classes of Dutch workers appear to have caught the strike fever. The Government is steadily strengthening its military position. Several forts have been supplied with additional men, warships and police vessels have been assembled in the Y, the arm of the Zuyder Zee, which now forms Amsterdam's harbor. These vessels, which are prepared for any emergency, carry a total force of 600 men and 30 guns. In many localities obstructions on the railway tracks have compelled the engine drivers to lose time.

In Amsterdam the bakers are demanding 50 per cent. increase in wages. Nearly every branch of labor is contemplating the advisability of a move in favor of more money and less work. Meanwhile the Government is preparing to legislate against strikes at whatever cost. Automobiles, carriages, and steamships will be utilized to prevent a complete breakdown of communication should the railway men go on strike.

Look For Climax this Week

London, Feb. 25—Serious anxiety as to the relations of capital and labor in Holland is felt by the leading Dutch residents in this city. The situation is expected to reach a climax this week when the Government brings forward its bill designed to prevent a repetition of the recent strike of the railway servants, with all its attendant inconveniences and danger. The leaders of the workingmen declare that the bill must not be permitted to pass, though the people be driven to use force to prevent its acceptance.

Lord Reay, formerly a member of the Netherlands Parliament and now prominently identified with the Dutch society in London, said today: "The socialistic tendencies of the laborers of Holland are regarded with much alarm by Dutch statesmen. Thirty years ago I aided in passing laws looking to the elevation and emancipation of Dutch workingmen, because I believed they could be trusted not to abuse their liberty or power. Now they are making demands that cannot be granted without general disaster, and backing those demands with threats of revolution. Happily the Government has cool, resourceful politicians, who are convinced that war is no solution for the present difficulty. They believe in arbitration, and will exhaust every pacific expedient before allowing the question to go to the arbitrament of violence."

Guelph Man Choked by Son

Guelph, Feb. 24—What may result in a case of murder occurred in this city last night, when Patsy Canfield, a laborer, returned home in a state of intoxication and choked his father so severely that death may result. The victim was removed to the hospital and the son was arrested. At the Police Court the prisoner was remanded for a week to await results. Canfield recently served a term in the Central Prison.

THE RESULT OF YESTERDAY'S BYE-ELECTIONS

One Conservative and One Liberal Elected--Hon E. J. Davis' Large Majority

The bye-elections held yesterday in Centre Bruce and North York resulted in one Conservative and one Liberal being returned.

In North York Hon. E. J. Davis, the Liberal candidate was elected by a splendid majority of 350 over his opponent, Mr. Lennox, who protested against Mr. Davis taking his seat in the House on account of bribery at the last general election.

The result of the election was not surprising, as it was generally conceded by large-minded men that his election was never in doubt and that the riding could ill afford to turn down such a worthy representative as Mr. Davis. On the other hand, the tactics used by Mr. Lennox, the Conservative candidate, were universally resented by the people of the riding while the campaign conducted by Mr. Davis is a notable one, and the proceedings were heartily endorsed by Liberal and Conservatives alike, while the campaign of his opponent took the form of a mud-slinging battle with no ground on which to carry out his arguments.

In Centre Bruce, the Conservative candidate, Mr. Clarke, defeated Dr Stuart, the Liberal candidate, by a majority of nearly 100. The result of these elections places the Government in practically the same position.

GERMANY AND SOUTH AMERICAN TROUBLE.

A New Plan to Secure Teutonic Control--The Kaiser as a Protector

A Postponed Rebellion—Macedonian Insurrection Now Deferred Until August

Paris, Feb. 26—The endeavors of non-official Germany have for years been steadily directed towards the Germanisation of Brazil, and a considerable amount of printed literature in circulation in a semi-private way, refers to the project in undiminished terms. An instructive specimen is a glowing description of the position and progress of the German element in Brazil by Herr Wiegand. It emphasizes the strong Germanizing capacity of the settlers, who, he says, absorb French, Alsatians, Swiss, Italians, and even in the second generation the hostile Polish element. The Hanseatic Colonization Society has issued ethnographic maps, representing the German element as predominant in certain coveted territories.

It is a somewhat paradoxical circumstance that the projected creation of a Latin-American alliance has been welcomed by Germans whose predominant feeling toward the Latin races is neither one of admiration nor sympathy. It seems to imply a warning to the United States of perilous possibilities of the future. What the German Empire might hesitate to undertake alone, remarks the correspondent, might possibly be feasible for it as the patron and the military and diplomatic adviser of a couple of important South American States, or of a Latin-American confederation. The history of German influence in Turkey shows that the role of protector can be highly profitable from a purely commercial and financial standpoint.

A POSTPONED REBELLION.

London, Feb. 26—A pessimistic feeling, says the Sofia correspondent of The Times, prevails in regard to the execution of the scheme for Macedonian reforms presented by Austria-Hungary and Russia. The Sultan's ready acceptance of the demands is regarded as ominous. The effect of the announcement of the reforms on the situation in Macedonia is uncertain. It is stated that the central organization, which the revolutionary leaders at Sofia declared to be ready for action, has resolved to postpone its insurrection until August. If this be true, says the correspondent, no trouble on a large scale need be anticipated in the spring.

RUSSIA AND THE FINNS.

London, Feb. 26—The St. Petersburg correspondent of The Times says that four native Governors of the Finnish provinces have been dismissed in consequence of their protest arising from the conscription law.

Governor Bobrikoff sent a circular to the Provincial Governors, complaining that revolutionary agitators caused failure of the conscription last year. The four Governors now dismissed replied that the law violated the fundamental laws of Finland, and was not obeyable by the Finns. The Governors requested that their memorandum be forwarded to the Czar. This was done with the result that all four have been dismissed and replaced by Russians.

LA SOUFFRIERE ACTIVE.

Point-a-Pitre, Guadelope, Feb 26—Signs of dangerous activity are being shown by La Souffriere, the only volcano on the island which is not extinct. Ashes have been thrown up but thus far these have been confined within the limits of the crater. A small quantity of blue mud has also issued from the geyser. All the trees at the thermal station on Plateau l'Echelle, have been destroyed. The alarming symptoms of activity began early in the present month, but an observer states that they have now somewhat abated. La Souffriere has been active for the last two hundred years. Within the last three years fumaroles have formed on the peak named l'Echelle, from which have poured sulphur and some steam. Since February new fumaroles have formed on both peaks. Professor Lacroix, Chief of the Scientific Commission at Martinique, has come here at the request of the Government, and is investigating the phenomena connected with the disturbance. It is generally believed that there is no immediate danger of an eruption.

SOCIALISM IN NEW ZEALAND.

London, Feb. 26—A despatch from Wellington, New Zealand, to The Times says that steps are being taken with a view to the formation of a colonial employers' federation, to watch the labor legislation in the colony in the general interest of the 4,000 employers concerned.

HEIRESS TO WED A TITLE

Miss Alice Thaw's Engagement to the Earl of Yarmouth is Announced

Washington, Feb. 26.—Mrs. William Thaw, the widow of a wealthy iron manufacturer, formerly of Pittsburg, but now residing in Washington, has announced the engagement of her daughter, Miss Alice Thaw, to the Earl of Yarmouth. No date has been set for the wedding. Miss Thaw is heiress to a million, and on the death of her mother will inherit another vast fortune. The young people met about three months ago.

ANSTRUTHER.

A very pleasant evening was spent last Monday, the 23rd of February, at the residence of Mr. Z. Tucker by the parents and pupils of No. 2 S. Section, Anstruther, where they met to present their popular teacher, Miss Laura King, with a beautiful album and pin tray and the following address, which was read by Miss Annie Tucker, the presents being handed to Miss King, by Miss Sybil Windsor:

Dear teacher,—Although you have only been with us a short time, we would like to say in a few simple and heartfelt words how much we have learned to love you for the great kindness you have always shown us, and to thank you for having so patiently borne with our waywardness and thoughtless actions which no doubt were trying to your patience. You have at all times been unremitting in the earnest performance of your duties and have tried to teach us useful lessons. We shall always remember you fondly, and as a token of our respect and affection we ask you to accept this little tribute as a small memento of our kind regards and best wishes for your future welfare.

Affectionately on behalf of the pupils of S. S. No. 2, Anstruther,—

PETERBOROUGH, FEB. 26, 1903.

THE REVIVAL

The evangelistic services which have just concluded in Peterborough, under the leadership of Messrs. Kerby and Turk, evangelists, and which had the co-operation of practically all the Protestant churches of Peterborough have been quite successful, and present evidence of having done much good. The attendance has been large and it has included many men who are not in the habit of giving much thought to religious contemplation. The public has usually had a prejudice against what has been known as revival meetings. The popular conception of them is that they are a mere temporary stirring of emotions and that they do good only for the time being. After they are gone people drift into their old ways and aspirations, and forget the fervent exhortations and earnest appeal. Doubtless there is much truth in this idea as it relates to the ordinary revivalising effort. Too often it is superficial. Those who have heard the evangelists during the past fifteen days, and who have come under their control are impressed with the fact that they have been waging an intelligent, well-planned and effective campaign against sin. Their sermons give a rational conception of the Infinite Father and the gentle, loving Redeemer, and the whole burden of their talk is the purpose to clean away unrighteousness and do away with those violations of law, moral and spiritual, which are at the basis of all human unhappiness. The talk of Messrs. Turk and Kerby have been such as to reach the intelligence, the hearts and the consciences of the keenest and most thoughtful men in the community, and the lessons they have presented most forcibly have undoubtedly done much good in leading strong men who were letting their selfish interest separate them from a consistent and happy life, back into the rational way of unselfishness and righteousness. It is too often the case that preachers present religion as if it were a thing exclusively of worship and special service. Both the gentlemen referred to present it from its most helpful and practical side. They showed that it is for actual life, and that without it life really lacks its necessary and just efficiency. They are most logical and forcible in showing how strong men are robbed of the most efficient use of their strength for the purpose which they have ultimately in mind in life by not putting themselves under the moral control of the influences of the church of Jesus Christ. Under the circumstances it may well be believed that the evangelists have done a vast amount of good in Peterborough during their brief stay here, and their visit is the occasion of congratulation to every good citizen on account of the influence it gives out in favor of a better civic conscience and morals.

To Set Her Free

(Copyrighted)

By Florence Warden.

Author of "The House in the Marsh," "A Prince of Darkness," etc.

A cold shiver ran down Norma's frame as she heard those words. Yes, instead of being the benefactress who was to bring to Astley the few hundreds a year which would make life easier to him, she was the incubus who had fastened upon him, spoilt his life, and tied him forever to a business partner in whom he had no interest but that of compassion, if not contempt!

As the galling, bitter thought came clearly into Norma's mind, her remorse, her horror, her humiliation, her despair, overwhelmed her and seemed to crush her to the earth.

CHAPTER VII.

"Come, come, my dear, there's no need for such grief as this," said Mrs. Bascot, as her niece, with a white face and trembling limbs, sank down upon a chair. "Of course, it's proper for you to express some sorrow at the death of one of your husband's relations; but, after all, you never saw Sir Hugh, and nobody would expect you to show more than conventional sympathy with the family."

Norma looked up without hearing enough to comprehend how widely different her thoughts were from those of her aunt. Mrs. Bascot, of course, could not understand why her niece should be so genuinely affected by an event which gave her title, position and money; after enduring a few more of these and similar reflections, Norma, suddenly perceiving that Robert had crept up to the open door of the room, and was looking in upon her and his mother with eyes full of interest and mild excitement, sprang to her feet, and, turning to her aunt, said:

"Leave me a little while, please. I want to think. Then I'll come downstairs and—and talk," she added, perceiving, as she fancied, an air of resistance in her aunt, who was longing to discuss the matter further.

So they left her, and Norma, after the wildest and most futile attempt to review her position and Astley's, and to come to some decision as to what course to pursue, went downstairs to receive more of those hateful veiled congratulations, and to listen to Robert's artless prattle about Darwen Haigh, and the pleasures in store for himself when Norma should invite him there on a visit.

She did not know whether to write to Astley or not: but when she got upstairs again she made half a dozen attempts at a letter which should express her contrition at the position in which she had placed her too generous and chivalrous friend; husband she dared not call him, even to herself.

Not one of those attempts, however, got further than the fire; and as she saw the last spoilt sheet of paper curl up, black and smoking, in the flames, Norma drew a long, shivering sigh, and resolved to wait events without giving a sign.

The next day passed without her hearing from Astley: but on the following morning she got another letter, and found herself blushing furiously as Robert's little eyes fixed themselves upon her. And she was surprised to find how fast her heart beat, and what a thrill she felt at the sight and the touch of the letter.

"My dear Norma," it began.

"I couldn't write last night after I had sent off the wire. This is a terrible business. In the midst of all the shock and distress there are so many things to see to, and such a lot of people to see, who all expect me to give directions about things I know nothing whatever about.

"And then there are the lawyers. I have seen three already; one of them, poor Hugh's London lawyer, is a nice old chap, who helps me to get through all I have to do and explains things. The others all want explaining to. Then the old servants are all dreadfully upset, and not unnaturally importunate as to their chances of staying on here, and the place has been a good deal neglected, as Hugh spent so much of his time away, yachting or shooting, or in London. The old house seems bare and cold and lonely; poor Hugh left the refurnishing of the place to be done by his bride after they were married.

"And now I come to the worst thing of all. Poor Lady Myfanwy Scorton, Lord Wyrendale's daughter, who was to have married Hugh in a few days, is half crazy. She fell fainting into my arms when she first heard the truth, and I couldn't console her, though I did my best. It was horribly touching altogether. She is one of the loveliest girls I have ever seen, as tall and fair and graceful as a lily, and so gentle and quiet in her manners, though I believe she rides to hounds as well as the best of the men, and never wants a lead over a fence. She was here again to-day, looking sweeter and sadder than ever; it cuts me to the heart to have to talk to her."

Norma put down the letter with a sudden sharp pang. Robert stared at her intently, with great interest.

J. J. KENNY,
Vice-President,

P. H. SIMS,
Secretary

We hereby certify that the books of the Company have been audited and the vouchers and securities relating thereto have been examined for the year ending 31st December, 1902, and the same are carefully kept, correct and properly set forth in the above statements.

JNO. M. MARTIN, F.C.A,
R. M. WALTON,
Auditors.

Toronto, Feb. 11th, 1903.

In moving the adoption of the Report, which was seconded by the Vice-President, the President said:

In presenting our Annual Report at the Shareholders' Meeting a year ago, I spoke of the more encouraging outlook in our business at that time as compared with the conditions that had prevailed during the preceding two or three years, and I ventured to give expression to the hope we then entertained that the advances in fire insurance rates which were being adopted by companies generally, as a result of the adverse experience on this continent during the preceding three years, would place the business on a footing that would yield a fair margin of profit to underwriters. The figures embraced in the report you have just heard read bear evidence that these expectations have so far at least as the business of this Company for the past year is concerned, been realized. The Report set forth the results of the year's transactions so clearly that I need not enlarge upon it to any extent; but I may point out that while the year's earnings, which include some $42,000 derived from interest on investments, may be regarded as satisfactory, the profit upon underwriting is a moderate one, being equal to about seven per cent. on the business transacted. This profit, I may say, has been realized entirely upon the business of the last six or eight months; the serious conflagrations at Waterbury, Conn., and Paterson, N.J., in February last—to which I referred at our last meeting—having made the loss ratio unduly heavy for the earlier months of the year. These heavy losses, affecting as they did most of the fire insurance companies doing business on this continent, and following closely upon similar disasters in the previous two years at Ottawa, Montreal and Jacksonville, Fla., emphasized the necessity for an advance in rates and brought about a general movement on the part of the Companies to secure this. The conditions of all branches of trade and of manufacturing industries, both in Canada and the United States, have fortunately been prosperous of late, and insurers generally recognized the fact that rates of premium which would afford a fair return upon insurance capital are a legitimate charge upon their business.

In regard to the items written off in Profit and Loss Account, I am sure the policy of placing our securities at their actual market value at the 31st December in each year, and making a liberal allowance to provide for any possible depreciation in the value of the Company's premises, will commend itself to Shareholders.

The substantial addition to the Reserve Fund of upwards of $90,000 must, I think, be regarded as the most satisfactory feature in the Report, from a Policyholder's point of view as well as from that of a Shareholder, even though this increase is to a certain extent brought about by keeping the dividend down to 6 per cent.—the rate paid in 1901. The profits of the business of the past year might have warranted a return to a somewhat higher rate, but the Directors feel that the strengthening of the Company's Reserves must be regarded as of primary importance.

I take this opportunity of expressing the appreciation of the Directors of the manner in which the Officers and Agents of the Company have performed their respective duties during the past year, and of saying that I feel that the general outlook is sufficiently encouraging to warrant our anticipating at least equally favorable results from the business on the lines on which it is now running, to those shown in the report under consideration, the adoption of which I have much pleasure in moving.

The following gentlemen were re-elected to serve as Directors during the ensuing year: Hon. Geo. A. Cox, J. J. Kenny, Augustus Myers, Thomas Long, John Hoskin, K.C., LL.D., Hon. S. C. Wood, Robert Jaffray, Lieut.-Col. H. M. Pellatt, E. W. Cox.

At a meeting of the Board, held subsequently, the Hon. Geo. A. Cox, was re-elected President, and Mr. J. J. Kenny, Vice-President.

Yet one of the ways that LEAD TO FORTUNE

Why not make a small investment in oil lands right ahead of good producing wells, some having wells producing oil on adjoining farms? The oil now brings $1.50 per barrel, bought by the Standard Oil Co., without any transportation charges, and is bound to go higher; a few hundred dollars [illegible] yields thousands of dollars profit. I personally know of parties who made over [illegible] in [illegible] days time on an investment of this kind; also have wells making from [illegible] to [illegible] barrels a day. Parties desiring to organize a company will do well to investigate this opportunity, getting thereby the advantage of years of experience, and if you don't want to drill the wells wait until the wells drilling close to you have come in and reap the benefit of the testing. The oil business conducted on business principles, with honest management, is bound to succeed. You do not have to look farther than the Standard Oil Co. to see what honest management [illegible] done, they have drawn very heavily on stocks the past three years and there is not enough of this grade of oil now above ground to run the country for more than two years, so you can readily see the profits that will be realized by starting now and obtaining the big price the Standard Oil Co. will be compelled to pay for crude oil to supply the demands of the country. An Opportunity

We are offering for public subscription a limited amount of stock of exceptional merit affording an unusual opportunity for a very profitable investment. We desire to be conservative in our representations, but do not hesitate to state that the stocks of the properties we are representing are absolutely certain to rapidly increase in value, and the fortunate purchasers of the stock at the present prices will have more than reason to congratulate themselves for grasping this opportunity.

Success lies in being alive to that which is going on around you, and they who "grasp the skirts of happy chance can breast the blows of circumstance."

We have the disposition of a certain amount of treasury stock in four corporations. We have thoroughly investigated the present value of the properties owned by the Companies, and have full cognition of the immense profits that are awaiting only the further development and equipment of the properties.

We are offering an equal number of shares in each of the four corporations at a price that makes the combined issue a most attractive feature, giving also to the purchaser an unusual safe guard on his or her investment; in other words, you are not placing all your eggs in one basket. Or if you prefer you can purchase separately the stocks we offer.

As the money received from the sale of the stock is strictly for the purpose of equipping the properties with the necessary machinery, etc., the time will not be long before handsome dividends are available. We are not asking your subscriptions to pay for the properties; they are already owned by the Companies, and there are no outstanding obligations.

This preliminary notice is to advise the public in general that an opportunity now presents itself for a safe investment of unusual character, embodying also speculative possibilities sufficiently great to make even a small investor a competency within a few years.

You can invest in any amount from Ten Dollars up, and, if so desired, you can have the privilege o paying in installments the amount of stock paid for from time to time being non-forfeitable in the event of your ceasing payments, thus relieving those of small or uncertain income from possibility of loss, should they for any reason become unable to continue payments.

Our business is to aid responsible Companies in the disposal of their treasury stock for the thorough equipment of their properties; we do not and will not handle indiscriminate mining or other stocks under any circumstances. We make a thorough personal examination and investigation as to the merits and possibilities before undertaking to assist in financing any Corporation; the paramount issue with us is to give complete satisfaction and cause much success to our patrons.

We have furnished the publishers of The Times with an outlined description of the Companies we represent, and the names of the Directors of each Company whose stock we offer to their subscribers and friends. We have also furnished The Times with bank references as to our own bona fides and standing. We desire to command the utmost confidence of all subscribers and to retain same along with their friendship for all time; you add riches without effort and increase our brain and labor; you increase your rr without effort and increase our power to make you still richer. In ordinary everyday experience a man's expenses nearly equal his income and he has little chance to make a turn for the betterment of his condition. This is anyone's opportunity; you can invest Ten Dollars or One Thousand Dollars on the same basis as one who invests Ten Thousand Dollars. You cannot afford to neglect your opportunities and this is a chance to get in on the ground floor and reap the profits of substantial, quick money making enterprises. Your money need not be tied up for a long time; we know that one of the Companies, at least, will pay handsome dividends this year. It is an easy matter to become rich; just watch for the opportunity and take advantage of it. This is your opportunity; will you grasp it?

Write immediately for prospectuses, reports and full details.

The Cracker Jack as an Investment

APPEALS TO THE CONSERVATIVE

THE CRACKER JACK group of mining claims consists of 120 acres of property in the Cracker Creek district, Baker county, Eastern Oregon. This group of claims contains the extension of the Cracker Oregon veins on the south; a split from the E. & E. on the southwest and parallel values of the North Pole mine on the west.

The trend of values in the Mother Lode system of this district is NORTHWARD. It starts in the Golconda and continues through the Columbia, E. & E., Cracker, Oregon, and North Pole, increasing in value up to and into the Cracker Jack claims.

In four months the Cracker-Oregon stock advanced from 25 cents to $1.00—its par value. In four months the Golconda stock increased more than 100% over its original selling price.

The Cracker Jack contains the values. They can be traced; the veins out crop and the focus of the richest fissures is in the Cracker Jack property.

The Cracker Jack is not a mine; neither is it merely a prospect. It has been proved. Next April a force of men will be put to work and development will be continued day and night.

This is a tunnel proposition. It can be opened by a series of tunnels and shafts, and the free milling ore can be treated on the property. As an investment, the Cracker Jack is secure. It has vast ore bodies as its security; it has a conservative management as further security.

The policy of the Cracker Jack Consolidated Gold Mines Company is to open this rich property, build a mill and PAY DIVIDENDS. This is an investment for conservative men. It is not sensational. The mine will produce ore just as rich in value as that brought out by any of the surrounding properties.

The stock will advance in price and it will earn.

This is a proposition that commends itself to investigation of the most searching kind. Look into it, learn something of its directorate; find out if these claims are well founded. In other words, write for a prospectus to

Price Concessions

In some of the Standard issues the past week, to some extent due to crippled wire service, offer excellent opportunity at present for purchasing some of the gilt edged stocks. Pools in many stocks are again accumulating their specialties, preparatory to a spring bull campaign. To buy these special issues will be to make good profit. We will be pleased to enumerate the stocks we deem the most profitable to buy at present, giving our reasons for our opinions. We will also purchase and carry any of the active issues dealt in upon the exchanges, stocks in multiples of 10 shares and upwards, upon a minimum margin of $2.00 per share; cereals in multiples of 1000 bus. etc upwards upon a minimum margin of 2 cents per bushel; cotton in multiples of 100 bales and upwards, upon a minimum margin of $1.00 per bale. These three staples are especially active at present, consequently attractive to quick traders.

PEOPLES' GAS LOOKS LIKE A PURCHASE

New York, Feb. 26.—Market stimulation for industrials shares seems to be going on. We quite recently called your attention to the fact, selecting copper as our special bull favorite, when it was considerrably below 60. We then predicted it would speedily sell at 80. We now predict it will go to 90. Our letter file will show how consistently we continued to bull these shares to our clients. We also took up sugar, and only last week renewed our bullish comment upon it in most strong terms. We advise buying it immediately. Peoples Gas looks well at present. It should be immediately purchased and held for some considerable advance. Despite the political antagonism and effort to hold up the Peoples Gas, the company this year emerges with more solid ground under its feet than ever. A greater earning power has been developed than was expected for several years, and it is in a condition of general improvement. The company has just shown its figures for 1902, they are most gratifying. The increase alone in extensions, meters and gas stove installations would create a very considerable volume of business, being shown by the reported gain over 1901 of $1,391,667, bringing the total up to over 10 millions of dollars. While net earnings have greatly increased since 1897 there has been no increase in fixed charge liabilities, while mark-offs for depreciation have been steadily enlarged. The company has evidently worked itself into a most comfortable financial position. The company's dividend balance in liquid cash has increased more than a full million dollars. This is surplus. Its property has been vastly improved and expanded by this management. An analysis of the property shows it to be in the best financial condition since its inception. The stock is absurdly cheap as a city investment, paying six per cent. It has sold around 125 and is better worth that price today than it was when the figure was [illegible]. We commend it most cordially at present to our clients, and believe they will make no mistake in buying into the property immediately and holding it for quite an advance. It will sell much higher.

CATTLE FROM ARGENTINA

The Market at Deptford Hangs Out Flags and Bunting Galore

London, Feb. 24—The first shipment of Argentine cattle under the new regulations was heartily welcomed at Deptford. The market was decorated with Union Jacks, red ensigns, and all kinds of bunting. The consignment of 133 head was in fairly good condition, considering they had been 31 days on board. They fetched 3s to 10d to 4s 4d per stone of eight pounds. The meat is being sold in Smithfield today. The average weight of the carcasses was 600 to 800 pounds.

INTERNATIONAL ELECTRIC MINING Co

185 SUMMER ST., - BOSTON, MASS.

A Dividend Payer for the Past Five Years.

12 PER CENT GUARANTEED

Capital Stock, $500,000. Par, $1.00, full paid and non-assessable

Over eight thousand tons of $60.00 ore mined and smelted from this group of mines.

A limited number of shares of the stock of this Company now offered at seventy-five cents per share. This price will shortly be increased to par. Stock registered by the International Trust Company, Boston, who is also the transfer agent.

This Company has a small capital stock.

The International Electric Mining Company owns seven mines and milling plant.

The Brooklyn and New York mines of this Company lie north of and join the Victor and the Hoodlum—two rich mines that are now being worked by California parties. On the west lies the Electric Mining Company's mines. In these mines are millions of dollars' worth of rich ore in sight. On the south, adjoining the Berlin mine of this Company, is the Montazuma and Clipper. From the Montazuma over three million dollars has been taken within 80 feet of the grass roots.

This Company owns free and clear seven mines of twenty acres each, all containing rich ore, located in the Arabia and Trinity mining districts, Humboldt County, Nevada. The Company has worked these mines for the past five years, and is now driving a tunnel to cut out a rich ledge about 800 feet from the surface. The Arabia mining district, in which these mines are located, is a lively district—a great many men being employed there. The tunnel now being driven on the Brooklyn mine has about 250 feet already completed. When the tunnel cuts the main ledge, which has just been reached by the Victor tunnel about 600 feet, the Brooklyn will have about 800 feet stoping ground, which runs high in gold and silver, over $60.00 per ton.

The Company is offering for a short time a limited amount of stock for the enlargement of its plant and the working force at the mines and for the completion of the Brooklyn tunnel.

This Company has thousands of tons of rich ore in sight.

We are not making a lot of talk, because it is unnecessary. What the investor wants is dividends, which we have paid for the past five years. Now if you want a safe 12 per cent. investment, let us hear from you.

THE OLD COMSTOCK

A California mining paper has this to say: "Nevada, that grand old stamping ground of mushroom millionaires, who plucked enough wealth from her prolific fields to build mansions, banks and big hotels in San Francisco, and palaces in Paris and London, is again astonishing the world by making more millionaires and by yielding millions in gold and silver from a new field which rivals the old Comstock lode in the days of its pristine splendor. Not only in Tonopah and Arabia districts, where within the past year nearly ten millions have been exposed, are operations active, but in every mining district in the Silver State are operations active, and Nevada will once more take her place among the big producers, the peer of any of them."

Dear Sir,—During the six months of October and November of this year I visited the mines of the International Electric Mining Company, situated in Arabia and Trinity mining districts, Humboldt County, Nevada. I found the country remarkably mineralized; in fact, the possibilities of the country as a mineral producing country are yet unknown. For years it certainly has produced well. The work now being done in the Arabia and Trinity districts establishes the fact that they are fine producers.

I also found that there is a great deal of interest being taken in these properties, which have produced a great deal of wealth the past quarter of a century.

in the 190 foot shaft of The Electric Spark Gold Mining Company's property is an absolute assurance of large dividends at no distant day; and those who buy now, and take advantage of this exceptional opportunity will make from 50 to 100 per cent. yearly on their investment.

There has never been a mining investment offered where the future value of the property could be more clearly shown than in this, or where the returns could be estimated more certainly or accurately.

It is simply a question of time and work. The risk has all been taken, and the investor today can look forward to future dividends with certainty and satisfaction. Incorporated as we are for only $200,000, par value $1.00, makes the stock all the more valuable, and located in the midst of some of the best mines in Gilpin County, Colorado, the smallest county in the State, which in 1902 produced $4,000,000.00, is another assurance of a big dividend payer.

By permission the Company refers to the Rocky Mountain National Bank, and the Weekly Register Call, of Central City, Colorado.

A limited amount of shares for sale at 20 cents per share. Remember this stock is fully paid and non-assessable; is all common and in a company organized expressly to operate this mine.

"THE FRIDAY MINE"

Located at Pearl, Willow Creek, Boise County, Idaho

About 25 Miles Northwest of Boise City

THE FRIDAY GOLD MINING CO. is a corporation duly organized under the laws of the State of Oregon, with head office at Sumpter, Oregon, owning and controlling "The Friday Mine." Capital Stock $1,000,000, divided into 1,000,000 shares. Par value $1.00 per share, fully paid and non-assessable, no personal liability. 250,000 shares have been set aside and placed in the treasury of the Company to be sold for the purpose of equipping the "Friday Mine" with machinery. It is for this purpose we are offering you stock in this great mine. This plant will handle 50 tons of Friday ore every 24 hours. The general average of the Friday ore is over $30 per ton. The ore as it was shipped to the smelters at Salt Lake averaging over [illegible] per ton. The Friday is highly developed, great quantities of ore blocked out and in sight ready for the mill. As soon as the mill is completed the Friday Mine will again pay dividends.

Large ore bodies which will net to the company [illegible], for the first few months, are now blocked out ready for the mill. As soon as the mill is completed you will draw your regular monthly dividend. It is safe, certain and conservative.

We are not soliciting your money for the purpose of developing the mine, but only for the purpose of erecting a mill to work the ore bodies in the mine. The company is officered by men of well known business ability, mining experience and strict integrity.

Hon. Martin H. Jacobs, State Mining Inspector of mines for the State of Idaho says "The Friday has a large amount of good ore in sight, and there is no question about its being a good paying property."

Thunder Mountain!

is the richest gold producing camp in the United States, and also the largest. The Thunder Mountain district, in central Idaho, is twenty miles wide and forty miles long. In comparison with this we have Cripple Creek, four miles wide and seven miles long. In many of the Thunder Mountain mines ore has already been reached that carries ONE THOUSAND DOLLARS IN GOLD TO THE TON. All of the Thunder Mountain ore is free milling, which means that it can be treated by the cheapest extraction process known—the ordinary stamp mill. It can be both mined and milled at a cost not to exceed $2 a ton. The past years operations in the several working mines have opened up millions of tons of ore that will give a net profit of from $10 to $30 a ton, enabling the respective companies to pay dividends at a rate never before equalled. Such is the showing and the prospect of the

EAST DEWEY GOLD MINING CO.

which unless all indications are at fault, will become the largest producer in the district. The EAST DEWEY mine, which it owns outright, is located directly on Thunder Mountain, just east of the famous "Dewey" mine, which already has [illegible],000,000 of ore in sight. The surface area of the East Dewey mine is one hundred and twenty acres—six full quartz claims. The company has also secured the big GOLDEN GATE mine, in the Big Creek section of the Thunder Mountain district—which has been so aptly termed "The Pot of Gold"—and is now developing the mine with all possible speed. For a distance of 9,000 feet, nearly two miles, the Golden Gate mines cover a mineralized ledge that is 900 feet wide, with an average height above the tunnel level of 500 feet, thus giving it the largest exposed tonnage of any mine in the west.

If you would share in the enormous profits which these figures indicate and which these developments promise, invest your money in "East Dewey" Stock. It can be bought to-day for 10 Cents a Share. Its par value is $1.

If the East Dewey mines are what they appear to be, and there is absolutely no reason to doubt or question these indications, this stock will eventually be worth at least $10 a share, and to-day you can buy it for ten cents. PRICE ADVANCES TO FIFTEEN CENTS ON FEBRUARY 28th. 5% discount allowed for cash. Stock sold at flat price of 10 cents on deferred payments, 10% with application, and 10% monthly until paid. The Canadian Bank of Commerce are applying for authority to increase their capital stock from $8,000,000 to $10,000,000, and a notice calling a special general meeting of the shareholders to pass the necessary by-law will appear in next Friday's Gazette. It is stated, however, that it is not the intention of the directors to issue any of the new stock to the shareholders at present.

Got Sore Back or Lumbago?

No need of that now. That sort of pain can be knocked out in short order, for Polson's Nerviline, which is five times stronger than any other, penetrates at once through the tissues, seeks the source of suffering, drives it out and then gives relief almost instantly. Not magic but strength that gives Polson's Nerviline this power. You will think it magic however if you try it, pain goes so quickly. Sold by dealers everywhere, in large 25c. bottles.

Directors Make a Statement to the Times Regarding a Loan

In our issue of yesterday an item appeared regarding the Skating Rink Company, with respect to the meeting held on Monday night, at which a loan of $3,000 on the property of the company was put through.

Two of the officers of the company called on The Times and explained that the meeting was held for the specific purpose of arranging the loan and for no other purpose. Therefore a financial statement of the company's affairs was not presented or not required. This will be submitted at the annual meeting, to be held in April. In regard to the other matters complained of, the directors state that the methods employed were strictly proper and legal.

A BIG STEP FORWARD

The Canadian General Electric to Greatly Expand

SPEND HALF A MILLION

New Building to be Erected This Year to Cost This Sum

One Thousand Additional Hands to be Employed—A Great Thing for Peterborough

The people of Peterborough are not perhaps aware of the progress their town is making. Before another year rolls away the Canadian General Electric Company will add very much to their already extensive buildings.

This growing concern is reaching out far and wide throughout the whole Dominion and into foreign lands, securing such large orders for machinery and electrical supplies that with their present capacity they are hardly able to fill. Owing to this fact they have decided to expand something over half a million of dollars in buildings and plant.

They expect to add nearly 1000 persons to their already large staff of skilled labor. This will add in the neighborhood of fifteen hundred to our growing population.

WILL NOT APPEAR

Rev. Mr. Kerby Writes the Times Regarding Wednesday's Sermon

The Times did not report Rev. Mr. Kerby's sermon delivered to the ladies on Wednesday afternoon. There was such a demand for it, however, that Mr. Kerby partly arranged to give us his notes, but, as the following letter will show, was unable to do so, hence the sermon will not appear.

To the Editor of the Times:

Dear Friend,—It was very late when I got home Wednesday night, being well on to 12 o'clock. Then by the time I finished my packing it was about one o'clock, So that unless I worked all night, I could not get any notes of my sermon on Wednesday afternoon. I am very sorry, but, I think you will appreciate the difficulty.

Thanking you for the interest you have shown in our work,

I remain, yours faithfully,

G. W. KERBY.

A PROGRESSIVE COMPANY

The British American Assurance Company Annual Meeting

We once again congratulate the Directors and officers of the British America Assurance Company on the result of the year's operations, as set forth in the report which was presented at the annual meeting of the shareholders on Monday last, and which appears in this issue. A most satisfactory feature of the report is the substantial addition to the reserve fund of $80,819.21, which brings that fund up to the very handsome figure of $[illegible],[illegible]1.17. The strengthening of the company's reserve is of great importance and the policy is one that will be appreciated by all the patrons of the company. The report shows too, that the balance of income over expenditure was $190,712.6[illegible], which paid two half-yearly dividends at the rate of 6 per cent., allowed for the writing off of the company's premises and securities amounting to $32,894.42, and permitted the large increase to the reserve fund mentioned.

The estimated liability on policies current at the close of the year is $[illegible],-[illegible].77, an amount ample to run off existing risks. In moving the adoption of the report reference was made by the President, Hon. George A. Cox, to the future, which he considered sufficiently encouraging to warrant shareholders in anticipating equally favorable results in the coming year as they had experienced during the past. It is interesting to note that the report presented was the 69th annual report, a testimony to the strength and stability of the company.

TRIBUTE OF SYMPATHY

From the Canadian Order of Oddfellows to the Family of the Late Wm. Creamer

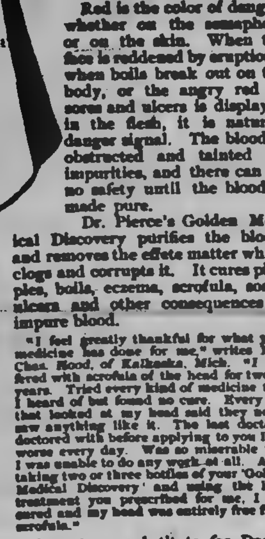
The following letter was ordered to be forwarded to Mrs. Wm. Creamer owing to the death of her late husband.

Dear Mrs. Creamer, — The members of Loyal Peterborough Lodge, Canadian Order of Oddfellows, No 164, desire to express our sympathy and condolence with you in the irreparable loss you have sustained in the death of your loving husband, who has passed peacefully away, we believe to reap his reward in that better land, where there shall be no more sickness, neither shall there be any more sorrow or death. This thought should, therefore, be a source of great comfort to you in this your day of tribulation; and at the time when human sympathies fail to support you we would gladly point you to a "Friend that sticketh closer than a brother." To Him who has trod affliction's path, and who alone is able to give grace that will enable you to say as one of old, "Thy will be done."

To the children we would also convey our sympathies and fervently pray that the vacancy caused by death shall be filled by the love of Christ, the fairest among ten thousand. May the God of comfort be ever near to you at this time, and may He long spare you to labor in His cause, which is more needful for us and all who dwell in an empire wherein the truth has given us liberty of great price, and an open Bible and a pure-preached Gospel.

Signed on behalf of the Lodge,

X ALEX. NESBITT, Noble Grand.
ROBT. WILSON, Rec.-Secretary.



Red is the color of danger, whether on the semaphore or on the skin. When the face is reddened by eruptions, when boils break out on the body, or the angry red of sores and ulcers is displayed in the flesh, it is nature's danger signal. The blood is obstructed and tainted by impurities, and there can be no safety until the blood is made pure.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery purifies the blood, and removes the effete matter which clogs and corrupts it. It cures pimples, boils, eczema, scrofula, sores, ulcers and other consequences of impure blood.

"I feel greatly thankful for what your medicine has done for me," writes Mrs. Chas. Hood, of Kalkaska, Mich. "I suffered with scrofula of the head for twelve years. Tried every kind of medicine that I heard of but found no cure. Every one that looked at my head said they never saw anything like it. The last doctor I doctored with before applying to you I got worse every day. Was so miserable that I was unable to do any work at all. After taking two or three bottles of your 'Golden Medical Discovery' and using the local treatment you prescribed for me, I was cured and my head was entirely free from scrofula."

Accept no substitute for Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. There is no other medicine which is "just as good" for diseases of the blood and the eruptions which are caused by the blood's impurity.

FREE. Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Send thirty-one one-cent stamps for the book in paper covers, or fifty stamps for the cloth-bound volume. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

A Pleasant Evening

A very enjoyable evening was spent at the home of Mr. J. H. Chatten, Smith street, on Wednesday, February 25th, when Miss May Chatten was presented with a beautiful Bible and an address, by a company of girl friends, on the occasion of her birthday. The address was replied to in feeling terms by Miss Chatten, after which a pleasant social hour was spent, refreshments being served. The gift bears pleasing testimony to the deep regard of Miss Chatten's many friends, and will be cherished by her for many years as a pleasing memento of happy hours.

APPLICATION TO PARLIAMENT

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN on behalf of the Corporation of the Town of Peterborough, that an application will be made to the Legislative Assembly of the Province of Ontario at the next session thereof for an Act for the following purposes.

1. To amend 62 Victoria (2) Chapter 71 by striking out the following words in the first subsection of the second section thereof, namely, the words "at any point thereon south of and in no way using power obtained from the dam known as the Nassau Dam on the said River Otonabee" in the 3rd, 4th and 5th lines thereof; the words "for Municipal purposes only" in the 17th line thereof, and the words "except, commercial lighting or private lighting" in the 18th and 19th lines thereof, and for such other amendments thereto as may be necessary to remove the restrictions imposed on the said Corporation by said subsection.

2. To authorize and empower the said Corporation to erect and maintain poles and other appliances on the streets and public parts of the said Town for the transmission of electricity in and through the said Town of Peterborough, and to charge a rental therefor, and to make regulations for the use, management, maintenance and control of same, and to enter into agreements with any company, firm or person now or hereafter supplying electric energy to the inhabitants of the said Town for the use of said poles and appliances on such terms as may be agreed on.

3. To authorize and empower the said Corporation to issue debentures of the said Corporation without the assent of the rate-payers for the sum of $7000 to meet the deficiency on the sale of waterworks' debentures issued for the purchase of the waterworks.

4. To authorize and empower the Commissioners of the Waterworks to form a contingent fund and to retain out of the revenues derived from the said waterworks an annual sum not exceeding one-half of the net revenue for that purpose.

THE BOARD OF TRADE AND THE TOWN COUNCIL

In Joint Session on the Question of Aid to the Beet Sugar Company

The Town Council met jointly with the Board of Trade last night, when there were present Mayor G. M. Roger, presiding, and Ald. Edgcumbe, Morrison, H. Rush, Finnie, Corkery, Best, Shortly, Clinkscale, O'Connell and R. F. McWilliams.

Representing the Board of Trade were President D. W. Dumble, R. J. Toker, D. Hughes-Charles, A. P. Poussette, T. E. Bradburn, J. W. Garvin, A. L. Davis, Peter Campbbell and Secretary Quartermaine.

The meeting was called to consider the question of aid to the Peterborough Beet Sugar Company.

THE QUESTION AT ISSUE.

Mr. D. W. Dumble, President of the Board of Trade, first addressed the Civic Fathers. He said that the Board of Trade never at any time wished to assume the government of the Town's affairs in any way, but simply, as representatives of an influential number of the ratepayers, to advise the Council and give them a fair understanding of the wishes of the people on all matters of general interest. Regarding the beet sugar question, that has been pretty thoroughly discussed. Speaking personally, he thought that if the conditions are favorable, it would be wise for the Town to give assistance in developing an industry which would keep money at home and create increased commercial prosperity. Generally speaking, however, it is not considered sound for a commercial body to enter into commercial pursuits, and the only reason for encouraging such action is that of developing an industry to the benefit of the community at large. But when public money is at stake we must consider if the opportunity is ripe or the present conditions favorable for such a venture. There are four factories at present in Canada, and these have only recently started up and have not as yet demonstrated whether they will prove successful or not. While the climate and soil of Onatrio is undoubtedly suitable to the growth of the sugar beet, it is questionable whether the labor necessary to cultivate these roots in a short season will be forthcoming. It must be remembered that Berlin is a district of Germans, who with their women and little folk get out on the farm and work. Notwithstanding that Berlin was so successful last year in raising and marketing the necessary amount of beets for sugar purposes the question arises whether they can continue to do so each succeeding year. It has not yet been demonstrated that the necessary labor for successfully cultivating sugar beets can be secured. It must be cheap labor—mainly that of women, boys and girls. You cannot afford to pay the present prices for manual labor. If it were a personal matter with him, he would hold on to his money till he saw that the success of the venture was assured. His impression is that if an attempt is made to grow beets this season there would be too much haste for a successful issue. We should go slow and make sure that no more capital is sunk in the venture than is justified. There is no haste; our climate and soil will stay with us until we see the results of the four Canadian companies' venture. In conclusion, Mr. Dumble said that, speaking for himself, he is not prepared to ask the Board of Trade to recommend the Beet Sugar Company's proposal to the Town. On the contrary he would urge them to hold back until there is sufficient evidence that there is no risk whatsoever in the enterprise. In one place in the West 60 acres of beets were left on the ground last year owing to an insufficiency of labor to harvest them.

Mr. J. W. Garvin, representing the Beet Sugar Company, said they had entered into an agreement with the Construction Company to break ground by the first day of April; hence there is all need of haste. The scheme has gone too far to recede. Berlin carried the thing through in six months, and why not Peterborough. Berlin had 5,000 acres under contract, and succeeded in harvesting all but 60 acres. As to the question of labor, both governments are doing all in their power to secure labor from Europe. It must prove a paying investment, as evidenced by the fact that in 1840 only five per cent. of the total amount of sugar consumed was manufactured from beets, while last year the percentage had reached 70 per cent. And he had not been able to discover a factory paying less than 16 per cent. dividends. Even the Cuban Sugar Trust is now endeavoring to secure control of the American Beet Sugar industry, but these stocks cannot be purchased to-day, so good an investment are they known to be. Continuing, Mr. Garvin insinuated that the Cereal Company had secured a good thing from the Town in the way of fixed assessment, in return for which they had only purchased some 30,000 bushels of oats in this district up to date.

Mr. Dumble—"300,000 bushels."

Even this figure did not appear to strike Mr. Garvin as abnormally large, under the circumstances, and he argued that the Cereal Company will not cause more money to be circulated in Peterborough than the Beet Sugar Company. The wages paid by our company will be between $40,000 and $50,000 annually, and we only ask for the investment in stocks and bonds of $50,000, while the Cereal Company received from the town an equivalent of half a million dollars, in the way of fixed assessments. There is no risk in the Town taking the stock or bonds in the Sugar Factory, as the total bonds issued will amount to but $300,000 and the factory will cost at least $500,000. This factory is in the interests of the community, and we only ask to be treated as strangers have been. The scheme must go through this summer.

Mr. Dumble—"I believe in the sugar factory if it can be successfully worked. I think it a splendid industry in which the farmers would help the town; but when there are four Canadian factories experimenting, would it not be well to await the results of their experience."

Mr. Garvin here remarked that the Board of Trade has approved of a report brought in by their Manufacturers' Committee to the effect that the Town would take no risk in this venture.

Mr. A. P. Poussette said there is no experiment in the question of an industry which under similar conditions to those we enjoy have proved successful in Michigan. He named many factories in the States which had refused to sell $5,000 worth of stock on any terms; some of these factories were eager to buy rather than sell. This clearly evidences that the venture is a sure one. The borrowing capacity of the Town would not be affected in any way by accepting the Company's proposal to invest in the factory $25,000 in bonds and $25,000 in stock. The assessed value of the factory which will be in the corporation, will be $500,000 and ten per cent. on this will amount to $50,000; thus the borrowing capacity of Peterborough will not diminish one dollar by the transaction. We have been offered large inducements to establish the factory elsewhere, and if shown the cold shoulder by the Town of Peterborough the Company may feel constrained to listen to the voice of the charmer. The Berlin by-law provided that the town could either take stock, or give a cash bonus; they preferred the latter. Mr. Poussette did not consider that the labor question entered into the question at all. One man and two boys can thin an acre of beets in a day, and this is the most difficult task; most of the remaining work is done by cultivation. We have, he explained, 1,000 acres now under contract and expect the whole 2,000 acres will be secured by the end of March.

Ald. O'Connel thought the fact of having but one-third of the required acreage subscribed, a very serious obstacle to the Town taking any definite action in the matter.

In reply to Ald. Edgecumbe, Mr. Poussette said the acreage under contract covered a period of three years.

Mr. Hughes-Charles explained that the Board of Trade had not adopted a resolution advising the Town to take stock and bonds in this Company. Personally, he would like to see the industry established here, but from what he had seen in Berlin, and from experience elsewhere as a banker, he would advise the Council to go slow. If security is given on a first mortgage, he did not think there would be any risk, but all bonds and stock should be paid in cash, and the shareholders have a say in the purchase of machinery and construction of the building. He thought the Construction Company should exhibit all plans and specifications and contracts. The Town wants to be cautious with regard to the values of machinery and buildings as represented on paper.

Ald. Shortly moved, seconded by Ald. Corkery, that the matter be left in the hands of a Committee of the Whole Council.—Carried.

COMMUNICATIONS.

From Collingwood Schreiber, Secretary of the Railway Committee of the Privy Council, stating that a meeting of the Committee would be held on March 11, when there would be heard the application of the C.P.R. for approval of the place and mode of crossing the G.T.R. at Bethune street, and applications of the C.P.R. for approval of the construction of additional tracks near the streets crossed by that portion of the line extending from Townsend street to Chamberlain street—Referred to the Finance Committee with power to take any action thought necessary.

From John Mahoney, Local Registrar of the High Court of Justice, summoning the town to appear in the suit of Mr. G. Hopkins, who claims $500 damages for injuries received by reason of a fall on the sidewalk on Edinburgh street—Referred to the Legal Committee.

The Town Trust Commissioners applied for approval of the Council to expending $2,000 in enlarging the premises of the Bell Telephone Co., and Wm. McCallum in the market block.—Referred to a Committee of the Whole Council.

Dr. Bingham, Medical Health Officer, applied for $100 increase of salary—Referred to the Finance Committee.

A. Rountree, Secretary Peterborough Turf Club, applied for 2,000 Lift Lock envelopes to be used in distributing circulars throughout the Dominion, advertising the stake races to take place in Peterborough next August.—Manufacturers' Committee with power to act.

FIRE HOSE.

A representative of the Canadian Rubber Co., Montreal, complained that after being invited to come here, and tender for hose for the Fire Department, he had not received fair treatment. While his tender was lower than that of his competitor it had been ignored simply because the Chief of the Brigade had condemned his hose without ever giving it a trial. He claimed there was no better hose in Canada than his, which was used in Toronto and the chief cities and towns in the Dominion. Mayor Roger explained that the Committee were reconsidering the matter.

Ald. Rush submitted the Finance Committee's report recommending payment of a number of accounts.

Council then adjourned.

A POLITICAL STORM CENTRE IN THE MOROCCO STATE

It is Jealously Guarded By European Powers

London, March 2—Muley Abdul Aziz successfully passed through a roaring flood of reaction. He is still Sultan of Morocco. His regular and irregular military forces numbering in all some 75,000 men, have been straightened out after a severe drubbing near Fez, and the young Emperor is finding opportunity to make proclamations, and to tell the world that he is unchallenged master of the situation. The pretender to the throne appears to have lost his hold upon the tribes he commanded as suddenly and mysteriously as he gained it, and the waters of reaction have subsided over night, leaving scarcely a ripple in their wake.

A LAND OF BRIGHT COLOR.

Morocco is the westernmost of the Barbary states, occupying the northwestern corner of Africa. Despite its geographical position it is Oriental, its civilization is backward, its people fanatical and semi-barbaric, its cities the quaintest and most spectacular in the west. Tangier is only a trifling sail from London, yet Tangier is Oriental to the core. It is full of tourists in the season; there are many flags in the harbor; the press of Europe modifies the scene; but the city is not transformed. It keeps its color its quaintness its dreary atmosphere, its peculiar social and economic life. The streets are brilliant with flowing garments. The shops are gorgeous. The arts of repose and of pleasure are practiced to the exclusion of the arts of progress, and so the city remains a Moorish survival of centuries dead.

Fez, where the young Sultan the other day gathered about him for a final struggle with the pretender, is the largest of the three capitals of Morocco. It has 140,000 people. Morocco and Mequinez are the other capitals, with 50,000 and 56,000 inhabitants respectively. The chief ports on the Atlantic are Mogador and Tangiers, and on the Mediterranean the only port of much importance is Tetuan. Tafilet is the point of arrival and departure for the caravans through the Sahara. The whole country embraces an area of 220,000 square miles, inhabited by 8,000,000 people. The possibilities of the country as a wheat-growing region are enormous, and it is this fact which makes Morocco so vital a spot as regards the political equilibrium of Europe.

THE MOROCCAN QUESTION.

Sooner or later the Moroccan question is coming up for settlement. How important it is to the peace of the European nations was shown in the crisis that is just waning. The pretender's dash for Fez, accompanied as it was by striking signs of success, put every Cabinet in this part of the world on tiptoe. England, France, Spain and Italy "stood to arms," as it were, and waited for the first move that would indicate the determination of any one power independently to meddle with the political anachronism south of Tangier. Diplomatic despatches flashed back and forth among the capitals, and the Powers speedily assured one another that their policy was one of "hands off." Happily, for the moment the crisis has passed, Abdul Aziz has reasserted his rule, and again the Moroccan dog sleeps.

U. S. FORMALLY ACCEPTS

It Will Pay the Panama Canal Company $40,000,000

Washington, Feb. 26.—The offer of the Panama Canal Company to sell to the United States the canal property and all of the company's rights therein for $40,000,000, subject only to the ratification of the pending treaty with the Republic of Colombia, has been formally accepted by the government. The effect of this acceptance will be to extend the life of the option held by the government beyond March 4 next, and until the treaty now before the Senate has been ratified by both countries in interest.

Valuable Advice to Mothers

If you child comes in from play coughing or showing evidences of an approaching attack of Grippe, Sore Throat, or sickness of any kind, first thing get out your bottle of Nerviline. Rub the chest and neck with Nerviline, and give internal dose of ten drops of Nerviline in sweetened water every two hours. This will prevent any serious trouble. No liniment or pain reliever equals Polson's Nerviline, which is a necessity in every household. Large bottles cost only 25c.

PETERBOROUGH 4, PORT HOPE 1

Intermediates Win the First Match for the Trophy.

FIRE EATERS VS. SAND RATS

The T.A.S. Defeated at Norwood by 7 to 4

The first of the home and home games last night for the $70 trophy, between the old-time rivals, the Ontarios of Port Hope and the Intermediate Colts, resulted in favor of the locals by a score of four to one. The half time score was 1—0 in Peterborough's favor. The ice was in poor shape for fast hockey, being rather soft and gave the puck a tendency to stick, which made combination play very inaccurate, the players being unable to pass the puck with any judgment.

The game was not a good game to witness from the spectators point of view, lacking the usual amount of ginger and brilliant work characteristic in the previous league matches with Port Hope and Belleville.

The Port Hope seven were a heavier aggregation than the locals and not as speedy skaters as the locals. About 1,500 people witnessed the game, which is considered a good turn out, in view of the unfavorable weather.

Shortly after half past eight Referee Rose called the boys together and got the game in progress. The rubber travelled into Port Hope territory, and was kept there almost continuously throughout the first half, seldom passing Harold Armstrong at cover point, while the Port Hope nets were attacked time after time. But Port Hope had a stone wall man in the nets who took care of the shots that were rained in on him with great skill, until Whitcroft felt around and landed the first and only goal during the first half. Shortly after scoring Whitcroft had to retire for the remainder of the game owing to an injured limb.

The second half was played with six men a side, and was a trifle faster than the first. Port Hope continued to play a defence game, but managed to get one in on Comstock, who was in the nets for the Colts and was always found to be in his place although he was not given a chance to show his skill, not being called on to stop many shots. This was the only goal Port Hope scored, Peterborough adding three more to their number, making the score at the expiration of time four to one, Peterborough having the long end.

The game was free from roughness and consequently Referee Rose's duties were not difficult to perform although during the last half Morgan and one of the visitors engaged in a little bout for which they were sent to the boards. Harold Armstrong and Brown of the Ontarios also took seats as spectators for infringing on the rules. With the same team on the ice in Port Hope, Peterborough should have no trouble in landing the trophy, as the local forward line are much speedier than the visitors, and the shots of Cavanagh and Roy Armstrong worried the man in the nets for Port Hope considerably, while Morgan was always in his place, following up, and his work was very effective. During the last half the game was delayed for a short time by a lift of Glover's that came in contact with the electric light globe.

The return match will be played in Port Hope the first of the coming week.

Following players represented the Colts—

Goal, Comstock; point, Glover; cover point, H. Armstrong; forwards, Cavanagh, Roy Armstrong, Harry Morgan, Whitcroft.

DOWN-FALL OF FIRE-EATERS

The Brock street rink was packed to its utmost capacity Thursday night to see the much talked of and invincible fire fighters go down to crushing defeat by the sand sluggers of the Lock Co. It was a blazing hot contest, and the rink was filled with sand, coke and wind as the game proceeded. The game as a whole, was rather rough and Referee Put-off Brown used his authority very often, one time having all the players off but the goal-keepers.

The following teams appeared for destruction—

Fire Fighters	Sand Pluggers
Goal.
Knee Pad Metheral	Stop O'Brien
Point.
Roof Climber Dunford	D. McAuliffe
Cover Point.
Ladder Balancer Mitchell	S. O'Brien
Forwards.
Hero Butcher	Popcorn O'Brien
Broncho Parnell	Blunderbuss Whaley
Put-out Moore	Cyclone Stortz
Cemetery Ringer	Hurricane Humbers
Goal Umpires
King Dillon	Holdup Gleeson

The game started at 8.43 1-2 and as soon as the puck struck the ice, so did Hero Butcher, but the Pluggers combination went flying down, and Stortz secured the puck and on one of his patented rushes scored first blood for the Sand boys and their supporters' voices re-echoed at Fenelon Falls. Time 4.3 1-2.

Whaley drew the puck on the next face-off and started a pretty combination which was broken up by Ladder Balancer Mitchell and in the ensuing mix-up Moore, Butcher Parnell Humbers and O'Brien were benched for violating the hockey commandments and all got three minutes rest. After some brilliant rushing by both teams and some hair-breadth stops by Metheral, Stortz scored the second game for the Pluggers and their admirers flashed bank books and wads and some yelled "pick pockets!" Time 4 1-2 minutes.

Dagger McAuliffe scored the third game for the Sand Rats by a beautiful lift which Metheral grasped for but couldn't get. Time 11 sec.

After the next face-off Parnell secured the puck and after a neat rush scored the Fire Fighters first game, and the curfew rang. Time 3 1-2 min.

After a short skirmish and some sparring for wind, the fog horn blew much to the delight of the performers, and this denoted that the wild west was half over.

When the bell rang again it could be seen that all had benefitted from the fog baths and hot air injections, and soon were down to hard work again. Shortly after play started it got a little rough again and Butcher Mitchell, Parnell, Humbers, O'Brien and Stortz decorated box seats for infringing too much on forbidden tactics. It could be seen now that the Firemen were doing better work, and the cause of it, no doubt, was due to the Jim English's fancy Chinese coaching from the side, and after a few unexplainable paragraphs from him, the fireman's team scored. Time 4 min.

But they weren't the only people that had their goo-goo eyes on the puck, as the Lock Works scored the next three goals in 45, 35 and 48 seconds, respectively.

Before the next goal was scored the referee got very strict, and every player with the exception of the goal keepers and Hero Butcher, were off. Hero secured the puck at the face-off and after a brilliant dash scored the thirds and last game for the fire-fighters. Time 5 min.

On the next face-off Whaley secured the rubber, and on a pretty combination play, Popcorn O'Brien scored the Pluggers next game. Time 17 minutes.

As time was nearly up, each team was playing the other off its feet, and all knew the end was near at hand. Everyone held their breath when Moore secured the puck and made a hair-raising rush from end to end of the rink, only to be thrown down when he was right on the flags, and the puck went down to the firemen's quarters on a grand rush by Humbers and he notched the seventh and last score for the Lock Co. Time 11 min., and the match ended, 7 to 3 in favor of the Lock Co. Pluggers.

NOTES.

Knee Pad Metheral put up one of the best games in goal that was seen here this year. He is an apt pupil on his knees, and it is rumored he was taking lessons from the evangelists.

Dunford and Metherall make a strong defence, but they might as well have been trying to stop the fire sale as the pluggers onslaught.

Parnell, Moore, Butcher and Ringer are a husky bunch of rushers, but a little more practice at fires, where they can save some poor man's mother-in-law will put them in grand shape.

Dagger McAuliffe played the game of his life. He upheld the honor of the old "Auburn Neversweats" and never turned a hair. It was rumored he had one eye out for the puck.

Shamus O'Brien played a grand game but was holding his speed for the handicap.

Cyclone Stortz was in fine fettle and showed without a doubt that he is fast enough for any company. His patent rushes were marvellous and seven photographers are after his likeness for the Toronto Star.

Trainer Robinson is to be congratulated on the shape he keeps his team in, and all the other town teams are seeking his prescription.

Any team desirous of getting beaten can do so by seeing the manager of the Lock Co team. P. S.—No team without a reputation need apply.

A handicap race was now put on, Shamus O'Brien and Cyclone Stortz being the stars. The shot gun squealed and they were off, but Cyclone saw he was up against it and his backers called him a rank quitter. Shamus won, of course, hands down.

The T.A.S. were defeated in Norwood by 7 to 4.

CANADIANS AT A BANQUET

Speeches Touching Upon Inter-Imperial Relations

ALASKAN BOUNDRY TRIBUNAL

U. S. Official said any American Who would Grant Canada's Claims Could Not Live in the United States

London, Feb. 26.—At the Colonial Club banquet to the Canadian members yesterday, Lord Strathcona urged the necessity of the motherland helping emigration to Canada so that Canada might ultimately fully supply the homeland with food-stuffs. The colonies also might contribute a navy to keep the 3,000 mile ocean-lane clear. General Laurie regretted that the Motherland had done nothing to respond to the preferential tariff and feared that England was losing an opportunity of keeping Imperialism warm.

Sir Gilbert Parker regretted that there was no Canadian whisky or native wine from Canada at the dinner. He said he belonged to the critical few in the House of Commons opposed to the War Office. The Motherland protected Canadian commerce, therefore Canada should contribute.

The Alaskan Tribunal.

The Times' New York correspondent says that a certain United States official told him that any American who would agree to grant Canada's claims re Alaska, or any part of them, could not live in the United States. He also said: "We hope that one fair-minded British Commissioner will yield." The correspondent states that the United States Senate only ratified the treaty on the understanding that Messrs. Root, Lodge and Turner were to be appointed. President Roosevelt wanted two celebrated geographers, but yielded to pressure.

The King's Colonials.

Captain Thompson, adjutant of the King's Colonials, recently received notice to retire. He saw Lord Roberts and pointed out the necessity of there being an adjutant for a corps of colonials. Lord Roberts confirmed Captain Thompson's position, much to the satisfaction of the regiment. The corps will camp in the first fortnight in August in Latimer Park, by special invitation of General Lord Chesham, Inspector of Yeomanry. The regiment is flourishing and a fourth squadron is forming.

RUSH OF IMMIGRATION

Great Possibilities of Western Canada—Wheat Returns Have Raised Interest to the Point of Enthusiasm

Her great wheat crops have turned out to be seven-league boots in the march of Western Canada towards prosperity, and the rush of immigration in in that direction during the past year indicate that her neighbors and friends desire a share in that prosperity. The estimates approximate 65,000 as the number of people who have gone to Western Canada in the past year. The record crop of 1901 fastened attention on the great possibilities of that vast prairie country, and the returns of 1902 have raised interest to the point of enthusiasm. That this enthusiasm has a solid basis only a glance at official figures will demonstrate. The wheat crop for 1902 is officially estimated at 65,000,000, 60,000,000 will be exported, 54,000,000 was produced by Manitoba alone, and 7,000,000 of the 2,500,000 acres under cultivation, is located in that province. But the region for three hundred miles west of Manitoba and for four hundred miles northward of the Canadian Pacific Railway is capable of the same results. The average yield of wheat per acre in these districts this year is nearly thirty bushels. Such figures have made Western Canada look very attractive in the eyes of farmers wishing to better their condition, and Mr. F. F. Stephenson, inspector for the Department of the Interior, reports 14,725 entries of land sales for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1902. The total area disposed of Mr. Stephenson estimates at 7,000,000 acres. A part of this, of course, represents the large holding of companies organized for carrying on the industry of wheat raising on an extensive scale. The British-Canadian Wheat Raising Co., is one of the large corporations of this character.

THE IRISH LAND PURCHASE BILL

Messrs. Redmond and Wyndham Exchange Compliments Over the Coming Measure

London, Feb. 26—Mr. George Wyndham, the Chief Secretary for Ireland, replying yesterday afternoon in the House of Commons to Mr. John Redmond, who had moved an amendment to the address in reply to the speech from the Throne, on the subject of the Irish land question, declined to commit himself to any wholesale approval of the land conference report, which he said, avoided or skirted many considerations that must be taken into account. He expressed the hope that the spirit of good-sense and good-will animating the report would be emulated by the House in its consideration of the forthcoming measure, which would make it possible for Ireland to lay the social foundations upon which was alone possible to rear the fabric of healthy national life.

Mr. Redmond eventually withdrew his amendment.

A SPECTATOR'S COMMENT.

New York, Feb. 26—The London correspondent of the New York Tribune says today: The Irish debate in the House of Commons yesterday was a harmless dress parade, which, possibly had been pre-arranged. Mr. Redmond spoke with studied moderation, and Mr. Wyndham with equal caution and reserve. Each aimed to create the impression that the land bill was a profound secret, and that there had been no negotiations between the Irish Office and the Nationalists. It is hardly credible that the Nationalists would assume so confidently that the Irish question will be settled by Mr. Wyndham's bill, if some of them had not been consulted directly or indirectly. According to excellent information the bill has not received its finishing touches and the amount of money required from the Treasury to cover the difference between what the landlords are willing to take, and what the tenants can afford to pay, has not yet been approximately estimated.

STOPPED CAR WITH REVOLVER

Patrick Birmingham an Englishman Gives New York a Sensation

New York, Feb. 26.—At 28th street and Third avenue last night Patrick Birmingham, a jewelry salesman of this city, an Englishman, who has not been long in this country, held up a Third avenue car after four others had passed him without stopping, by flashing a revolver in the motorman's face. Birmingham is not used to the ways of New York motormen and their manner of operating cars. Except where there is a "dead" stop, the cars only stop for passengers on the north corner, if the car is bound in that direction, and on the south corner, if in the opposite. Birmingham stood at the south corner with a small satchel in his hand, waiting for a north-bound car. One car passed him, the motorman not attempting to stop. When the next car approached Birmingham held up his hand and shouted, "Hi, there, stop the car!"

The motorman laughed at him and shouted back: "Get over on the other corner."

The Englishman did not understand. He was treated in a like manner by the motorman of two more cars. A small boy who saw him waiting, told him to go to the next corner and the car would stop.

"The next car will stop here!" shouted the man and the boy ran away, frightened.

Birmingham rested the satchel on the ground and waited. In two minutes another car approached. Just as the car was about ten feet from him he thrust his right hand into a side pocket of his coat, and drawing a pistol, shouted out: "Hi, there, stop that car!"

The effect was magical. With the quickest motion he ever made in his life the motorman shut off the power and applied the brake. The car came to a stop and Birmingham got on.

A policeman was summoned and locked Birmingham up. He had a police permit to carry a revolver, and came to appeal to the British Consul.

The Critical Time of Life is between the years of fifty-seven and sixty-two. Nature's power slows down, vitality becomes less, and the progress of decay sets in. A means of extending old age and renewing decreasing vigor is to take Ferrozone after meals. Ferrozone keeps up the appetite, aids in the formation of red, vitalizing blood, imparts clearness to the tiring brain, force, energy and spirits just when they are needed most. To take Ferrozone regularly means adding ten or twenty years to life. Large boxes 50c. or 6 boxes for $2.50, at Druggists, or Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

DEBATE ON THE ARMY REORGANIZATION PLAN

Vote of Censure of British War Secretary Defeated

MAJORITY OVER A HUNDRED

Nationalists Did Not Vote—Speeches of Churchill and the Prime Minister

London, February 27.—The debate on the army reorganization was resumed yesterday with a feeling of confidence on the Government side that the discontented members of the party would be whipped into line. Alexander Wylie and other men who have criticized the War Office methods, admitted that they had no intention of voting against the Government. Mr. Brodrick's critics, moreover, were constrained to admit that he had made a better defence than they had expected, although he had shown little art in covering the weak points of the reorganization scheme, and in making the best use of facts respecting increased recruiting and the strengthening of the regular army, the militia and the yeomanry.

WINSTON CHURCHILL'S JOKE.

Winston Churchill was in great form last evening. His speech was full of happy turns, and even Mr. Brodrick himself lauhghed when Mr. Churchill declared that there was a larger proportion of generals to the rank and file in the British army than in any other army in the world, except the Venezuelan.

Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, who followed Mr. Churchill, was very dull, and the debate quickly sank to a humdrum level. The lethargy of the House was broken at length by the rousing cheer which greeted the Prime Minister when, just after 11 o'clock, he rose to close the debate.

BALFOUR ON NEEDS OF EMPIRE.

The Prime Minister first complimented Mr. Asquith on going to the heart of the question, namely, whether the army was too large and costly for the Empire's needs. Of course, he said, the fleet stood first, but there were limits to the uses of a fleet. It was impossible to bring a war to an end with a fleet which could not even strike a heavy blow at most enemies with which Great Britain might be engaged without a strong attacking force of soldiers, and it would be folly to deprive the country of a means of offensive action in the event of an emergency.

Mr. Balfour contended that three army corps were necessary for work outside the Empire. They had to consider the defence of India. He regarded a war between Great Britain and Russia as in the highest degree improbable, but it was impossible to forget that the Indian frontier was the key of Great Britain's military position in the event of such a war, and without being an alarmist he wished to impress upon them that the events moved rapidly in Central Asia.

In conclusion, Mr. Balfour claimed that the Government deserved well of the country. The Government did not trim its sails to popular favor, and if the House desired an army on a scale that the Government thought inadequate, the House must look to another Government.

DID NOT VOTE.

A division was taken amid intense excitement at midnight. The Nationalists walked out when the division bell rang, and only 12 Unionists voted for the amendment, which was rejected by 261 to 145.

It is certain that the Nationalists would have opposed the amendment if the revolt had been more serious, as they had no idea of allowing the Government to be defeated before the Irish Land Bill was introduced and enacted.

It is a curious circumstance that the amendment was rejected by precisely the same majority, 116, as Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman's amendment on the same subject two years ago, but on that occasion the Nationalists supported the Liberal leader. The Government's normal majority is 135. Rumours that Mr. Brodrick will soon quit the War Office were again current in the lobbies last night.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS

Women's Auxiliary for Foreign Missions of St. Luke's Church

The Woman's Auxiliary for Foreign Missions held their annual meeting on Thursday in St. Luke's schoolroom. The reports presented were most encouraging and it was felt that the past year has been one of progress and development. The contributions of money and clothing sent to the various mission stations shows that a keen interest is being taken in this laudable work. The following officers were elected—

Hon.-Pres.—Mrs. E A Peck
President—Mrs. W. J. Scott, re-elected.
First Vice-President—Mrs. E. A. Langfeldt.
Second Vice-President—Mrs. James Phillips.
Recording Secretary-Treasurer—Mrs. Jas. Kidd.
Corresponding Secretary Mrs. McGregor.
Dorcas secretary—Mrs. F. J. Jamieson.
Board of Management appointed by the Rector—Mrs. G. F. Warde, and Mrs. Stephen Gaskins.

At the conclusion of the meeting Mrs. Langfeldt entertained the members at the Rectory to afternoon tea.

THE PROOF OF IMMORTALITY

From the remotest antiquity man has yearned for incontrovertable proofs of his immortality. He has heard the rapt utterance of the seers and the prophets who have pictured to him the beauties of the world beyond the grave. He has realized that there is something in him, continuous indestructible, the same yet not the same, which must go on he reasons after its tenement of flesh has been laid aside. Yet he has no irrefragible proof, such as he regards proof. No court of evidence would decide upon the best scientific testimony of today, and based upon all the experiences of ages that man is immortal. The belief that endues him with a soul is transcendental, superhuman. It is based upon faith and instinct rather than reason or experience. No purely mental atribute can give him anything positive to base his hopes of eternal life upon.

The Literary Digest, in a recent issue, takes up this question in an article entitled "A Twentieth Century Symposium on Immortality." "Mr. Robert J. Thompson, a well known gentleman of Chicago, was," says our contemporary, "by the death of his brother, induced to give prolonged and serious consideration to the problem of immortality. He conceived the plan of publishing a twentieth century bulletin on the subject, presenting the evidence advanced by science, philosophy and common sense to show that there is a future life. With this object in view, he addressed the question, 'What is the strongest and best reason known to the world for the belief that man's soul lives on after the death of the body? to a number of scientists, philosophers and theologicans. * * * The result of his investigations Mr. Thompson embodies in a book, "The Proofs of Life After Death."

Cesar Lombroso says: "The question has not been solved with scientific certainty. Psychical and spiritistic researchers give great probability that there is a continued existence of the soul after death, preserving a weak identity, to which the persistent soul can add new life and growth." Sir Oliver Lodge, president of the English Society for Psychical Research, says that though there is no way to justify his belief in a full and complete manner yet his is a faith in immortality which has been produced by scientific evidence. Prof. Hyslop, of Colombia, says "that he sees no reason except the suspicions of his neighbors, for withholding his assent; that the suppositions that must be made to avoid spiritism strengthens his views." Flammarion says: "The human being has for its essential principle the soul. The body is visible and transitory. Atoms are indestructible. The energy which moves them and governs the universe is undestructible. The human soul is indestructible." Another says: "The spirit of man even as his bodily forces decline, progresses and far from growing old, broadens, develops and fortifies itself from day to day." Prof. Newcombe, the great astronomer, says he can not think out any satisfactory theory on the subject. Cardinal Gibbons says: "The belief in man's immortality is universal. God would never have planted this craving for perfect felicity in man's heart unless He had intended that the desire should be fully gratified." Dr. Heber Newton says: "It is impossible to conceive the universe as a sane and rational system without immortality."

It seems to us that one great hypothesis, as general and as believable as the law of gravitation, will shed floods of light on this question. It is only necessary for us to admit that thought is creative, that out of the Formless and the Void it can build whatsoever it wills, to solve the whole question. Men since they began to think, have speculated upon the origin of Things and upon their ultimate end. Once grant us that thought is creative and the problem of immortality is solved. All men, as a rule, no matter of what state of civilization or intelligence feel or believe that there is an immortality, that the Ego is indestructible. Therefore there is an immortality. It has been created and exists because of this thought. The argument is no simple act to be difficult, but it can be rigorously supported by a chain of inductive and deductive reasoning. Marconi's feat of telegraphing without wires has been slumbering in the brains of men for who knows how long. Step by step the mind of man has builded in thought and Marconi is but the end of a plant of long, slow, painful growth. Other minds will no doubt produce the fruit and seed of this endeavor. Many are now thinking to this end. Man has long thought he could fly like the birds. Minds are thinking out the way to do so, by slow tortorous evolutions, whose windings we yet do not understand, whose end we do not see. The steam engine, the battleship, the dynamo, the suspension bridge, were all created in thought before they existed in matter.

We illogically enough, hold fast to matter, the perishable, for fear lest our mind gallop away with us. We refuse to believe our thoughts if they conflict with the evidence of our senses, and yet we know that these senses are easily deceived, variable, and all subject to a dissolution that our thoughts are superior to. Do we not all admit that the mental attitude conditions the physical aspect. How can we deny that thought? God's and ours us the Creator of all things visible and invisible. Instead of our trying to prove that there is an immortality, we must admit it as axiomatic and challenge those who doubt, to adduce a single reason, analogy, or proof that there is no immortality. Let us read the first verse of the first chapter of Genesis thus: "In the beginning God. (thought) created the heavens and the earth." Let us humbly, but highly feel that we are or that thought, and thus consciously begin to think our way through an evolutionary maze to a Central celestial harmony and consciousness, is this not heaven?

TURKEY AND THE POWERS

The story that the Bulgarian Government has proceeded against the leaders of the Macedonian Committee in Sofia, even if true, should be considered in the light of subsequent advices from Constantinople containing the information that a joint note suggesting reforms in the Turkish provinces had been presented by the powers to the Porte. As the matter now stands, it is the opinion in European diplomatic circles that the Porte may demand as a quid pro quo for introducing the reforms suggested the future non-interference of Bulgaria, directly or indirectly, in the affairs of Macedonia and the permanent dissolution of the Macedonian Revolutionary Committee.

Since the agreement for concerted action was reached by Russia and Austria-Hungary several modifications have been made, in the scheme of reform, as it was originally published. The name of Macedonia has been struck out, and the chief points have become matters of general application. Before Germany joined the concert the scheme was as follows, and there is no reason to believe that further changes in it were required by the Berlin Government:

"1. The establishment of financial control over the collection of taxes in the European vilayets and over the payment of officials and troops.

"2. The reorganization of the gendarmerie in said vilayets by the selection of officers from the subjects of the neutral European States — Belgium, Holland and Switzerland.

"3. The signers of this note are desirous that the Sultan shall find it convenient to administer the affairs of the disaffected vilayets through some high personage, who has a personal knowledge of the requirements necessary in order to govern without friction a body of subjects differing in religion, mode of life and politics."

It is thought by M. Alcide Ebray, writing in Le Journal des Debats, that Turkey will accept the suggestions of the powers and put the reforms into immediate execution. "The Bulgarians would then be deprived of all pretext for intervention in Macedonia." But this is not the view generally entertained in diplomatic circles, where the influence of the Macedonian Revolutionary Committee, with Prince Ferdinand's Government and with the Bulgarian people at large, is not underrated.

One thing is taken for granted. It is that Russia is master of the situation, and that if it be to her object to maintain the status quo of the Balkans, she knows how to keep a tight hand on Sofia, and hence on the revolutionists, while if her interests demand an overhauling of the map of South-eastern Europe, she will allow Ferdinand's Government to take its own course in encouraging the revolutionists, which can only result in the invasion of Turkey by a Turkish army.

MUNIFICENCE OF CANADIAN PEERS

Lords Strathcona and Mount-Stephen Give Hospital $2,000,000

GIFTS MEAN ABOUT $80,000 PER ANNUM

King Edward Has Expressed His Appreciation of Such Practical Gift to Humanity

London, Feb. 27.—Lord Strathcona and Lord Mount Stephen have received the warmest personal thanks of the Prince of Wales for their munificence towards King Edward's hospital fund. Their gifts amount to $400,000 in securities which give the London fund at least £16,000 yearly. The King also expressed his keenest appreciation of such practical munificence at yesterday's meeting of the fund.

This splendid gift is the talk of London, and is everywhere commented on.

OUR CATTLE CANNOT ENTER

Mr. Hanbury, is Firm and the Commons Sustain Him in Maintaining the Embargo

London, Feb. 26—Canadain cattle cannot enter Great Britain. That is the ultimatum of Mr. R. W. Hanbury, the President of the Board of Agriculture, and his attitude has been endorsed by the House of Commons by a majority of 162. The subject was brought forward yesterday by Mr. Robert John Price, the Liberal member for East Norfolk, who moved an amendment in the address in reply to the King's speech, in which he asked for the repeal of the law, excluding Canadian store cattle from British markets.

The debate occupied the night session. Mr. Hanbury opposed the amendment on the ground that it would be a dangerous precedent to admit Canadian cattle, thus giving them preference over others.

He said he was anxious to meet the wishes of the colonies, but that ninety-nine per cent. of the farmers in Great Britain were opposed to the admission of Canadian store cattle, and nothing would induce him to abate a particle of the resent Act.

The amendment was rejected by 190 votes to 28.

PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND

Rapidly Repairs Wasted Tissues, Puts it in Firm Condition and Expels Waste Poisons From the System

The tissues of the human body are rapidly wasted by fevers, and great quantities of waste poison are poured into the blood. The rapid break down of tissue and the charging of the blood with poisons, bring unfortunate victims to a condition of weakness and helplessness that is pitiable to behold. Thousands of young and old who have just passed the critical stages of typhoid, inflammatory, gastric, typhus, intermittent and other forms of fevers, demand the closest attention and best treatment if life is to be saved.

With true candor, honesty and earnestness we suggest and urge the use of nature's nerve food and nourisher, Paine's Celery Compound, the only medicine in the world that has proved its value as a builder of wasted tissue, a bracer of weak and irritated nerves, a never-failing blood purifier and enricher. Paine's Celery Compound has made tens of thousands well and strong; it has saved afflicted ones from the grave when everything else has failed. No other medicine so quickly fortifies feeble men and women; it gives them that robust health that makes life a joy.

Workmen's Daredeviltries.

"I remember," said a bridge contractor some time ago while on the subject of workmen's daredeviltries, "when working at the big bridge across the Niagara, when the two cantilever arms had approached within fifty feet of each other, a keen rivalry as to who should be the first to cross sprang up among the men. A long plank connected the two arms, leaving about two and a half feet of support at each end. Strict orders were issued that no one should attempt to cross the plank upon penalty of instant dismissal. At the noon hour I suddenly heard a great shout from the men, who were all starting up. Raising my eyes, I saw a man step on the end of that plank, stop a minute, and look down into the whirlpool below. I knew he was going to cross, and I shouted to him, but he was too high up to hear. Deliberately he walked out until he reached the middle of the plank. It sagged far down with his weight until I could see light between the two short supporting ends and the cantilevers on which they rested. He saw the end in front of him do this, hesitated, and looked back to see how the other end was. I thought he was going to turn. He stopped, grasped both edges of the plank with his hands, and, throwing his feet up, stood on his head, kicking his legs in the air, cracking his heels together, and yelling to the terrified onlookers. This he did for about a minute—it seemed to me like forty. Then he let his feet drop down, stood up, waved his hat, and trotted along the plank to the other side, slid down one of the braces hand over hand, and regained the ground. We discharged him, of course, but what did he care? He got all the glory his fellows envied him, and he could command work anywhere."

New arrival—Well! Well! I had an idea that heaven was paved with gold.

To Set Her Free

(Copyrighted)

By Florence Warden.

Author of "The House in the Marsh," "A Prince of Darkness," etc.

"What's the matter?" he lisped out gently.

"Nothing, nothing," said Norma, who felt that she was choking. "It's—it's very sad to read about, you know."

But it was something besides sadness that she was feeling. She tried to think that it was all distress on Astley's account, that she was only sorry he was not free to console pretty Lady Myfanwy by marrying her and giving her the position she would have had as his cousin's wife. But in her heart of hearts she knew that it was jealousy she felt, a most unwarrantable and small-minded jealousy. She envied Lady Myfanwy his comforting words and looks, and his admiration, too.

The rest of the letter had little interest for her; all her thoughts were now centered in the girl who was as "lovely as a lily," the girl who, she told herself, would presently have been Astley's wife had it not been for his rashly chivalrous compact with herself.

She was half crazy with remorse and distress that day, and at night she wrote and posted this little sad letter in answer to his:

"Dear Astley—This is the eighth letter I have begun, and the sorrow I feel is greater than I can express. It is like you, in your constant unselfish kindness, to have written to me at all. I hope that when you can you will let me see you again, that I may try to say what I cannot write. Yours,

"NORMA."

It gave her a moment's throb of strange comfort to think that this letter from her would be in his hands within a few hours: she knew him too well to think that he would ever be anything but kind to her, badly as she felt she had treated him.

What, what could she do to make amends?

She heard nothing more until after the funeral, when Astley sent a hurried line to say that he should have to go to London on the following day, and that he would break his journey by a couple of hours at Oxford, in order to see her, and "talk things over."

Ominous words those to poor Norma, who felt that she could scarcely dare to meet his eyes.

He gave no indication of the time at which he would arrive in the town, from which fact Norma concluded that he did not want her to meet him, and worried herself accordingly.

It was when she was sitting in the drawing-room that afternoon with her aunt and Robert, trying to answer the latter's curious questions with good humor, that the door opened and Astley walked in.

None of them had heard his ring, and they all looked rather startled, the more so as he was very pale, and looked ill and worried.

Norma could not suppress a little cry as she sprang up. She, too, was pale as the dead: and as her great black eyes met those of her husband, there was in them an expression of piteous, passionate pleading for forgiveness that would have puzzled her aunt and Robert, if both had not been too much interested in the visitor to take any notice of her.

Astley shook hands with Mrs. Bascot and her son, who pressed forward to meet him, while Norma hung in the background, shaking like a leaf, humble, apologetic, wistful. He came towards her and held out his hand. Once more her black eyes, luminous with unshed tears, were raised in plaintive entreaty to his. He just held her hands for one moment, himself as white as she, and then, with a sudden impulse, bent down and kissed her forehead.

She gave a long, shivering sigh of relief and gratitude, and then, without a word, sank into the nearest chair.

To Mrs. Bascot and Robert this affectionate greeting between Astley and Norma seemed natural enough, and devoid of any peculiar significance. Husband and wife met in new circumstances, and both were affected and inclined to be silent. No inkling of the strange truth came into the mind of either Mrs. Bascot or her son, as they chirped and twittered about their guest, receiving him in a much more warm-hearted fashion than would have been the case if he had not come into a baronetcy and a fortune since they had met him last.

But he was anxious to speak with Norma alone, and he soon made the excuse of his journey to get away from the embarrassing attentions of his hostess.

"I've only an hour," said he, with a glance at his watch. "Will you come with me as far as the station, Norma?"

She bowed her head in shy assent, and at once went to put on her hat.

When they went silently out into the street together, after Astley's farewell to the others, it was he who recovered his self-possession first.

"Your aunt's very kind, but it was rather embarrassing to me to be wondering, as I couldn't help doing, how she would have received me if—if, well, if things hadn't turned out as they have done," said he gravely at last.

Norma drew a long breath.

"It was dreadful, dreadful," she whispered, as she kept pace with his slow, long steps, "to have to sit there and listen to their twaddle, and to wonder when I should have a chance of speaking to you. Oh, can you ever forgive me?"

Astley laid his hand very gently on her arm. The street was almost deserted; it was a raw, bitter January afternoon; they were almost as well able to converse as if they had been miles in the country or shut up in a room.

"Forgive you! What for?" said he, in his easy, half amused tone, the very tone she had sometimes reproached him with, when she wondered whether he could ever take anything seriously.

"I've spoilt your life," almost moaned Norma. "In my selfish wish to get free myself I've put a chain upon you for life. I didn't see what I was doing as I see it now. Oh, why did you let me do it? Why didn't you stop me?"

"There, there, don't be silly. It was of my own free will I did what I did. We knew very well we might not have done it if we had known exactly what was going to happen, but what's the use of worrying one's head about that now?"

Norma stopped short.

"You take it beautifully," said she fervently, "as you take everything, as I might have known you would take this. But oh! You ought to have let me do—do what I wanted to do, you know when—that first day you met me."

Her voice had sunk to a low, shamefaced whisper, her face was distorted with the strength of the emotion from which she was suffering.

Astley drew her hand through his arm, and patted it consolingly.

"Look here," said he, "you're a very wicked, ill-regulated little girl, and a terrible handful for anybody. I think it's a lucky thing you've got into the hands of someone who won't give way to your caprices, but who means to rule you with a rod of iron."

A stifled sob escaped Norma's lips.

"Oh, I'll do whatever you wish, whatever you tell me to," she hastened to say eagerly. "Only tell me, and I'll do it without a murmur, really, really."

She lifted a tear-stained, miserable face to his. Astley was touched.

"Even supposing I were to tell you to stay on at your aunt's, and make yourself as charming to her as you can?" said he, half playfully.

"Yes, yes, that or anything."

"And that I were to require you to promise not to mope?"

"Yes, yes, I'll do my best to keep my promise, in any way. But—" she hesitated, and suddenly tried to withdraw her hand. Astley would not suffer this. "But—if I'm to stay on here," she went on quickly, after a short, breathless pause, "will you—will you—is it asking too much—will you come and see me sometimes, just for a few minutes—I'd meet you at the station any time, if you didn't want to see them—as you were passing through between London and Lancashire?"

Her voice was broken and hoarse. Astley was inexpressibly touched.

"Why, how can you ask such a thing?" said he warmly. "Do you really think I meant to leave you all alone, to the tender mercies of the Bascots? No, no. Besides, have you considered what they would think, if I went up to Lancashire, and you stayed on here?"

Norma groaned.

"I haven't thought of anything," she murmured brokenly. "I've just—worried!"

"Well, well, you're not to worry any more. What do you say—" He paused, and looked down at her, still holding her arm in his, "to coming up to Darwen Haigh with me, coming on with me when I pass through on Saturday, eh?"

Norma trembled.

"I should like to," she whispered.

Then there was a pause.

"Do they know—up there?" she asked suddenly.

Astley hesitated.

"Well, no, they don't," said he. "But I could explain."

Norma drew her hand away with a sharply drawn breath.

"I'm in your way, in your way. You don't know what to do with me, what to do about me!" she cried, in a low voice indeed, but with great bitterness of soul.

Now this was indeed the truth, but Astley was much too kind-hearted to allow the statement to pass.

"Not a bit of it," said he. "I don't know why you say that. I shall be only too glad of your society. It's awfully lonely up there; nobody there to talk to except a man I detest—" and his face clouded as he spoke. "The doctor who attended poor Hugh."

"Dr. Wharles, whom you mentioned in your letter?"

"Yes, I loathe the man; prejudice I dare say; he married the sister—of my wife," he added after a short pause, in a lower voice.

Unreasonably enough, Norma felt a sudden pang because he did not say "my first wife."

"But—" began Norma.

Difficulties beset their path in every direction: difficulties which were all summed up in that one hesitating word. Astley threw back his head, with a reassuring gesture.

"We shall only be there a day or two," said he. "We shall have an opportunity for talking things over, shan't we? And settling what we'll do. You'll meet me at the station on Saturday—I'll let you know the time—jump into the train, and be off to Darwen Haigh. Luckily, you're in black, I see."

Norma blushed.

"I thought perhaps I'd better," faltered she.

"Quite, quite right. You have done exactly the right thing, in every way."

She felt a shy delight in his approval, but she said nothing. Almost in silence she walked beside him until they reached the station, listening while he told her of the difficulties he had had to contend with among the servants and dependents in his Lancashire home.

When he got into the railway carriage, and held out his hand for a last shake, she felt a keen sense of disappointment that he did not kiss her again, and went back to her aunt's house half miserable at this omission, half happy because he had been so kind.

She lived in a state of intense excitement the two days that passed before Saturday came round; and when the train steamed into the station, and she recognized Astley's face looking for her from one of the carriages, she felt a sudden impulse of joy such as she never remembered to have experienced before.

The result, however, of this sensation was that she was more shy with him than she had ever been before, and that she was as constrained as a schoolgirl as she sat in the opposite corner of the carriage, and felt quite glad that they were not alone.

Confronted thus with a sudden difficulty in the way of making conversation with her, Astley presently remarked that he had been followed home one night recently.

Before he could finish his sentence, Norma said quickly:

"I know: by a lady."

Astley stared in astonishment.

"I was going to say, by a dog," said he. "What made you say that?"

Norma grew very uncomfortable, as she answered in a low voice, telling him the fancy she had had that he was followed before he left Oxford.

Greatly to her relief, he appeared altogether surprised, and at once assured her that she must have been led away by her fancy.

He, however, asked for a description of the lady, which Norma gave as well as she could. But the result was that he was more sure than ever that her imagination had got the better of her, and that the woman whom she had seen had not been following him at all.

"If she had wanted to see me at the hotel, as you supposed," said he, "why should your entrance have prevented her coming back and asking for me? And if she had followed us to your aunt's house, and then followed me back, as you describe, why shouldn't she have spoken to me as soon as I was alone?"

Norma could not tell. She could only say that she supposed she must have been mistaken, and nothing more was said about the circumstance until they reached the station nearest to Darwen Haigh, where they found a carriage waiting for them.

As she got in, Norma uttered an exclamation.

"What's the matter?" asked Astley.

Norma was looking at a ladylike woman, neatly dressed in black, who had just walked away from the bookstall with a paper in her hand.

"That lady," said Norma in a low voice "reminds me of the one who came into your hotel at Oxford, and whom I fancied I saw following you."

"What!" asked Astley, with sudden pallor.

"Oh, it's not the same woman," explained Norma hastily. "But there's something indefinable about her that reminds me of her."

Astley did not recover his color.

"A lady only," he said, with a slight frown. "That's Mrs. Wharles, the doctor's wife."

Norma was sorry for the associations she had inadvertently called up in his mind. For she remembered that Mrs. Wharles was the sister of the woman whom Astley had married, and who had treated him so ill.

THE OZONE CO., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Gentlemen,—I have intended writing you for a long time regarding your preparation, Powley's Liquified Ozone. I think it is a grand remedy, as I am certain it has been the means of preventing myself and children from having that dread disease, consumption. We first commenced using it when my dear daughter had consumption in a very advanced stage, but she was too far gone to save her life. How I wish we had known of Ozone earlier, for I am sure if we had she would have been alive to-day. She was much troubled with her stomach, being unable to digest her food, so rapidly became worse. She was sick nearly a year before we heard of Ozone and decided to try it. It helped her and I know prolonged her life, but the disease had reached her bowels and it was impossible to save her. When she was in pain Ozone would give her almost instant relief, and I shall ever feel grateful to it for alleviating my poor child's suffering.

At the time, through overwork in caring for her, I was in very poor health myself, but Ozone built me up and restored my health. Last winter my baby, always a delicate little thing, had congestion of the lungs, and I am sure that Ozone saved her life.

Later I had eczema, when my leg was much swollen and inflamed I took Ozone internally and applied it externally and in a short time all trace of the disease was gone. One of my boys showed every indication of being likely to have consumption, his symptoms being similar to those of his poor sister. Ozone restored him to health and also cured his brother of a bad stomach trouble which the doctors could not help.

I am an enthusiast regarding Ozone and have every reason to be for it did much to relieve the suffering of myself and little ones. As a family medicine it has no equal and I would not feel safe without it in the house at all times. In cases of grippe it is particularly good, giving prompt relief and effecting a speedy cure. I have recommended it to many others, who in turn are now sounding its praises.

Yours truly,
MRS. J. WILSON,
12 Pearl Street, Guelph.

Ozone Is a Great Household Remedy For Just One Reason, viz: "It Cures Disease by Destroying Disease Germs Wherever Located."

"For a long time," writes one correspondent, "I was opposed to the use of Powley's Liquified Ozone because I regarded it as a cure-all. That was before I understood Ozone as well as I do now. I could not understand how one remedy could cure so many widely different diseases. I did not know then what I have since learned by experience, that is that Ozone cures disease by destroying the germs that cause it."

No extravagant claims are made for Ozone and Ozone will not work miracles, although some of the cures it effects may appear almost miraculous. The only claim made for it is that it destroys disease germs and that it does speedily and thoroughly.

Doctors, Druggists and Clergymen Endorse Ozone.

The doctors, druggists and clergymen of the Dominion have long recognized the fact that Ozone possesses exceptional merit. The following are samples of the many letters we have received:

DR. SHIER, LINDSAY, ONT.

Powley's Liquified Ozone is a preparation I respect and of which I have seen good results. D. W. SHIER, M.D., Lindsay, Ont.

A. BOYCE, SYDENHAM, ONT.

For a small place like this town the sales of Powley's Liquified Ozone are good and the prevailing opinion of its merits are such that in almost every case the customer comes back for more. One customer received great benefit in a case of lung trouble and gives it great praise. In my own family my wife and daughter, after suffering from a bad cough nearly all last winter, were cured of it early in the spring with one large bottle in a surprisingly short time. ALBERT BOYCE, Druggist.

REV. EDWARD SOFTLEY, GRIMSBY, ONT.

I have pleasure in giving my testimony to the value of Powley's Liquified Ozone, which cured my daughter of nervous debility with insomnia when ordinary medical assistance failed to do so.

I consider it fully entitled to public confidence as a valuable remedy.

(Signed) REV. EDWARD SOFTLEY.

WARNING In buying be sure to get Powley's Liquified Ozone. As a safeguard to your own good health it will pay you to exercise this precaution. Powley's Liquified Ozone is sold only by reliable dealers and is never peddled. Price, 50 cents and $1.00 per bottle.

CHAPTER VIII.

During the whole of the drive to Darwen Haigh, Norma was suffering so terribly from nervous distress that she could scarcely give reasonable attention to the remarks Astley made.

He was nervous, too, and both were too fully conscious of the difficulties of their extraordinary relation to each other not to feel a diffidence about discussing them.

The road seemed unspeakably dreary to Norma, who had never been in the bleak north country before. As the carriage clattered through the streets of Blackdale, a typical Lancashire town, with rows of bare stone houses, and with a distant view of tall factory chimneys in the background, she thought to herself that it was not surprising that the late Sir Hugh had preferred his yacht and his London hotel to the dreary spot where his home lay.

This feeling was intensified when they had passed through the town, and were driving along a straight, hedgeless road towards Darwen Haigh. At last she was fain to express what she thought.

"How dreary it all looks!" she said with a shudder, after a glance out of the

PEOPLE ON THE SUN

According to a Well Known Indiana Astronomer's Claim

La Porte, Ind., Feb. 25—Alexander Young, of La Porte, an astronomer, yesterday announced that from observations made by him; he is confident that the sun is inhabited; that with his instruments he has seen on the sun's surface mountains with great and precipitous rocks which glow with prismatic colors, mingled with the greenness of a perennial vegetation and with a floral radiance more beautiful than on earth.

Besides these mountains he says he saw valleys and plains where people live.

He says the solar spectrum is a division of the component parts of the electric current proceeding from the sun after it enters the confines of the earth's atmosphere, upon which is electrographed the image of the solar fields of color and which spread over the vast surface of the sun.

Yet one of the ways that LEAD TO FORTUNE

Why not make a small investment in oil lands right ahead of [illegible] producing wells, some having wells producing oil on adjoining farms? The oil now brings [illegible] per barrel, bought by the Standard Oil Co., which pay transportation charges, and is bound to go higher; a few hundred dollars often invested in property of this kind yields thousands of dollars profit. I personally know of parties who made over [illegible] in [illegible] days time on an investment of this kind; also have wells making from [illegible] to [illegible] barrels a day. Parties desiring to organize a company will do well to investigate this opportunity, getting thereby the advantage of years of experience, and if you don't want to drill the wells wait until the wells drilling close to you have come in and reap the benefit of their outlay. The oil business conducted on business principles, with honest management, is bound to succeed. You do not have to look farther than the Standard Oil Co. to see what honest management founded on facts will produce, they have drawn very heavily on [illegible] the past three years and there is not enough of the grade of oil now above ground to run the country for more than two years, so you can readily see the profits that will be realized by starting now and obtaining the big price the Standard Oil Co. will be compelled to pay for crude oil to supply the demands of the country. An Opportunity

We are offering for public subscription a limited amount of stock of exceptional merit affording an unusual opportunity for a very profitable investment. We desire to be conservative in our representations, but do not hesitate to state that the stocks of the properties we are representing are absolutely certain to rapidly increase in value, and the fortunate purchasers of the stock at the present prices will have more than reason to congratulate themselves for grasping this opportunity.

Success lies in being alive to that which is going on around you, and they who "grasp the skirts of happy chance can breast the blows of circumstance."

We have the disposition of a certain amount of treasury stock in four corporations. We have thoroughly investigated the present value of the properties owned by the Companies, and have full cognition of the immense profits that are awaiting only the further development and equipment of the properties.

We are offering an equal number of shares in each of the four corporations at a price that makes the combined issue a most attractive feature, giving also to the purchaser an unusual safe guard on his or her investment; in other words, you are not placing all your eggs in one basket. Or if you prefer you can purchase separately the stocks we offer.

As the money received from the sale of the stock is strictly for the purpose of equipping the properties with the necessary machinery, etc., the time will not be long before handsome dividends are available. We are not asking your subscriptions to pay for the properties; they are already owned by the Companies, and there are no outstanding obligations.

This preliminary notice is to advise the public in general that an opportunity now presents itself for a safe investment of unusual character, embodying also speculative possibilities sufficiently great to make even a small investor a competency within a few years.

You can invest in any amount from Ten Dollars up, and, if so desired, you can have the privilege of paying in installments the amount of stock paid for from time to time being non-forfeitable in the event of your ceasing payments, thus relieving those of small or uncertain income from possibility of loss, should they for any reason become unable to continue payments.

Our business is to aid responsible Companies in the disposal of their treasury stock for the thorough equipment of their properties; we do not and will not handle indiscriminate mining or other stocks under any circumstances. We make a thorough personal examination and investigation as to the merits and possibilities before undertaking to assist in financing any Corporation; the paramount issue with us is to give complete satisfaction and cause much success to our patrons.

We have furnished the publishers of The Times with an outlined description of the Companies we represent, and the names of the Directors of each Company whose stock we offer to their subscribers and friends. We have also furnished The Times with bank references as to our own bona fides and standing. We desire to command the utmost confidence of all subscribers and to retain same along with their friendship for all time; you add a share without effort and increase our brain and labor; you increase your [illegible] without effort and increase our power to make you still richer. In ordinary everyday experience a man's expenses nearly equal his income and he has little chance to make a turn for the betterment of his condition. This is anyone's opportunity; you can invest Ten Dollars or One Thousand Dollars on the same basis as one who invests Ten Thousand Dollars. You cannot afford to neglect your opportunities and this is a chance to get in on the ground floor and reap the profits of substantial, quick money making enterprises. Your money need not be tied up for a long time; we know that one of the Companies, at least, will pay handsome dividends this year. It is an easy matter to become rich; just watch for the opportunity and take advantage of it. This is your opportunity; will you grasp it?

INTERNATIONAL ELECTRIC MINING Co

185 SUMMER ST., - BOSTON, MASS.

A Dividend Payer for the Past Five Years.

12 PER CENT GUARANTEED

Capital Stock, $500,000. Par, $1.00, full paid and non-assessable

Over eight thousand tons of $50.00 ore mined and smelted from this group of mines.

A limited number of shares of the stock of this Company now offered at seventy-five cents per share. This price will shortly be increased to par. Stock registered by the International Trust Company, Boston, who is also the transfer agent.

This Company has a small capital stock.

The International Electric Mining Company owns seven mines and milling plant.

The Brooklyn and New York mines of this Company lie north of and join the Victor and the Hoodlum—two rich mines that are now being worked by California parties. On the west lies the Electric Mining Company's mines. In these mines are millions of dollars' worth of rich ore in sight. On the south, adjoining the Berlin mine of this Company, is the Montazuma and Clipper. From the Montazuma over three million dollars has been taken within 50 feet of the grass roots.

This Company owns free and clear seven mines of twenty acres each, all containing rich ore, located in the Arabia and Trinity mining districts, Humboldt County, Nevada. The Company has worked these mines for the past five years, and is now driving a tunnel to cut out a rich ledge about 300 feet from the surface. The Arabia mining district, in which these mines are located, is a lively district—a great many men being employed there. The tunnel now being driven on the Brooklyn mine has about 350 feet already completed. When the tunnel cuts the main ledge, which has just been reached by the Victor tunnel about 600 feet, the Brooklyn will have about 300 feet stoping ground, which runs high in gold and silver, over $50.00 per ton.

The Company is offering for a short time a limited amount of stock for the enlargement of its plant and the working force at the mines and for the completion of the Brooklyn tunnel.

This Company has thousands of tons of rich ore in sight.

We are not making a lot of talk, because it is unnecessary. What the investor wants is dividends, which we have paid for the past five years. Now if you want a safe 12 per cent. investment, let us hear from you.

THE OLD COMSTOCK

A California mining paper has this to say: "Nevada, that grand old stamping ground of mushroom millionaires, who plucked enough wealth from her prolific fields to build mansions, banks and big hotels in San Francisco, and palaces in Paris and London, is again astonishing the world by making more millionaires and by yielding millions in gold and silver from a new field which rivals the old Comstock lode in the days of its pristine splendor. Not only in Tonopah and Arabia districts, where within the past year nearly ten millions have been exposed, are operations active, but in every mining district in the Silver State are operations active, and Nevada will once more take her place among the big producers, the peer of any of them."

Dear Sir,—During the six months of October and November of this year I visited the mines of the International Electric Mining Company, situated in Arabia and Trinity mining districts, Humboldt County, Nevada. I found the country remarkably mineralized; in fact, the possibilities of the country as a mineral producing country are yet unknown. For years it certainly has produced well. The work now being done in the Arabia and Trinity districts establishes the fact that they are fine producers.

I also found that there is a great deal of interest being taken in those properties, which have produced a great deal of wealth the past quarter of a century.

ADVERTISE IN 'THE TIMES' NOW

Curious Courtship Clubs.

The city of New York boasts a club which has for its object the promotion of aimless courtship, in so far as matrimony is concerned. A number of young men there have banded themselves together to make love to damsels who, instead of looking for proposals, are content with what is called "a good time."

Their knights escort them to theaters, picnics, and other amusements, make them presents, and are generally attentive even to a greater degree than the ordinary enamored swain. Couples who break the rules of the club by marrying have to pay a fine of fifty dollars, and are forever banished from the club. One or two couples have already paid this fine and entered into the forbidden state, a dinner on each occasion being held by the club to console the members for their loss.

An equally curious club has for some time been in existence in Chicago. It is composed of young men, all of whom bear the Christian name of Joseph, and who have entered into a solemn compact to woo no girls except those bearing the Christian name of Mary. The club has a considerable membership, and it is a noteworthy fact that, so far, its rule has never been broken. From the names it might be thought that this novel organization was of Scriptural origin; but such is not the fact.

It originated in this manner: While out on an excursion one summer three couples chanced to meet whose names, by a strange coincidence, happened to be Joseph in the case of the males and Mary in the case of the damsels. It was thereupon decided to form a club of Josephs, who for sweethearts should only look amongst the Marys of Porkopolis, and thus the club was formed.

What may be termed a mutual protection courtship club exists at Arcola, in the State of Illinois. The object of this order is to keep young men who are not members from paying attentions to any lady friends of a member. One outsider who came poaching on the club's preserves was rather roughly handled.

In yet another town a lovers' club was started which its promoters were soon very glad to drop. Its object was to compel the courted damsels to pay their own expenses wherever they might be escorted, the members undertaking only to pay for themselves, either at the theater or elsewhere.

This put the girls of the town on their mettle, and they soon gave their stingy swains to understand that if they had to pay their way they would choose their own company. To show their independence, they took their pleasures without male escort for some time, but when due apology had been made the old relations were graciously permitted to be renewed. And, as one of them put it, the girls then had a "perfectly lovely time," the young men lavishing their money right and left upon them as evidence of repentance and reparation for the past.

The Man Behind the Mask.

A sympathetic picture of the Chinese laundryman is painted by a writer in the New Orleans "Times." "John" lives among us, patient, industrious, and often despised by those who know too little of him even to regard him as a fellow-being. Yet if we knew the human history that lies behind that yellow mask we should not doubt that here also dwells a soul of like dignity with our own. Says the writer:

Next door to my lodging is one of those squat little houses which now and then you find next to a big mansion. On the lower floor of the small house was a Chinese laundry. In it was a Chinaman about twenty-five years of age. His face was as imperturbable as the sky. He went about his business with the undeviating regularity of the solar system. At first he was an ordinary Chinese laundryman to me, but my attention became riveted upon him and my curiosity was awakened.

The man seemed to live merely for his work. When I came in at two o'clock in the morning I found him with the lights turned high, patiently working at his calling. If I rose early in the morning, that prodigy of industry was up before me. I gradually became filled with wonder at the untiring persistency of the man. Because of his neatness and politeness and exquisite care to please, the neighborhood never thought of sending its laundry anywhere else.

I began to carry my things in person to the Chinaman, urged on by the desire of finding out something about him. I reasoned that no man, white or yellow, could work as he did without being dominated by an all-absorbing purpose. I found him intelligent. He could speak English well. Finally I won his confidence.

The young Chinaman was in love. A girl in China was waiting for him, and he was patiently and bravely undergoing the hardest kind of toil in order to go back to his native country and marry her.

When he told me the story I forgot that he was a Chinaman; I remembered only that he was a man, working like a man to earn a wife, and withal, despite these meagre, unpoetical surroundings, cherishing all the dreams of a young man whose sweetheart is far away.

All in the Point of View.

"What an immense undertaking some people seem to make out of nothing at all," said a matron. "To those who really bear the burdens and heat of the day the strenuous efforts of the self-indulgent woman would be amusing, if it was not so provoking to hear her complaints when they consider the why and the wherefore. In a month or two from now fortune's favorite will have to open her house in town, and she will undoubtedly be perfectly worn out with the effort of having the rooms cleaned and more or less reorganizing her household. To be sure, she will not personally have to exert herself in the very least; neither will she have to pay the bills. Nevertheless, she will feel the task to be herculean, and will talk to all who will listen to her as if she could not stand the strain." "Such a rush and a worry! I am nearly dead!" said one of these heroines, speaking of her great obligations. "The amount of work I have done and still have to do is appalling. Just as soon as I have a breathing spell I shall have to go to the Hot Springs to recuperate."

"Now, what do you suppose she has really done?" [illegible] of the group to whom the overwork woman had been speaking, as the last rustled languidly away. "Done!" echoed another; "why, she has probably told one woman to scrub the paint, and another to put up the curtains." And they all laughed unsympathetically.

The Poisoned Candies

Winnipeg, Feb. 24—The next stage in the poison chocolate mystery at Gold Rock, near Wabigoon, Ont., was the arrest on Sunday of Chiverton. He was taken to Rat Portage, and the case awaits the arrival of Detective Hammond for investigating the affair. Chiverton hails from New Brunswick. He is 22 years of age, threshed last fall in Manitoba, and has been working in the Rat Portage Lumber Company's camp at Minnitaki all winter. Chiverton is the man who purchased the box and distributed the candies.

King Edward Has Expressed His Appreciation of Such Practical Gift to Humanity

London, Feb. 27.—Lord Strathcona and Lord Mount Stephen have received the warmest personal thanks of the Prince of Wales for their munificence towards King Edward's hospital fund. Their gifts amount to £400,000 in securities which give the London fund at least £16,000 yearly. The King also expressed his keenest appreciation of such practical munificence at yesterday's meeting of the fund.

This splendid gift is the talk of London, and is everywhere commented on.

The Floating Hells of the Atlantic.

If the sensational charges made in a book recently published in London ("At the Closed Door," by Robert H. Sherrard) have any foundation, there are indescribably hellish scenes enacted in the strange cabins of many of the Atlantic liners. The book is reviewed and some extracts given in "Truth." In order to spy out the nakedness of the land, Mr. Sherrard took steerage passage in a French liner to find the ship a floating hell to those who were too poor to bribe the stewards:

"One of the most cruel weapons used by the steerage stewards to bring to reason persons who were unreasonable as to paying the fee they were ordered not to pay, was the privation of drinking water. The women and little children suffered dreadfully for want of it during the throes of sea-sickness. Yet water there was in plenty. On the night of the 14th a body of women, with children in their arms, went aft, surrounded the padlocked cistern, and clamored for water. They were driven off with abuse and violence."

Hence water for washing was, of course, unobtainable—if it was wanted; but such was the indescribable, inconceivable filth of many of Mr. Sherrard's fellow-passengers that they would not have washed at Elisha's bidding in Jordan itself. "Of all animals in creation," he says, speaking from the depths of this poignant experience, "man, when he is dirty, is the very dirtiest." But the unwashen Jews found their way to the front of this crowd and crush with their usual sinuous and pushing perseverance:

"The timid and diffident went to the wall; the others, and amongst these the Jews, were noticeably prominent, encroached, and widely extended their privileges. There were three hideous little Jewish boys, whom I saw during the whole of the voyage, laden with delicacies from first-class kitchens. I often noticed them walking about on the first-class deck."

The sufferings of this "middle passage," however, were as nothing to the sufferings which—according to Mr. Sherrard—the penniless emigrants had to endure on Ellis Island, where they are detained by the New York authorities for weeks and even months together, before being packed back, as destitutes, to Europe. "From Havre onwards we had been treated much as sheep, or, perhaps, as pigs; but on landing we might consider ourselves dangerous and maleficent animals." In truth, men, women and children were bludgeoned—their jailers were all armed with bludgeons—on little or no provocation. Here is one specimen scene:

"At five o'clock we were ordered upstairs for supper. A man with filthy hands filled our hats or handkerchiefs with mouldy prunes. Another thrust two lumps of bread into our hands. Supervising the distribution was a foul-mouthed Bowery rough in his shirt-sleeves, who danced upon one of the tables and poured forth upon us torrents of obscene and blasphemous abuse. Nor did he content himself with this demonstration of the contempt in which he held us, for I saw him drag one old man, a long-bearded Polish Jew in a gaberdine, past the barrel of prunes by the hair of the face, and I saw him kick another emigrant, a German, on the head with his heavy boot."

Perhaps it may be said that these penniless people had no business to give the States Government the trouble of reshipping them to their homes. But, in the first place, many of the telegrams entrusted to the jailers for forwarding to well-to-do relatives in New York were burked, and the money—often a gross overcharge—pocketed; and, in the second place, these hapless wretches on this Devil's Island were lured to New York by an unscrupulous emigration agent:

"In the many conversations I had that afternoon with various people of various nationalities, in almost every instance I heard the blame for all suffering laid on the agent who had sold the steamship ticket without troubling to explain the [illegible]

"It's wonderful," said the meditative man, "how one small word, insignificant in itself, may induce an endless train of thought, speaking volumes in fact." "Yes," replied the caustic man. "Take the word 'but,' for instance, when a woman says 'Of course, it's none of my business, but'"—Philadelphia "Press."

Stories of the Czar of Russia.

Talk of the Czar's abdication is renewed by the unfortunate occurrence in the Russian imperial household which has now again dashed the wish of Nicholas for an heir. The young ruler of all the Russias is a perennially interesting personality. He is a curious contrast to his father. In disposition, as well as in bodily presence, he differs strangely from his parent. Alexander was not a highly educated man. His elder brother Nicholas had been carefully taught and trained for the responsibilities he was to bear, but his death, at the age of twenty-two, placed Alexander in the position of heir to the throne, and he was then too old to learn, nor could he afford the necessary time. Before he succeeded to the throne, a very unfortunate incident occurred which proved how cruel he could be. An officer of Swedish origin had been sent to the United States to order rifles for the Russian army. On his return he had to report to the Czarewitch, who was appointed to superintend the re-arming of the troops. During the interview the Prince lost his temper and began to scold sharply. The officer replied with dignity, whereupon Alexander fell into a fit of fury, and loaded the man with insult. The man bowed himself out of the royal presence, went home and wrote a letter to the heir-apparent, asking him to apologize within twenty-four hours, adding that if the apology did not come he would shoot himself. The Czarewitch took no notice, sending neither excuse nor apology, and the officer kept his word. The Czar heard the story and was very angry with his son, and ordered him to follow the hearse of the officer to the grave. But even this terrible lesson failed to cure Alexander of his haughtiness. The gentle ways of the present Czar, and his unwillingness to hurt the feelings of anyone, are in sharp contrast to the cruelty of the father.

Unlike his father, he makes a point whenever it is possible, of driving out alone with the Empress and with a small attendance. He does not give notice of his drives and walks abroad, and is often quite unnoticed. The late Czar, when he drove out, had the streets lined with troops, and always drove in a splendid equipage surrounded by his guards and attendants, while the police now seldom know in what direction their Emperor means to drive. The etiquette of the Russian court also has become much less strict since the accession of Nicholas II. and all his subjects are allowed admission to his presence. The peasants will travel hundreds of miles to bring their petitions to him, for they know that the Czar will personally receive them and will himself read what they have written. He is grave in public, but in private he is full of fun, and very fond of chaffing the members of his intimate circle. The Czarina exactly suits her husband and a happier family life cannot be imagined. Her Majesty is almost always with the Czar, even when he is at work.

More than one good story is told of the Czar's sarcasms and repartee. On one notable occasion he reduced a Russian general to a frightful state of consternation. It happened soon after his accession, and before his coronation, that he was cycling in the park at Gatschina wearing, as was his wont, the uniform of a colonel. Something having gone wrong with his chain he got off to adjust it, and, just at that moment, a pompous general from a distant province passed. Not receiving the salute due to him, the officer stepped up to the supposed colonel and peremptorily requested an explanation of the seeming discourtesy. "I am so sorry," said the Czar sweetly, "I have not yet had the honor of becoming acquainted with you, owing to the shortness of my reign, or I should, of course, have done so."

A prominent Russian statesman is such a perfect double of the Czar that he is often taken for his imperial ruler. "Count ——," said the considerate ruler of Russia, to his double, "why don't you alter your appearance somewhat—shave off your beard, for instance? You, knocking about as you do, and so resembling your unfortunate Emperor, run terrible risks—frightful risks." "What!" exclaimed the faithful count. "What, I resembling Your Imperial Majesty as I do, alter my face? Never, sir, never!" "Ah, well, Count ——," replied the Czar, smiling and shrugging his shoulders, "as you will not alter your face yourself, some of my Nihilist subjects will alter it for you, I fear."

A characteristic story of the Czar's love of simplicity has been going the rounds of St. Petersburg lately. A certain lieutenant who was in a perpetual state of impecuniosity was one day seen riding in a street car. The other officers of the regiment were furious at what they called an insult to the uniform and intimated to the culprit that he had the option of sending in his papers or being cashiered, and the unlucky subaltern took the former alternative. Before he had time to do so, however, the Czar heard of the affair, and without a moment's delay donned a colonel's uniform of the regiment in question, and sauntering out of his palace hailed a car, entered it and sat calmly down until it stopped in front of the barracks. He desired the officers to be called, and addressed them thus: "Gentlemen, I have just ridden from the palace in a street car, and I wish to know if you desire me to send in my papers? I presume I have disgraced my uniform." "Sire," replied the major, nervously, "Your Majesty could never do that." "Then," replied the Czar with an amused smile, "as I have not degraded the uniform, Lieutenant D. cannot have done so, and will thus retain his commission in this regiment, even if he, like me, dares to ride in a public conveyance."

The Czarina is as fond of a joke and a prank as is her lord. During last summer's visit to Kiel she and her sister, Princess Heinrich, were paying a visit on Sunday morning to an art shop in the Danische Strasse. A crowd of inquisitive citizens waited outside to see the ladies come out, and it was a crowd which increased every minute. Half an hour, and an hour went by, and still the expectant ones waited in vain, until a whisper went round that the Czarina and the Princess were back at the Schloss. On perceiving the denseness of the crowd Her Imperial Majesty asked the manager if he had not a back exit to his house. She was told the way was barred by a low wooden fence. "Oh, we can manage that," laughed the Russian Empress, "if you can lend us a ladder." That useful article was found and placed against the boarding, and over sprang the royal ladies, thoroughly enjoying the fun. They went through the court, reached the street on the other side, and regained the Schloss, not far away, in a few minutes.

A little philanthropy covers a multitude of fraud.

The Cracker Jack as an Investment

APPEALS TO THE CONSERVATIVE

THE CRACKER JACK group of mining claims consists of 120 acres of property in the Cracker Creek district, Baker county, Eastern Oregon. This group of claims contains the extension of the Cracker Oregon veins on the south; a split from the E. & E on the southwest and parallel values of the North Pole mine on the west.

The trend of values in the Mother Lode system of this district is NORTHWARD. It starts in the Golconda and continues through the Columbia, E. & E., Cracker, Oregon, and North Pole, increasing in value up to and into the Cracker Jack claims.

In four months the Cracker-Oregon stock advanced from 25 cents to $1.00—its par value. In four months the Golconda stock increased more than 100% over its original selling price.

The Cracker Jack contains the valves. They can be traced; the veins out crop and the focus of the richest fissures is in the Cracker Jack property.

The Cracker Jack is not a mine; neither is it merely a prospect. It has been proved. Next April a force of men will be put to work and development will be continued day and night.

This is a tunnel proposition. It can be opened by a series of tunnels and shafts, and the free milling ore can be treated on the property. As an investment, the Cracker Jack is secure. It has vast ore bodies as its security; it has a conservative management as further security.

The policy of the Cracker Jack Consolidated Gold Mines Company is to open this rich property, build a mill and PAY DIVIDENDS. This is an investment for conservative men. It is not sensational. The mine will produce ore just as rich in value as that brought out by any of the surrounding properties.

The stock will advance in price and it will earn.

This is a proposition that commends itself to investigation of the most searching kind. Look into it, learn something of its directorate; find out if these claims are well founded. In other words, write for a prospectus to

THE STOCK HOLDER UPON MONEY

New York, Feb. 27.—Money is again before the financial mind as a topic. The situation therefore is tersely summed up by the New York Stock Holder as follows: It is now believed by many well informed bankers that no gold will be exported at present. It is in prospect that money rates will harden somewhat in view of the recent loss in reserves, which is usually incident to this season, and this will probably check a movement which has been in progress for five weeks, and which has been one of the direct causes of both the strength in the sterling exchange and the increase in bank loans in New York. This movement was that of paying off sterling loans and the replacing of same in New York. The decline in money rates here early in January and the maintenance of money rates in London made it unprofitable to renew maturing time loans there, and as a result many millions of sterling loans have been paid off. This naturally increased the loan account here. There are no indications, however, that the rates of money will advance to any important extent, as both Paris and Berlin will have an abundance of cheap funds. This supply our bankers can command easily, as there is a foreign fair profit in using foreign funds here, and as our foreign debt has now been reduced to comparatively small proportions, a freshy recourse to Europe and financial centres can be made with safety and with advantage. This pertinent summing up of the money situation is most careful and very correct. There will be no stringency. Gold will be more likely to be held here, and if shipments could occur they will be smaller in amount for the reasons above enumerated. Fears as to the outlook for money are absolutely groundless. The country is so prosperous that almost every trunk line and road of importance has been in the money market for additional capital to further improve their facilities for the proper handling of the vast amount of business offering. This state of affairs is bound to continue, and the railway managers know it otherwise they would not add these great improvements. Iron and steel continue in such demand that they are of necessity imported in enormous quantities, home production falling so far behind consumption. This is without doubt the best barometer from which to gauge the future.

Summary—The market at opening today looked somewhat weak, but after the first half hour rallied, but remained dull until the delivery hour, when stocks sold off sharply. L. N. declined about 2 points. (Wabash securities especially. The preferred showed excellent strength, the latter opening at 63 5-8, selling up to 65 1-4. Any further reaction tomorrow in anticipation of bad news, should be ignored, as conditions are such that prices should reach a better level early in the week. Money closed last loan, 4 per cent. Sales 640,300.

DYNAMITE EXPLODED FIVE MEN INJURED

Had it Been Fifteen Minutes Later Thirty Might Have Been Involved

Port Hope, Feb. 26—A bad accident happened on the new double track near Port Britain yesterday afternoon, while five men were eating their dinner in the blacksmith shop. One of the men had been thawing out some sticks of dynamite beside the boiler. Suddenly the dynamite exploded and Robert Hewson, and K. Bromnell were very seriously hurt, while the other three got off with less serious injuries. Robt. Hawson had his head and face badly torn. The side of his cheek was torn open. His injuries were dressed by Dr. Corbett. K. Bromnell had his face badly cut, and it is not known whether his jawbone is broken or not. He was attended by Dr. Powers and sent to the Toronto hospital on the flyer. The blacksmith shop was blown into fragments.

The accident occurred at noon and only four men were in the vicinity. Had it happened fifteen or twenty minutes later thirty or more men would have been in the building, which was wrecked.

in the 190 foot shaft of The Electric Spark Gold Mining Company's property is an absolute assurance of large dividends at no distant day; and those who buy now, and take advantage of this exceptional opportunity will make from 50 to 100 per cent. yearly on their investment.

There has never been a mining investment offered where the future value of the property could be more clearly shown than in this, or where the returns could be estimated more certainly or accurately.

It is simply a question of time and work. The risk has all been taken, and the investor today can look forward to future dividends with certainty and satisfaction. Incorporated as we are for only $200,000, par value $1.00, makes the stock all the more valuable, and located in the midst of some of the best mines in Gilpin County, Colorado, the smallest county in the State, which in 1902 produced $4,000,000.00, is another assurance of a big dividend payer.

By permission the Company refers to the Rocky Mountain National Bank, and the Weekly Register Call, of Central City, Colorado.

"THE FRIDAY MINE"

Located at Pearl, Willow Creek, Boise County, Idaho

About 20 Miles Northwest of Boise City

THE FRIDAY GOLD MINING CO. is a corporation duly organized under the laws of the State of Oregon, with head office at Sumpter, Oregon, owning and controlling "The Friday Mine." Capital stock [illegible], divided into 1,000,000 shares. Par value [illegible] per share, fully paid and non-assessable, no personal liability. 200,000 shares have been set aside and placed in the treasury of the Company to be sold for the purpose of equipping the "Friday Mine" with machinery. It is for this purpose we are offering you stock in this great mine. This plant will handle 50 tons of Friday ore every 24 hours. The general average of the Friday ore is over [illegible] per ton. The ore as it was shipped to the smelters at Salt Lake averaging over [illegible] per ton. The Friday is highly developed; great quantities of ore blocked out and in sight ready for the mill. As soon as the mill is completed the Friday Mine will again pay dividends.

Large ore bodies which will net to the company [illegible] for the first few months, are now blocked out ready for the mill. As soon as the mill is completed you will draw your regular monthly dividend. It is safe, certain and conservative.

We are not soliciting your money for the purpose of developing the mine, but only for the purpose of erecting a mill to work the ore bodies in the mine. The company is officered by men of well known business ability, mining experience and strict integrity.

Hon. Martin H. Jacobs, State Mining Inspector of mines, for the State of Idaho says "The Friday has a large amount of good ore in sight, and there is no question about its being a good paying property."

Thunder Mountain!

is the richest gold producing camp in the United States, and also the largest. The Thunder Mountain district, in central Idaho, is twenty miles wide and forty miles long. In comparison with this we have Cripple Creek, four miles wide and seven miles long. In many of the Thunder Mountain mines ore has already been reached that carries ONE THOUSAND DOLLARS IN GOLD TO THE TON. All of the Thunder Mountain ore is free milling, which means that it can be treated by the cheapest extraction process known—the ordinary stamp mill. It can be both mined and milled at a cost not to exceed $2 a ton. The past years operations in the several working mines have opened up millions of tons of ore that will give a net profit of from $10 to $30 a ton, enabling the respective companies to pay dividends at a rate never before equalled. Such is the showing and the prospect of the

EAST DEWEY GOLD MINING CO.

which unless all indications are at fault, will become the largest producer in the district. The EAST DEWEY mine, which it owns outright, is located directly on Thunder Mountain, just east of the famous "Dewey" mine which already has [illegible] of ore in sight. The surface area of the East Dewey mine is one hundred and twenty acres—six full quartz claims. The company has also secured the big GOLDEN GATE mine, in the Big Creek section of the Thunder Mountain district—which has been so aptly termed "The Pot of Gold"—and is now developing the mine with all possible speed. For a distance of 9000 feet, nearly two miles, the Golden Gate mines cover a mineralized ledge that is 900 feet wide, with an average height above the tunnel level of 500 feet, thus giving it the largest exposed tonnage of any mine in the west.

If you would share in the enormous profits which these figures indicate and which these developments promise, invest your money in "East Dewey" Stock. It can be bought to-day for 10 Cents a Share. Its par value is $1.

If the East Dewey mines are what they appear to be, and there is absolutely no reason to doubt or question these indications, this stock will eventually be worth at least $10 a share, and to-day you can buy it for ten cents. PRICE ADVANCES TO FIFTEEN CENTS ON FEBRUARY 28th. 5% discount allowed for cash. Stock sold at flat price of 10 cents on deferred payments, 10% with application, and 10% monthly until paid. Full particulars, prospectus, etc., on request.

$20,000,000 blocked out ready for The Hoodlum claim which adjoins the mill in the former. $5,000,000 in the Victor 6 claims on Argus Mountain in the latter. All can be mined [illegible] and 6 in Limerick Canyon, all and milled for less than [illegible] per ton. with big ore value yet to figure on.

The Greatest Mining Proposition of Modern Times

This company has demonstrated its ability to produce ore at a profit and pay regular monthly dividends under the most adverse circumstances. Only the highest grade could be shipped and cost upwards of $25 per ton. With a mill it can be treated at less than $2 per ton. The company has nearly enough money to pay for the mill, which they promise to have in operation by April 1st, 1903.

WHAT INVESTORS SHOULD KNOW.

Is the management honest and able? Investigate and learn the facts.

A Limited Amount of Stock for Sale.

Present price, $1.00 per share, will soon be advanced again. A 50-ton mill will be in operation at the Arizona mine probably in January and dividends increased. This company will stand the most rigid investigation. Write for prospectus.

Some Plain Talk

Dr. Chamberlain, inspector of prisons, make the startling statement that nine-tenths of the people who are sent to gaol as lunatics are old people who are perfectly sane, but whose heartless relatives commit perjury in order to have them incarcerated and thereby get rid of the expense of supporting them. Inspector Chamberlain should make an example of some of these perjurers.

They Father Consumption

Bad coughs, cold and catarrh are responsible for more consumption than is traceable even to heredity. Catarrhozone cures more quickly than ordinary remedies because it is the only antiseptic yet discovered that is volatile enough to reach the root of the trouble in remote parts of the lungs and bronchial tubes, and impregnate every particle of the air breathed with its healing, germ-killing vapor. Colds can't last ten minutes, or coughs more than thirty minutes when Catarrhozone is inhaled. It clears nose, throat and air passages at once, stops dropping, headache, and eradicates catarrh from any part of the system. Two months' treatment, $1.00; trial size 25c. Druggists, or N. C. CATARRH THIRTY YEARS.

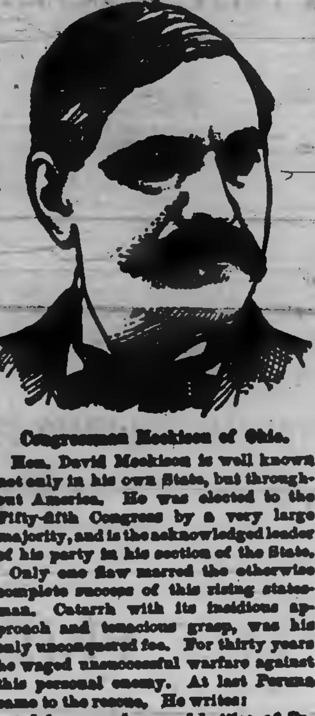
The Remarkable Experience of a Prominent Statesman—Congressman Meekison Gives Pe-ru-na a High Endorsement.



Congressman Meekison of Ohio.

Hon. David Meekison is well known not only in his own State, but throughout America. He was elected to the Fifty-fifth Congress by a very large majority, and is the acknowledged leader of his party in his section of the State.

Only one flaw marred the otherwise complete success of this rising statesman. Catarrh with its insidious approach and tenacious grasp, was his only unconquered foe. For thirty years he waged unsuccessful warfare against this personal enemy. At last Peruna came to the rescue. He writes:

"I have used several bottles of Peruna and I feel greatly benefited thereby from my catarrh of the head. I feel encouraged to believe that if I use it a short time longer I will be fully able to eradicate the disease of thirty years' standing."—David Meekison, Member of Congress.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.

NOT EXACTLY RIGHT

The Times Did Its Own Reporting of Evangelistic Meetings

Rev. Mr. Wilson, of the George st. Methodist Church, stated at the meeting on Wednesday night, that prior to the arrival of the evangelists he had called at the different newspaper offices in town, and was informed that reports of the revival services would be published, provided the matter was sent in.

The Times is obliged to state that the above does not refer to this journal. Mr. Wilson did not call on us, and we made no such promises as indicated. We did our own reporting, and did not require matter to be supplied us. We would regard the service as poor indeed, if it had to be prepared by those connected with the management of the meetings, no matter how well the work was done.

The Rev. Mr. Turk recognized this, and in his remarks, which were of a very complimentary nature, referred to what this paper has done in helping them in their work, which we believe have been productive of much good in Peterborough.

He travelled 80 miles north of the Soo, and covered long distances with horses. At Webwood the thermometer registered 38 degrees below zero.

Mr. McWilliams will start on Tuesday for the Ottawa district, to complete his annual tour of inspection.

POLICE COURT CASES

Four Cases Before Chief Magistrate Dumble Yesterday

Four cases were up before the chief Magistrate yesterday morning, three being discharged, and the fourth remanded for one week.

George Wright, charged with non-support of his wife, was acquitted. Two doctors appeared on behalf of Mr. Wright and gave evidence to the effect that the accused was unable to do work of any consequence, owing to a sprained wrist.

Two cases against local hotelkeepers for selling liquor in prohibited hours were discharged.

Patrick Boulton, charged with assaulting his father, was remanded for one week, as the latter was physically incapable of giving evidence.

Will Affect Lumber Trade

Lumbermen who have returned this week from the limits predict an early breakup of winter. If this occurs the operators will be handicapped, as it will be impossible to get out all of the season's cut of logs. At the present high prices of lumber, which promise to advance, the operators are anxious to get all their logs to the streams for next summers' cutting. Their hopes, however, are not likely to be gratified and it is pretty certain that a considerable portion of the logs will remain in the limits. While snow is deep there is very little frost in the ground and the first thaws of early March will soon break up the roads and render log hauling impossible. The ice on the rivers and lakes owing to the early accumulation of snow, only attained a thickness of three or four inches, and this will break up earlier than usual. At present the teamsters have to reduce their loads owing to the condition of the ice. Reports show that the output of square timber, owing to the lack of skilled labor and the natural [illegible] will be less than was first figured out.

LATE WILLIAM THOMPSON

Death of One of the Oldest Residents of Ashburnham

We regret to announce the death of William Thompson, of Ashburnham, on Thursday, 26th inst., Deceased gentleman was 83 years of age, and has resided in the village since 1850. He was born in County Antrim, Ireland, in 1820 and came to Canada in 1847. For some years he was a resident of Douro. In 1852 he was united in marriage to Miss Ann McNairn, who survives him. One son, Mr. Henry Thompson, of Ashburnham, is left to mourn the loss of a kind and loving father.

The funeral takes place today from the family residence, Dickson street, Ashburnham, at 2.30 o'clock, to the Little Lake Cemetery.

GOOD BUILDING PROSPECT

Messrs Curtis Bros' Brick Company is Booking Many Orders

Mr. Charles Curtis, head of the well known firm of Curtis Bros., brick and tile manufacturers, informed The Times yesterday that the outlook for business in the building line this year was exceedingly bright.

Last year the firm manufactured two million bricks and this year this output will be exceeded. This means a busy time for bricklayers, masons and carpenters.

Messrs. Curtis Bros. employ 30 men during the summer months, and a lesser number during the winter. Over 1200 cords of wood is required every season, and Mr. Curtis hopes to procure much of this from the north country when the canal is completed, and opened between Peterborough and Lakefield.

LITTLE LOCAL LINES

—This is very poor turkey weather.

—Today the Peterborough Cheese Board meets in the Council Chamber.

—Did you hear from that man in Centre Bruce that wanted no outside help?

—Messrs. J. C. Turnbull & Co, are showing some beautiful dress goods this spring.

—Many farmers are looking for help for the summer; but men are scarce and wages are high.

—Butt's Cannel coal for grates; hard and soft wood, sawed and split at R. Hicks & Co.

—The well fed hens are busy bringing down the price of eggs these warm days. Bless the hens.

—Mr. John Adlum, the master road maker of town, is fussing after the excessive pools of water on the streets. John knows how.

—The cartors are busy with spring merchandise. They report an immense increase in many lines. Peterborough is booming.

—Let the Dickson Company build ten mills if they wish, and operate them all. They can't hurt Peterborough in this way. "Say nothing but saw wood."

—Today is the very biggest bargain day at The Times Bookstore. Snaps in paper and envelopes. Dolls at half price. See them.

—Mr. O'Connell, our enterprising real estate man, reports business as booming. Prices in real estate are rising rapidly.

—Beef cattle throughout the country are said to be scarce, in consequence we are likely to pay high prices for meat of all kinds this spring.

—The Knight of the Bucksaw and wooden horse asks us about $2.00 to put two cuts and split a cord of wood. Hicks & Co. saves you half of this. "A penny saved is a penny gained."

—Mr. O. H. Moore, who is soliciting subscribers for the new Dairy Company, is very much encouraged by his recent successes, and hopes to close his stock books in the near future.

—The Government is taking the right way to prevent the extermination of deer, by that large bounty on wolves, there being 181 killed in the back country in 1902, costing in bounties over $2,700.

—Twelve sleighloads of Chemong Indians drove to Alderville Wednesday and took in the great oyster supper and concert. They report a splendid time.

Two boys were trying to shoot a woodpecker on the old railroad track on Saturday. The bird is still there. One boy nearly shot the other. The following epitaph should be learned by every boy. A bird, a man, a loaded gun. No bird; dead man. "Thy will be done."

—Scarlet fever is still working havoc among the children in Asphodel, parts of Otonabee and a few places in Douro. The township of Dummer and the northern part of Smith, have almost escaped without a case of this dread malady.

—Last week, as a result of critical inspection conducted by Belleville Water Commissioners, it was discovered that a certain creek was being fed from the town mains. The leak was stopped, when the guage disclosed that 80,000 gallons a day had been going to waste —for goodness knows how many years.

—A contemporary suggests that country roads be named just as the city streets and avenues are. If every main road and every cross road had its official title, it would be easy to address a farmer as a city resident. There are specific advantages in such a plan in these days when the mails are so universally used. The roads might be very fittingly called after prominent citizens of the present or past generations. How would it do for the councils of the surrounding municipalities to take the matter up?

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

—Mr. Bruce Hutchinson, left this morning for Hartney, Man. Bruce's many friends in town will wish him every success in the West

—Mr. H. Newton, local manager of the Canadian Savings, Loan and Building Association, has returned from Toronto, where he has been attending the annual meeting of the Company.

Lakefield News—Mrs. Gus Hay, of Peterborough, is at present in the village visiting friends, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. Cox

—Mr. W. G. Yelland, who formerly resided here, is visiting his family.

—Miss Edna Lemon has returned to her home in Toronto after spending a few weeks very pleasantly in visiting her aunts Mrs. James Long and Mrs. J. D. Tully.

—The many friends in town of Mrs. George Dunsford will regret very much to hear that she is seriously ill in Germany, where she is at present visiting. Her sister, Miss Gamble, of town, has gone to be with her.

WEATHER NOTES

Saturday—Mild and slippery.

A woman worn-out, who never has to lift a hand for herself, who does not know the meaning of the word "worry"! How can it be possible? That it is possible is proved by the experience of many a woman who, because of sleeplessness, nervousness, backache and other womanly ills, becomes an utter physical wreck.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription gives new life and new strength to weak, worn-out, run-down women. It establishes regularity, dries unhealthy drains, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

"I suffered for five years with inflammation which caused violent pain and often torture so bad at times that I could not be about to attend to my daily duties," writes Mrs. Julius C. Bell, of Bathroad, Kingston, Ont. "Life was simply misery to me and I did not know which way to turn for relief. Had tried doctors but found they did not help me. My druggist advised me to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription—eulogizing it in glowing terms. I decided to give it a trial and brought a bottle home. I am happy to say that after the use of the first bottle I felt so much improved I decided to take another and after that a third bottle. I have good reasons to be pleased, for I am to-day a well woman, work is easy and the world looks bright. I have perfect health, thanks to your medicine."

Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter, free. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

"Favorite Prescription" makes weak women strong, sick women well. Accept no substitute for the medicine which works wonders for weak women.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets should be used with "Favorite Prescription" whenever a laxative is required.

DISTRICT NEWS

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENTS

NORTH MONAGHAN.

A very enjoyable dance took place on Wednesday evening last, at a farm house situated about three miles from town. About ten couple were present, and "tripped the light fantastic" until 'the wee sma' hours. A peculiar feature of the affair, was that none of the "town boys" were invited, although many young friends of those who conducted the affair reside in Peterborough. Perhaps the country lads were afraid of losing their partners during the course of the evening.

WARSAW.

The Presbyterians of Warsaw held their annual tea on Tuesday last. Rev. W. A. Atkinson, pastor, was in the chair. The Keene choir, under the leadership of Miss Bryce, supplied the music. Addresses were given by the following gentlemen: Rev. Mr. Yule, Springville; Rev. Mr. McQuade, Warsaw; Rev. Mr. McDonald, Keene; Rev. Mr. Camp, Havelock; and Rev. Mr. Campbell, Lakefield. The church was crowded, and every one seemed to enjoy themselves. The sum realized amounted to between $80.00 and $90.00.

The funeral of the late Mr. Thomas Campbell took place on Monday, and was largely attended.

GRAVE PROBLEM THAT FACES GREAT BRITAIN AT PRESENT

Food Supply in War Time—Public Men Take the Matter Up

WAR OFFICES FAILURE

Protectionists Seek Excuse to Change Fiscal Policy

London, Feb. 28—At last the Ministry has been compelled to take seriously the movement for a better safeguarding of the food supply in time of war. At yesterday's Mansion House meeting, presided over by the Lord Mayor, expression of the greatest anxiety, lest England at war might mean England starved, came from such leaders of commercial and political life as the president of the Institute of Bankers, and ex-president of the London Chamber of Commerce the chairman of Lloyds' Register of Shipping; the chairman of the London Stock Exchange; Lord Hugh Cecil, Lord Salisbury's nephew; Lord Charles Beresford, and many other admirals. Mr. Balfour could not do less than receive the deputation, as he has engaged to do, on Thursday next.

THE REAL OBJECT.

Behind this influentially supported movement are two chief impulses, one directed toward an increase in size of the navy and the other tending to the protection of home-grown supplies. Ostensibly the movement aims at nothing more than to secure an inquiry by a Royal Commission. This Mr. Balfour probably will grant. Then will come the turn of the theorists and faddists, whose many ingenious plans have failed to bring them one step nearer to the solution of the problem how to feed England when at war.

THE WAR OFFICE DEBATE.

Incidentally, one certain effect of the movement will be further to discredit Mr. Brodrick's pompous army corps scheme. The fact that the House of Commons this week defeated the motion condemning the scheme by 116 majority means nothing. It was no love for Mr. Brodrick's plan that brought the Nationalists into the Government lobby. No fewer than seventy Ministerialists stayed away unpaired, and the minority included twenty others of the most brainy and energetic young Ministerialists. All this would portend stormy seas for Mr. Brodrick and his scheme, even it had not been riddled to shreds by the debate, which emphasised once again the fact that no conceivable army can save an England defeated on the seas. By driving Englishmen back upon that conviction Mr. Brodrick unwittingly is strengthening the demand for such naval expenditure as will leave all other European nations out of the running.

Following up the House of Commons attack, Lord Carrington, who speaks with the authority of an ex-Australian Governor, moves against Mr. Brodrick's scheme in the House of Lords next week, and the army estimates will keep the question alive in the Commons. If an effective alternative Ministry, Liberal in coalition, were in sight, not only this scheme, but the Ministry itself would be short-lived.

THE PROBLEM OF THE POOR.

Yesterday another National conference was held with a theme not unassociated with the swollen army expenditure. It concerned the problem of the unemployed, "which," as Lady Warwick said, "had become popular and was in danger of becoming fashionable."

Sir John Gorst, until the other day a responsible Minister, declared that one-third of the British people lived in penury, misery and want. "It is damnable," he shouted. He urged the restriction of alien emigration, and the institution of public works.

Sir Oliver Lodge, principal of the Birmingham University, proposed the cultivation of large tracts in the "black country," and elsewhere, now mostly water.

In the end the conference threw the responsibility of finding work jointly upon the local authorities and the central Government. All the speeches betokened uneasiness at the happy-go-lucky way in which the national expenditure was advancing. This was the theme of Lord Rosebery's striking speeches this week, and probably be made the subject of an official Opposition motion in Parliament.

CHAMBERLAIN'S RETURN.

Mr. Chamberlain's triumphant return will be the next great event in English politics. The Ministers, from Mr. Balfour downwards, are tumbling over each other in their haste to accept invitations to the Lord Mayor's luncheon in his honor. Among other matters awaiting Mr. Chamberlain is the Irish Land Bill. Mr. Morley has assumed too hastily that the Minister accept the land conference demand for a free grant, capitalized, of about twenty-two millions sterling, and a liability of one hundred millions on loan. It is just upon that point that the Ministers await Mr Chamberlain's opinion. What is certain is that the question will be approached in a spirit of the greatest liberality consistent with the state of British finances.

London, Feb. 28—Major-General Sir John Frederick Maurice, K.C.B. in an address here urging physical training of children, said that England was threatened by physical degeneracy. Three out of every five who offered as recruits for the army were wholly unfit. Some children were fed on cold cabbage; others possessed gin livers They could not build up a nation on gin and cold cabbage. The future depended upon the training of both mothers and children.

PRAISE FOR COLONIALS.

Before the war commission yesterday, Gen Sir J. F. D. French praised the Colonial's work in South Africa, and thought that the weakness of the army was due to the lack of mounted men.

General Bruce Hamilton testified that he did not think the English regulars were the equals of either the colonials or the Boers, in individual intelligence, in power of observation, and in the power of looking after themselves. The Boers were undoubtedly the best shots.

The Commission has so far heard 91 witnesses, who all unanimously admit the superiority of the colonials.

UNHAPPY AUSTRALIA.

Much sympathy is expressed for Australia, where great heat now prevails. In New South Wales the heat prevents all out-door work. The drought is fearful. Horses and sheep are dying by the thousand, and the Government is supplying rations and feed to settlers. The average grain yield last year was only a fraction over a bushel per acre.

The Fitzroy district of Western Australia has had six floods since 1900. Last February's drowned thousands of stock, and when it subsided scores of sheep were stuck in the trees.

The unemployed question is also a serious problem for solution.

IRISH LAND PURCHASE

Lord Brassey's Park Lane mansion was yesterday the scene of a private conference on the Irish Land question. Mr. T. W. Russell, M.P. for South Tyrone, the leader of the land purchase movement, said that the New Ireland was growing sick of the old party sectarian cries. They were neither Catholic nor Protestant, but Irish. Ireland is united in favor of land purchase. When the agreement was signed by Lord Dunraven at the Dublin Convention, Mr. William O'Brien, M.P., said: "Now we can say for the first time 'God save the King.'"

It is almost certain that the Government will grant £20,000,000 to help to buy out the landlords. Mr. Russell holds that the saving on the constabulary will really equal the expenditure for purchase.

MR. DEVLIN AND GALAWAY.

The Nationalist candidate for Galway will be selected to-morrow. Mr C. R. Devlin, the Canadian agent in Dublin, now says that he can have the nomination if he wants it, but that he is unwilling to sacrifice his position and income, even for a seat in Parliament.

LORD SPENCER'S ADVICE.

Earl Spencer, speaking at Birmingham yesterday, lauded Mr. Chamberlain's mission to South Africa, and urged the adoption there of the Canadian system of self-government and not make another Ireland there.

Sofia, Bulgaria, Feb. 28—A General of the Macedonian Revolutionary Committee is angry over the proposed reforms for the benefit of the Christian inhabitants of European Turkey.

"These proposed reforms are no reforms at all," he stated in an interview, "They are a heartless and soulless sham, intended to dupe public opinion in Europe, and gain time for the firmer intrenchment of political brigandage in the Balkans. The appointment of a Turkish inspector by the Sultan is a warrantless, meaningless, godless mockery of a suffering people. We demand a single reform—equality of races and religions. The Christians suffer not only from maladministration, but also from the Mahommedan population.

"The emancipatory South Slavi movement will yet prove irresistible Not Bulgaria, plus Russia, Turkey and Europe—not the Czar, Kaiser, Sultan and devil combined can stop it. A Macedonian Mafia will be the fruit of this diplomatic mockery.'

AUTONOMY NEEDED.

Berlin, Feb. 28—A despatch to the Cologne Gazette, from St. Petersburg, quotes M. Tiploff, ex-Secretary of the Russian Embassy at Constantinople and a prominent authority on Macedonian affairs, as saying that it is absolutely necessary to demand of the Porte autonomy for Macedonia, or to insist upon the appointment of an independent Christian Governor-General, with a Macedonian seat of Government.

M. Tiploff concludes: "Even if the reforms are executed, the effect will not be what the powers expect. It is safe to say that by the end of March there will be a regular uprising in Macedonia, the consequence of which will be so far-reaching that the effect upon the peace of the world cannot now be estimated."

TO EXPLORE THE SEA FOR LOST TREASURE

A Toronto Man Invited to Join an English Syndicate

LARGE PROFITS ARE ASSURED

The Public in England Invited to Subscribe Toward Fantastic Scheme

Toronto, March 2.—Ever since the days of the South Sea Bubble the British investor has been charged with a child-like faith in chimerical schemes, and a readiness to exchange his savings for scrip in institutions of various kinds, which have been money-makers only for their promoters.

One of the latest and most novel enterprise being presented to the British investor is a scheme to recover by the aid of divers the treasure supposed to be concealed in the hulls of Turkish warships sunk by the British, French and Russians in the battle of Navarino harbor, on the coast of Greece, on October 20, 1827. The Turco-Egyptian fleet on that occasion consisted of 64 ships of various styles and sizes, and most of them were sent to the bottom in the memorable battle, and the promoters of Navarino harbor is some £20,000,000, the product of four years' Turkish plundering in Greece.

The plans of the syndicate have become known here simply because a well-known Toronto financier has been invited to take stock in the undertaking and share in the about to be recovered wealth.

The syndicate has gone about its novel enterprise in a business-like way. Permission to recover the treasure has been granted by the Greek Government, the syndicate having until the end of 1906 to complete the job. In exchange for Government sanction, the Government agrees to accept 52 3-4 per cent. of the recovered wealth, leaving the remaining 47 1-4 per cent. to be the reward of the syndicate. The syndicate itself is capitalized for £4,000 with shares of £1 each, to be paid 5 per cent. on application, 5 per cent. upon allotment, and the balance, if necessary, after the syndicate's engineer has reported. In reference to the £4,000 capital, however, the explanation is made that half of it, or £2,000, goes to the vendor, to satisfy the contract holders and the engineer's report will cost £1,000, leaving £1,000 for working capital. The 2,000 shares issued are preference shares, and will be entitled to 1-3 of the 47 1-4 per cent., which means, so say the hopeful promoters, a return of about £200 for every £1 share. Also, say the promoters, even if only one ship is discovered and stripped, the guns and copper on her will be of sufficient value to ensure a dividend of at least £5 per share.

The sunken vessels, it is stated, are about a mile from shore, in water from 60 to 100 feet deep, and the information is given that the examining engineer who has been secured by the syndicate, and who, by the way, is very eminent in his profession, fitted out a steamer at a cost of £250, which comes out of his fee, to take him to the scene of action.

The Toronto financier who has been offered this magnificent chance to make money easy has not yet cabled his order for shares in the Navarino Syndicate a fact that is all the more surprising, in view of the other fact, as stated by his London correspondent, that there are plenty of people in England willing to buy every share that is on the market.

MRS. SILLIMAN 103 YEARS OLD

Is the Oldest Woman in Connecticut—Reads Without Glasses and Is Spry

Bridgeport, Conn., March 2.—Mrs. Deborah Staples Silliman, celebrated her 103 birthday anniversary at her home in Easton to-day, surrounded by her grandchildren, great-grandchildren and neighbors. She is bright and alert mentally, and as for her physical condition, it suffices to say that she feeds her own chickens in pleasant weather. She prides herself upon her ability to read without glasses.

Mrs. Silliman is five months older than Mrs. Langdon Dunham of Southington, Conn., who has been heralded as the oldest woman in the State She can recall the incidents attending Jackson's victory at New Orleans and the celebration attendant upon the announcement of peace in the War of 1812. She was born within a mile of her present home and has always lived in that neighborhood. She has not visited Bridgeport in twenty years. Her home is about ten miles from the nearest trolley line and trolley cars she has never seen.

CARRYING TRADE OF THE SEVEN SEAS

Chief of the Allan Line Proposes a Great British Policy

THE NEW AMERICAN AMBITION

Mr. Dunlop Would Not Allow Nations to Share Britain's Trade Unless Compensated

London, March 2—Nathaniel Dunlop, the Chief of the Allan Line, speaking yesterday of the Glasgow Shipowners' Association said the time was coming when Britain should declare her sea borne trade should be an empire trade in which, only those vessels of other nations should share, who opened to British ships their reserved trades. That would bring about universal free trade. Canada, who had set an example of British maritime supremacy, was endangered by the resolve of the great American railways to do their own carrying trade on land and sea. Such action would transfer the North Atlantic private trade from private shipowners to American railroads, and would in time extend to the trade routes of the far east. He denounced the fact that American shipping is receiving all possible advantages in British ports, while the United States keeps the whole of harvest reserve to herself.

A Sure Cure for Constipation

Some remedies cure this distressing complaint in a day, some in a month, but Nerviline never fails to cure in a few minutes. Just ten drops of Nerviline in sweetened water—that's enough, and away goes the dysentery, cured to stay cured. Nerviline also cures Cramps, Colic, Pain in the Stomach, and Sick Headache. It has five times the strength and curative properties of ordinary remedies, and should be in every household. Better buy a 25c. bottle and try it. Nerviline is all right.

In Such Cases Large Areas of Lands Will be Taken—They Sail in April

London, March 2.—A party of British farmers, forced out from Australia by the drought, is expected in England next week. They will proceed in April to the All-British colonies in the North-West, accompanied by their relatives and friends British farmers coming, who twenty years ago reported favorably on the Saskatchewan district, having ample means, will want considerable areas of land.

MORE MONEY DEMANDED BY WESTERN TERRITORIES

Premier Haultain Has Made a Demand on Ottawa

MORE MONEY IS URGENTLY NEEDED

Large Cash Grant is Likely Forthcoming at Once.

Ottawa, March 2—Following closely on the conferences of the Provincial Premiers with Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Premier Haultain, of the North-west Territories, who was not invited to attend the former conference has just concluded a series of special conferences with Sir Wilfrid and the Minister of the Interior. Serious matters were under consideration, for if, as is expected, the population of the Territories is to be increased by nearly 100,- during the present year, it would be a great drawback to the cause of immigration if the new settlers were not looked after.

In conversation Premier Haultain made this first announcement of what he expected would be the immediate results of the conferences and stated that he has represented to Sir Wilfrid Laurier that Provincial rights should be accorded the Territories as soon as possible and that only one province should be constituted.

LARGE CASH GRANT.

"The most immediate result," stated Premier Haultain, "will undoubtedly be that a larger cash grant will be voted to allow us to carry out the work of development of the Territories. At the request of Premier Laurier, I drew up a statement, showing the amount that would be absolutely needed during the present year, and it amounted to a little over $1,000,000. At present we are receiving only $450,000 a year.

"The chief reason that I pointed out why such an increase should be granted was that when new settlers came into the country they seek out good land at a great distance from any settlement. This means that while there may be perhaps only twenty or thirty families in a new settlement, still they must be provided with roads and the distance is so great that it costs a good deal of money."

SEEKING PROVINCIAL STATUS.

"Then there was the discussion with regard to the provincial status being granted?"

"Yes, for some time past I have been of the opinion that the time had come when a province should be constituted. This was also the general opinion in the west, but now, I think, I can also say it is the general opinion of the east.

The development of the country has now reached a point where it is almost absolutely necessary that a Provincial Government should be formed if the work is to be carried out as it should."

In Danger's Hour.

[Being a true account of one hundred and twenty minutes in the life of Gaston le Strenuous, by the author of "Willyum and Me," "The Stovepipe of Papa," "To Get and to Hang On To," and "The Conceit of Omaha."]

It was a mild morning in April, 1610, around ten o'clock, when I, Gaston le Strenuous, arrived at the outskirts of the capital of Buritania. I was speculating on my chances of future greatness when I observed a cloud of dust rapidly approaching. Nearer and nearer it rolled, and nearer and nearer the thunder of hoofs resounded. At length a fiery jennet flashed into view. One glance at the fair rider's face revealed to me Elizabeth de Santerne-Moselle, whose image was destined never to fade from my heart. When opposite where I stood the noble steed fell exhausted. But a few paces behind in frantic leaps sped the form of a royal Bengal tiger. It sufficed but an instant to dismount, and the ready sword of my ancestors flashed in the sunlight. The combat was strenuous. Backward and forward we swayed. Finally the tawny beast grasped the sword and wrenched it from my hands, when with a last despairing effort I seized him by the throat, and, bending his head backward, broke his neck.

Scarce had the combat terminated and I was resting from my labors when suddenly as though sprung from the earth there encircled me a troop of horse whose badge, the famous two crossed, sky-blue mackerel rampant, bore sufficient testimony to the fact that they were the minions of him whom men then named with bated breath as the "pea-green cardinal."

"Ha! what is this?" exclaimed the leader, in whom I was not at a loss to perceive the notorious ruffian, Chartreuse de la Vin Ordinaire. "A violation of the edicts relative to the killing of Bengal tigers! Surrender, caitiff!"

"Never," I cried, and the attack began. They were fifty-three of the most renowned swordsmen in Europe, so it took fully ten minutes before they were placed hors de combat.

As my dagger was clicking merrily against the gorget of the last I accidentally paused to note the worried look which was spreading over the fair face of Mlle. de Santerne-Moselle. Like a flash the situation presented itself to me. A similarity of feature, form and bearing revealed that unwittingly I was about to slay her brother-in-law.

"S'death," I cried, "young man, your life is spared."

"But not my honor, gadzooks," he answered. "I had sworn to take thee alive."

"Gramercy for thy courtesy," and we were about to re-engage when the pleading expression of my loved one's countenance determined me.

"My sword, i'faith, I will never surrender," I cried, breaking it across my knee. "But, fair youth, I follow you."

As the iron doors of the royal prison for inebriates clanged behind, I indeed felt that all hope had departed. Thrust into a narrow cell half full of water and half of air I began speculating on the chances of escape. But one opportunity presented itself. Unbuckling my strong leather belt, I detached the buckle, which was soon fashioned into a serviceable pickaxe. Ten feet of solid granite were soon pierced, and before my friend the warden again passed on his rounds I was swinging by the leather thong over one hundred feet of space. A quick drop into the moat and I breathed the air of freedom. But not for long.

Cannon-balls rained around me as I sped up the street. I count it no cowardice that I did not stop to pick up my hat, which one had knocked off.

Turning into a narrow street I was congratulating myself when a noise like thunder pealed forth. Huge cracks opened in the pavement. Trapped at last. I had unwarily entered upon a section of the city where a rapid-transit road was being constructed. Suddenly, after a frantic effort to regain my footing, I fell into a yawning cavern that opened before me.

When I awoke all was darkness. The damp earth encompassed me close about, but by strenuous exertions I finally managed to wriggle first one, then all ten toes. And now began a forward burrowing which was necessarily slow. One, two, three, four, and five miles were tediously traveled within the bowels of the earth. At length a stone wall seemed to bar further progress. Wrenching away a giant bowlder, however, I fell forward into a damp void. One glance around sufficed to convince me that I was in the dungeon of the palace. Had I but exchanged a Scylla for a Charybdis?

But soon the sound of voices recalled me to myself. The speaker could be none other than the pea-green cardinal.

"For reasons of state," he was saying, "it is expedient that King Bardolph die." A click of steel seemed to give answer.

Remembering the sage advice of my second cousin once remove, never to count odds, I plunged at them. A noble fight we had in that grim old dungeon. The last of the dozen bravi was but rendering his expiring sigh when lights flashed and the king entered with Mlle. de Santerne-Moselle on his arm.

"Ha! what is it methinks I see? Treason! Take this as an eternal evidence of thy sovereign's gratitude," and he joined our hands. One instant our entire being surged up within us. "My love, my queen," I said; "Gaston, my king," she answered.

"And now," said our gracious liege, "it being just twelve o'clock, let us to dinner."—H. Gerald Chapin in "Judge."

Erasing the Evidence.

Deep in the bark of the old beech tree that stood on the river bank the young man carved the initials of her name.

Then he called her attention to them.

"But your initials just above mine," she said, "look as if they had been cut there a year or more ago."

"They were, dear," he replied.

"And mine," she continued, looking at them a little closer, "seem to have been worked over from others already there."

"Yes, dear," he replied with noble candor. "I have to change them every year. That is one of the penalties of these summer resort engagements."

GREAT BRITAIN'S CORDIAL SUPPORT OF JAPAN

On the Occasion of the Recent Korean Complications is Highly Appreciated

London, Feb. 28—A despatch from Tokio to the Times says that the British and German Ministers, specially representing their respective sovereigns, took a prominent part in the funeral of Prince Komatsu. The despatch adds that Great Britain's cordial support of Japan on the occasion of the recent Korean complications, is highly appreciated.

London, Feb. 28—The Vienna correspondent of the Times says that the effect of the promised Macedonian reforms and of the Russian communique is awaited with confidence in the Austrian capital, especially as the latter document is calculated to "save the face" of Prince Ferdinand of Bulgaria and to exculpate him in the eyes of his subjects from the charge of treason to the national cause by revealing the pressure that was put on him.

Prince Ferdinand's personal safety says a correspondent, has throughout been an important question, as, in forcing him to proceed against the Macedonian committees Austria-Hungary and Russia incurred the risks of complications which must have ensued had an untoward occurrence removed Prince Ferdinand from the scene of action. Probably, adds the correspondent, Prince Ferdinand has been astute enough to impress the powers with a sense of his predicament and to lay the foundation of future reward by his present good conduct.

A despatch from Sofia to The Times says that Prince Ferdinand has left that city for Euxinograd, near Varna. It is stated that he will soon proceed to Mentone, where his mother, Princess Clementine of Saxe-Coburg is residing.

Washington Feb. 28—Representative De Armond, of Missouri, is quite in earnest in his proposition to have the United States annex the Dominion of Canada, and is quite hopeful that Congress will take the first legislative step in that direction before the adjournment on March 4. His resolution authorizing the President to investigate the advisability of the nation absorbing British North America is now in committee.

Speaking of the annexation scheme Mr. De Armond, who is one of the leaders on the Democratic side of the House, said:

"If we have to grow, let us grow on our own continent; not southward, but northward. It is far better for us to expand here than to take possessions far away from our own shores in other continents and seas.

"My resolution requests the President to ascertain on what terms, if any Great Britain will cede to the United States all or part of Canada, on honorable terms, of course. If the report made by the President should be encouraging, and show that Great Britain is willing to part with Canada, and that the people of Canada are desirous of joining hands with the United States, then annexation may be brought about with comparative ease.

"In a reasonable time the Dominion could be divided into States and the people would have the same rights and privileges as the citizens of the United States. In fact, they would be made citizens of this country. I sincerely trust that favorable action will be taken upon this resolution."

An item of $50,000 has been placed in one of the appropriation bills to cover expenses of the Joint High Commission, should it reassemble this year.

CZAR'S ADVISERS SCORE A DIPLOMATIC VICTORY

As Protector of the Slavs She Secures Undoubted Predominance

Vienna, March 1.—The Russian official account of the international negotiations, with reference to Macedonia, published here yesterday, has created an impression in which both satisfaction and uneasiness can be detected. On the one hand it is generally felt that the stern warning against revolutionary attempts to alter existing conditions in Macedonia will have a pacifying influence in the Balkans. For this diplomatic, and official circles here profess unqualified thankfulness. The document also conveys, subtly, but very unmistakably, an idea that the Balkan Slav states are under the moral and perhaps the material protectorate of Russia. This stroke of masterly diplomacy on the part of Russia is regarded here as ill-concealed annoyance. It is felt in fact that Russia has scored a diplomatic victory, for while professing the doctrine of absolute unanimity among the powers, she places herself in a position of predominance in the eyes of the Balkan Slav populations by ascribing the initiative in the reform movement to the Czar, and such significant declarations as the following;

"The Balkan states, which owe their independent existence to Russia, can rest assured that their welfare and the material and moral interests of the Christian populations will be watched by Russia with unceasing solicitude, and they can depend upon the considerate and powerful protection of the Imperial Government."

The papers to-day are very guarded in their comments upon this Russian document.

St. John, N.B., Feb 28—Thrilling in the extreme was the experience of three young women and four men who reached here last night after a perilous trip over the ice floes from the imprisoned steamer Minto, thirteen miles off Pictou Island. The sun's rays almost blinding them; great crags of ice baffling the strongest climbers; streaks of open water threatening them; nearly frozen as night fell and the darkness added to their terrors—the adventurous band were well nigh exhausted when they reached the mainland. While their imprisonment in the midst of the ice floes was wearisome and the scarcity of coal and provisions threatening, still not probable the party would have ventured to make the hazardous trip over the ice had not two of the young women previously received word that members of their family were seriously ill in Boston.

The steamer, which runs from Nova Scotia to Prince Edward Island, became fast in the heavy ice last Thursday. Among the forty passengers on board were the Misses McKay, Perkins and McInnis, of Boston. The latter had heard that their parents were dying in Boston, and as the prospect of freeing the Minto grew less and less their anxiety increased. On Tuesday they determined to set out for Pictou Island, and thence make their way to the mainland and catch a train for Boston. They were urged not to attempt the trip, but when they said they were bound to try it, four young men from St. John volunteered to accompany them.

Shortly after noon the party started, with many misgivings from the other passengers and warnings from the officers of the Minto. They were anxiously watched with glasses by those on shipboard, as it was believed they would soon become convinced that the feat was futile, and would return to the steamer, but they stumbled along, scaling high ice islands with ragged and precipitous sides, sometimes falling, and each assisting the other, like guides and their sightseers in the Alps.

Half way across the jam some of the men were ready to give up, but the women shamed them into continuing. They rested a while, and then trudged with indomitable spirit. The glare half blinded some of them, but the others led them along, and all pushed along as rapidly as they could through the lanes of soft top snow, avoiding the open places as much as possible.

It was 9 o'clock in the evening when Pictou Island was reached. They found some fishermen's huts open to receive them. After getting warm clothes and food and drink the party rested for the remainder of the night. Early next morning the rest of the journey to the mainland was made in safety.

GALES OF HURRICANE FORCE SWEEP THE BRITISH ISLES

Telegraph Lines Leveled, Disabling Three Cable Companies

London, March 1—Tempestuous southerly and south-westerly winds varying from half a gale to a gale, have been blowing continuously over the British Islands for five days. They have increased until they reached almost hurricane force this evening. The storm was so violent in the south-western part of Ireland that the steamer [illegible] was compelled to seek shelter in the inner harbor of Queenstown. Numerous casualties have been reported at sea. The telegraph lines have been levelled, disabling three cable companies. The heavy rains have swelled the rivers over their banks and large areas have been flooded. Hitherto the month has been one of the average, and the temperature five degrees above the average. There was abundant sunshine.

The Story of Morning Tiredness

Is told by impure blood, poor digestion, sluggish liver and tired nerves. It is a warning of very serious trouble ahead, and should prompt sensible people to take a bracing tonic like Ferrozone, an energetic invigorant and rebuilder. Ferrozone will give you sound sleep; it will feed and energize the enfeebled organs, strengthen the nerve and vital forces and regulate the heart. Ferrozone changes that tired feeling into vigor, strength and ambition, and does it quickly. Remember the name, and insist on having only Ferrozone; it's the best tonic made. PETERBOROUGH, MARCH 2, 1903.

THE CONSTITUTION WILL REMAIN

Mr. Chamberlain has promised Mr. Hofmeyer that the constitution of Cape Colony will not be suspended. The Colonial Secretary is not a man to have a promise wrung from him. This pledge must have been given after having come to the ripe conclusion that so drastic a step as the suspension of the constitution was not necessary; and this conclusion has been reached after passing through the most disaffected portions of the Colony and talking plainly face to face with the sullen section of the Dutch.

The other Colonies will feel the easier for this decision, which is a most important one. The spectacle of the Mother Country refusing under severe provocation to suspend the constitution of a free colony will splendidly enhance the value of the character under which we and every other free colony enjoy our liberties. The British flag is a symbol of freedom; and it is reassuring to find the guarantees of freedom so carefully cherished under its folds.

BRITAIN PAYS; COLONIES ENJOY

Mr. Chamberlain's remarks at Cape Town about the imperial relations of the United Kingdom and the colonies touched on a spot which ought to be a matter of practical consideration by self-respecting men in the self-governing colonies. He said that unprotected by the gigantic navy of Britain—for which the colonies pay little or nothing—the colonies would be in the position of the weaker states of Europe, such as Greece, or Holland, or of the South American republics, dependent on the sufferance of their more powerful neighbors. He might have said more. He might have said that even such states as Greece or Holland or Chili or Argentina pay annually many millions of dollars to support military or naval armaments more than Canada or Australia, New Zealand or British South Africa, do in most cases, there is military conscription too. Perhaps neither the expenditure or the conscription is practically worth while, they would be gobbled anyway if they were not protected by the jealousies of bigger powers; but at all events, they have the self-respect to attempt to maintain something practical in the fighting line if only to hold their own against other states that are small potatoes like themselves. Denmark, Belgium, Holland, Portugal each spends several times as much yearly as Canada or Australia does on arms. An independent Canada or Australia would assuredly feel it necessary to make a much bigger effort at paying for self-protection than now, and really there cannot be anything very decent in sticking to the protection of the empire while we let the United Kingdom keep on doing the paying for us. The one thing in Canada's favor is that at least we offer a bit of a tariff preference to British trade. Our high tariff boomsters would have us stop even that.

READY ACCEPTANCE OMINOUS

Had the Sultan Hesitated More His Sincerity Would Have Been Better Believed

London, March 1.—The Times's Sofia correspondent says that a pessimistic feeling prevails regarding the execution of the scheme for Macedonian reforms presented by Austria, Hungary and Russia. The Sultan's ready acceptance of these reforms on the situation in Macedonia is uncertain. It is stated that the central organization, which the revolutionary leaders at Sofia declared to be ready for action, has resolved to postpone the insurrection until August. If this be true no trouble on a large scale need be anticipated in the spring.

Mr. Ed. and Norman Mackintosh of Campbellford, are at present visiting Mr. Wm. Newton.

Mr. Harry Newton leaves in a few days for Bridgenorth, where he has rented a farm. We wish him success in his new home.

The ice in Rice Lake is said to be 22 inches thick. This is the thickest it has been for many years.

There were quite a number from Keene on the wrecked train last Saturday, but all escaped with a shaking up.

We regret to learn that Mrs. Richard Skinner is seriously ill. We trust she will soon recover under the skillful treatment of Dr. Harrison.

Miss Nellie Reid, who has been ill, is recovering.

The Butters and Duffers played their annual game on Thursday evening, the Butters winning, the score being 2—1. The following were the players:

Butters—Goal, J. Spiers; point, John Dinsdale; cover point, George Fife; forwards, H. Newton, Jim Newton, Jim Brough, Billy Renwick.

Duffers—Goal, A. Kempt; point, Wellie Howson; cover point, Mick Kenneally; forwards, George Gall, Scott Robinson, Billy Nelson, Frank Walsh.

There was rough play on both sides, consisting of tripping and heavy body checking. Mike Kenneally, G. Gall, H. Newton were sent to the fence for 2 minutes. George Gall was the star forward of the Duffers, and H. Newton made some very pretty rushes for the Butters. Frank Walsh made some brilliant stops by blocking the forwards rushes and spoiling their combination. Jim Newton was given a free ticket for the remainder of the skating season (presented by the manager) for sweeping the ice, with the baggy part of his pants.

The choir of the Presbyterian church drove to Warsaw on Tuesday evening to furnish music for an anniversary tea meeting.

Mrs. Dr. Shaw entertained her Sunday school class on Wednesday evening.

Quite a number of young men from Keene intend trying their fortunes in the West this spring.

Mr. Wm. Wedlock, our energetic miller, is kept busy these days chopping. He is also getting a large number of logs for sawing during the coming summer.

IN THE LUMBER CAMPS

Mr. J. B. McWilliams of the Crown Timber Office, Inspecting Camps

Mr. J. B. McWilliams, the efficient Government Inspector of Crown Timber, has returned from a three weeks' trip amongst the lumber camps of Webwood, Sudbury and Grand River, and the Soo. He travelled 60 miles north of the Soo, and covered long distances with horses. At Webwood the thermometer registered 38 degrees below zero.

Mr. McWilliams will start on Tuesday for the Ottawa district, to complete his annual tour of inspection.

Dyspepsia For Ten Years

Constantly Hungry, William Le Mesurier, of Montreal, Dare Not Eat, and Existence Became Truly Miserable.

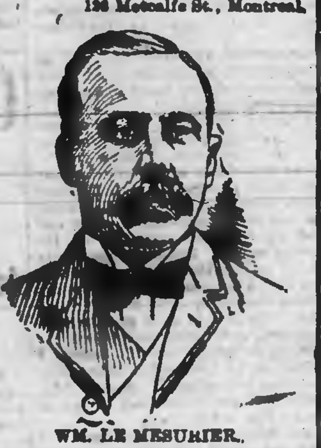
Then He Heard of Powley's Liquified Ozone—The Disease Germs Were Soon Destroyed and After Taking Four Bottles He Was Completely Cured.

POWLEY'S LIQUIFIED OZONE CURES DISEASE BY DESTROYING DISEASE GERMS WHEREVER LOCATED.

Gentlemen, — I have been a great sufferer from dyspepsia for 10 years. Sharp cutting pains and constant hunger made my existence truly miserable, while flatulency augmented the trouble. Despite all efforts to overcome this distressing condition it continued until August last, when I heard of Powley's Liquified Ozone. I have used four bottles of the Ozone and can now eat anything.

I would strongly recommend it to every sufferer, as I understand it applies alike to all germ disease.

(Signed)
WILLIAM LE MESURIER,
126 Metcalfe St., Montreal.



WM. LE MESURIER.

It Does Not Matter How Chronic Your Case of Dyspepsia May Have Become Ozone Will Certainly Cure You.

The action of Powley's Liquified Ozone in cases of Dyspepsia is peculiar. With some there is almost immediate relief and the patient commences to get well at once. With others the first few doses cause nausea and the patient seems to get worse. This is merely an indication that Ozone is doing its work, but that the case is a severe one, and that there is greater difficulty in destroying the disease germs. Later the symptoms of distress become less pronounced and at fewer intervals until they cease altogether, when there is rapid improvement and the patient is soon entirely cured. There is one thing certain, however, and that is that it does not matter what the first effects of Ozone may be, if persisted in there is no case of dyspepsia that it will not cure, and when we say cure we mean cured for all time to come. This has been proven so often and so thoroughly that it has become an absolute certainty.

The following are extracts from a few of the many letters received, testifying as to the curative qualities of Ozone:

W. J. ADAMS,

432 Wellesley street, Toronto, says: "I had dyspepsia for years. Good physicians and advertised cures did me no good. I was advised to try Ozone. Three bottles cured me and now my digestion is perfect. I feel that it was a God-send in my case."

MRS. JOSEPH ROY,

308 St. Dominique st., Montreal, says: "For six years I was troubled with indigestion, heartburn and neuralgia and used many medicines without obtaining any relief. Two months ago I commenced taking Ozone and after taking four bottles I am happy to say I am cured. I have an excellent appetite and can eat anything I wish."

E. J. DOYLE,

86 Percy street, Ottawa, says: "For ten years I suffered from stomach trouble and after trying all sorts of treatments was thoroughly discouraged. It was, therefore, with considerable doubt that I was induced to try Powley's Liquified Ozone. In a short time I was better and soon gained 20 pounds in weight. I am working every day and feel well and hearty, with not a trace of dyspepsia left. My wife and daughter were also much benefitted by Ozone and I am sure it saved the latter's life."

MISS JESSIE THOMPSON,

River street, Toronto, says: "For four years I suffered from ulcerated stomach with frequent hemmorhages. I was treated by the best physicians besides taking many different remedies, but continued to get worse. I was advised to try Powley's Liquified Ozone and did so, carefully following directions. In a short time there was a remarkable improvement in my condition. The hemmorhages ceased, my strength returned and I was much improved in every way."

In buying be sure to get Powley's Liquified Ozone. It is sold only by reliable dealers—never by peddlers. Price, 50 cents and $1.00 per bottle.

PROPERTY OF THE COMPANY.

This Company has secured 10,000 acres of the choicest wheat lands in Assiniboia, Canada, having paid to the owners in addition to cash, 60,000 shares of its Capital Stock, for which the owners are completely equipping the property with all the necessary buildings, steam plows, steam threshers, drills, wagons, tools, fences, and everything necessary to operate the said 10,000 acres.

The Company's property will always be equipped with all the latest improved necessary machinery to produce wheat at the lowest cost. It is the intention of the Company to have its own elevator, of a capacity sufficient to store its entire production, thus enabling them to take advantage of the highest market prices from time to time. The market for wheat is unlimited.

The Company also has an option on 10,000 additional acres of the same character of wheat land as the 10,000 acres above mentioned, the property being located seven miles from the Canadian Pacific Railway, where large elevators are ready to receive the product.

This is an investment that will enchance in value as time goes by, not only from the large production of wheat, but the increased value of the Company's lands from year to year.

DIVIDENDS

Dividends of 15 per cent. per year, it is estimated, can be paid semi-annually, December 1st and June 1st of each year. Outside of the amount paid in dividends, the surplus earnings will be accumulated, and will either be divided among the shareholders as extra dividends, or used to purchase new wheat territory; or be otherwise employed as may be hereafter determined.

Send for the Illustrated Prospectus and Maps of the Company's property, which will be mailed Free on Request.

SUBSCRIPTION TERMS.

The full amount of $5.00 per share must accompany the order. The right is reserved to allot a smaller number of shares than the amount subscribed for, in which event the balance of the money will be returned with the shares allotted.

Application will be made for a settlement of these shares on the London, Montreal and Toronto Stock Exchanges in due course.

An Opportunity

We are offering for public subscription a limited amount of stock of exceptional merit affording an unusual opportunity for a very profitable investment. We desire to be conservative in our representations, but do not hesitate to state that the stocks of the properties we are representing are absolutely certain to rapidly increase in value, and the fortunate purchasers of the stock at the present prices will have more than reason to congratulate themselves for grasping this opportunity.

Success lies in being alive to that which is going on around you, and they who "grasp the skirts of happy chance can breast the blows of circumstance."

We have the disposition of a certain amount of treasury stock in four corporations. We have thoroughly investigated the present value of the properties owned by the Companies and have full cognition of the immense profits that are awaiting only the further development and equipment of the properties.

We are offering an equal number of shares in each of the four corporations at a price that make the combined issue a most attractive feature, giving also to the purchaser an unusual safe guard on his or her investment; in other words, you are not placing all your eggs in one basket. Or if you prefer you can purchase separately the stocks we offer.

As the money received from the sale of the stock is strictly for the purpose of equipping the properties with the necessary machinery, etc., the time will not be long before handsome dividends are available. We are not asking your subscriptions to pay for the properties; they are already owned by the Companies, and there are no outstanding obligations.

This preliminary notice is to advise the public in general that an opportunity now presents itself for a safe investment of unusual character, embodying also speculative possibilities sufficiently great to make even a small investor a competency within a few years.

You can invest in any amount from Ten Dollars up, and, if so desired, you can have the privilege o paying in installments the amount of stock paid for from time to time being non-forfeitable in the event of your ceasing payments, thus relieving those of small or uncertain income from possibility of loss, should they for any reason become unable to continue payments.

Our business is to aid responsible Companies in the disposal of their treasury stock for the thorough equipment of their properties; we do not and will not handle indiscriminate mining or other stocks under any circumstances. W make a thorough personal examination and investigation as to the merits and possibilities before undertaking to assist in financing any Corporation; the paramount issue with us is to give complete satisfaction and cause much success to our patrons.

We have furnished the publishers of The Times with an outlined description of the Companies we represent, and the names of the Directors of each Company whose stock we offer to their subscribers and friends. We have also furnished The Times with bank references as to our own bonafides and standing. We desire to command the utmost confidence of all subscribers and to retain same along with their friendship for all time; you add riches without effort and increase our brain and labor: you increase your [illegible] without effort and increase our power to make you still richer. In ordinary everyday experience a man's expenses nearly equal his income and he has little chance to make a turn for the betterment of his condition. This is anyone's opportunity; you can invest Ten Dollars or One Thousand Dollars on the same basis as one who invests Ten Thousand Dollars. You cannot afford to neglect your opportunities and this is a chance to get in on the ground floor and reap the profits of substantial, quick money making enterprises. Your money need not be tied up for a long time; we know that one of the Companies at least, will pay handsome dividends this year. It is an easy matter to become rich; just watch for the opportunity and take advantag of it. This is your opportunity; will you grasp it?

Write immediately for prospectuses, reports and full details.

STOCK MARKETS

WINTER WHEAT UNDER SNOW.

New York, Feb. 28.—The snow covering throughout the entire wheat belt is a blessing and will mean many points improvement for share prices, not only to grangers, and railway stocks generally, but to the entire aggregation. The Cincinnati Price Current, that most excellent authority, a few days ago stated that winter wheat went under snow in good condition. Winter wheat has been making excellent progress. It is doing even better now. The snow over the wheat fields is the best possible thing that could happen for the coming crop. It has been thoroughly protected in this manner this winter, consequently sustained no damage from weather conditions. There have been for the past six years wheat crops exceeding 500,000,000 bushels three times, 600,000,000 bushels twice while one crop was in excess of 750,000,000 bushels. That was in 1901 when the corn crop failed. Corn for eight years had an annual crop amounting to about 2,000,000,000 bushels. These are large averages. Crops are the basis of our national wealth, most everything else hinges largely upon them. Good crops insure good times. The crop outlook is most excellent at present. Manufacturing and the production of metals utilized in building and manufacturing enterprises keeps up wonderfully well also. Most everything appears to be running at its utmost capacity. An old Wall street veteran the other day remarked that our country ought to have two thanksgiving days per annum now, inasmuch as the nation appeared to be doubly blessed. Despite increase of freight rates now steadily being put into effect there is not the slightest diminution in the volume of business doing. Look at the situation from any point you will you can take an optimistic view. It would appear as if nature, providence and our national common sense were all working in unison to increase our wealth, business activities, and national progress. Times are certainly bullish.

Summary—The market today opened weak, and continued to decline throughout the session. Specialties were Illinois Central, showing a decline of 1 1-2 per cent, and the strength of Metropolitan and Manhattan in face of adverse conditions. The Bank statement surprised the most optimistic in its strength, and market rallied on the same, showing confidence in the ability of the New York banks to meet existing conditions. The market should show much better prices on Monday. Money, nothing doing. Sales 350,000.

INTERNATIONAL ELECTRIC MINING Co

185 SUMMER ST., - BOSTON, MASS.

A Dividend Payer for the Past Five Years.

12 PER CENT GUARANTEED

Capital Stock, $500,000. Par, $1.00, full paid and non-assessable

Over eight thousand tons of $50.00 ore mined and smelted from this group of mines.

A limited number of shares of the stock of this Company now offered at seventy-five cents per share. This price will shortly be increased to par. Stock registered by the International Trust Company, Boston, who is also the transfer agent.

This Company has a small capital stock.

The International Electric Mining Company owns seven mines and milling plant.

The Brooklyn and New York mines of this Company lie north of and join the Victor and the Hoodlum—two rich mines that are now being worked by California parties. On the west lies the Electric Mining Company's mines. In these mines are millions of dollars' worth of rich ore in sight. On the south, adjoining the Berlin mine of this Company, is the Montezuma and Clipper. From the Montezuma over three million dollars has been taken within 60 feet of the grass roots.

This Company owns free and clear seven mines of twenty acres each, all containing rich ore, located in the Arabia and Trinity mining districts, Humboldt County, Nevada. The Company has worked these mines for the past five years, and is now driving a tunnel to cut out a rich ledge about 500 feet from the surface. The Arabia mining district, in which these mines are located, is a lively district—a great many men being employed there. The tunnel now being driven on the Brooklyn mine has about 350 feet already completed. When the tunnel cuts the main ledge, which has just been reached by the Victor tunnel about 600 feet, the Brooklyn will have about 300 feet stoping ground, which runs high in gold and silver, over $50.00 per ton.

The Company is offering for a short time a limited amount of stock for the enlargement of its plant and the working force at the mines and for the completion of the Brooklyn tunnel.

This Company has thousands of tons of rich ore in sight.

We are not making a lot of talk, because it is unnecessary. What the investor wants is dividends, which we have paid for the past five years. Now if you want a safe 12 per cent. investment, let us hear from you.

THE OLD COMSTOCK

A California mining paper has this to say: "Nevada, that grand old stamping ground of mushroom millionaires, who plucked enough wealth from her prolific fields to build mansions, banks and big hotels in San Francisco, and palaces in Paris and London, is again astonishing the world by making more millionaires and by yielding millions in gold and silver from a new field which rivals the old Comstock lode in the days of its pristine splendor. Not only in Tonopah and Arabia districts, where within the past year nearly ten millions have been exposed, are operations active, but in every mining district in the Silver State are operations active, and Nevada will once more take her place among the big producers, the peer of any of them."

Mr. Geo. D. Burton, Treas.,
International Electric Mining Co.,
Boston, Mass.

Dear Sir,—During the six months of October and November of this year I visited the mines of the International Electric Mining Company, situated in Arabia and Trinity mining districts, Humboldt County, Nevada. I found the country remarkably mineralized; in fact, the possibilities of the country as a mineral producing country are yet unknown. For years it certainly has produced well. The work now being done in the Arabia and Trinity districts establishes the fact that they are fine producers.

I also found that there is a great deal of interest being taken in these properties, which have produced a great deal of wealth the past quarter of a century.

FREE GOLD FOUND

in the 193 foot shaft of The Electric Spark Gold Mining Company's property is an absolute assurance of large dividends at no distant day; and those who buy now, and take advantage of this exceptional opportunity will make from 50 to 100 per cent. yearly on their investment.

There has never been a mining investment offered where the future value of the property could be more clearly shown than in this, or where the returns could be estimated more certainly or accurately.

It is simply a question of time and work. The risk has all been taken, and the investor today can look forward to future dividends with certainty and satisfaction. Incorporated as we are for only $200,000, par value $1.00, makes the stock all the more valuable, and located in the midst of some of the best mines in Gilpin County, Colorado, the smallest county in the State, which in 1902 produced $4,000,000.00, is another assurance of a big dividend payer.

By permission the Company refers to the Rocky Mountain National Bank, and the Weekly Register Call, of Central City, Colorado.

A limited amount of shares for sale at 20 cents per share. Remember this stock is fully paid and non-assessable; is all common and in a company organized expressly to operate this mine.

"THE FRIDAY MINE"

Located at Pearl, Willow Creek, Boise County, Idaho

About 25 Miles Northwest of Boise City

THE FRIDAY GOLD MINING CO. is a corporation duly organized under the laws of the State of Oregon, with head office at Sumpter, Oregon, owning and controlling "The Friday Mine." Capital Stock, $1,000,000, divided into 1,000,000 shares. Par value $1.00 per share, fully paid and non-assessable, no personal liability. [illegible] shares have been set aside and placed in the treasury of the company to be sold for the purpose of equipping the "Friday Mine" with machinery. It is for this purpose we are offering you stock in this great mine. This plant will handle 60 tons of Friday ore every 24 hours. The general average of the Friday ore is over $30 per ton. The ore as it was shipped to the smelters at Salt Lake averaging over $[illegible] per ton. The Friday is highly developed, great quantities of ore blocked out and in sight ready for the mill. As soon as the mill is completed the Friday Mine will again pay dividends.

Large ore bodies which will net to the company $[illegible], for the first few months are now blocked out ready for the mill. As soon as the mill is completed you will draw your regular monthly dividend. It is safe, certain and conservative.

We are not soliciting your money for the purpose of developing the mine, but only for the purpose of erecting a mill to work the ore bodies in the mine. The company is officered by men of well known business ability, mining experience and strict integrity.

Hon. Martin H. Jacobs, State Mining Inspector of mines, for the State of Idaho says "The Friday has a large amount of good ore in sight, and there is no question about its being a good paying property."

Thunder Mountain!

is the richest gold producing camp in the United States, and also the largest. The Thunder Mountain district, in central Idaho, is twenty miles wide and forty miles long. In comparison with this we have Cripple Creek, four miles wide and seven miles long. In many of the Thunder Mountain mines ore has already been reached that carries ONE THOUSAND DOLLARS IN GOLD TO THE TON. All of the Thunder Mountain ore is free milling, which means that it can be treated by the cheapest extraction process known—the ordinary stamp mill. It can be both mined and milled at a cost not to exceed $2 a ton. The past years operations in the several working mines have opened up millions of tons of ore that will give a net profit of from $10 to $30 a ton, enabling the respective companies to pay dividends at a rate never before equalled. Such is the showing and the prospect of the

EAST DEWEY GOLD MINING CO.

which unless all indications are at fault, will become the largest producer in the district. The EAST DEWEY mine, which it owns outright, is located directly on Thunder Mountain, just east of the famous "Dewey" mine, which already has $20,000,000 of ore in sight. The surface area of the East Dewey mine is one hundred and twenty acres—six full quartz claims. The company has also secured the big GOLDEN GATE mine, in the Big Creek section of the Thunder Mountain district—which has been so aptly termed "The Pot of Gold"—and is now developing the mine with all possible speed. For a distance of 9,000 feet, nearly two miles, the Golden Gate mines cover a mineralized ledge that is 900 feet wide, with an average height above the tunnel level of 500 feet, thus giving it the largest exposed tonnage of any mine in the west.

If you would share in the enormous profits which these figures indicate and which these developments promise, invest your money in "East Dewey" Stock. It can be bought to-day for 10 Cents a Share. Its par value is $1.

If the East Dewey mines are what they appear to be, and there is absolutely no reason to doubt or question these indications, this stock will eventually be worth at least $10 a share, and to-day you can buy it for ten cents. PRICE ADVANCES TO FIFTEEN CENTS ON FEBRUARY 28th. 5% discount allowed for cash. Stock sold at flat price of 10 cents on deferred payments, 10% with application, and 10% monthly until paid. Saturday's Market

There was a very poor turn out at the market on Saturday. Potatoes brought $1.25 per bag; beef was a drag, owing to the mild weather, and much of it was disposed of to the butchers; eggs were not so plentiful as was expected; fowl was scarce, and the price was very high; apples sold at from 60c to $1.00 per bag. The drovers are somewhat discouraged at their prospects, for the next two months at least, sheep being the only stock that can be handled with profit in the Toronto markets. A few stockers are changing hands at lower prices.

IMPOSSIBLE TO HANDLE TRAFFIC

Many Railroads Are Refusing Most Kinds of Foreign Freight

THE PER DIEM CAR SYSTEM

Has Been a Great Success and Enabled Much More Business to be Done

Montreal, March 1—"This country" remarked Mr. W. E. Davis, passenger traffic manager of the Grand Trunk, "is enjoying a period of prosperity never before experienced. There is no let up in the passenger traffic, and I believe Mr. Loud will tell you the same regarding his traffic."

Being appealed to, Mr. John W. Loud freight traffic manager, said the great trouble was that the companies simply could not handle the business offering. The congestion of cars out West was so great that the corn crop could not be moved to the seaboard.

Mr. W. H. Bosevear, general car accountant, gave a list of all the principal trunk lines which are refusing freight. For instance, the New York Central refuses hay and straw for New York city, the Michigan Central, the Lake Shore, the Philadelphia and Reading and forty or fifty other roads, refuse foreign freight, unless it be live stock or perishable.

The first three months of the per diem system on all the principal roads is satisfactory, showing an increased use on the various lines averaging from 20 to 30 and 40 per cent. over last year, while the Grand Trunk increased the use of home cars 76,000 in one month, 80,000 in another, and 61,000 in another.

Had it not been for the increased service of cars by the new system, it is difficult to say how the business prosperity would have been met.

CAUSED DRUNKENESS

Kingston Trades Council Want License Chairman Dismissed

Kingston, March 1.—At a recent meeting, Capt. R. Crawford, chairman of the Board of License Commissioners, made the remark that the reduction in the hours of labor for workingmen resulted in increased drunkenness. This caused offence to the members of the Building Trades Council, and they, at a largely attended meeting, passed a strong resolution asking for the dismissal of Mr. Crawford from the chairmanship of the License Board. A copy of this resolution will be sent to Hon. J. R. Stratton.

THEIR OWN OPINION.

From Barrie Gazette.

The time is drawing near, when the ice will disappear;
And Old Winter loose his fetters
from our charming little bay;
And the day is surely coming when all Barrie will be humming:
"We're the best that ever happened

COMING WEST.

Smith's Falls, Feb. 28—The Smith's Falls hockey team will receive a welcome reinforcement in Buddy McMillan of Cornwall. It has arranged to have the Shamrocks of Montreal play at the Falls to-night, and is trying to arrange home-and-home games with Cornwall. The Smith's Falls team may also take a tour, embracing Peterboro, Port Hope, Belleville and the St. Georges of Toronto. Its plans for a match with Sault Ste. Marie have fallen through.

"I had scrofula and erysipelas for eighteen years, until I heard

Of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery," writes Mr. Ellery Keene, of Queens, W. Va. "When I commenced to take this medicine I weighed one hundred and thirty pounds. I have taken six bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and three vials of his 'Pleasant Pellets,' and am glad to say I feel like a new man. I now weigh one hundred and seventy-five pounds. When I had used one bottle of the medicine I could feel it was helping me. I realize Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is the best medicine on earth."

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery purifies the blood and entirely eradicates the poisons that breed and feed disease. It cures scrofula, eczema, erysipelas, boils, pimples and other eruptions that mar and scar the skin. Pure blood is essential to good health. The weak, run-down, debilitated condition which so many people experience is commonly the effect of impure blood. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery not only cleanses the blood of impurities, but it increases the activity of the blood-making glands, and it enriches the body with an abundant supply of pure, rich blood.

FREE. Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Send 31 one-cent stamps for the book in paper covers, or 50 stamps for the cloth-bound volume. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Death of Miss Gussie Daly

A great many hearts and tear stained cheeks will be carried about in the public schools and collegiate institute both by teachers, playmates, friends and companions of the loving, bright and beautiful Gussie Daly, when it is learned that she is no more. The grim messenger came to her yesterday morning and carried away Mr and Mrs. Daly's darling child, who was a great favorite with everyone. The Times joins with a host of friends in Peterborough and elsewhere in sympathy for the bereaved parent in their overwhelming sorrow. The cause of death was typhoid fever. It is not yet known where interment will take place

Budget Speech Shows Quarter Million Surplus Last Year and An Anticipated One for 1903

Winnipeg, March 1,—Hon. John A. Davidson, Provincial Treasurer, delivered his fourth budget speech in the Legislature yesterday, and presented a number of statements and comparisons, showing that the Government had completely fulfilled its promises made previous to the election, to restore the equilibrium between revenue and expenditure. He showed in what manner the area of deficits had given place to one of surpluses, and when he announced that the Government was now in a position to proclaim a surplus of $250,000 for 1902, there was great applause from the Government benches. He also produced a statement of receipts and expenditures, covering the past three years, showing that all three budgets dove-tailed in perfectly, and that there were no discrepancies. He accounted for the manner in which the money raised on the $500,000 loan was used, and dealt particularly with some of the statements that have been made recently by members of the Opposition throughout the country regarding the Provincial finances.

Mr. Davidson also presented a statement of the estimated revenue and expenditure of the Province for 1903. The Government anticipated that there will be paid into the treasury $1,415,227.63, while it is figured that the affairs of the province can be handled for the sum of $1,346,272.38 or $68,954.26 less than the total amount of receipts.

CANADA AND IRELAND HOW TO BIND EMPIRE

An Imperial Tax Empire's Need, Mr. Devlin Selected as a Candidate

London, March 2—Colonel G. T. Denison, of Toronto, has a column letter in The Times today on Imperial defence. He maintains that England's free trade fetish is to blame because Canadians do not contribute cash to the navy. He advocates an Imperial duty on all foreign goods, and the turning of capital and emigration towards British possessions.

MR. DEVLIN SELECTED.

Mr. C. R. Devlin was unanimously selected as the Nationalist candidate for Galway yesterday. Speaking at a public meeting, he thanked the electors, and promised to try and get Galway selected as the terminal port of the Canadian fast line, adding: "No port has yet been selected."

Mr. Devlin is really undecided, and the chances are against his running. The writ for the elections was issued today. No Government candidate will run.

CANADA AND IRELAND.

Capt. Shawe Taylor, secretary of the Irish land conference, who has just returned from Canada and the United States, says that Mr. Laurier endorses the report of the conference, saying that its adoption would confer a boon on Ireland, on England, on Canada, and on the Empire. He says that Sir Wilfrid has promised to support the embodying resolution to be moved by Hon. John Costigan on March 12. Capt. Shawe Taylor claims that Canada is anxious for a settlement of the Irish question, as she suffers from Irish-American antipathy, as illustrated in the Fenian raid and also loses Irish emigrants.

MISSOURIAN SAYS HE IS IN EARNEST

Canadian Annexation Proposition Now Before U.S. Congress

BUT IT WILL END IN SMOKE

He Hopes That Congress Will Take Some Action Before Adjournment

New York, March 2.—Representative DeArmond, of Missouri, is quite earnest in his proposition to have the United States annex the Dominion of Canada, and is quite hopeful that Congress will take the first legislative step in that direction before its adjournment on March 4. His resolution authorizing the President to investigate the advisability of this nation absorbing British North America is now in committee.

Speaking of this great annexation scheme, Mr. DeArmond, who is one of the leaders on the Democratic side of the house, said to-night:

"If we have to grow, let us grow on our own continent; not southward, but northward. It is far better for us to expand here than to take possessions far away from our own shores, in other continents and seats.

"My resolution requests the President to ascertain on what terms, if any, Great Britain will cede to the United States all or part of Canada, on honorable terms, of course. If the report made by the President should be encouraging, and show that Great Britain is willing to part with Canada, and that the people of Canada are desirous of joining hands with the United States, then annexation may be brought about with comparative ease.

"In a reasonable time the Dominion could be divided into states and the people would have the same rights and privileges as the citizens of the United States. In fact, they would be made citizens of this country. I sincerely trust that favorable action will be taken upon this resolution."

ANOTHER REVIVAL STARTED

A Week's Service to be Held in Charlotte Street Methodist Church

Revival services, which will continue all week, began last night in the Charlotte Street Methodist church. The meetings are being conducted by the pastor, Rev. Mr. Joliffe, assisted by Rev. Mr. Kilgour.

Last night there was a very large attendance and much interest was manifested.

The service opened with a 15-minute song service after which Rev. Mr. Joliffe gave a short talk on the duties of each individual in connection with the revival. Taking his topic from the 5th chapter of Ephesians, the keynote of which was "Personal consecration" the speaker said before there could be a revival there must be a personal consecration, a direct conversation with God. Secondly, there must be a special setting apart for this work, and a personal receiving of the Holy Spirit which alone could give power to the special services. The last point —an undivided heart could not be commentated. After the service a fellowship meeting was held.

THE LATE MR. WM. LECH

One of Peterborough's Oldest and Most Respected Citizens Passes Away

We regret to announce the death of William Lech, one of Peterborough's oldest and most highly respected residents at the family residence Hunter st. on Tuesday afternoon. Deceased gentleman was 78 years of age and until about a week ago had been quite active and able to enjoy his customary daily walk. His death was caused by gradual decline, due to his advanced years.

The late William Lech was born in Kylau, Prussia, on March fourth, 1825. He was married in 1852 to Rosina Henrietta Kornke who predeceased him in September, 1901. Upon coming to America they resided for some time in New York and spent several years in Montreal and Quebec. In 1861 they moved to Peterborough and have remained here ever since.

Mr. Lech has for many years conducted one of the most prominent and successful fur establishments in Canada, and his success has been due mainly to his untiring industry and integrity. A few years ago Mr. Lech retired and the business has since been carried on by his sons.

The surviving children are: Messrs. F. A. Zachs, of Syracuse, N.Y., Mrs. K. R. Graham, of Peterborough; Messrs. K. G., A. E. and W. E. Lech, Peterborough; Mrs. F. G. Gnaedinger, Montreal; Mrs. Paul Stoeving, London, Eng., Mrs. E. F. Walter, Montreal.

The funeral will be held to-morrow afternoon at 3 o'clock to Little Lake cemetery.

OUR SUNDAY SCHOOLS

Their Organization and their Methods of Work

Interesting Information Regarding the Sunday Schools of Peterboro county

In the County of Peterborough there is a County and several Township Associations, viz. in Belmont, Asphodel, Smith, North Smith, Dummer, Otonabee and City of Peterborough. The membership of the township associations comprises all of the Sunday schools in that township.

Each township organization meets annually, in convention, the attendance at which is derived from the membership of the individual schools in the municipality where the convention is being held. Each of these schools appoints as many delegates as they deem best, who are thus members of the convention, entitling them to vote on any subject or motion before the convention, and of course conferring on them the privilege of speaking on any question before the convention, or the introducing of any question bearing on the work they may wish. They are also eligible for any office in the association for which they may be fitted for by nature or education or better by both. Beside these all persons who are interested in Sunday school work are invited to attend and take part in the discussions, but cannot vote or work on a committee, that belongs to duly appointed delegates and officials.

Then all persons, members of churches or otherwise, who are interested in the building up of a healthy, moral and sturdy home life, are invited to be there; also every one concerned in the development of an improved and robust citizenship, is welcomed and given the right hand of good fellowship, with the privilege of speaking in open meeting.

These township organizations are presided over by an executive committee, composed of a president; a first vice-president, and for second vice-presidents, all the ministers in that municipality, a secretary-treasurer, and where the following departments are recognized, there is a superintendent appointed to over look that especial department in the township to see that as far as it can be, that work is recognized in each school therein. The departments are the primary, including the cradle roll, the home class department, and the normal department of modern Sunday school organized work.

Acting with these officials is a committee of management composed of one representative from each school in the municipality.

The duty of the township executive committee is to co-operate with the executive committee of the County Sunday school Association for the furtherance of the best interests of the life and work of Sunday school organizations in the township and county.

The Township Association's duty and privilege is to also look after and help their own schools, keeping an oversight, helping the weak, resuscitating those that lapse, and to organize a new school at any point where such may be needed. There is a field of usefulness not much used [illegible] the superintendents of the Sunday schools in the township to exchange every quarter on review Sundays, then reporting to the executive as to the efficiency of the school reviewed; by doing so it would level up the general efficiency of the work, and foster a spirit of fraternity, getting out of that tendency to narrowness, fostered by living to one's self, surrounded only by local interests.

Also this executive should arrange for local institutes to be held in every Sunday school for the interests of primary work, normal work, and to show the importance of a home class in every Sunday school, and the better ways of working them.

These are some of the ways in which the townships can and do help on the great work of the Sunday school organization, which is the individual school, with gathered force in the Township Association, then concentrated in the County Association, intensified in the Provincial work, teaching a still higher level in the International Association, composed of the Provincial and State Associations of North America, finding its climax in the World's Sunday school Association, composed of the schools of Europe and America, with their millions of workers. Some other time we will explain county organization, then provincial, work and aims.

A True [illegible] Tonic

Deafness and impaired hearing are due almost entirely to catarrhal inflammation of the eustachian tube. Permanent cure is guaranteed to all who inhale Catarrhozone as directed. The vegetable antiseptic is inhaled at the mouth, and after traversing all the air passages of the respiratory organs is exhaled through the nostrils; it completely eradicates catarrh from any part of the system, clears the ears, nose and throat, and allays inflammation, congestion and soreness. For Deafness, Earache, Ringing in the Ears, Head Noises, Catarrh, Asthma and Bronchitis, medical science can devise nothing so beneficial as Catarrhozone. We recommend that Dr. Bingham be paid $10.00 in full settlement of his account.

We also recommend that the expenses of the Chairman of the Property Committee, and of Mr. Belcher, in going to Toronto, amounting to $18.00 be paid.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

The report was adopted as read. Although Dr. Bingham's account of $10 was taken exception to by several of the Trustees, who agreed that looking after the fumigating of the schools, for which the account was rendered, is part of his regular duties as Medical Health Officer, for which he is paid by the Town.

SCHOOL SUPPLIES.

Mr. W. H. Hill, Chairman of the Supervision Committee, submitted a report, recommending the acceptance of the tenders of Messrs. Ormond & Walsh for chemicals, and A. H. Stratton & Co. for stationery.

The report was adopted as read.

be made for children in the Children's

SHELTER CHILDREN.

Mr. McBain asked that arrangements be made for children in the Children's Shelter attending the South Ward school.

On motion of Mr. McBain, seconded by Dr. Burnham this was agreed to.

CHANGE OF OFFICE.

Mr. McBain here notified the Board that he would no longer act on the Property Committee. He had refused this office at the inaugural meeting, but his colleagues evidently did not take him up seriously, as his name was allowed to remain on the Committee.

Dr. Burnham moved, seconded by Mr. Hayes, that Mr. Stevenson act on the Property Committee and Mr. McBain on the Finance Committee. This change of Committees being agreeable to both gentlemen, the motion was carried.

The Board then adjourned.

POOR CARLOTTA IS DYING

Widow of Maximilian is Rapidly Passing Away

Brussels, March 2.—It is reported that the Archduchess Carlotta is dying at Palace Tucken, near Brussels. The Archduchess is the widow of the ill-fated Maximilian, Emperor of Mexico, who, for thirty-seven years has been hopelessly insane.

Carlotta was a bride at 17, an Empress at 24, and a maniac at 26. She represents in her own person the tragedy of a Hapsburg and Austrian Empire in Mexico. She is a daughter of Leopold I. of Belgium, sister of the present monarch.

BATTLE BETWEEN TURKS AND MACEDONIANS

Let Peace Rule in South Africa, The Afrikander Leader Issues a Manifesto

Let Dead Past Bury Its Dead—Significant Sequence to Mr. Chamberlain's Visit to Cape Town

London, March 2—The Geneva correspondent of the Daily Chronicle, telegraphs that news has been received there of an engagement between Turkish troops and bodies of Macedonians and Bulgarians near Monastir. The Turks suffered a repulse. After the fighting 32 dead and many wounded men were found.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 28, via Eydtkuhnen, German frontier, March 2.—Some publicists are of the opinion that only the sternest language toward Turkey can prevent a war between Russia and Turkey in the spring. They believe that Turkey will pursue bands of Macedonian revolutionists across the Bulgarian frontier, and that public opinion will compel Russia to interfere. The Russians thoroughly understand that a war with Turkey will be a more severe one than in 1877. Officers are quoted as saying that the Turkish army is the best in the world, owing to its German organization and armament. There is an inclination here to anticipate German financial support of Turkey, and in view of the situation, forebodings of a clash with Turkey are freely expressed in private, although they are carefully suppressed in the newspapers.

London, March 2—Cape Town correspondent of The Times says that Mr. Hofmeyer, the Afrikander Bond leader, has published a circular in fulfilment of his promise to Mr. Chamberlain to appeal to the Cape Dutch. Mr. Hofmeyer says the community is too small to be divided into two hostile camps on account of the war without grievous injury to the whole. By keeping alive grievances and bitterness arising from the war, the Dutch would sacrifice their own peace of mind, retard the progress of the country, and play into the hands of their adversaries.

PRINCE GEORGE IS POPULAR.

London, March 2—A despatch from Candia to The Times says that Prince George of Greece (High Commissioner of Crete), has been received with enthusiasm at Candia. He is making a tour of the interior of the country. The Cretan elections are imminent and feeling is bitter between Ministerialists, and followers of ex-Minister Venizelos.

GERMANY WANTS FOOTHOLD IN THE BRAZILIAN REPUBLIC

Will Put the Famous Monroe Doctrine to a Test

London, March 3—The London Times has information which leads to the conclusion that Germany is attempting to get a foothold by settlement in Brazil and that she is also getting in some fine diplomatic work with the alliance of Latin American republics with a view to turning them against the United States. The Latin-American republics were never closely in sympathy with the United States or the Monroe doctrine and are inclined to view the ultimate effect of the latter with suspicion. It is believed that the formation of the alliance has been undertaken as a set-off against the United States. While the individual republics are glad enough to take advantage of the Monroe doctrine when it happens to suit their interests for the time being they regard it generally as an unwarrantable assumption of superiority on the part of the Yankees. Germany, it is said, proposes to pander to this feeling of distrust and try to stiffen the alliance in its opposition to the doctrine by assuring its members of German support should the United States develop any coercive symptoms.

T. A. S. DEFEAT FENELON FALLS BY 8-3

The Fenelon Falls hockey team played their return game with the T.A.S. last night before a large crowd of enthusiastic spectators, including a large number of the visiting team's supporters. The game was a very fast exhibition of hockey, especially in the first half, at the conclusion of which the T.A.S. led by one goal, the score being 3—2 in the local team's favor, and 8—3 at the expiration of time.

In the last half the T.A.S. played a much stronger game, and the combination of the T.A.S. forward line at times was fast, the visitor's defence finding it very difficult to break. A feature of the game was the individual rushes made by Lynch and Parnell, while McGrath and George also figured in quite a number.

Crowley at cover-point played a strong game and broke up many assaults made by the visitors, and relieved well. Bill Meagher, at point, also spoiled some good ones for Fenelon. McCoy, in goal, played his usual good game, and stopped some warm ones. For the visitors Beatue and Ingram did good work. In the first half Fenelon played a strong game, but could not keep the pace set by the locals in the last half.

The T.A.S. scored the first goal, the next 2 going to the visitors; the T.A.S. adding two more to their number before half time. Score 3-2.

In the second half the T.A.S. was the first to score, Fenelon scoring their third and last goal shortly after, the locals finishing with 4 more to their number, making the score 8 to 3 in favor of the T.A.S.

Dr. Walters, of Lindsay, refereed the game.

The following players represented the T.A.S. team:

Goal, McCoy; Point, Meagher; cover point, Crowley; forwards, George McGrath, Lynch and Parnell.

At the conclusion of the game the visitors were entertained by the T.A.S. at Mr. Potvin's oyster parlors, and a pleasant time spent.

The Beechgroves Juniors, of Kingston, played their return game with the Marlboro Juniors in Toronto last night and were victorious, winning by two goals. This makes the two teams a tie. The deciding game will probably be played off at Port Hope.

It is charged that Newbold, who played point on the Collingwood team, most of the season, made a demand of $25 for his services as the train was leaving for the final game at Barrie. He was left at home, and unless he can establish his innocence, he will be left out of hockey and all other amateur games. The offence alleged against involves expulsion for violation of the amateur code.

The referee's report on the Marlboro' at Niagara Falls game disclosed a shameful attempt to defeat the visiting team by dishonesty among the goal umpires. The referee himself saw two goals given to the Falls that were not scored, and on three occasions when the visitors put the puck fairly into the goals the umpire refused to acknowledge them. The Niagara Falls Club will be asked for a statement. The rink at the Falls is so narrow and poorly lighted that it does not come up to O. H. A. requirements.

The O.H.A. should let Barrie play off with Paris and the winner play with Marlboros of Belleville.

Helpless and Almost Dying Mrs. Lampman is Saved by

Paine's Celery Compound

The Only Spring Medicine That Can Positively Guarantee Health and New Life to Weak, Diseased and Brokendown Men and Women.

Another marked and positive victory for Paine's Celery Compound! Another marvellous example of life saving!

Mrs. M. E. Lampman, a lady well known in Woodstock, Ont., reduced by disease to a mere skeleton, is made well and strong by nature's health restorer after many failures of physicians. This victory, and the scores of wonderful cures wrought from week to week by Paine's Celery Compound, create a confidence in the great spring medicine that is enduring and far reaching. At this season Paine's Celery Compound rescues and permanently cures young and old who are weakened and broken down by disease; it never fails; its virtues are all-powerful even at the eleventh hour. Mrs. Lampman writes as follows:

"No living mortal can imagine the sufferings I endured for months, all brought on by Grippe. I became nervous and so prostrated that I could not sleep. Life became a burden and I was reduced to a mere skeleton. I heard of Paine's Celery Compound and commenced to use it. I got instant relief. I continued the use of the compound and now can sleep well all night and feel rested when morning comes. My appetite is good. I am gaining in flesh and feel like a new person. I cannot find words to express my gratitude for your great medicine, and the wonderful cure it has wrought."

The Store That Never Disappoints.

To Our Customers and Friends

The unfortunate fire of three weeks ago left us with a salvage stock to dispose of.

Two propositions presented themselves: FIRST, to make radical reductions on all goods in stock and sell them as rapidly as possible, taking perhaps a month or six weeks to do so; the SECOND was to make the reductions not only radical but sensational, and put the prices where two weeks would clear up the stock. Taking all points of the situation into consideration we decided on the latter course, and to-day the contractors are in possession of both stores and will be able to give us the premises in remodelled shape in time for SPRING TRADE.

OUR MILLINERY WORK ROOM is already in shape to work in, and our staff will be at work this week.

OUR OLD COUNTRY PURCHASES for our new stock have been completed and will be rushed forward.

The MONTREAL, TORONTO and NEW YORK markets will be visited personally and by our department hands during the next three weeks, and we have confidence in asking our customers to await the arrival and opening up of our New Stock.

We regretted much during the rush of our clearing out sale our inability to handle the daily crowds more satisfactorily. We adopted the only means possible under the circumstances, and did the very best we could to distribute the stock to as many as possible.

We assure our customers and friends that no effort will be spared in restocking and refurnishing our stores to make them attractive and inviting.

PROGRESS

Those who think that Mr. Carnegie is beginning at the wrong end in his library business will have to admit that he is making some progress. He has put many millions of dollars into more or less magnificent libraries. He now perceives that trained librarians are needed wherever there are libraries. So he gives to Western Reserve university, in the United States, a school for training librarians. So far, so good. The libraries and the librarians will soon be in good working order. The next thing that will be needed will be readers who will properly use the libraries and the librarians. We await with interest the announcement of Mr. Carnegie's plan for supplying them.

A NOVEL TEMPERANCE PROPOSAL

A novel proposal, ostensibly in support of the prohibition movement, has been made in Los Angeles and is now before the City Council in the shape of a municipal revenue bill. It suggests that a yearly tax of $2 be levied on every church member, and a ten per cent. tax on the salaries of ministers, Y.M.C.A. officials, and officers of the Anti-Saloon League, the object of the measure being to secure support for prohibition by providing revenue that would ordinarily be received from liquor licenses.

The author of the bill is of course a woman, and one who for years has been prominently connected with church and temperance work. Her idea is that the saloons will continue to exist until a method has been found for providing for the deficit which the abolition of the saloons ... would create in the civic revenues. This method, she believes, she has discovered by a tax such as she proposes.

The clergy and church people of Los Angeles, however, do not seem to be in accord with her, and they are declaring that the proposal is an attempt to hold up the prohibition movement to ridicule. Some of the enemies of the temperance cause argue that it is a veiled attempt to rob the church of membership, but this is regarded as a slander on the good people of Los Angeles.

WHOLE TOWN SWEPT BY FIRE

Port De Paix, Hayti, is the Scene of a Destructive Conflagration

Cape Haytien, Hayti, Feb. 28.—A despatch received here from Gros Morne to-day announces the complete destruction of Port De Paix, by fire last night. Only the vessels belonging to the Haytien Company were saved.

Port de Paix is a maritime town of Hayti, on the strait between that island and Tortuga Island, 34 miles from Cape Haytien and about 100 miles north by west of Port Au Prince, the capital. Vessels load and discharge at Port De Paix by means of lighters. It has a population of about 9,000.

THE TORONTO GENERAL TRUSTS CORPORATION

Proceedings of the Annual General Meeting

The Fourth Annual Meeting of the Shareholders of The Toronto General Trust Corporation (being the twenty-first of The Toronto General Trusts Company) was held in the Board Room of the Corporation on the corner of Yonge and Colborne Streets, Toronto, on Wednesday, the 25th February, 1903. There were present: W. R. Brock, M.P., Wm. Gordon, J. G. Scott, K.C., J. W. Digby, M.D., J. W. Langmuir, John Hoskin, K.C., LL.D., Hon. S. C. Wood, John L. Blaikie, T. Sutherland Stayner, Aemilius Irving, K.C., James Henderson, Alexander Nairn, John Foy, Thos. Long, A. D. Langmuir, W. H. Beatty, E. T. Malone, K.C., J. J. Kenny, A. B. Lee, Henry Gooderham, E. B. Osler, M.P., A. L. Malone, Edward Galley, Britton Osler, J. J. Foy, K.C., John Paton, A. L. Crossin, Richard Foster, Alexander Smith, Ernest E. Argles, D. R. Wilkie, John Y. Reid, H. R. Gregg, E. H. Bickford, Samuel Nordheimer, James Hedley, H. F. Wright, Ralph K. Burgess, Fred. J. Harris, Fred G. Jarvis and others.

The President, Dr. Hoskin, took the chair, and Mr. A. D. Langmuir, the Assistant Manager, was appointed to act as Secretary.

The various financial statements, showing the operations of the Corporation for the year ended 31st December, 1902, were submitted by the Managing Director, Mr. J. W. Langmuir, and were respectively commented upon by him.

The Report of the Directors for the year was then read as follows:

Fourth Annual Report of the Directors of The Toronto General Trusts Corporation,

(For the Year ending 31st December, 1902)

To the Shareholders:

Your Directors beg to submit the Fourth Annual Report of The Toronto General Trusts Corporation (being the twenty-first of The Toronto General Trusts Company), together with the Profit and Loss Account, and other financial statements, showing the operations of the Corporation for the year ended 31st December, 1902. New Estates, amounting to $3,060,237.38, have passed into the care of the Corporation during the year, of which the following is a summary:

Executorships	$ 584,980 89
Administrations	174,484 19
Administrations with Will annexed	21,380 98
Trusteeships	654,949 94
Investment Agencies	46,081 36
Estate Agencies	144,384 65
Guaranteed Mortgage Investment Agencies	46,515 11
Committeeships	30,261 90
Guardianships	34,736 65
Receiverships	8,465 14
Lunatic Estate Agencies	67,148 46
Total	$3,060,237 38

In addition to the new business thus summarized, the Corporation has during the year, been appointed Trustee for the issue and certification of debentures, registrar of stocks and bonds, transfer agent, and other transactions of a kindred character, aggregating over $13,000,000. In the transaction of this class of work the Corporation assumes no responsibility other than the exercise of great care and systematic checking.

The Profit and Loss Account herewith submitted shows the earnings of the Corporation for the year, and plainly sets out in detail the sources from which they were derived. An examination of this sheet will confirm the reports which have been made to the Shareholders and the public generally from time to time, and which your Directors again desire to reiterate, namely, that although there are various branches of financial business that give promise of yielding large profits, the Corporation, realizing, as it does, the great responsibility that rests upon it in having the care of estates and funds aggregating over $30,000,000 held largely for the support of widows, children, and dependent classes generally, believes it to be its duty to strictly confine itself to the legitimate work of a corporate executor, trustee, administrator, etc., as authorized by its Act of Incorporation and the General Act governing Trust Companies. As the compensation for acting in these capacities is limited, and the cost of maintaining a large and expensive staff of trained officials is great, it will be obvious that the expenses of maintaining the Trusts Corporation in its present state of efficiency in all its departments can only be met by the transaction of a large volume of business.

From the large number of Wills that have been deposited with the Corporation, and notifications almost daily received of the execution of Wills in which the Corporation has been appointed Executor and Trustee, your Directors are encouraged to believe that the fixed determination of the Corporation to confine itself strictly to the transaction of a Trust and Agency business is receiving the approval of the public. The present staff organization of the Corporation, with such junior clerical additions, as its growing business may necessitate from time to time, is sufficient for the transaction of a largely increased volume of business.

It will be observed that the expenditures under the heading of office expenses are abnormally large as compared with the preceding year, as they include all the preliminary expenses incurred in the establishment of the Manitoba Branch, and also expenditures at the Head Office in the promotion of the Corporation's business, which might legitimately have been extended over a series of years, but which are all paid out of the profits of the year.

After making provisions for every known loss, the profits for the year amounted to $99,685.46, out of which your Directors have declared and paid two semi-annual dividends at the rate of 7 1-2 per cent. per annum, amounting to $75,000, and they have carried $20,000 to the Rest Account, thus increasing that fund to $300,000, and in addition have carried forward to the credit of Profit and Loss $4,685.46.

All which is respectfully submitted.

(Sgd.) J. W. LANGMUIR, Managing Director.

(Sgd.) JOHN HOSKIN, President.

We, the undersigned, beg leave to report that we have made a full examination of the books, accounts and vouchers of the Toronto General Trusts Corporation to the 31st December, 1902, and find same to be correct and properly set forth in the above statement. We have examined and find in order all the mortgages, debentures, bonds and scrip of the Corporation, as well as those deposited for the Supreme Court of Judicature for Ontario, and trusts, estates and agencies in the Corporation's hands, and have checked same with the Mortgage and Debenture ledgers and registers. The bankers' balances, after deducting outstanding cheques, agree with the books of the Corporation. We have also examined the report of the Auditor of the Winnipeg Branch, and find that it agrees with the Head Office books.

(Sgd.) R. F. SPENCE
(Sgd.) JOHN M. MARTIN, F.C.A., Auditors.

Toronto, 23rd February, 1903.

THE PRESIDENT, DR. HOSKIN, in moving the adoption of the report, said: In moving the adoption of the report which has just been read, I do not think that it is necessary to take up your time with any very lengthened remarks. Last year being the close of the second decade in our existence, very full information was furnished to the Shareholders, accompanied by statements showing the great growth of the Corporation; that since the organization of the Corporation close upon $40,000,000 of estates, trusts and work of a kindred character have passed under its care, and that after distribution of a large volume of assets over $30,000,000 still remained in its hands.

This year I will confine myself to a few remarks on the operations of the past twelve months, as exhibited in the Profit and Loss Sheet submitted to you. And, first, I want to say, differing from the two preceding years, we have had no very large estates under our care. We have had a greater number of estates and trusts than usual, aggregating over $3,000,000, but none of large magnitude. The operations of the year may be therefore looked upon as the normal volume of business that we may reasonably expect to be continued, and possibly improved upon from year to year.

You will see from the Profit and Loss Sheet that the gross earnings of the Corporation amount to $131,722.07. There is an increase in the commissions earned for the management of estates; also some increase in interest earned owing to properties having been realized and now becoming productive; the rents from the Safe Deposit Vaults stand about the same. You will notice, however, that there is a slight decrease in the net rents received from the Corporation's building. In this connection I will call your attention to the fact that the value of reconstructing our building was about $80,000, over $30,000 of which has been paid out of our profits during the past three years.

Coming next to the debit side of the Profit and Loss Sheet, you will observe that there is an increase in expenses. This is largely due to the establishment of the Manitoba Branch. As the Report states, the Board considered it desirable to write off all the preliminary expenses connected with the establishment of this Agency, as well as some abnormal expenditures at the Head Office out of the profits of the year and have done with it. The commissions paid for loans and the cost of inspection of loans have increased, and will, of course, continue to increase with the growth of our investing business. The inspection of loans is a branch of expenditure which it would be false economy to endeavor to curtail.

To sum up, you will observe that after writing off all ascertained losses we have, in round figures, a balance at our credit of net profits amounting to $100,000. Out of this we have paid $75,000 in dividends and we have carried $20,000 to the Rest, bringing forward to the credit of Profit and Loss $4,685. Upon the whole, gentlemen, I think we have very good reason to be satisfied. As the Profit and Loss Sheet shows, all our earnings are derived from commissions on the management of estates and interest derived from the investment of our capital.

HON. S. C. WOOD, Vice-President, in seconding the adoption of the Report, said:—

The increasing prosperity of the Company as shown by the Report must be most satisfactory to the Shareholders. The Report itself is very clear and very full, and, taken along with the remarks of the President, covers all that is necessary to be said. I wish simply to refer in a few words to one particular item of interest to this Company, and that is the constantly increasing confidence of the public in this Company. That we have since our formation had nearly $40,000,000 of estates, trusts, etc., and that we still have under our control over $30,000,000, is undoubtedly evidence of the confidence of the public in this Corporation, and, year by year, we come down with our Report, showing that we each year are receiving trusts aggregating millions. Although there were no very large estates this year, to my mind, the true test is the number of trusts and estates that pass through our hands. Since the formation of the Company its business has been gradually increasing, until last year the new estates reached the largest number in the history of the Corporation.

One other matter I would like to refer to—the profits of the year. It may be disappointing to some of our Shareholders that a Company having under its supervision and control $30,000,000, with a paid-up Capital of $1,000,000, and a large Reserve, should only show a net annual profit of $100,000. To some it may be disappointing, that with such a President as Dr. Hoskin, such a Manager as Mr. Langmuir, a first-class staff in all departments, that we have not realized larger profits, but if that is a real source of dissatisfaction, it should be remembered that it is the best guarantee that the public can have that we are doing the business of the trusts committed to our care at the least possible charge.

MR. W. H. BEATTY, Vice-President, said:—

I would like to say a few words in connection with the Inspection Committee. We have a very large Board, a very large Executive Committee, and it would be an impossibility for every member to attend every meeting of the Executive Committee. Possibly the President and the Managing Director only could do that. But I want to state to you that Mr. Aemilius Irving, Mr. J. L. Blaikie and myself see everything that is done by the Executive Committee. We see every mortgage and every debenture that is taken, as well as all the work from start to finish. In doing so, I want to say, further, that during all the time I have been on the Inspection Committee (over fifteen years) I have never found one single investment that has been made for a trust estate, unless the trust deed or will authorized it, that did not come strictly within the Act. I am afraid that it would not be wise to extend the classes of investments to be taken for Trusts, as has been suggested. While a Trust Company might exercise wise discretion, and do what was right, you would find trustees who could not exercise the discretion which this Company does. Money has been lost on mortgages, but I believe it is about the best investment, if you act cautiously and prudently. What, however, I wish to emphasize is that the Corporation is doing what is strictly a Trust Company business, and so long as I have a say in the matter we will continue that course.

Respecting the compensation of the Corporation, I can only say that it is smaller than is paid to individuals; often, I think, too small, having regard to the work and responsibility.

I will finish by emphasizing that the Inspection Committee examines every mortgage, every debenture, every valuation, every certificate of title, and that the management go to no end of trouble to obtain any information for which the Committee asks.

MR. JAMES HENDERSON, in support of the resolution, said:—

I think we must all be exceedingly pleased with the results of the past year's business. I do not altogether coincide with Mr. Wood in his remarks with reference to the net Profits being comparatively small. You must consider, gentlemen, that the work in connection with these various estates is simply enormous, both in clerical work and superintendence, and the work has to be done with the utmost exactness, involving much care and responsibility and almost innumerable interviews with parties interested, all of which largely increases the expense of management. The Company, I think, has well decided to confine itself to a Trust and Agency business.

The Report of the Directors was adopted, as well as the Report of the Inspection Committee as presented by the Chairman, Mr. W. H. Beatty.

Certain By-laws and amendments to By-laws were confirmed.

The customary votes of thanks were passed. Mr. R. F. Spence and J. M. Martin, F.C.A., were reappointed Auditors for the Head Office, and Mr. E. H. Taylor for the Manitoba Branch for the year 1903. The following Shareholders were re-elected Directors for the ensuing year:—John Hoskin, K.C., LL.D., Hon. S. C. Wood, W. H. Beatty, John Bell, K.C., John L. Blaikie, W. R. Brock, M.P., J. W. Digby, M.D., J. J. Foy, K.C., M.P.P., John Foy, Hon. G. T. Fulford, George Gooderham, Wm. Hendrie, Aemilius Irving, K.C., Robert Jaffray, J. J. Kenny, J. W. Langmuir, A. B. Lee, Thos. Long, W. D. Matthews, Hon. Peter MacLaren, E. B. Osler, M.P., J. G. Scott, K.C., T. Sutherland Stayner, Byron E. Walker and D. R. Wilkie.

At a subsequent meeting of the Board Dr. John Hoskin, K.C., was re-elected President, and the Hon. S. C. Wood and Mr. W. H. Beatty, Vice-Presidents. The Executive Committee was re-elected, and Mr. W. H. Beatty, Mr. Aemilius Irving, K.C., and Mr. John L. Blaikie were appointed the Inspection Committee. The Advisory Board of the Manitoba Branch was reappointed as follows:—Hon. Sir Daniel H. McMillan, D. W. Bole, A. M. Nanton and H. H. Smith.

50,000 shares Common Stock, par value $100 each, issued and fully paid $5,000,000 00
Total Capitalization $6,000,000 00

Issue of $1,000,000 7% Preferred Stock in 10,000 Shares of $100 each at par.

This Stock is preferred both as to Assets and Dividends.

The shares are entitled to cumulative preferred dividends from the net earnings of the Company, at the rate of 7 per cent per annum, payable half-yearly on the first days of April and October. They may, at the option of the holder, be exchanged for common shares. They are subject to be called in, in whole or in part, by the Company, at $115.00 per share, at any time on or after 1st January 1909.

The total issue of Preferred Stock is only $1,000,000.00, the whole of which is now offered.

Subscriptions for 10,000 shares of $100 each of the 7 per cent Preferred Stock of the CANADIAN STEEL AND COAL COMPANY will now be received at par, that is, $100 for each $100 share as follows:—

5 per cent on application.
25 per cent on allotment.
35 per cent 30 days thereafter.
35 per cent 60 days thereafter.

One share of common, par value $100.00, given with each share of preferred.

The whole of the instalments remaining unpaid at any time may be prepaid in full. A discount of one per cent will be allowed upon the par of each share if prepaid at time of allotment.

Notice of allotment will be sent promptly by ordinary letter.

COAL
PROPERTY IN FULL OPERATION

Company owns 9,600 acres of coal property known throughout the coal trade as the New Campbellton Colliery, located on Bras D'Or Bay, County of Victoria, Cape Breton, Nova Scotia. Mine is fully equipped, producing and marketing 100 tons of coal a day at a net profit of $1.00 a ton. Improvements are now being made that will increase the output to over 1,000 tons a day. On present output, figuring 300 working days in year, the net result will more than pay interest on entire issue of preferred, with output of 1,000 tons a day net result will be $300,000 per annum.

IRON
RICHEST ORE IN THE WORLD

Company owns in fee simple, free and clear of all incumbrances, 4,000 acres of iron ore deposit, located at Natashquan (tidewater) situate on North shore of Gulf of St. Lawrence, in the County of Saguenay, province of Quebec.

Deposits contain 20,000,000 tons of ore ABOVE SEA LEVEL ALONE.

Quality of ore is highest ever discovered, running from 69 to 72 per cent. in Metallic iron.

More orders for the sale of this ore have been received by the Company than can possibly be accepted, and at a price netting the Company a profit of $2 a ton F. O. B. vessels at Company's docks.

An Opportunity

We are offering for public subscription a limited amount of stock of exceptional merit affording an unusual opportunity for a very profitable investment. We desire to be conservative in our representations, but do not hesitate to state that the stocks of the properties we are representing are absolutely certain to rapidly increase in value, and the fortunate purchasers of the stock at the present prices will have more than reason to congratulate themselves for grasping this opportunity.

Success lies in being alive to that which is going on around you, and they who "grasp the skirts of happy chance can breast the blows of circumstance."

We have the disposition of a certain amount of treasury stock in four corporations. We have thoroughly investigated the present value of the properties owned by the Companies, and have full cognition of the immense profits that are awaiting only the further development and equipment of the properties.

We are offering an equal number of shares in each of the four corporations at a price that make the combined issue a most attractive feature, giving also to the purchaser an unusual safe guard on his or her investment; in other words, you are not placing all your eggs in one basket. Or if you prefer you can purchase separately the stocks we offer.

As the money received from the sale of the stock is strictly for the purpose of equipping the properties with the necessary machinery, etc., the time will not be long before handsome dividends are available. We are not asking your subscriptions to pay for the properties; they are already owned by the Companies, and there are no outstanding obligations.

This preliminary notice is to advise the public in general that an opportunity now presents itself for a safe investment of unusual character, embodying also speculative possibilities sufficiently great to make even a small investor a competency within a few years.

You can invest in any amount from Ten Dollars up, and, if so desired, you can have the privilege of paying in instalments the amount of stock paid for from time to time being non-forfeitable in the event of your ceasing payments, thus relieving those of small or uncertain income from possibility of loss, should they for any reason become unable to continue payments.

Our business is to aid responsible Companies in the disposal of their treasury stock for the thorough equipment of their properties; we do not and will not handle indiscriminate mining or other stocks under any circumstances. We make a thorough personal examination and investigation as to the merits and possibilities before undertaking to assist in financing any Corporation; the paramount issue with us is to give complete satisfaction and cause much success to our patrons.

We have furnished the publishers of The Times with an outlined description of the Companies we represent, and the names of the Directors of each Company whose stock we offer to their subscribers and friends. We have also furnished The Times with bank references as to our own bona fides and standing. We desire to command the utmost confidence of all subscribers and to retain same along with their friendship for all time; you add riches without effort and increase our brain and labor; you increase your ... without effort and increase our power to make you still richer. In ordinary everyday experience a man's expenses nearly equal his income and he has little chance to make a turn for the betterment of his condition. This is anyone's opportunity; you can invest Ten Dollars or One Thousand Dollars on the same basis as one who invests Ten Thousand Dollars. You cannot afford to neglect your opportunities and this is a chance to get in on the ground floor and reap the profits of substantial, quick money making enterprises. Your money need not be tied up for a long time; we know that one of the Companies at least, will pay handsome dividends this year. It is an easy matter to become rich; just watch for the opportunity and take advantage of it. This is your opportunity; will you grasp it?

STOCK MARKETS

THE BUYING POWER STOCKS MOST LIKELY BEST TO BUY

New York, March 2.—The past week's market with the tremendous effort brought to bear to depress prices, illustrates most strongly the fact that no organized bull force is working systematically to advance prices. They are low enough in most instances to attract most substantial support. Prices were broken down the latter part of the week by fears of a bad bank statement, and upon the [illegible] of the Aldrich Bill [illegible]. The bank statement has been discounted, while the situation the Aldrich Bill is calculated to relieve will not again arrive until late next fall. This is certainly going an unusual way as far as time is concerned to rake up bear ammunition. It illustrates most strongly the dearth of current reasons for looking for periodic market depression. Illustrative of the way stocks were offered down upon small offerings suffice it to say that on Friday with record sales aggregating less than one thousand shares in all, St. Paul was depressed from 174 3-4 to 173 1-2 in four transactions, with the next sale one thousand shares at 173 3-4, then up again on fair business during inclination to cover immediately at a loss. This would indicate that St. Paul, being a pivotal stock, its market improvement consequently effecting other issues, was simply sold at a loss for the effect it would have upon the balance of the stock market. It is a conservative estimate to say that the professional short interest in the market at present aggregates fully two hundred thousand shares. All these sales have been absorbed without serious declines, though prices have been persistently and unmercifully hammered. Stocks are selling at attractive prices. Metropolitan is so heavily oversold by the bears that the stock is loaning flat. It is dirt cheap at present, as a seven per cent. guaranteed city property. So is Manhattan for the same reason also, for its increasing business at diminishing cost of transaction. Atchison and R. I. are also very cheap. The outlook for both issues is most brilliant. They should be good for fully 15 points advance each this spring. We are immensely bullish upon all the old stocks, Missouri Pacific, Wabash, K. & T., and Texas Pacific issues all look well. The high price for cotton will effect most favorably the latter two. Union Pacific is down and oversold. Its present earnings warrant a price for the stock above 110 instead of below par. The standard shares, such as Pennsylvania, Illinois Central, New York Central, etc., are at present selling considerably below average normal prices. When such is the case they should be purchased and held. Among the industrials we favor purchases of Copper, Sugar and Peoples Gas we believe the first on its way to go for reasons frequently recently expressed in these letters. The two remaining should advance. Sugar, upon the business it is doing, and Peoples Gas, upon its annual statement just issued if for no other reason.

INTERNATIONAL ELECTRIC MINING Co

185 SUMMER ST., · BOSTON, MASS.

A Dividend Payer for the Past Five Years.

12 PER CENT GUARANTEED

Capital Stock, $500,000. Par, $1.00, full paid and non-assessable

Over eight thousand tons of [illegible] ore mined and smelted from this group of mines.

A limited number of shares of the stock of this Company now offered at seventy-five cents per share. This price will shortly be increased to par. Stock registered by the International Trust Company, Boston, who is also the transfer agent.

This Company has a small capital stock.

The International Electric Mining Company owns seven mines and milling plant.

The Brooklyn and New York mines of this Company lie north of and join the Victor and the Hoodlum—two rich mines that are now being worked by California parties. On the west lies the Electric Mining Company's mines. In these mines are millions of dollars' worth of rich ore in sight. On the south, adjoining the Berlin mine of this Company, is the Montezuma and Clipper. From the Montezuma over three million dollars has been taken within 30 feet of the grass roots.

This Company owns free and clear seven mines of twenty acres each, all containing rich ore, located in the Arabia and Trinity mining districts, Humboldt County, Nevada. The Company has worked these mines for the past five years, and is now driving a tunnel to cut out a rich ledge about 300 feet from the surface. The Arabia mining district, in which these mines are located, is a lively district—a great many men being employed there. The tunnel now being driven on the Brooklyn mine has about 250 feet already completed. When the tunnel cuts the main ledge, which has just been reached by the Victor tunnel about 600 feet, the Brooklyn will have about 300 feet stoping ground, which runs high in gold and silver, over 100.00 per ton.

The Company is offering for a short time a limited amount of stock for the enlargement of its plant and the working force at the mines and for the completion of the Brooklyn tunnel.

This Company has thousands of tons of rich ore in sight.

We are not making a lot of talk, because it is unnecessary. What the investor wants is dividends, which we have paid for the past five years. Now if you want a safe 12 per cent. investment, let us hear from you.

THE OLD COMSTOCK

A California mining paper has this to say: "Nevada, that grand old stamping ground of mushroom millionaires, who plucked enough wealth from her prolific fields to build mansions, banks and big hotels in San Francisco, and palaces in Paris and London, is again astonishing the world by making more millionaires and by yielding millions in gold and silver from a new field which rivals the old Comstock lode in the days of its pristine splendor. Not only in Tonopah and Arabia districts, where within the past year nearly ten millions have been exposed, are operations active, but in every mining district in the Silver State are operations active, and Nevada will once more take her place among the big producers, the peer of any of them."

Mr. Geo. D. Burton, Treas.,
International Electric Mining Co.,
Boston, Mass.

Dear Sir,—During the six months of October and November of this year I visited the mines of the International Electric Mining Company, situated in Arabia and Trinity mining districts, Humboldt County, Nevada. I found the country remarkably mineralized; in fact, the possibilities of the country as a mineral producing country are yet unknown. For years it certainly has produced well. The work now being done in the Arabia and Trinity districts establishes the fact that they are fine producers.

I also found that there is a great deal of interest being taken in those properties, which have produced a great deal of wealth the past quarter of a century.

in the 190 foot shaft of The Electric Spark Gold Mining Company's property is an absolute assurance of large dividends at no distant day; and those who buy now, and take advantage of this exceptional opportunity will make from 50 to 100 per cent. yearly on their investment.

There has never been a mining investment offered where the future value of the property could be more clearly shown than in this, or where the returns could be estimated more certainly or accurately.

It is simply a question of time and work. The risk has all been taken, and the investor today can look forward to future dividends with certainty and satisfaction. Incorporated as we are for only $200,000, par value $1.00, makes the stock all the more valuable, and located in the midst of some of the best mines in Gilpin County, Colorado, the smallest county in the State, which in 1902 produced $4,000,000.00, is another assurance of a big dividend payer.

By permission the Company refers to the Rocky Mountain National Bank, and the Weekly Register Call, of Central City, Colorado.

A limited amount of shares for sale at 20 cents per share. Remember this stock is fully paid and non-assessable; is all common and in a company organized expressly to operate this mine.

"THE FRIDAY MINE"

Located at Pearl, Willow Creek, Boise County, Idaho

—About 25 Miles Northwest of Boise City—

THE FRIDAY GOLD MINING CO. is a corporation duly organized under the laws of the State of Oregon, with head office at Sumpter, Oregon, owning and controlling "The Friday Mine." Capital Stock $1,000,000, divided into 1,000,000 shares. Par value $1.00 per share, fully paid and non-assessable, no personal liability. 250,000 shares have been set aside and placed in the treasury of the Company to be sold for the purpose of equipping the "Friday Mine" with machinery. It is for this purpose we are offering you stock in this great mine. This plant will handle 60 tons of Friday ore every 24 hours. The general average of the Friday ore is over $20 per ton. The ore as it was shipped to the smelters at Salt Lake averaging over $55.00 per ton. The Friday is highly developed, great quantities of ore blocked out and in sight ready for the mill. As soon as the mill is completed the Friday Mine will again pay dividends.

Large ore bodies which will net to the company $50,000, for the first few months, are now blocked out ready for the mill. As soon as the mill is completed you will draw your regular monthly dividend. It is safe, certain and conservative.

We are not soliciting your money for the purpose of developing the mine, but only for the purpose of erecting a mill to work the ore bodies in the mine. The company is officered by men of well known business ability, mining experience and strict integrity.

Hon. Martin H. Jacobs, State Mining Inspector of mines for the State of Idaho, says: "The Friday has a large amount of good ore in sight, and there is no question about its being a good paying property."

Thunder Mountain!

is the richest gold producing camp in the United States, and also the largest. The Thunder Mountain district, in central Idaho, is twenty miles wide and forty miles long. In comparison with this we have Cripple Creek, four miles wide and seven miles long. In many of the Thunder Mountain mines ore has already been reached that carries ONE THOUSAND DOLLARS IN GOLD TO THE TON. All of the Thunder Mountain ore is free milling, which means that it can be treated by the cheapest extraction process known—the ordinary stamp mill. It can be both mined and milled at a cost not to exceed $2 a ton. The past year's operations in the several working mines have opened up millions of tons of ore that will give a net profit of from $10 to $30 a ton, enabling the respective companies to pay dividends at a rate never before equalled. Such is the showing and the prospect of the

EAST DEWEY GOLD MINING CO.

which unless all indications are at fault, will become the largest producer in the district. The EAST DEWEY mine, which it owns outright, is located directly on Thunder Mountain, just east of the famous "Dewey" mine, which already has $20,000,000 of ore in sight. The surface area of the East Dewey mine is one hundred and twenty acres—six full quartz claims. The company has also secured the big GOLDEN GATE mine, in the Big Creek section of the Thunder Mountain district—which has been so aptly termed "The Pot of Gold"—and is now developing the mine with all possible speed. For a distance of 9,000 feet, nearly two miles, the Golden Gate mine covers a mineralized ledge that is 900 feet wide, with an average height above the tunnel level of 500 feet, thus giving it the largest exposed tonnage of any mine in the west.

If you would share in the enormous profits which these figures indicate and which these developments promise, invest your money in "East Dewey" Stock. It can be bought to-day for 10 Cents a Share. Its par value is $1.

If the East Dewey mines are what they appear to be, and there is absolutely no reason to doubt or question these indications, this stock will eventually be worth at least $10 a share, and to-day you can buy it for ten cents. PRICE ADVANCES TO FIFTEEN CENTS ON FEBRUARY 28th. 5% discount allowed for cash. Stock sold at flat price of 10 cents on deferred payments, 10% with application, and 10% monthly until paid. Rev. Mr. Turk's Church

The Times is in receipt of an enquiry, regarding Rev. Mr. Turk, one of the evangelists who recently conducted revival meetings here, asking to what denomination he belonged. Mr. Turk is a regular ordained Minister of the Methodist Church, his last charge, we understand, being in Toronto. He believes in holding sinners under until they are thoroughly renovated.

An Important Decision

Two suits of special interest to Peterborough coal consumers came up in Toronto a few days ago. In one case a coal firm was ordered to pay a customer with whom it had contracted to furnish coal, $25, the difference between the price he had contracted for and the price he had to pay another dealer. It was shown that the firm had coal which it was reserving for other customers and the judge held that having contracted to deliver coal at a certain price it was bound to fill the contracts as long as it had coal in stock. In another case, somewhat similar, the court reserved its decision. It is said that there are a number of coal consumers in Peterborough who were similarly treated by the dealers, and were put to a great deal of extra expense and inconvenience.

President—J. M. Drummond,
Vice-President—E. M. Elliot..
Secretary—John Riddle.
Treasurer—J. G. Galvin.

THE CORDAGE COMPANY

Annual Meeting and Election of Officers Yesterday

The annual meeting of the shareholders of the Canadian Cordage Company took place yesterday in the Labour Hall, Water street.

Hon. J. R. Stratton occupied the chair. A statement of assets and liabilities was read, but no details were given.

A resolution was passed authorizing the directors to increase the capital stock of the Company from $400,000 to $600,000 and the necessary legislative authority will be secured for this purpose.

The old Board of Directors was re-elected, after which the stockholders inspected the factory of the Company.

A PROSPEROUS COMPANY

Directors of Toronto General Trusts Corporation Report

The management of this important and growing institution is to be congratulated on the most successful issue of their year's business. The confidence of the public in this company is shown by the large increase in the number of estates committed to its care during the past year. The management has very properly confined themselves strictly to administering of corporate estates, and it is not surprising that their year's operations have resulted in adding very materially to their Reserve Funds and profit accounts. During the year they have established a branch office in Winnipeg, under the capable management of an experienced member of their Toronto staff, and it will be surprising indeed if this branch does not thrive beyond the expectations of the admirers. The value of the estates controlled by this Association already exceed $30,000,000.00, and after paying a very moderate dividend and making provision for expenses, have added to the Reserve Fund $20,000.00, which is a very inspiring result.

An Outside View

The Monetary Times.—The Board of trade and town council of Peterborough held a joint meeting to consider the establishment of a beet sugar industry in that vicinity. The factory of the Ontario Sugar Company at Berlin has been visited and the whole subject well threshed out, with satisfactory results, so that it is altogether likely that the Peterborough Sugar Company, Limited, which has already been incorporated with a capital of $550,000 and with Messrs. T. E. Bradburn, Jas. Kendry and others as provisional directors, will be able to carry out its plans, and that the town will subscribe for a considerable block of stock or help in some other way. The prospects appear bright for such an industry.

NEVER FORGETS IT

Husband Has Cause to Remember Grape-Nuts

So careless in health are some people that they sometimes actually forget the benefactor of their days of sickness.

The man whose wife, or the woman whose husband, has been brought back to health and strength by a pure food is not apt to forget. "It sometimes amuses me" writes a lady of Battle Lake, Minn., "that no matter what I send to the store for or what may be forgotten my husband never forgets to supply us with Grape-Nuts promptly. Indeed I may say it is the one thing he never forgets.

"About a year ago when I began using the food I was so run down and miserable that it was all I could possibly do to struggle through my day's household duties. Through catarrhal trouble I had almost entirely lost the sense of taste and loss of appetite followed.

I could scarcely force myself to eat food sufficient to furnish me with strength to keep me up. I just managed to scrape through my household duties. In a very short time after I commenced the use of Grape-Nuts I began to get stronger and the improvement has been so steady and marked that my health is now better than for 20 years past. I do all of my own house work, and for two months during last summer I had five roomers, which of course increased my work to a great extent. I am never without Grape-Nuts now and can never say enough in their praise. But as much as I think of the food my husband thinks more." Name furnished by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Practically all cases of stomach trouble come from the use of improper food. Where this improper food is left off and Grape-Nuts is used the results are so beneficial and the change so rapid that many people look upon it as wonderful. Nothing wonderful about it. Just following Nature.

Horses Injured

Mr. T. Cavanagh the genial proprietor of the Cavanagh House, and Mr. Jacobs took a walk to the C.P.R. yards to inspect a car load of 22 horses, that were being shipped to Montreal on Sunday. The horses were for Mr. Jacobs, and it was found that four of the animals had fallen down and were being trampled to death. Assistance was at once secured, and the injured horses taken to the stables of the Cavanagh House, where they were attended to. Mr. Cavanagh says that they would have been killed in a short time.

OBITUARY

The late Annie Archambault, who died on Saturday morning from inflammation of the brain, was buried yesterday morning in the Roman Catholic cemetery. The funeral took place from the residence of her father to St. Peter's Cathedral, where requiem high mass was held and thence to the cemetery. Deceased was only 13 years of age and was greatly beloved by a large circle of friends. Mr. and Mrs. Archambault have the sympathy of all in their sudden bereavement.

The Cause of Deafness

Will act, not so much directly upon the nerves as upon the digestive functions, and the abundant formation of red, vitalizing blood. Nerves can't be fed on medicine. They can, however, be restored and strengthened by assimilated food. The marvelous action of Ferrozone arises from its action over the digestive and assimilative processes. When you take Ferrozone the blood is purified, strengthened and grows rich and red. Then you grow vigorous, healthy and beautiful, ready for work, because you have the strength to do it. No tonic for the brain, blood or nerves compares with Ferrozone. Price 50c. at Druggists, or Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont. Hamilton's Pills are Effective.

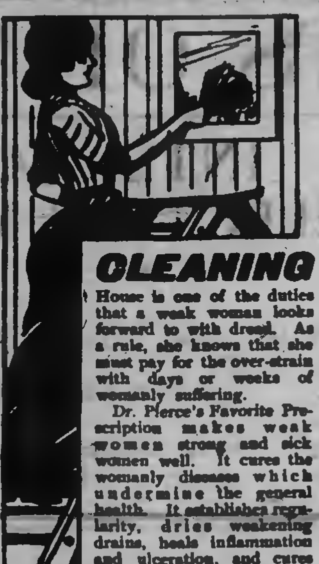
Stereotyped Phrases.

Many of our stock expressions, like "rather late," do not mean anything if one takes their meaning literally. A little dialogue from the Washington "Star" is a case in point: "Did any of the inhabitants escape with his life?" enquired the man who wants harrowing details. "I didn't stop to ascertain," answered the man who is harrowingly exact. "It struck me that if anybody escaped without his life there wasn't much use in his escaping, anyhow."



CLEANING

House is one of the duties that a weak woman looks forward to with dread. As a rule, she knows that she must pay for the over-strain with days or weeks of womanly suffering.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription makes weak women strong and sick women well. It cures the womanly diseases which undermine the general health. It establishes regularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness.

"I took two bottles of your 'Favorite Prescription' and two of the 'Golden Medical Discovery' and am feeling well," writes Mrs. Dan McKenzie, of Lorway Mines, Cape Breton Co., Nova Scotia. "I had uterine trouble, also pain in the side and headache. After taking your medicine I was cured. You may publish this or use it in any way you think best, as I cannot speak too highly of Dr. Pierce and his medicine."

"Favorite Prescription" has the testimony of thousands of women to its complete cure of womanly diseases. Do not accept an unknown and unproved substitute in its place.

FREE. Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Send 31 one-cent stamps for the book in paper covers, or 50 stamps for the cloth-bound volume. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

MACEDONIA STILL THE GREAT STORM CENTRE

Albanian Lust for Blood Described as the Chief Danger to Peace

THE CZAR SAID TO BE MOST ANXIOUS FOR PEACE

Aged Ruler of Austria is Equally Anxious That There Will Be No Fighting to Do

London, March 4.—Macedonia remains the storm center. The sincerity of Russia and Austria-Hungary in co-operating for the maintenance of peace cannot be questioned. The Czar abhors war and shrinks from raising the Eastern question in so aggressive a form as to involve the necessity of a resumption of the Russian march to Constantinople. The Emperor of Austria is an old man, worn out with the labor of keeping a confederation of antagonistic races together in a dual Monarchy. Their characters are the best guarantee of the sincerity of the negotiations with the Sultan and the powers. The Sultan's prompt acceptance of the reform scheme is prima facie evidence that he was consulted in advance, and that the powers asked for what they knew they could get.

While the representatives of the powers were not conspicuous for dignity in standing before the Sultan with their hats in their hands and begging him to say how little it would please him to do, delay and inaction were averted when the prearranged reform proposals were presented and immediately accepted. The means provided for carrying out the scheme were, moreover, satisfactory. Application of the reforms to the disturbed districts were left under the personal control of the consuls, and the general supervision of the ambassadors. The powers in this way shared responsibility with the Porte with the improvement of the conditions of government in South-Eastern Europe. The chief source of danger is the ungovernable character of the Albanians, who have an appetite for bloodshed, repugnance to foreigners, and are happiest when they are fighting either with friends or enemies.

The battalions which are sent by the Sultan to the disturbed district are undisciplined, and in full sympathy with these natural rebels against authority. An outbreak of hostilities against the Christians or an attack upon foreign consuls may transform the situation at any moment. The Bulgarians are now under control, but they may become unmanageable as soon as the Albanians are tempted to display their dislike for foreigners and lust for blood.

POSSIBILITY OF WAR.

St. Petersburg, via Eydtkuhnen German frontier, March 4.—Some publicists are of the opinion that only sternest language towards Turkey can prevent a war between Russia and Turkey in the spring. They believe that Turkey will pursue bands of Macedonian revolutionists across the Bulgarian frontier, and that public opinion will compel Russia to interfere.

ALL EYES ON VICTOR TUNNEL. PRESIDENT C. S. McKELVEY TALKS

Expects to Cut Ledge Soon and Open Great Bonanza

Lovelock, Nevada, March 4.—Chas. S. McKelvey was seen Saturday evening before he left for his home in Los Angeles, and he gave some interesting data in relation to the affairs of the California-Nevada Mining Company, of which he is president.

This company is incorporated for four million dollars. It was incorporated for this sum with the view of acquiring mines, these properties of course to be represented by the stock. For instance, if it took the four millions in stock to float the Victor the mine would have to pay dividends on that amount. But it is said that both the Victor and Arizona mines will be acquired and put on a paying basis with an issue of not more than a million and a half in stock. The rest of the stock will then be cancelled or a stock dividend declared.

The Victor and Hoodium at Arabia, which are the two principal properties owned by this company were bonded from Ansel Skidmore, and orders for one hundred thousand dollars, or in other words absolute deeds were placed in escrow in bank in Los Angeles. Five thousand was paid down last October. Another payment of forty-five thousand is to be made next April and the balance, fifty thousand, in October, 1903.

Mr. McKelvey states that the finances of the company are in an excellent shape. They have their mill paid for and have about fifty thousand dollars to their credit in bank. So there is no doubt about their being able to meet the next payment in April.

Long before that time they will have their mill running and not only be able to meet their final payment, but to keep up the regular, monthly dividends. The company is paying two per cent. a month on the stock sold, or which in other companies would be preferred stock. Mr. McKelvey himself owns a quarter million shares of the common stock. The dividends are paid from the proceeds derived from the shipping ore. After the mill is completed the company guarantees five per cent. monthly dividends. If it realizes ten per cent. on its expectations it can easily pay these dividends.

The company has recently acquired the old Arizona mine at Unionville. This they have taken under bond at sixty thousand dollars and have eighteen months time in which to make final payment. The property consists of about seven claims. In one, called the new Arizona, it was estimated at the time Col. Lowe experted it that there was one hundred and fifty thousand dollars in sight. Mr. McKelvey in his recent trip to Unionville made some tests of the old Arizona dump. He found the average value to be fifteen dollars for seven thousand tons. The cost of milling the old dump will probably not be more than two or three dollars per ton. The values in the Arizona are silver, but the group contains one gold property, the Henning. The record of the old Arizona is about five and a half millions. Mr. McKelvey said there was still much ore left in the old stopes but he was uncertain whether it would be worth while to try to get at it. On the whole the Arizona is a valuable piece of property and the company no doubt has made a fine investment in its purchase.

The mill for the Arizona has been bought and paid for and is now on the way. It will have a capacity of about forty tons a day. Mr. McKelvey will return in about a month, when the mill will be under construction. It will be located in the canyon above Unionville near the dump of the old Arizona. All the ore of the new Arizona will be transported over the hill by tramway to the mill. Several car loads of ore from the latter will be shipped to San Francisco for a test run. Mr. McKelvey said that there had been no new strike in the Arizona, but that the ore was all good.

The company, Mr. McKelvey says, has sold about three hundred thousand shares of stock through its agent, W. H. Baldwin & Company, Volckert building, Albany, N. Y. Some of this stock was sold as low as twenty cents, but it is now up to seventy-five cents and will be advanced to par, one dollar. The company has sold all the stock it intends to.

The possibilities of the Victor mine are simply wonderful. Mr. McKelvey thoroughly believes in the property and we have no reason to doubt his figures. There have been other great mines, even in Nevada, and nowhere are the conditions more favorable than at Arabia. There is the granite and the porphyry, or phyolite, as is has been termed. The granite is seamed with ledges in that district and there are a number of patented mines owned by the Electric Company and others. But the great ore zone is the porphyry. In this rich leads of silver ore were worked years ago, but the main body is all gold bearing. Below is a letter published by Mr. McKelvey some time ago. It certainly shows strong faith.

And why not? It is said that the whole mountain will pay to mill. This has practically been demonstrated in running the tunnel. This tunnel was started to tap the ledge at a distance of about 600 feet, and it would be nearly three hundred feet lower than the old workings.

The tunnel has been run nearly all the way in volcanic ash that is picking ground and has to be timbered. When it was in two hundred feet it began to assay, and went as high as five dollars in gold. Mr. McKelvey reports that the grade of ore has steadily improved and runs as high as sixteen dollars. He believes that the whole thing will pay to mill. If it averages five dollars, and Mr. McKelvey thinks it will do better than that, it will be a greater mine than the Treadwell or Homestake. There will be about four hundred feet of this volcanic ash before the main ore dyke is reached. This is about two hundred feet in width and is expected to carry higher values.

It is hard to estimate the possibilities of such a mountain of gold bearing rock. It runs far into the millions.

The mill for the Victor will have a capacity of a hundred tons a day and will cost forty thousand dollars. It will be located on the flat a mile or two below the mouth of the tunnel and water pumped from the Humboldt river.

When President McKelvey and General Manager Dull left the Victor last Saturday, the tunnel was in 530 feet and it was estimated that it would take ten days or two weeks to run seventy-five feet when it was expected to cut into the main dyke.

The Times hopes in its next issue to be able to chronicle a big strike in this property.

Here follows Mr. McKelvey's letter:

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 24, 1902.

To our stockholders and the public.

We are pleased to inform you that our mill will be in full operation not later than April 1st, 1903. We find from our own personal examination that the development already done is over three thousand feet, instead of sixteen hundred as first stated, and all in ore. When our tunnel strikes the vein, which it soon will, we shall have over two million tons of solid ore blocked out ready for the mill, in other words, $30,000,000 ready to divide among stockholders.

This great ore body is separate and distinct from the various rich veins that have been found in different parts of the old workings. One of these veins is two feet in width and runs as high as $10,000 to the ton. The wealth contained in the old Victor mine alone is simply beyond estimate, and we have good reason to believe the Hoodium fully as good. There is enough for all, and nothing will please the officials of this company more than to see every stockholder of note made comfortable through their investment in our stock. At the present price, 50 cents per share, you will find no other investment its equal.

Take time to verify our statements if you doubt them. All dividends have been paid to date and will continue to be paid regularly the 15th of every month.

Respectfully yours,
California-Nevada Mining Co.
Chas. S. McKelvey,
President.

THE BEET SUGAR FACTORY

A Big Meeting in the Township of Smith in the Interests of the Beet Sugar Industry

On Friday evening, Feb. 27th a meeting was held at the Temperance Hall on the 4th line of Smith, in the interests of the Sugar Beet Industry and although the night was very wet a good number were present and showed great interest in the situation.

The chair was very ably filled by Mr Thomas Young, of Smith, and Mr. Fred. G. Koenig, of Marine City, Mich. Mr. Thos. Hunter, County Councillor for Smith, Ennismore and North Monoghan, and Dr. W. H. Jeffs were the speakers.

The subject was treated by Mr. Koenig and Dr. Jeffs on the same lines as heretofore reported. They urged the farmers to grow beets for the money there was in it, and to help the factory. They were asked to treat it as a business proposition and establish for themselves another market in the town of Peterborough—a market where there would be good money for raising them.

Mr. T. M. Hunter said he was very anxious to see the factory build in Peterborough. The location was all that could be desired. He wanted all present to grow sugar beets and thus do their share towards establishing a factory. There was not a man in the country but would like to see the beet sugar factory in operation, but some would prefer waiting to see what their neighbors made by growing beets. The way to insure the success of the enterprise was for every one to grow from three to five acres of beets. He then explained the great feeding qualities of the pulp for feeding purposes. There was more sugar left in the pulp than there was in turnips or mangolds.

Mr. James Middleton who is looking after acreage agreements read the list of names of farmers in Smith who had already agreed to grow beets, most of them he expected to double their acreage. He read out the names of between twenty and thirty men who had already agreed to grow sugar beets.

A GREAT STRIKE IN THE VICTOR

Good News for the Stockholders of the Nevada-California

Body of Horn Silver Ore, and Tunnel Ran Over it for 200 Feet

Lovelock, Nevada, March 4.—A great strike has been made in the Victor tunnel owned by the California-Nevada Mining Company. It is probably the most wonderful discovery ever made in the state. It brings back the bonanza days of the Comstock, and there is nothing to equal it even in Tonopah. The Victor is marked to be one of the greatest mines in the world.

The wonderful part is the manner in which the discovery was made. They were expecting to strike the main dyke at 600 feet. Last week it was 520 it has been advancing at the rate of seven feet a day and is now in about 570 feet.

But the tunnel has been running nearly all the way through an ore body. Thee volcanic ash carries from five to seven dollars in gold. This fact was well known all along. But it was not known that the tunnel run right over a body of high gradehorn silver ore.

The tunnel floor had followed a vein of clay when in about fifty feet and this had continued for more than two hundred feet. The water that had flowed in the tunnel gave out and it was thought by sinking to find it again. At a point 350 feet from the mouth a side drift was run a few feet to give room to sink.

The miners had not gone a foot in the clay before they struck into a body of horn silver ore. They went down seven feet in this ore with no indication of a footwall. The clay in the tunnel was prospected for two hundred feet and the body of ore was found for that entire distance. It means a body of ore at least two hundred feet wide and of unknown depth. The ore is the same character of that found in the upper workings of the Victor which ran into the thousands.

The ore was struck first last Sunday. The tunnel continues to be pushed ahead and will cut into the porphyry dyke very soon. The developments this week have been phenomenal. What may we expect when the main dyke is penetrated?

The Times first heard of this strike only yesterday. The management was endeavoring to keep it quiet. The strike is genuine, but the assays are not known. It means a boom for Lovelock and a thousand people in Arabia before spring.

MARKS EXPELLED

The Game Thrown Out—But the O. H. A. Executive Gives Belleville Another Chance.

At a meeting of the O.H.A. Executive last night John Marks was expelled as a professional and the game at Belleville in which he played against the Marlboros was ordered to be replayed to-morrow night at Peterborough. The cancelling of this game leaves the score 9 to 4 in favor of the Marlboros.—News.

To-nights game, if it results at the end of an hour's play, in a tie on the round, will be played to a finish, as it takes place on neutral ice.

The protecting club was represented by Mr. Frank Slattery and President John Earls. For Belleville were on hand President Harry Corby, Mr. W. B. Northrop, K.C., M.P., Mr A H Marsh, K.C., and Manager Harry Burrell. There was a long array of evidence in the form of depositions, most of them of little value, and very skilled presentations of both sides of the case.

The charges were that Marks had played baseball for pay with the Cadets of the Toronto League in 1901 and with the Kingston Ponies, of the St. Lawrence League in 1902, a later allegation being that he did not come to Belleville till October 14, or two weeks after the time limit under the residence rule.

While Belleville and Marlboros are settling their rights to go in the final Barrie and Paris will play off, as the season is now uncertain and the ice cannot last much longer. Paris will play in Barrie on Thursday, and the return game will be played in Paris on Monday.

President J. Ross Robertson was in the chair and the other members present were Vice-President Beaton and Nelson, Secretary Buchanan, Alex Creelman, of Hamilton, Duff Adams of Paris, E. H. Lamont, of Markham and W. H. Lamont, of Toronto.

Dying by Slow Degrees

Although not always aware of it yet thousands die by slow degrees of catarrh. It first attacks the nose or throat, then the lungs, and finally spreads all through the system. Catarrhozone is the only remedy that will immediately prevent the spread of this awful disease. Every breath from the Inhaler kills thousands of germs, clears the throat and nose, aids expectoration and relieves the pain across the eyes. Catarrhozone erradicates every vestige of catarrh from the system, and is highly recommended also for Bronchitis, Asthma, Deafness and Lung Trouble. Price $1.00; trial size 25 cts., all druggists. JOHN BULL IS FIRM AS TO GERMANY—NO MORE ALLIANCES

London Times Gives Ministers Formal Warning

FRANCE VS. GERMANY

Great Britain May Very Shortly Annex Muscat, on the Red Sea.

London, March 3.—In an editorial article on the debate on the Venezuelan affair in the House of Lords yesterday, The Times says that Lord Lansdowne unfortunately showed that he did not appreciate the objections entertained in England to co-operate with Germany. He has persistently treated them as if they were founded on nothing but resentment aroused by indiscriminate German abuse of Great Britain during the South African war. The Times adds: "He and the Government make a great mistake in thus misapprehending public opinion. If the mistake happens to be shared by the German Government the sooner both can open their eyes and look at the facts the better it will be for everybody. The country does not wish any entanglement with Germany that possibly can be avoided. It will remain uneasy and dissatisfied until assured that this is fully understood by the Foreign Office."

FRANCE AND GERMANY.

The recent aggressive tone of the German press toward France, says the Paris correspondent of The Times has attracted the attention of the Russian journal Novosti, which comments on it in an article distributed to the French papers by the semi-official Havas agency. The Novosti attributes the German attitude to France's prominence in the Macedonian mess. The Times correspondent denies the German allegation that France is pursuing an anti-German policy, adding that perhaps Foreign Minister Delcasse's quiet independence of character is irritating to diplomacy which reluctantly brooks any argument. However, remarks the correspondent, the German press methods have become too transparent to produce the effect they created in the palmy days of Bismarck and Moritz Busch.

WHY THE SULTAN YIELDED.

Referring to the Austro-Russian programme of reforms in Macedonia, the Vienna correspondent of The Times says that Europe's unanimity is considered principally to have caused the Sultan's unprecedented alacrity in complying with the demands. Had there been the slightest crevice in the solid front of the European recommendations, it is believed that the Sultan would have found a wedge, thin yet strong enough to force the powers asunder. The correspondent remarks that Bulgaria was positively threatened with direct consequences should she wantonly provoke trouble, but in the case of Turkey the threats were reserved. It is stated, says the correspondent that Inspector-General Hilmi will in reality hold the Valis and subordinate officials in the hollow of his hand and be able, with Austro-Russian support, to enforce his decisions without let or hindrance.

The Muscat correspondent of The Novoe Vremya, in a letter quoted by the St. Petersburg correspondent of The Times, predicts the speedy annexation of Muscat by the British. The correspondent alleges that the Sultan of Muscat has been ruined by reorganizing the customs service on the advice of the British, the American and the French Consuls, and that he is no longer able to maintain order at Matrah, Muscat's port. Indian merchants it is declared, complained to the British acting Consul, who wrote to the Sultan offering the services of a British naval department.

ITINERANCY OF THE BRITISH MEMBERS

Their Trip through Canada in August Next Planned From Ocean to Ocean

London, March 3.—The suggestion that Mr. Austin Chamberlain, the son of Right Hon. Joseph Chamberlain, the Colonial Secretary, should visit Canada during the autumn recess, is the result of a proposal supported by Lord Strathcona and endorsed by the Earl of Aberdeen. A number of representatives of both the Imperial Houses of Parliament, who are visiting the Dominion propose to leave Liverpool about August 1st or 2nd, and proceed direct to Quebec and Montreal and thence to Ottawa, and from there on to Banff, the Pacific Coast, Vancouver, and Victoria. On their return the members will visit Winnipeg, Niagara and Toronto.

ANNUAL MEETING

Of the Ladies Mission Circle of the Murray Street Baptist Church

The Ladies Mission Circle held their annual meeting yesterday, Mrs. Dr. Scott, President, in the chair. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year.

President—Mrs. Dr. Scott.

Vice-Presidents—Mrs. J. Bastow and Mrs. Jas. Wood.

Secretary—Miss M. E. Nicholls.

Treasurers—Mrs. Geo. Matthews, [illegible] Home; Collectors, Mrs. B. Matthews, Mrs. J. Montgomery, Mrs. W. Montgomery, Mrs. Fisher and Miss Cockrane.

The treasurer's report showed the following collections to have been made:

MR. J. W. LEONARD'S PROMOTION

Said That the Popular Superintendent is to be Assistant General Manager

Mr. J. W. Leonard's many friends in Peterborough and surrounding district will be interested in the following taken from the Winnipeg Free Press:

"It is reported that General Superintendent J. W. Leonard of the C.P.R is to receive the title of Assistant General Manager of the entire service with headquarters at Winnipeg."

It is to be hoped that the above is true and that Mr. Leonard will not stop till he gets to the President's chair of the greatest railway on earth. The Times forwards a full car load, freight prepaid, of good wishes for his future prosperity.

THE BOARD OF TRADE IN ANNUAL SESSION

Mr. D. Hughes-Charles Elected President, Mr. Miles Hamilton Vice-Pres., Mr. Peter Campbell Treasurer

The Board of Trade met in annual session last night when there were present President D. W. Dumble and Messrs. E. J. Toker, Miles Hamilton, J. H. Burnham, D. Hughes-Charles, P. Campbell, T. A. S. Hay, Dr. Jeffs, A. H. Stratton, T. E. Bradburn, W. H. Meldrum.

The minutes of the annual meeting were read and confirmed.

THE RETIRING PRESIDENT.

Mr. D. W. Dumble, who for the past two years has so ably filled the position of President of the Board of Trade presented a lengthy address, in which he reviewed the progress of the town during the past year, and set forth the exceedingly bright prospects for an exceptional advancement during the year 1903. Amongst other matters Mr. Dumble exemplified the development of trade in Peterborough as follows:

Customs Receipts—1897-8, $74,016; 1898-9, $89,082; 1899-1900, $130,450; 1901-2, $147,293; 1902-3 (half year) $93,980.

Post Office Receipts—1872, $5,983; 1882, $11,220; 1892, $15,393; 1902 under reduced postage rates $21,427.

Mr. Dumble's address was received with applause. We regret that owing to lack of space we are compelled to defer the publication of the full address until tomorrow.

TREASURER'S REPORT.

The report of the Treasurer, Mr. Robert Fair, was read, showing the total receipts to have been $413.31, total expenditures $134.66, thus leaving a balance to the good of $278.68. This report was adopted as read.

SECRETARY'S REPORT.

The following report was adopted as read:

Mr President and Gentlemen:—

I have the honor to present to you as Secretary, the fourteenth annual report of this Board.

Meetings—Since our last annual meeting, we have held six meetings of the Board, viz: 20th May, 1902; 26th September, 1902; 25th November, 1902; 5th February, 1903; 12th February, 1903; 27th February, 1903.

Membership—The members on the roll last year were 60, an increase on the previous year.

Attendance—The average attendance of members at our meetings was twelve.

Subjects Under Discussion—The following subjects have been duly discussed: "Trade Relations within the Empire," "Transportation," "Defence," "Postal and Telegraph Communication," "The recent action of the Imperial Government whereby a duty has been levied upon wheat and its products, without preference to the Colonies," "Bonuses and Franchises," "Sugar Beet Factory," "Trent Canal," "Sugar Beet Industry."

Council Chamber—The thanks of the Board are due to the Mayor, the Board of Aldermen and the Town Clerk for the use of the Council Chamber during the past year.

Local Press—The thanks of the Board are also due the reporters of our local papers, for the able manner in which the business of the Board has been reported.

T. Q QUARTERMAINE,
Secretary.

Peterborough, Ont., 3rd March, 1903.

THE BEET SUGAR FACTORY

Mr. T. E. Bradburn, in referring to Mr. Dumble's pronounced opinions on the Beet Sugar question explained that this industry had passed the experimental stage, inasmuch as it has proved successful both in Ontario and in the States. The labor question did not enter into the question at all. Some difficulty had been experienced in Berlin by farmers cultivating from 60 to 100 acres of beets, but even then it had been overcome. In Peterborough county farmers were only entering into contracts to grow from three to five acres of beets, which could be readily handled, especially so when it is borne in mind that the large quantity of pulp returned to the farmers by the factory for feed, will take the place of mangles, now cultivated for stock feeding purposes only. In this way considerable acreage now devoted to mangles will be available for the growing of sugar beets.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

President—Mr. Hughes-Charles.
Vice-President—Mr. Miles Hamilton
Treasurer—Mr. Peter Campbell.
Secretary—T. Q. Quartermaine.

Mr. J. H. Burnham, in nominating Mr. Hughes-Charles for president, paid a high tribute to the efficient manner in which Mr. Dumble had filled the office the past two years.

The Board regretted that Mr. Dumble was not open to re-election for 1903-4.

AUDITORS.

Mr. Peter Campbell and Mr. Bradburn were named to audit the Treasurer's report.

THE PRESIDENT-ELECT.

Mr. D. Hughes-Charles, on taking the President's chair, said he felt this appointment a great honor, especially so as he was comparatively a stranger of a little over a year's residence in town. He knew the office meant considerable work, but it would not be his fault if the Board of Trade does not execute a deal of hard work this coming year in the best interests of Peterborough. (Applause.)

PREFERENCE LEAGUE.

Mr. Toker moved, seconded by Mr. Meldrum, that this Board regards with favor the establishment of the Canadian Preference League as tending to promote the best interests of Canada, by giving preference to Canadian products and labor, all things being equal.—Carried.

GOVERNMENT AID.

Mr. T. A. S. Hay moved, seconded by Mr. Peter Campbell, that—

Whereas, about two thirds of the sugar consumption of the world is now said to be the product of the sugar beet and the Beet Sugar Industry has attained to a national prominence in nearly all the leading States of Europe and more recently in the United States.

And, whereas, this position has been attained in the first instance through various measures of Government encouragement towards an industry recognized so important to the industrial welfare of the nations.

And, whereas, the agricultural and manufacturing conditions which go to make for the success of the Industry, exist over large sections of Canada.

And, whereas, the farmers of Canada would be especially benefitted through the development of this agricultural industry, and the millions of dollars now yearly paid foreign countries for sugar would be circulated among the agricultural, laboring and other deserving classes of our own people.

And, whereas, we believe that a speedy development of the Industry would follow some Government recognition and assistance to the Industry.

Now therefore this Board of Trade of Peterborough respectfully recommends that the Dominion Government should promptly grant such fair measure of encouragement to the establishment of the Beet Sugar Industry as the importance of the undertaking demands.—Carried.

Mr. Garvin here pointed out that in the United States experts had been able to cultivate sugar beets at $2 a ton.

President D. Hughes-Charles remarked that the labor problem alluded to by Mr. Dumble is a bug-bear and not worthy of serious consideration. Labor will always flock to where work is to be had. He held that if the cultivation of sugar beets becomes general, farmers who cultivate them from year to year will find no difficulty in securing all the labor they require.

STANDING COMMITTEES

Messrs. Burnham, Bradburn and Dumble were appointed a committee to strike the Standing Committees.

VOTE OF THANKS.

Mr. Toker moved, seconded by Mr. Burnham, that a vote of thanks be tendered Mr. Dumble for the exceedingly capable manner in which he has filled the office of President the past two years.—Carried unanimously.

In seconding this resolution, Mr. Burnham remarked that the retiring president had shewn an example to the business men of our town by his untiring energy and commendable interest at all times in the work of so important a body as the Board of Trade.

The Board then adjourned.

General - Sports

The Examiner hockey team were defeated by the Review last night by a score of 6 goals to 4.

The Marlboros and Belleville hockey teams have been ordered to play off here to-night by the executive of the O.H.A. The Marlboro's have a lead of 5 goals over their opponents.

When the Belleville team played in Kingston they were very roughly handled by the Ramblers, following which the spectators took a hand at abusing the visitors. Brown was knocked down by a blow on the head from a spectator, while MaGuire and others were thrown down and kicked by the mob. The rink management will be required to prosecute the man who assaulted Brown, and, if necessary, a reward will be offered. Unless the requirements of the association are amply met there will never be another association game on that ice.

E. E. Howell, of Paris, who was disqualified with the Guelph Nationals and has been out for the fourth season was reinstated.

THE POLICE AND STRIKERS CLASH

Three Hundred Italians of Dominion Iron and Steel Co. Go Out

AN ODD BEGINNING OF STRIKE

Three Fierce Fights Took Place Yesterday and Several Strikers Were Injured

Sydney, N.S., March 3.—This morning three hundred Italian laborers employed at the Dominion Iron and Steel Company's plant, who went on strike yesterday for more pay, massed in front of the company's gates, and, armed with knives, axes and picks, prevented all employes of the company from going to work.

A force of police charged the strikers and a fierce fight took place, in which several of the policemen were severely injured. After a hard struggle the police succeeded in dispersing the strikers, only to have them gather at another gate and again came trouble. In all there were three fights. Several of the Italians were arrested but as yet none of the ring leaders have been secured. The Italians claim they were brought from Montreal on understanding that they were to receive $1.50 a day. On their arrival here they were rated at $1.40, and now they say they are reduced to $1.25, and on these grounds refuse to work.

UNION LABEL

PETERBOROUGH, MARCH 2, 1903.

OPEN VOTING

Matters are getting to such a disreputable pass in Canadian election that popular representation by ballot is becoming a farce, and prominent men are openly advocating a return to open voting, after the fashion of the former generation. The secret ballot was instituted to prevent intimidation and to permit every man to vote as he wished unhindered by any influence. But with the wholesale ballot frauds which have of late years disgraced Canada—and especially Ontario—and the recent case of the most brazen defection from the party who had just elected the renegade, it is a question whether a return to open voting would not be a wholesome change.

A few days ago Donald McMaster, K.C., of Montreal, made a stirring speech in Montreal in which he referred to the change from the open voting to the ballot system and expressed a doubt if any advantage had accrued. He said it was the duty of every Canadian citizen to lend a helping hand in purifying the politics of the Dominion as the present state of affairs was a disgrace to Canada.

MARS AND AEROGRAMS

A year or two ago, imaginative astronomers were informing an astonished world that Mars, one of the solar system, was inhabited by beings possibly of a higher order of intelligence than the dwellers of earth. The novelty of the idea caused considerable discussion among savants, and even common folk were impressed by the thought that Mars, instead of the earth was It.

The recent astonishing performances with Marconi's wireless system have suggested to us the thought that communication with that inhabited planet in the solar system might not be such a difficult feat after all. Mars is next from the earth. It is said to have a diameter of about 4,000 miles and to have a period of 687 days. As Mars is only 141,000,000 miles away from our sphere, electricity should meet few obstructions in making the Martians aware of our presence. Mr. Tesla's opinion on this matter should be secured. Will the brilliant electrician kindly rise up to the mark?

KIDNEY TROUBLE

William Appleton Tried Drug Preparations That Did Him No Good and the Sands of His Life Were Fast Slipping Away.

A Friend Advised Powley's Liquified Ozone—So Sick Was He That He Had Commenced on the Fourth Bottle Before Feeling Better.

Then, With the Disease Germs Destroyed, the Improvement Was Rapid, and He Was Seen at Work—Has Had No Lost Time Since.

POWLEY'S LIQUIFIED OZONE CURES DISEASE BY DESTROYING DISEASE GERMS WHEREVER LOCATED.

Some time ago I was a very sick man from kidney trouble. All the medicine I was then taking did me no good. I felt the sands of life were fast slipping away. I was advised by a friend to try Powley's Liquified Ozone, as it had raised him from a very serious sickness into perfect health. My wife at once purchased a bottle, when I commenced taking your remedy. I was very much run down at this time. I had used three 50c. bottles and commenced the fourth before I began to feel the benefit. But from the fourth bottle I mended fast, my cough left me and my energy returned. I began work again and have been working ever since. I have the greatest confidence in your remedy and feel that I cannot afford to be without a bottle in our house all the time. You are at liberty to publish this for the benefit of other sufferers.

WM. APPLETON,
67 Stafford street, Toronto.

The Strongest Proof Is Home Proof.

Has it ever occurred to you in reading Ozone advertisements that the proof we furnish as to the remarkable curative qualities of Powley's Liquified Ozone is of the strongest possible kind? Never has a remedy been so enthusiastically endorsed by such a great number of people, but the best of the proof we furnish is that it is not from a man in Maine or a woman in Mexico, but from people right at home. In cases of kidney trouble our home proof is particularly strong. By destroying the disease germs that cause the trouble Ozone effects cures when drug preparations have proved entirely worthless.

The following are brief extracts from the statements of other persons who have been cured:

WM. FLETCHER,
Erindale, Ont., says: "For about two years I suffered from kidney disease and finally became so ill that my doctor advised me that if I had any business to settle that I had better have it attended to. Fully expecting to die I had him draw up my will. About this time Mr. Connover, a neighbor, recommended Powley's Liquified Ozone. I felt better after taking the second dose and after taking five bottles was entirely cured. Although 73 years of age I am so well that I can do a good amount of work and feel that I am good for at least ten years to come."

W. A. PRIMEAU,
Chatham, Ont., says: "For six months I was much troubled with my kidneys, during which time I tried a number of medicines supposed to cure kidney trouble, but derived no benefit from any of them. A friend advised me to try Powley's Liquified Ozone. I soon found it to be just what I required and in a short time was in fine working condition, with every trace of the disease gone."

WALTER RAINE,
city traveller for the Hough Lithographing Co., Toronto, says: "For some time I was troubled with kidney disease, which I believe was fast developing into Bright's disease. I also had rheumatism in my shoulders and knees and my digestion was far from good. I tried Powley's Liquified Ozone. The first bottle helped me and I continued taking it until I had taken four bottles, when every symptom of my old ailments was gone. I now keep Ozone in the house and find it an excellent remedy for any sickness that we may have."

carriage window at the smoke clouds which hung over a ridge of hills in the distance.

Astley, who was little less gloomy than she, shrugged his shoulders with a depressed little nod.

"And yet," he said, "the country must have been pretty enough at one time. It's broken up; you get plenty of hills and dales and streams. But since cotton took possession of the place there's a blackness over it all, a sort of veil that dims the colour and stains the very sky."

"And the cottages—they're so hard-looking, and bare, and all exactly alike. And the people—they look rougher than the people down in the south, don't they?"

"They're a good sort, though, for all that," said Astley. "I think you'll like them when you know them. At least I hope you will."

Norma shot a frightened glance at him. Did he mean that she was to stay at his Lancashire home? She dared not ask a question about it, but she felt that Astley was quite as much perturbed as she was herself. One other thing she noticed too: he looked pale and fatigued. After a little hesitation, she said shyly:

"Aren't you very tired?"

Astley leaned back in his corner.

"Very," said he. "To tell you the truth, I've felt tired out, thoroughly knocked up and fit for nothing, ever since poor old Hugh died. You see it all came upon me so suddenly, the worry and the work, before I was quite myself after my illness."

"Yes, I see," murmured Norma in the softest of soft voices.

She spoke so gently that Astley looked at her and smiled.

"You must be tired, too," said he.

She shook her head. "I'm never tired. Aunt says I'm as strong as a horse."

Astley looked at the delicate features and smiled.

"It's the last thing one would think of you," he said.

And then there was silence again until they reached the lodge gates of Darwen Haigh, and drove through the long avenue of now leafless trees up to a big, bare stone house, with the same gloomy black film over it that Norma had already remarked over the rows of cottages.

In the portico stood a disagreeable-looking elderly servant, who had been butler there so long that he resented a change of masters, if he did not look upon himself as master and upon Astley as a tolerated visitor. He had small black side whiskers, and a long-suffering expression of face. Norma felt, the moment she saw him, that he resented her.

ONLY GOOD OATS USED

American Cereal Co's Circular to the Farmers.

The American Cereal Co. have issued a circular, which is to be widely circulated among the farmers, impressing the necessity of selecting a desirable quality of seed oats for cultivation during the coming season. In this connection the folder points out:

As the time of the year is fast approaching when our farmer friends will be busy preparing the soil and seeding for another harvest, we wish to once more draw their attention to the necessity of paying special attention to the selection of seed oats as we are large consumers of milling oats.

In the markets of the world Canada is coming to the fore with her Pea Fed Bacon, her Cheese, her Butter and Eggs, and why? Because the Government has spent large sums of money educating an intelligent farming community as to the requirements of the old world markets, and year after year shows steady gains in our exports of these commodities. Why should it not be the same with Cereal products? And so it will with your hearty co-operation in furnishing us with oats suitable for our requirements. We particularly recommend "White Siberian" or "Banner" oats as two varieties especially suitable for milling purposes.

Please see that your seed oats are free from BARLEY, WILD OATS AND OTHER FOREIGN GRAINS. If the crop is well taken care of and the season being favorable for the harvesting of the same, the farmer will be assured of a steady market for his oats at highest prices obtainable at all times by growing choice oats and marketing them with the American Cereal Company, Peterborough.

The Cereal Co.'s elevator has been equipped with three modern automatic grain dumps for the accommodation of farmers delivering grain. This is a great improvement on the old style methods, and is a great saver of time and labor. The folder contains illustrations of the manner of operating the elevator, and also a neat pocket calendar for 1903.

An Opportunity

We are offering for public subscription a limited amount of stock of exceptional merit affording an unusual opportunity for a very profitable investment. We desire to be conservative in our representations, but do not hesitate to state that the stocks of the properties we are representing are absolutely certain to rapidly increase in value, and the fortunate purchasers of the stock at the present prices will have more than reason to congratulate themselves for grasping this opportunity.

Success lies in being alive to that which is going on around you, and they who "grasp the skirts of happy chance can break the blows of circumstance."

We have the disposition of a certain amount of treasury stock in four corporations. We have thoroughly investigated the present value of the properties owned by the Companies, and have full cognition of the immense profits that are awaiting only the further development and equipment of the properties.

We are offering an equal number of shares in each of the four corporations at a price that make the combined issue a most attractive feature, giving also to the purchaser an unusual safe guard on his or her investment; in other words, you are not placing all your eggs in one basket. Or if you prefer you can purchase separately the stocks we offer.

As the money received from the sale of the stock is strictly for the purpose of equipping the properties with the necessary machinery, etc., the time will not be long before handsome dividends are available. We are not asking your subscriptions to pay for the properties; they are already owned by the Companies, and there are no outstanding obligations.

This preliminary notice is to advise the public in general that an opportunity now presents itself for a safe investment of unusual character, embodying also speculative possibilities sufficiently great to make even a small investor a competency within a few years.

You can invest in any amount from Ten Dollars up, and, if so desired, you can have the privilege o paying in installments the amount of stock paid for from time to time being non-forfeitable in the event of your ceasing payments, thus relieving those of small or uncertain income from possibility of loss, should they for any reason become unable to continue payments.

Our business is to aid responsible Companies in the disposal of their treasury stock for the thorough equipment of their properties; we do not and will not handle indiscriminate mining or other stocks under any circumstances. W make a thorough personal examination and investigation as to the merits and possibilities before undertaking to assist in financing any Corporation: the paramount issue with us is to give complete satisfaction and cause much success to our patrons.

We have furnished the publishers of The Times with an outlined description of the Companies we represent, and the names of the Directors of each Company whose stock we offer to their subscribers and friends. We have also furnished The Times with bank references as to our own bonafides and standing. We desire to command the utmost confidence of all subscribers and to retain same along with their friendship for all time; you add riches without effort and increase our brains and labor: you increase your rr without effort and increase our power to make you still richer. In ordinary everyday experience a man's expenses nearly equal his income and he has little chance to make a turn for the betterment of his condition. This is anyone's opportunity; you can invest Ten Dollars or One Thousand Dollars on the same basis as one who invests Ten Thousand Dollars. You cannot afford to neglect your opportunities and this is a chance to get in on the ground floor and reap the profits of substantial, quick money making enterprises. Your money need not be tied up for a long time; we know that one of the Companies, at least, will pay handsome dividends this year. It is an easy matter to become rich; just watch for the opportunity and take advantag of it. This is your opportunity; will you grasp it?

AT WORK ON THE GREAT WESTERN

A Valuable Property in the Black Canyon District

Tunnel in Three Hundred Feet and Mill Will Soon be Put Up

Lovelock, Nevada, March 4.—We have almost overlooked the fact that important development work has been going on all fall and winter at the Great Western mine in Black canyon. Particulars even now are meagre and it was only by chance that The Times learned of the operations.

This is the property discovered and owned by Idah Meacham Strobridge, mention of which was made before in these columns. Several years ago it created quite a sensation. Some very rich rock was taken out, running as high as ten thousand dollars in gold to the ton. It is purely a free milling proposition.

Some months ago Mr. Deaconbrock of Sacramento took hold of the mine. It is not known whether he bonded it or purchased the property outright. Adjoining the Great Western is the claim owned by Mrs. Minnie Feliz and it is believed this is included in the deal.

Mr. Deaconbrock has nine men at work under Superintendent John Vaughn. They started in the canyon on the ledge below the house and have run a tunnel in three hundred feet. In the course of the work they have taken out some very fine quartz.

It is understood that a mill will be built on the property in the spring.

THE POPE'S JUBILEES

The Holy Pontiff to Celebrate Four Remarkable Events

Rome, March 2—The pope will be able to celebrate during the course of this year no less than four distinct jubilees, which is probably the jubilee record breaking of the world.

All these jubilees are personal to his holiness and for the first time in the life of man he will be able to hold a n [illegible] jubilee.

This year he will have seen 70 years' service as a priest.

He will also celebrate his diamond jubilee for his 60 years as a bishop, his golden jubilee for his 50 years as a pope.

His holiness is in his 93d year, but his h ealth is so good and his mind is so clear that without doubt he will be able to get through all these celebrations.

This liberal-minded pope, this kind-hearted and witty man; this great scholar and shrewd diplomatist will probably be declared one day to have been the greatest head that ever ruled over the destinies of the Catholic church.

INTERNATIONAL ELECTRIC MINING Co

185 SUMMER ST., - BOSTON, MASS.

A Dividend Payer for the Past Five Years.

12 PER CENT GUARANTEED

Capital Stock, $500,000. Par, $1.00, full paid and non-assessable

Over eight thousand tons of $50.00 ore mined and smelted from this group of mines.

A limited number of shares of the stock of this Company now offered at seventy-five cents per share. This price will shortly be increased to par. Stock registered by the International Trust Company, Boston, who is also the transfer agent.

This Company has a small capital stock.

The International Electric Mining Company owns seven mines and milling plant.

The Brooklyn and New York mines of this Company lie north of and join the Victor and the Hoodlum—two rich mines that are now being worked by California parties. On the west lies the Electric Mining Company's mines. In these mines are millions of dollars' worth of rich ore in sight. On the south, adjoining the Berlin mine of this Company, is the Montezuma and Clipper. From the Montezuma over three million dollars has been taken within 60 feet of the grass roots.

This Company owns free and clear seven mines of twenty acres each, all containing rich ore, located in the Arabia and Trinity mining districts, Humboldt County, Nevada. The Company has worked these mines for the past five years, and is now driving a tunnel to cut out a rich ledge about 300 feet from the surface. The Arabia mining district, in which these mines are located, is a lively district—a great many men being employed there. The tunnel now being driven on the Brooklyn mine has about 250 feet already completed. When the tunnel cuts the main ledge, which has just been reached by the Victor tunnel about 600 feet, the Brooklyn will have about 300 feet stoping ground, which runs high in gold and silver, over $80.00 per ton.

The Company is offering for a short time a limited amount of stock for the enlargement of its plant and the working force at the mines and for the completion of the Brooklyn tunnel.

This Company has thousands of tons of rich ore in sight.

We are not making a lot of talk, because it is unnecessary. What the investor wants is dividends, which we have paid for the past five years. Now if you want a safe 12 per cent. investment, let us hear from you.

THE OLD COMSTOCK

A California mining paper has this to say: "Nevada, that grand old stamping ground of mushroom millionaires, who plucked enough wealth from her prolific fields to build mansions, banks and big hotels in San Francisco, and palaces in Paris and London, is again astonishing the world by making more millionaires and by yielding millions in gold and silver from a new field which rivals the old Comstock lode in the days of its pristine splendor. Not only in Tonopah and Arabia districts, where within the past year nearly ten millions have been exposed, are operations active, but in every mining district in the Silver State are operations active, and Nevada will once more take her place among the big producers, the peer of any of them."

Mr. Geo. D. Burton, Treas.,
International Electric Mining Co.,
Boston, Mass.

Dear Sir,—During the six months of October and November of this year I visited the mines of the International Electric Mining Company, situated in Arabia and Trinity mining districts, Humboldt County, Nevada. I found the country remarkably mineralized; in fact, the possibilities of the country as a mineral producing country are yet unknown. For years it certainly has produced well. The work now being done in the Arabia and Trinity districts establishes the fact that they are fine producers.

I also found that there is a great deal of interest being taken in these properties, which have produced a great deal of wealth the past quarter of a century.

FREE GOLD FOUND

in the 190 foot shaft of The Electric Spark Gold Mining Company's property is an absolute assurance of large dividends at no distant day; and those who buy now, and take advantage of this exceptional opportunity will make from 50 to 100 per cent. yearly on their investment.

There has never been a mining investment offered where the future value of the property could be more clearly shown than in this, or where the returns could be estimated more certainly or accurately.

It is simply a question of time and work. The risk has all been taken, and the investor today can look forward to future dividends with certainty and satisfaction. Incorporated as we are for only $200,000, par value $1.00, makes the stock all the more valuable, and located in the midst of some of the best mines in Gilpin County, Colorado, the smallest county in the State, which in 1902 produced $4,000,000.00, is another assurance of a big dividend payer.

By permission the Company refers to the Rocky Mountain National Bank, and the Weekly Register Call, of Central City, Colorado.

A limited amount of shares for sale at 20 cents per share. Remember this stock is fully paid and non-assessable; is all common and in a company organized expressly to operate this mine.

"THE FRIDAY MINE"

Located at Pearl, Willow Creek, Boise County, Idaho

—About 28 Miles Northwest of Boise City—

THE FRIDAY GOLD MINING CO. is a corporation duly organized under the laws of the State of Oregon, with head office at Sumpter, Oregon, owning and controlling "The Friday Mine." Capital Stock, $1,000,000, divided into 1,000,000 shares. Par value $1.00 per share, fully paid and non-assessable, no personal liability. 250,000 shares have been set aside and placed in the treasury of the Company to be sold for the purpose of equipping the "Friday Mine" with machinery. It is for this purpose we are offering you stock in this great mine. This plant will handle 60 tons of Friday ore every 24 hours. The general average of the Friday ore is over $30 per ton. The ore as it was shipped to the smelters at Salt Lake averaging over $55.00 per ton. The Friday is highly developed, great quantities of ore blocked out and in sight ready for the mill. As soon as the mill is completed the Friday Mine will again pay dividends.

Large ore bodies which will net to the company $60,000, for the first few months, are now blocked out ready for the mill. As soon as the mill is completed you will draw your regular monthly dividend. It is safe, certain and conservative.

We are not soliciting your money for the purpose of developing the mine, but only for the purpose of erecting a mill to work the ore bodies in the mine. The company is officered by men of well known business ability, mining experience and strict integrity.

Hon. Martin H. Jacobs, State Mining Inspector of mines, for the State of Idaho, says: "The Friday has a large amount of good ore in sight, and there is no question about its being a good paying property."

Thunder Mountain!

is the richest gold producing camp in the United States, and also the largest. The Thunder Mountain district, in central Idaho, is twenty miles wide and forty miles long. In comparison with this we have Cripple Creek, four miles wide and seven miles long. In many of the Thunder Mountain mines ore has already been reached that carries ONE THOUSAND DOLLARS IN GOLD TO THE TON. All of the Thunder Mountain ore is free milling, which means that it can be treated by the cheapest extraction process known—the ordinary stamp mill. It can be both mined and milled at a cost not to exceed $2 a ton. The past years operations in the several working mines have opened up millions of tons of ore that will give a net profit of from $10 to $30 a ton, enabling the respective companies to pay dividends at a rate never before equalled. Such is the showing and the prospect of the

EAST DEWEY GOLD MINING CO.

which unless all indications are at fault, will become the largest producer in the district. The EAST DEWEY mine, which it owns outright, is located directly on Thunder Mountain, just east of the famous "Dewey" mine, which already has $20,000,000 of ore in sight. The surface area of the East Dewey mine is one hundred and twenty acres—six full quartz claims. The company has also secured the big GOLDEN GATE mine, in the Big Creek section of the Thunder Mountain district—which has been so aptly termed "The Pot of Gold"—and is now developing the mine with all possible speed. For a distance of 9,000 feet, nearly two miles, the Golden Gate mines cover a mineralized ledge that is 900 feet wide, with an average height above the tunnel level of 500 feet, thus giving it the largest exposed tonnage of any mine in the west.

If you would share in the enormous profits which these figures indicate and which these developments promise, invest your money in "East Dewey" Stock. It can be bought to-day for 10 Cents a Share. Its par value is $1.

If the East Dewey mines are what they appear to be, and there is absolutely no reason to doubt or question these indications, this stock will eventually be worth at least $10 a share, and to-day you can buy it for ten cents. PRICE ADVANCES TO FIFTEEN CENTS ON FEBRUARY 28th. 5% discount allowed for cash. Stock sold at flat price of 10 cents on deferred payments, 10% with application, and 10% monthly until paid. Full particulars, prospectus, etc., on request.

CALIFORNIA-NEVADA REPORT

Development Being Prosecuted and Machinery Installed

Under date of February 13, the following report to the stockholders of the California-Nevada Mining Company has been issued from the office of that corporation in this city:

"In sending out our eighth dividend we feel a great gratification in announcing that much heavy machinery for our large mills is being hauled to the mines on sleds, which makes the transfer less laborious.

"Much has been said heretofore in our monthly reports about our progress in opening up large ore bodies, and as the matter has been settled as to the inexhaustible quantities of ore for a life time, we will speak more especially of the progress in mill construction and equipment.

"The weather has been eight degrees below zero, with two feet of solid snow. Ordinarily, this would retard the work many days, but with the undaunted courage and energy of our manager at the mines, the fury of the elements has been overcome and work has progressed steadily, so that everything is completed and ready to get all machinery upon its arrival at the mines. The water power is completed—a large horsepower capacity—ready to turn on at any time; with still an equal capacity in reserve for future needs.

"We are arranging for an electric plant for lighting the mines and running a number of power drills, which will enable us to save about $2,500 per month on the extraction of ores alone. Quite a large stampage is in place for the very rich ore mentioned in our letter to stockholders (concerning the sickness of our president) and as soon as another battery of stamps, with other equipment which has been shipped, can be put in place we will be turning out bullion, and our manager has assured us that he will give us a gold brick before the close of the month.

"Shipments of machinery for the large mill have been on the road from Boston and Chicago for many weeks, but we have the manifests for same in hand and feel sure that our affairs will go forward from this time without further delay from the railroad companies.

"It is exceedingly hard to convey an idea of the magnitude of this enterprise, and the innumerable difficulties to be overcome in dispatching the work at this time of year. Almost without exception similar enterprises are at a standstill. On account of the very large increase in the business for the past month and the difficulty in finding efficient help to assist our present office force, we may be a day late in getting out our dividend checks, but we assure our stockholders that all the business of the company, both at the office and the mines, will be done with energy and promptness henceforth.

"We hope no errors will occur as to stock or dividends; should any occur, we urge promptness on the part of our stockholders in notification of same."

Want Farm Labor

A deputation from the County Councils of York, Ontario and Simcoe waited upon Premier Ross last week and asked that steps should be taken to induce some of the English men who were coming to Canada to remain in Ontario, instead of going west. They urged this step because of the scarcity of farm labor. The Premier promised to do what he could.—Orillia Packet. The idea is a good one, but we believe that the class of emigrants most desirable for all parts of Canada would be men with money and enterprise.

The Late Gussie Daly

Kingston Whig of Monday: Early Sunday morning the Angel of Death entered l'Hotel Dieu and the spirit of Gussie Daly was transferred to heavenly mansions. Taken ill ten days ago with typhoid fever she fought for life and only when meningitis developed did hope of recovery fade away. The bright, cheerful, clever girl was fourteen years of age, yet in her brief years her thoughtfulness, self-denial, generous disposition and sweet ways made her beloved by many, both in Peterboro and in Kingston, whither her family came in December last. Gussie will be missed in her home, she was its sunshine; among her companions on University avenue, as she was the merriest of them; in the Institute where she was a good student, standing well in the third form; in Sunday school and church, where she was a reverent, devoted helper. To Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Daly and family tender sympathy will go out for "daddy's girl" and mother's hope will no longer cheer and comfort them by her presence. To-day the remains were tenderly conveyed to Cataraqui cemetery, after solemn and impressive services at the home.

A LAYMAN

Gave Doctor a Hint about Coffee

Speaking of coffee a doctor of Decaturville, Ohio, says; "We used to analyze coffee at the Medical college and in spite of our labratory tests which showed it to be caffine, an active poison, I continued to use the drink, and later on found myself affected with serious stomach trouble, indigestion, headaches, etc.

The headaches came on so regularly and oppressed me so that I found it difficult to attend to my regular duties. One day last Nov. I met a friend whom I had known to be similarly afflicted. His marked improvement in appearance caused me to enquire what he had been doing. He announced that he had, some time ago, quit coffee and was using Postum Food Coffee, to this change he attributed the change in his health. I took the hint, even from a layman, and made the change myself. The first week I noticed a little difference but not much. The third week the change was almost magical. I have continued with the Postum and now my digestion is perfect, the nervous headaches have entirely disappeared and I am well. My own analysis of the Postum Food Coffee shows it to be a pure food drink of strong character which is a marked contrast to the old fashioned coffee." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

ANOTHER SUDDEN DEATH

Joseph L. Dumontette Dies at His Home on Perry Street

Mr. Joseph L. Dumontette, who was an employee at the Cereal Works, took ill on Saturday evening after work, and continued to gradually sink until death relieved him of his sufferings yesterday morning. Blood poisoning was the cause of death.

The funeral takes place to-morrow morning at 9 o'clock to St. Peter's Cathedral and from thence to the Roman Catholic Cemetery.

ANOTHER EX-LEGISLATOR GONE

One More of the Excellent of Earth is Gone From Among Us

Again we have to record the death of one of the most respected farmers of the County of Durham, who was also a member of the Legislative Assembly for many years, and in the person of Mr. Wm. Fallis the Province has lost one of her most honest, useful and progressive men. He was a man of excellent parts, courteous and kind and was a very popular personage not only in his native township, of Cavan, but throughout the entire county.

The family left behind to mourn their loss consists of Mrs. Fallis; Messrs. Harris, Edgar and George; Mrs. Lieth, Mrs. McMillan and Miss Mable.

The funeral will be conducted under the auspices of the Loyal Orange Lodge, of Cavan, of which the deceased was an enthusiastic and respected member.

CARNIVAL OF SPORT

Mr. W. E. Genno, the Wonderful Barrel Jumper

There was a good crowd at the Brock street rink last night to witness the sport. There was a good deal of interest taken in the race between O'Leary Dusty and Waller.

The Lindsay man proved much too fast company for our skaters. This race was 14 laps around the rink and resulted in the following manner—1st heat, O'Leary 1st, Dusty 2nd, and Waller 3rd. time 3.30. The second heat resulted the same way, only the time, which was 3.45.

The next race was the one between Jackson and Dusty, which resulted in favor of the latter, who won with apparent ease.

The last event was the wonderful jumping of Mr. W. E. Genno, the champion barrel jumper of the world, who went flying backwards over five large barrels on one foot, and it was easily seen that he could have cleared another. The crowd went wild with delight at the magnificent work of this daring athlete.

DEATH OF MRS. WM. SPEER

An Old Resident of South Dummer Passes Away

It is with much regret that we record the death of Mrs. Wm. Speer, of Ashburnham, which occurred at the family residence yesterday morning, after a brief illness brought on by a fall which was sustained about one week ago. Mrs. Speer was a native of Donegal, Ireland, and came to Canada in 1848 and settled in South Dummer, where she resided during the most of her life. The deceased lady was for years a faithful and respected member of the Methodist church, and her demise will come as a great shock to her South Dummer friends, where she was so long and favorably know.

The surviving children are Mrs. W. Thistlewaite, Norwood; Mrs. S. Gaskin, Ashburnham; Mrs. J. Spence, Toronto, and John and Mary at home.

The funeral takes place from the family residence, on Monroe Ave. tomorrow at 2.30 p.m. to the Little Lake Cemetery.

—Since the reduction of 60c per cord R. Hicks & Co. is doing an immense trade.

—The funeral of the late Wm. Lech will take place from the family residence this afternoon.

—Wholesale orders for blank books of every description, school supplies and stationery filled at lowest prices in Town at Times Bookstore.

—A merchant of George street wants to know whose duty it is to see that these rug peddlars now doing the town, pay a peddlar's license.

—Some of our cousins over the river want to know what the town is going to do for them in order to balance the rate per capita, in the event of a union with Peterborough.

Notwithstanding the fact that farmers can not get in town with wood, our enterprising fuel dealer, Mr. R. Hicks, has reduced wood 60c per cord. This will be appreciated by hundreds of town people.

—A number of the stockholders of the Canadian Cordage Company were seen today who express themselves as entirely satisfied with the standing and program made, as expressed in the director's statement.

—Butt's Cannel coal is the best for grates. For sale by R. Hicks & Co., Murray street.

—Fenelon Falls will submit a bonus bill to authorize it to purchase $15,000 worth of stock in the Sanford Furniture & Woodenware Company, and to fix the property assessment at $5,000 for a period of twenty years. The town also proposes to acquire the plant of the Fenelon Falls Electric Light Company.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

—Mr. F. J. Bullied, merchant, Apsley was in town yesterday.

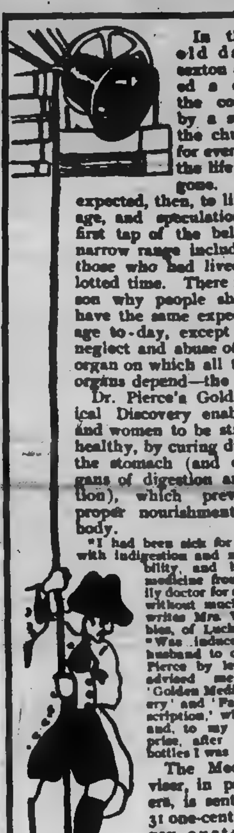
—Mr. Ken. Hanlan, of Oshawa, is the guest of Mr. John Craig, Ashburnham.

—Mr. and Mrs. Halbrook, of Apsley, were in town yesterday in connection with their son's being taken over by the Children's Aid Society.

—Mr. and Mrs. Henderson, of Norwich, who have been the guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Cressman for several weeks, return home this morning.

—Mr. Edward Hawthorne, ex-Warden of the County of Peterborough, and for many years Dummer's representative to the County Council was in town yesterday and gave The Times a call.

—Cobourg Post :—The engagement is announced of Miss Grace Lowery, Quebec, daughter of the late Grosvenor Lowrey, of New York, granddaughter of Mr. Justice Armour, and a cousin of Mr. E. A. Peck, Peterboro, to Mr. Alexis Martin, of Victoria, B.C., son of Mr. Edward Martin, K.C., of Hamilton.



In the good old days the sexton announced a death in the community by a stroke on the church bell for every year of the life that was gone. People expected, then, to live to old age, and speculation at the first tap of the bell took a narrow range including only those who had lived the allotted time. There is no reason why people should not have the same expectancy of age to-day, except for the neglect and abuse of the one organ on which all the other organs depend—the stomach.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery enables men and women to be strong and healthy, by curing diseases of the stomach (and other organs of digestion and nutrition), which prevent the proper nourishment of the body.

"I had been sick for two years with indigestion and nervous debility, and had taken medicine from my family doctor for a long time without much benefit," writes Mrs. W. H. Peebles, of Lucknow, S. C. "Was induced by my husband to consult Dr. Pierce by letter. You advised me to take 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Favorite Prescription,' which I did, and, to my great surprise, after taking six bottles I was cured."

The Medical Adviser, in paper covers, is sent free for 31 one-cent stamps to pay customs and mailing only. Address Doctor R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

ndon, March 4—No names have been submitted for the Alaskan nal. It seems probable that the delay is owing to the English Cabinet's consideration of the desirability of suggesting a change in the American commissioners, although this would be a delicate matter. The Canadian Government has communicated its opinion unfavorable to the American appointees. The strong Canadian views are appreciated here.

YUKON GOLD ROYALTY.

The Judicial Committee of the Privy Council to-day granted leave to appeal and amalgamate in the case of Chappelle, Carmack, Woog and Tweed versus the King. William Chappelle, Charles Tweed, Charles Woog, and George W. Carmack, for themselves and other Yukon miners, sued in the Exchequer Court in 1898 for refund of royalties collected on their gold output. The main point of their contest hinged on the renewal of certain claims in September, 1897, the petitioners holding that the royalty enactment was not at that time in force. The Canadian Exchequer Court decided in favor of the Crown in all but one or two minor cases. The amount involved is in the neighborhood of $170,000.

IRISH COMPETITION.

r. Plunkett, Minister of Agriculture for Ireland, who was defeated in Galway by "Colonel" Lynch is touring England, with the object of ousting colonial and foreign butter in favor of Irish. He is revolutionizing Irish agriculture and dairying by the establishment of farmer's co-operative banks and instruction centres. He is now finding out how English provision dealers want butter packed, so that he can be prepared to supply the demand. Ireland is becoming Canada's rival in the cattle, butter and cheese trades.

SUCCESSOR TO COLMER.

Lord Strathcona, High Commissioner for Canada, has received official notification of the appointment of Mr W. L. Griggith, Canadian Agent at Cardiff, Wales, as successor to Mr. J. G. Colmer, C.M.G., as secretary to the High Commissioner. The appointment has taken everyone by surprise.

(Mr. W. L. Griffith, the Canadian Government Agent at Cardiff, Wales, has, it is announced from Ottawa, been appointed Secretary to the High Commissioner for Canada in London. EMIGRATION TALK.

Lord Brassey yesterday, speaking upon the question of the emigration of the unemployed, said he had faith in emigration to Canada. He had assisted many to emigrate to Canada; he had visited them there, and had invariably found them prospering. He complimented the work of emigration carried on by Dr. Barnado.

Mr W. T. R. Preston, Chief Emigration Commissioner for Canada voiced the praises and virtues of the Dominion, but insisted that only clean and healthy emigrants were wanted.

A "LEAGUE OF EMPIRE.

A recent speech by Mr. Chamberlain at Cape Town calls attention to the existence of a league of Empire It is called the "Children of the Empire," and its aims are to secure the interchange of correspondence between the children of the Empire as well as the linking of the schools of the Empire by a series of competitions, and the exchange of museum specimens. The organization is flourishing.

SOUTH AFRICA.

A blue book on South Africa, issued yesterday, shows that only 370 British settlers entered the Transvaal, and 362 the Orange River Colony. The Government is introducing stock from Australia, Texas, and Madagascar. It is claimed that British colonial stock is unsuited to the Transvaal. The Women's Immigration Department give five pounds per head and free railway fare to women immigrants, but Mr. Chamberlain points to the danger of shipments of women. Comparatively few Britishers emigrate to South Africa, but crowds of Continentals are going there.

A SPLENDID REPORT

Seventh Annual Meeting of the Ontario Accident Insurance Company

We call the attention of our readers to the financial report of the Ontario Accident Insurance Company, presented at the annual meeting of the shareholders, held at the head office, Toronto, on the 23rd ult. The result of the year's operations is certainly most gratifying, and reflects the greatest credit on the management of the Company.

The net income from premiums after deducting re-insurance, was $118,635.35, while the income from investments amounted to $1,704.19. During the year the Company paid 1,451 claims the total after deducting $4,808.94 received from re-insuring companies, amounted to $53,981.51. The revenue account, after deducting all expenses, shows a balance of [illegible], which has been appropriated as follows:—$5,500 to Reserve; $8,000 to Contingencies; $2,180 dividends; leaving a balance to be carried forward of $734.15. The Reserve Fund now stands at $28,000 and the Contingency at $8,000.

We congratulate the directors on the above shewing, which indicates that the affairs of the Company are in careful hands. In Peterborough the interests of the Company is looked after by Mr. George K. Martin, who reports a rapidly growing business.

BLOOD WAS POISONED

A Happy Cure After Use of Three Bottles of

PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND

The Spring System Cleanse

Health is that natural state of the whole body in which the entire nervous system is so perfectly regulated that it can, without undue effort, perform its almost numberless and all-important duties. The blood as it courses through the body must bear nourishment and life or poisons and death.

In the spring season thousands around us suffer from various forms of blood diseases, and many are unexpectedly cut down by death.

Your blood is surely filled with waste and poisonous matters when you suffer from boils, pimples, blackheads, eczema, salt rheum, erysipelas or itch. When nerve force is low, when you suffer from insomnia, lassitude or neuralgia, be assured your blood demands purifying and cleansing.

Paine's Celery Compound quickly banishes from the blood all poisons; it supplies the proper elements for enriching the vital fluid, building tissue, and for the general repair of the whole system. Mr. A. B. Hammond, Mansonville, Que., says:

"I was afflicted with scrofula sores, of which I had five on one leg and three on the other. These were running sores for four years. With this, I had rheumatism so badly that I could not get out of bed. The use of Paine's Celery Compound was suggested to me. With little faith, I commenced its use. To my great surprise I grew better, and by the time I had used three bottles I was as well as ever before, and what I never expected to see was realized, the sores on my legs were entirely healed."

—Green wood is selling at $4 a cord in Norwood, which is considered a high price. Here in Peterborough wood is selling at $6.50 and $7.00 and is also considered high.

PRESIDENT DUMBLE'S INTERESTING ADDRESS

Delivered at the Board of Trade Meeting

THE BEET SUGAR FACTORY BONUS

The Progress of the Town Fully Set Forth—The Outlook for Peterborough Bright

Mr. D. W. Dumble, the retiring President of the Board of Trade, delivered the following address at the annual meeting, held on Tuesday night. The Board, however, did not endorse his reference to the beet sugar matter. Mr. Dumble said:

The year just closed has been for the entire country and for our town a year of great prosperity. An abundant harvest, large production of dairy products, large hog production, and ready sale for all that the farmer raises, have ensured unexampled prosperity.

Peterborough has had one of her best years, there has been employment at good wages for all classes of labor, and the new industries have increased the demand to such an extent that there has been a large influx of people, thus adding largely to the population, and as an immediate result, rents have so increased as to ensure reasonable returns to the landlord who heretofore got but scanty returns for their houses.

More house property has changed hands in the last twelve months than for many previous years, one broker alone having sold ninety houses. These have been bought by people who find it advantageous to own their own houses rather than to pay rent.

The ownership of homes by the people has many advantages. It makes them industrious and saving, it makes better citizens and cultivates loyalty to the town and fixes people to the country, which is good for people and good for the country.

The citizens are to be congratulated on the establishment here of the magnificent Cereal Works, which, though only in part complete and in partial operation, have 450 employees on their pay roll.

Their market for coarse grain has been a great benefit to farmers, who, during this winter, have to date marketed with them 300,000 bushels of oats.

The work now being prosecuted by the Cereal Company on the river will result in the construction of the finest dam in the Dominion, and will secure for the Company between 5,000 and 6,000 available horse power.

We understand that it is the purpose of the Company to make large extensions to their buildings during the coming summer and on completion of their day they will put the entire factory in operation, thus more than doubling their employees and output.

The Canadian General Electric Company find their already extensive shops too small, and plans are already [illegible] construction of new shops which will double their capacity and double their working force.

The contemplated Beet Sugar Factory is sure to come in good time. Peterborough has all the conditions to make such an industry a success so far as soil, rail and water facilities are concerned, but there are some problems in connection with such an enterprise which are not yet fully determined, and as there are four factories now in operation, a delay of one year to enable them to settle the problems will enable Peterborough to go into the enterprise without the risk of experimenting.

We also congratulate the town on the completion of the Cordage Works, now in successful operation and employing 130 hands, and which promises in the near future much more extensive employment and labor.

All our manufacturing establishments are working up to their full capacity, employing in all about 2500 hands.

The Canadian General Electric Company employ 800 hands, The Cereal Company 450, the William Hamilton Mfg. Co. Ltd. 150, The Auburn Company 400, The Lock Works Company 90, The Peter Hamilton Agricultural Works, 80, The Cordage Company 130, The Ackerman Harness Works 80, Small Establishments 300.

It is hoped that the Burleigh power will soon be developed and brought to town, this and the various powers at Peterborough and Lakefield combined will give about 20,000 horse power, which will be available for use in Peterborough. Their full use means great growth of industries and of population.

The Trent Canal when opened will afford a great through rout for the Western grain and for return cargoes from the East, besides an important and cheap route for domestic trade.

The Board regrets that Port Hope reopens the agitation for the construction of the Canal from Rice Lake to Lake Ontario, via Port Hope. The Engineer Baird, who made the original surveys, and others have all reported in favor of the Trenton route for the reason that the lockage is the same, the outlet, Trenton, is 50 miles nearer Montreal than Port Hope, is much nearer to Oswego, whence coal is shipped than Port Hope, and, most of all, is on protected waters and not on the open lake which is impracticable for barges. So far as Peterborough is concerned, it is a matter of indifference whether the canal goes by Port Hope or Trenton, but the people of Peterborough cannot ignore their judgment which wholly condemns the Port Hope route as impracticable. Port Hope agitation can only result in excuses for delay on the part of the Government, and hence is not graciously considered here.

The time is come when the Municipal Problems affecting Peterborough cannot be properly dealt with unless there is amalgamation with Ashburnham. Systems of water supply, lighting, fire protection, drainage, and street railways must take in both sides of the Otonabee. A river is no natural barrier to justify separation. Union, which is admitted as inevitable must come sooner or later—and, if so, the sooner the better, as all financial problems can be now easier solved. If there is a union and a city, let it be Peterborough. It is an honorable name with a good record without a stain, and no good cause can be assigned for dropping it. St. Petersburgh was named after that boor, Peter the Great; but there were other and better Peters and for our patron we can take our choice. Then let it be Peterborough, forever.

It is a matter of congratulation that the Dickson Company are building a new mill. It will enable our builders to get lumber at home and it will continue to furnish firewood at reasonable rates, and will give employment to labor. That some annoyances will result from the booming of logs on the lake, is inevitable, but navigation will not be interfered with, and to look for industrial development without some inconveniences is unreasonable. Factories and aesthetic conditions are not concomitant, if we strive for one we must suffer the impairment of the other.

The development of trade in Peterborough may be exemplified by the following figures:

Customs receipts—1897-8, $74,016; 1898-9, $87,902; 1899-1900, $120,650; 1901-2, 147,232; 1902-3, (1-2 year) $80,000. Post Office receipts—1872, $5,903; 1882, $11,230; 1892, $15,203; 1902, under reduced postage rates $21,427.

These figures speak for themselves and show a great increase of trade which it is hoped will be continuous.

The manufacturing extensions now in sight mean increased population. A serious problem confronts us— Where are the houses for the new comers? Every house in town is full. The land agents between them have not half a dozen houses for rent. People must have comfortable homes, yet labor and material are so dear that decent houses cannot be built to rent at such rates as the people can pay. If artisans would buy vacant lots and build modest houses putting much of their own labor in them, many could thus secure homes who could not pay outright. Terraces are the cheapest structures, but they should be built warm, so as to save plumbing from freezing. Rows of outside meddies are neither decent nor healthy. This problem deserves careful consideration.

In conclusion I cannot refrain from referring to this new feeling of patriotic citizenship which warms the breast of all Canadians. More than ever before we realise that as Canadians we are citizens of no mean Empire, and we see our land developing as a God-blessed country and home for millions, we realise that right at home in Canada we have all conditions to employ our best energies to build up a virile race. Let us then in virtue equal our manhood, let us fear God and honor the king.

Respectfully submitted

D. W. DUMBLE

President

AMERICANS MUST WAIT CANADA NOT READY

No Negotiations with Washington Just Now, Deal with Alaska First

Ottawa, March 4.—An unofficial theory suggests a potent motive for the postponement of the resumption of the sittings of the High Joint Commission until Canada is "good and ready." It is based upon a close personal scrutiny of the temper of the United States Commissioners at the breaking off of the negotiations at Washington in February, 1899.

Protocol No. 73 of the commission, dated February 18th, 1899, sets out facts worth recalling. The deadlock as to the Alaska boundary having been affirmed in the most positive terms by both parties, the United States Commissioners "proposed that the Joint High Commission proceed to a determination of the remaining subjects of difference. They regard it as unwise to further defer the adjustment so nearly completed, after full consideration. Several subjects were so far advanced as to assure the probability of a settlement. If these differences, except one could now be adjusted, would it not be a most commendable advance in neighborly friendship? Could not our respective Governments be trusted to settle the principal remaining difference by direct negotiations?

"The British Commissioners replied that all such questions should be deferred until the boundary question had been disposed of, either by agreement or reference to arbitration. The manner in which they would be prepared to adjust some of the other important matters under consideration must depend, in their view, upon whether it is possible to arrive at a settlement of all the questions which might at any time occasion acute controversy and even conflict."

Canada Was Firm.

So the Canadians refusal to go ahead was not at all [illegible]. It was in effect "Come to terms on Alaska or wait for the other favors you really want." The terms of the protocol in respect of the other matters outstanding are said to picture but faintly the real eagerness of the American Commissioners to clinch the advantages they desire. Upon the recent submission of the Alaskan matter to a judiciary tribunal, that eagerness was shown again in Senator Fairbank's speedy request for a renewal of the negotiations.

To this request Sir Wilfrid Laurier returned the patent plea of temporary inconvenience. The Canadian Commissioners sitting in the Canadian Parliament would be too busy at their own housekeeping to pay [illegible] to "neighborly" affairs.

THE LION AND EAGLE BROTHERS IN PEACE

Sentiments Exchanged at Banquet Given by Pilgrims's Club

London, March 3—One of the highest compliments ever paid to an American Ambassador, and what is in some respects the most successful Anglo-American gathering ever held in London, was the celebration, under the auspices of the Pilgrims' Club at the Hyde Park hotel to-night of the completion of four years of service by Mr. Choate as the American representative at the Court of St James. A distinguished company of 160 persons, about equally divided between English and Americans, under the presidency of Earl Roberts, commander-in-chief of the British army, dined and listened to one of the most brilliant displays of after-dinner eloquence that those present had ever been privileged to enjoy. Among those who attended were Mr. Stamford Newel, American Minister at The Hague; Mr. Lawrence Townsend, American Minister to Belguim; Mr. Henry White, Secretary of the American Embassy here, and many others of equal importance.

Earl Roberts proposed a toast to "The President of the most flourishing and most enterprising Republic the world has ever seen, and to the King of that Empire on which the sun never sets."' This toast was honored by the band playing "The Star-Spangled Banner" and 'God Save the King.'

Lord Roberts then presented a toast in honor of Ambassador Choate. He described his position as unlike that of all other Ambassadors, because he represented the nation to which Great Britain is most closely bound by ties of origin, language, ideals, duty and responsibility. Earl Roberts declared that nobody could have used the gifts of power and influence with wiser discretion and more generous purpose than Mr. Choate, during whose term the two peoples had learned to know each other better, with the result that mutual respect had daily grown.

Ambassador's Reply.

Mr. Choate, in replying to the toast, made a humorously clever opening which was mainly occupied with graceful thanks and compliments to the Pilgrims' Club for the compliment paid to him. He said he was in full sympathy with the cardinal objects of the Pilgrims' organization, the promotion of a better understanding between the two countries. That, indeed, was part of his constant duty under the President's commission. In paying a tribute to Earl Roberts, whose leadership of the Pilgrims' Club was a guarantee of success, for, wherever he led victory was certain, Mr. Choate remarked that no warrior ever donned the garb of a Pilgrim with more grace than when the foremost soldier laid aside the sword, to lead those around him to the great triumph of peace, a lasting and abiding peace between the two nations whose fortunes and future were inextricably bound together. It was an indication to him and the world that the greatest soldier is the greatest peacemaker, and that the British and American armies and navies will never be turned against each other.

Mr. Choate added: "Let me propose a reciprocity treaty to Earl Roberts. I propose that he cross the Atlantic and dine with the Pilgrims' Club of the United States. I can assure him a warmer welcome than any Englishman ever received, and if his digestion is equal to his military powers, he will return the favorite hero of both nations."

—In about five weeks the cheese factories will open again, the intention of the dairymen of many localities being to start on the 1st of April. The demand is very much greater than it was at the opening of the season last year.

CANADIAN BANK OF COMMERCE

AMALGAMATION WITH

THE HALIFAX BANKING COMPANY

Great interest has been shown in the announcement from Halifax that a revisional agreement has been made under which The Halifax Banking Com- any is to be amalgamated with The Canadian Bank of Commerce. The latter ank has at present a paid-up capital of $8,000,000 with a rest of $2,500,000, t a week or two ago a special general meeting of the shareholders was lled for 14th April next to pass a by-law increasing the capital stock to 0,000,000. Its Head Office is in Toronto, and it has now 84 branches roughout Canada and the United States, stretching from Sydney, Cape Bre- n, in the extreme East, to Victoria in the West, and from Dawson in the orth to San Francisco in the South. It is represented at all the principal siness centres in Canada west of Montreal, and has its own offices in New ork, Portland (Oregon), Seattle, and London, England.

Until the recent establishment of a branch at Sydney, The Canadian Bank f Commerce had no office in the Maritime Provinces. Its stock, however, as always been a favorite investment with Nova Scotians, no less than $800,- 0 of its capital being held in their Province. The purchase of the Halifax Banking Company will give it offices at fifteen additional points in Nova Scotia cluding Halifax, Truro and Windsor—in fact, all the more important places. wo branches will also be obtained in New Brunswick,—at St. John and Sack- ville.

The present directors of The Halifax Banking Company will continue to ive their services in the capacity of a local advisory Board at Halifax, the Cashier will become local Manager there, and the entire staff will be taken into he service of The Canadian Bank of Commerce. There is consequently no doubt but that the good-will of the institution is being taken over along with ts tangible assets.

Originally established in 1825 as a private partnership, under the same name as at present, The Halifax Banking Company became incorporated in 1872. It has retained the friendship and support of many of the old Halifax firms whose predecessors did business with it in its earlier years, and in spite of the disadvantages under which in these days a comparatively small local bank must always labour, it has built up a sound and remunerative business. It has a paid-up capital of $600,000 with a rest of $525,000. Its deposits are about $4,000,000, its total assets about $6,000,000, and with the added strength and prestige which its incorporation into The Canadian Bank of Commerce will necessarily give, a large increase in the present business may confidently be expected.

The terms under which the amalgamation will take place are said to be as follows:

> After the necessary approval of the shareholders of the The Halifax Banking Company has been obtained and all the requisite legal formalities have been completed, The Canadian Bank of Commerce will assume the liabilities of The Halifax Banking Company, and will give in exchange for the surplus of its assets over its liabilities stock of The Canadian Bank of Commerce of the par value of $900,000.

Doubtless some of the new stock which The Canadian Bank of Commerce is taking authority to issue will be used to carry out the terms of the agreement.

Both banks are to be congratulated upon his arrangement which has been made, which must materially strengthen the position of the The Canadian Bank of Commerce and add to the exceptional facilities which it already posses for conducting a banking business. When the amalgamation has taken place, it will have a paid-up capital and rest combined of nearly $12,000,000, and total assets of some $90,000,000, with 101 branches distributed throughout the length and breadth of Canada.

FEDERAL LIFE

Twenty-first Annual Statement

DIRECTORS' REPORT

The new business of the year consisted of two thousand and twelve applications for assurance aggregating [illegible], of which nineteen hundred and forty-three applications for $2,739,635 were accepted; applications for [illegible] were rejected or held for further information.

As in previous years, the income of the Company shows a gratifying increase, and the assets of the Company have been increased by $192,462.31, and have now reached $1,642,387.21, exclusive of guarantee capital.

The security for Policyholders, including guarantee capital, amounted at the close of the year to $2,512,387.21, and the liabilities for reserves and all outstanding claims, $1,474,740.48, showing a surplus of $1,037,647.33. Exclusive of uncalled guarantee capital, the surplus to Policyholders was $167,647.33.

Policies on sixty-one lives became claims through death, to the amount of [illegible], of which $16,048.54 was re-insured in other companies; a rate of mortality considerably under that provided for.

Including Cash Dividends and Dividends applied to the reduction of premiums, $32,214.74, with annuities, the total payments to Policyholders amounted to $201,411.68.

Careful attention has been given to the investment of the Company's funds in first-class bonds, mortgage securities, and loans on the Company's policies amply secured by reserves. Our investments have yielded better than the average results of Insurance Companies doing business in Canada.

Expenses have been confined to a reasonable limit, consistent with due to $201,411.68.

The results of the year indicate a most gratifying progress in every desirable direction. Compared with the preceding year, the figures submitted by the Directors for your approval show an advance of eleven per cent. in income, thirteen per cent. in assets, and fourteen per cent. in the amount of insurance written.

The assurances carried by the Company now amount to $13,981,977.64, upon which the Company holds reserves to the full amount required by law, and, in addition thereto, a considerable surplus.

The field officers and Agents of the Company are intelligent and loyal, and are entitled to much credit for their able representation of the Company's interests. The members of the office staff have also proved faithful in the Company's service.

A SUGGESTION TO BUSINESS MEN

The Business Men's Association of Marine City, Mich., has set an example of enterprise in its method of assisting the beet sugar factory in that town in its efforts to secure acreage for the coming campaign, which the business men in other localities where factories have been established, would do well to emulate.

Every business man knows that the success of a beet sugar factory depends upon the acquisition of an adequate beet supply. And no one with any knowledge of the subject, can possibly be blind to the great benefits enjoyed by every community in which a beet sugar factory is being successfully operated.

Realizing these undeniable benefits, the association above referred to has called quite a number of meetings in various sections adjacent to the Marine Sugar Company's beet sugar factory. The thoughtful speeches made by practical citizens at these meetings and the discussions which followed the speeches have been productive of increased interest in the question of raising sugar beets, that will undoubtedly result in educating the people in general, as well as the farmers, to the full comprehension of the necessity of co-operating with the factory management in every possible way that tends to insure success.

The larger the acreage obtained by a beet sugar factory, the greater will be the amount paid out for beets to the growers and the more money will be brought into the community by the sale of the sugar produced. Never before has the population in and around Marine City realized these facts as forcibly as today, and the credit for this awakening is due to the Business Men's Association.

Capitalists cannot be expected to invest their funds in beet sugar enterprises unless they are encouraged to do so by the intelligent support of the people, who will undoubtedly receive the greatest benefit from an investment of such a nature.

All business men, farmers, mechanics and laborers should unite in the effort to secure for the beet sugar factory in their town a sufficient acreage of beets to make the operation of the factory profitable and successful in every way.

The developments of the beet sugar industry in general can be hastened, and the benefits to each community in particular can be augmented by the combined efforts of all concerned.—Beet Sugar Gazette, Feb. 28th, 1903.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

New York State proposes to tax mortgages of every kind. It expects a revenue from this source of about ten millions of dollars.

Rev. Mr. Macdonald, speaking in Hamilton, said he was not an educationist. Yet, before the teaching profession, he contended that much of the work conducted in the schools was not education. Well, what was it? The curriculum, largely, is the product of the teachers, and they ought to know their business.

ONTARIO ACCIDENT INSURANCE COMPANY

SEVENTH ANNUAL REPORT

Submitted to the Shareholders at the Annual General Meeting held at the Company's Offices, 3 Toronto St., Toronto, on Monday, the twenty-third day of February, 1902.

In presenting their Report, with the accompanying financial statements, the Directors have pleasure in stating that the year's results, the seventh in the Company's history, were very satisfactory, the figures indicating continued and substantial progress.

The net income from premiums after deducting $7,816.22 for re-insurance, was $118,535.25.

The income received from investments amounted to $1,704.19.

During the year the Company paid under its policies 1,451 claims the total, after deducting $4,803.94 received from re-insuring companies, amounted to $53,961.81.

The revenue account submitted herewith, after debiting all charges and expenses, shows a balance of $16,414.15. This has been applied as follows:

$5,500.00 to Reserve.
$8,000.00 to Contingency account.
$2,150.00 in payment of Dividend No. 5.
$724.15 unappropriated.

The Reserve Fund stands now at $28,000, and the Contingency Fund at $8,000.

The Company's paid-up capital is at this date $43,095.00. The securities deposited with the Receiver-General at Ottawa are $35,231.60.

The premium income shows an increase of $17,724.70 over that of 1901.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

Proceedings of the Seventh Annual General Meeting

The Seventh Annual General Meeting of the Shareholders was held at the Company's Offices, No. 3 Toronto street, Toronto, on Monday, the 23rd February, 1903, at 2 o'clock, p.m.

The following Shareholders were present: A. W. Thomas, Dr. Larratt W. Smith, A. L. Eastmure, R. Shaw Wood (London), F. J. Lightbourn, E. C. Boeckh, J. P. Steedman (Hamilton), George W. Monk, R. Grass, J. Herbert Mason, Dr. William Oldright, G. A. Stimson, and 52 Shareholders represented by proxy.

The chair was occupied by the President, Dr. Larratt W. Smith and Mr. F. J Lightbourn, the Secretary, acted as Secretary of the meeting.

The notice calling the meeting having been read by the Secretary, the President submitted the Report, together with the Financial Statements, and said:

Gentlemen:

I have much satisfaction in presenting the Company's Seventh Annual Report, the best, I think, in its history, and again, as in previous years, in directing attention to the continued growth of its income and resources.

The gross premiums for the year, under new policies and renewals, amounted to $126,349.47, as compared with $108,624.77 in 1901, a result which indicates in no uncertain way that the substantial progress shown by our annual reports during each succeeding year, since the formation of the company, is being well maintained.

The increase has been as follows:

Premiums, 1897	$31,440 66
Premiums, 1898	46,125 88
Premiums, 1899	71,857 36
Premiums, 1900	88,405 83
Premiums, 1901	108,624 77
Premiums, 1902	126,349 47

The Company's income from premiums on policies issued and renewed since the commencement of operations has now reached the considerable sum of $497,670.00; and it has paid out to beneficiaries in all, $217,069.75, the persons receiving compensation numbering 4,962.

During the past year claims were received under 1,451 policies, the amount aggregating $58,765.75, and all were promptly adjusted and paid.

The Reserve, as will appear from the statement, submitted to you, has been increased from $22,500.00 to $28,000.00, whilst the Contingency Fund, which formerly stood at $5,000.00 has been raised to $8,000.00.

The surplus on the year's operations including a balance of $894.78 carried forward from the previous year, equals 12.99 per cent. of the net premium income for 1902, and 37 1-2 per cent. of the paid-up capital; whilst the Company's assets, which in 1896 amounted to $41,546.90 have more than doubled since, all of which will, I am sure, be regarded as satisfactory by the shareholders.

The gradually increasing risk affecting all branches of liability underwriting, referred to at our last annual meeting, continues unabated, and further extension of the principle may be looked for. In this connection the tariff (under pressure of competition between the companies), has not kept pace with the hazard, and, while rates have advanced somewhat, they are still felt to be inadequate for many lines, and the subject calls for, and I am persuaded should be given, continued earnest attention.

Satisfactory features in our present report are:

An increase in the premium income;
An increase in the income derived from investments;
An increase in the revenue account;
An increase in the reserve;
An increase in the contingency account.
An increase in the shareholders' dividend, and a wider sphere of usefulness for the Company in the distribution of its benefits, due to the increased number of beneficiaries under the Company's policies, and arising from its enlarged transactions.

For these favorable results I need not say we are indebted to the skill and energy displayed by the Company's Vice-President and Managing Director and Secretary; and also to the zeal and efficiency (qualities which are material factors in determining the success of any enterprise) shown by the Head and Branch Office and Field Staffs, the latter scattered over the whole Dominion, and now nearly 1,500 strong.

By continuing and same conservative method in the selection of risks, I think we may fairly look forward to as good, if not better, results in the future.

With these remarks I beg formally to move, seconded by the Vice-President:

"That the Seventh Annual Report, now submitted, be adopted, and that the same together with the financial statements read therewith, be printed, and a copy thereof forwarded to each of the shareholders."

Meanwhile, however, it is open to any shareholder to make any observations, or to ask for any information he may require.

In seconding the motion, for the adoption of the report, the Vice-President, Mr. A. L. Eastmure, referred to the satisfactory trade conditions which had prevailed throughout Canada during the year, and congratulated the Shareholders upon the fact, apparent from the abstracts laid before them, and the President's remarks that the "Ontario Accident" had shared fully in the general prosperity.

They were also beginning the new year under very favorable auspices, as the premiums on policies issued and renewed during January were nearly double those of the corresponding month of 1902.

He attributed the Company's success, in part, to the variety and breadth of its policies, which were believed by the Management to be the most liberal in terms and compensating in character issued on the continent; also to the energy displayed by the field staff, and to the personnel of the share list and directorate, the excellent standing of which was recognized in every part of the Dominion; and, finally, to the soundness of the Company's methods and its good financial standing.

They have now in press a new form of Personal Accident Policy, containing specially attractive features designed to meet the latest recognized hazards, and which, he believed, would fully maintain the Company's established reputation for liberality and enterprise.

Considerable attention had been given during 1902 to their sickness branch, which embraced policies covering certain specified diseases, as well as illness from whatever cause arising, either with or without accident features; and, while still experimental, he was glad to state satisfactory progress had been made.

On the subject of further and better provision for factory and other industrial accidents substantial progress had been made. There was a noticeable disposition among employers of labor, either to combine with insurance against the legal risk a measure of protection for the employes, in respect of all accidents received on duty, or else to encourage this branch of thrift among the men themselves, thereby meeting much more perfectly the real pinch of the case; which after all, was need of compensation for the loss sustained, irrespective of its cause.

During 1902 the Company issued 6,650 policies for $12,895,965, as against 4,611 for $11,282,233 in 1900; and the premium income shows an increase of $17,724.70 over that of the previous year.

A movement, having for its object the adoption of uniform phraseology in personal accident policies, principally as affecting fundamental clauses, and also for the improvement in other directions of this important branch of underwriting, had engaged the attention of many leading companies on both sides of the line during the year, and, supported by the International Association of Accident Underwriters, was making substantial headway.

In conclusion, Mr. Eastmure endorsed the President's remarks on the importance of continuing conservative methods in the selection and rating of risks, believing that no casualty business could be permanently successful upon any other basis.

This report was adopted unanimously, after which it was moved by Mr. George W. Monk, seconded by Mr. A. W. Thomas and carried;

"The thanks of the Shareholders are justly due to the Company's General and District Agents in the several provinces for the zeal and efficiency displayed by them in their several departments during the year."

On motion, Messrs. Clarkson & Cross were re-appointed auditors for the ensuing year.

Mr. A. W. Thomas and Mr. R. Grass, having been appointed scrutineers, reported the following gentlemen elected as Directors: Larratt W. Smith, A. L. Eastmure, W. H. Pearson, J. Herbert Mason, R. Shaw Wood (London), Lieut.-Col. R. E. C. Jarvis, J. N. Shenstone, F. J. Lightbourn, Thomas Fyshe (Montreal).

After the usual votes of thanks to the President, Vice-President, Directors, Secretary and officials in the office, the meeting adjourned.

At a meeting of the directors held immediately after the annual meeting, Dr. Larratt W. Smith was re-elected President and Mr. A. L. Eastmure, Vice-President of the Company.

An Opportunity

We are offering for public subscription a limited amount of stock of exceptional merit affording an unusual opportunity for a very profitable investment. We desire to be conservative in our representations, but do not hesitate to state that the stocks of the properties we are representing are absolutely certain to rapidly increase in value, and the fortunate purchasers of the stock at the present prices will have more than reason to congratulate themselves for grasping this opportunity.

Success lies in being alive to that which is going on around you, and they who "grasp the skirts of happy chance can breast the blows of circumstance."

We have the disposition of a certain amount of treasury stock in four corporations. We have thoroughly investigated the present value of the properties owned by the Companies, and have full cognition of the immense profits that are awaiting only the further development and equipment of the properties.

We are offering an equal number of shares in each of the four corporations at a price that make the combined issue a most attractive feature, giving also to the purchaser an unusual safe guard on his or her investment; in other words, you are not placing all your eggs in one basket. Or if you prefer you can purchase separately the stocks we offer.

As the money received from the sale of the stock is strictly for the purpose of equipping the properties with the necessary machinery, etc., the time will not be long before handsome dividends are available. We are not asking your subscriptions to pay for the properties; they are already owned by the Companies, and there are no outstanding obligations.

This preliminary notice is to advise the public in general that an opportunity now presents itself for a safe investment of unusual character, embodying also speculative possibilities sufficiently great to make even a small investor a competency within a few years.

You can invest in any amount from Ten Dollars up, and, if so desired, you can have the privilege o paying in installments the amount of stock paid for from time to time being non-forfeitable in the event of your ceasing payments, thus relieving those of small or uncertain income from possibility of loss, should they for any reason become unable to continue payments.

Our business is to aid responsible Companies in the disposal of their treasury stock for the thorough equipment of their properties; we do not and will not handle indiscriminate mining or other stocks under any circumstances. W make a thorough personal examination and investigation as to the merits and possibilities before undertaking to assist in financing any Corporation; the paramount issue with us is to give complete satisfaction and cause much success to our patrons.

We have furnished the publishers of The Times with an outlined description of the Companies we represent, and the names of the Directors of each Company whose stock we offer to their subscribers and friends. We have also furnished The Times with bank references as to our own bonafides and standing. We desire to command the utmost confidence of all subscribers and to retain same along with their friendship for all time; you add riches without effort and increase our brain and labor: you increase your rr without effort and increase our power to make you still richer. In ordinary everyday experience a man's expenses nearly equal his income and he has little chance to make a turn for the betterment of his condition. This is anyone's opportunity; you can invest Ten Dollars or One Thousand Dollars on the same basis as one who invests Ten Thousand Dollars. You cannot afford to neglect your opportunities and this is a chance to get in on the ground floor and reap the profits of substantial, quick money making enterprises. Your money need not be tied up for a long time; we know that one of the Companies at least, will pay handsome dividends this year. It is an easy matter to become rich; just watch for the opportunity and take advantag of it. This is your opportunity; will you grasp it?

INDISCRIMINATE MARKET SELLING

New York, March 4.—In a modest way people seem to have for the time being lost their senses, all on account of the death of the Aldrich bill. When it was definitely known that the Aldrich bill was a thing of the past, as far as the present Congress was concerned, the bears attacked the market all along the line, and their selling was accompanied by considerable selling also by frightened holders. The selling was without good reason. From the bears point of view it was perfectly logical, as it is a part of his purpose to prey for profit upon the fear of the public. The public however were unduly frightened selling without consideration upon the news of the demise of the now famous bill. It is perfectly natural for the money market to harden at this particular period of the year. It will not become stringent however, probably not reaching the legal rate of 6 per cent., while it is now and will continue to be procurable upon time loans in any amount at from 4 1-2 to 5 per cent. The Aldrich bill was not prepared and offered to ameliorate present conditions but to obviate in the fall when the crops commence to move a renewal of the money experiences of last September and October. Had the bill not been introduced at all there would have been no recession in prices or worry as to the money situation. It It simply forcibly illustrates the old adage of anticipation being far worse than reality. The wise man who does not allow himself to be stampeded by such an event when it drives his fellows into a wild panic state of mind is offered an opportunity by the occurrence of which he will avail himself. It gives him the chance to pick up cheap stocks at bargain prices. Stocks are selling at bargain prices, at present. The scare will speedily run its course, if it has not already done so. The bears have been encouraged and become more bold. Like their bull brothers, who become bravest at top prices, they put out their largest lines at low prices when flushed with success. Such a time is now and at such a time is far better to buy than to sell. There is no change in the bright outlook for the future business is good, our export rich bill was a thing of the past, as ings in active demand, and money is sufficiently plentiful to supply both business and speculative demands. Courageous purchasers at present we strongly believe will be adequately rewarded.

Wanted to Spit on The Floor.

When Hans Straus, waiter in a Fourteenth street restaurant in New York, came into a fortune recently, he expended part of it in buying the goodwill of a little German restaurant in lower Fifth avenue. The remainder of his unexpected legacy went to re-furnish the place in elaborate style. He was proud of the mirrors which were fastened to the walls, of the heavy oaken chairs and tables, but proudest of all of the new floor of polished hardwood.

Two old Germans, who had been regular customers of the place for years, continued their visits when the furnishing was completed. They insisted on expectorating on the new floor, ignoring the cuspidors.

Hans went to them and expostulated: "Mine froind, vill you please spit in der cuspidor, not on der floor?"

"I vill spit vere I likes," was the curt reply.

"You vill spit in mine cuspidor or you vill keep away for here. That is vat yet. If you vas go to Delmonico's and spit on der floor, vot vood Delmonico say, eh?"

"Ah," replied the Teutonic diner, "Delmonico vood say, 'Look here, if you vant to spit on der floor you must go to Hans Straus's, not here.'"

INTERNATIONAL ELECTRIC MINING Co

185 SUMMER ST., - BOSTON, MASS.

A Dividend Payer for the Past Five Years.

12 PER CENT GUARANTEED

Capital Stock, $500,000. Par, $1.00, full paid and non-assessable

Over eight thousand tons of $50.00 ore mined and smelted from this group of mines.

A limited number of shares of the stock of this Company now offered at seventy-five cents per share. This price will shortly be increased to par. Stock registered by the International Trust Company, Boston, who is also the transfer agent.

This Company has a small capital stock.

The International Electric Mining Company owns seven mines and milling plant.

The Brooklyn and New York mines of this Company lie north of and join the Victor and the Hoodlum—two rich mines that are now being worked by California parties. On the west lies the Electric Mining Company's mines. In these mines are millions of dollars' worth of rich ore in sight. On the south, adjoining the Berlin mine of this Company, is the Montezuma and Clipper. From the Montezuma over three million dollars has been taken within 50 feet of the grass roots.

This Company owns free and clear seven mines of twenty acres each, all containing rich ore, located in the Arabia and Trinity mining districts, Humboldt County, Nevada. The Company has worked these mines for the past five years, and is now driving a tunnel to cut out a rich ledge about 300 feet from the surface. The Arabia mining district, in which these mines are located, is a lively district—a great many men being employed there. The tunnel now being driven on the Brooklyn mine has about 250 feet already completed. When the tunnel cuts the main ledge, which has just been reached by the Victor tunnel about 600 feet, the Brooklyn will have about 300 feet stoping ground, which runs high in gold and silver, over $80.00 per ton.

The Company is offering for a short time a limited amount of stock for the enlargement of its plant and the working force at the mines and for the completion of the Brooklyn tunnel.

This Company has thousands of tons of rich ore in sight.

We are not making a lot of talk, because it is unnecessary. What the investor wants is dividends, which we have paid for the past five years. Now if you want a safe 12 per cent. investment, let us hear from you.

THE OLD COMSTOCK

A California mining paper has this to say: "Nevada, that grand old stamping ground of mushroom millionaires, who plucked enough wealth from her prolific fields to build mansions, banks and big hotels in San Francisco, and palaces in Paris and London, is again astonishing the world by making more millionaires and by yielding millions in gold and silver from a new field which rivals the old Comstock lode in the days of its pristine splendor. Not only in Tonopah and Arabia districts, where within the past year nearly ten millions have been exposed, are operations active, but in every mining district in the Silver State are operations active, and Nevada will once more take her place among the big producers, the peer of any of them."

Dear Sir,—During the six months of October and November of this year I visited the mines of the International Electric Mining Company, situated in Arabia and Trinity mining districts, Humboldt County, Nevada. I found the country remarkably mineralized; in fact, the possibilities of the country as a mineral producing country are yet unknown. For years it certainly has produced well. The work now being done in the Arabia and Trinity districts establishes the fact that they are fine producers.

I also found that there is a great deal of interest being taken in these properties, which have produced a great deal of wealth the past quarter of a century.

in the 193 foot shaft of The Electric Spark Gold Mining Company's property is an absolute assurance of large dividends at no distant day; and those who buy now, and take advantage of this exceptional opportunity will make from 50 to 100 per cent. yearly on their investment.

There has never been a mining investment offered where the future value of the property could be more clearly shown than in this, or where the returns could be estimated more certainly or accurately.

It is simply a question of time and work. The risk has all been taken, and the investor today can look forward to future dividends with certainty and satisfaction. Incorporated as we are for only $200,000, par value $1.00, makes the stock all the more valuable, and located in the midst of some of the best mines in Gilpin County, Colorado, the smallest county in the State, which in 1902 produced $4,000,000.00, is another assurance of a big dividend payer.

By permission the Company refers to the Rocky Mountain National Bank, and the Weekly Register Call, of Central City, Colorado.

A limited amount of shares for sale at 20 cents per share. Remember this stock is fully paid and non-assessable; is all common and in a company organized expressly to operate this mine.

Thunder Mountain!

is the richest gold producing camp in the United States, and also the largest. The Thunder Mountain district, in central Idaho, is twenty miles wide and forty miles long. In comparison with this we have Cripple Creek, four miles wide and seven miles long. In many of the Thunder Mountain mines ore has already been reached that carries ONE THOUSAND DOLLARS IN GOLD TO THE TON. All of the Thunder Mountain ore is free milling, which means that it can be treated by the cheapest extraction process known—the ordinary stamp mill. It can be both mined and milled at a cost not to exceed $2 a ton. The past years operations in the several working mines have opened up millions of tons of ore that will give a net profit of from $10 to $30 a ton, enabling the respective companies to pay dividends at a rate never before equalled. Such is the showing and the prospect of the

EAST DEWEY GOLD MINING CO.

which unless all indications are at fault, will become the largest producer in the district. The EAST DEWEY mine, which it owns outright, is located directly on Thunder Mountain, just east of the famous "Dewey" mine, which already has $20,000,000 of ore in sight. The surface area of the East Dewey mine is one hundred and twenty acres—six full quartz claims. The company has also secured the big GOLDEN GATE mine, in the Big Creek section of the Thunder Mountain district—which has been so aptly termed "The Pot of Gold"—and is now developing the mine with all possible speed. For a distance of 9,000 feet, nearly two miles, the Golden Gate mines cover a mineralized ledge that is 900 feet wide, with an average height above the tunnel level of 500 feet, thus giving it the largest exposed tonnage of any mine in the west.

If you would share in the enormous profits which these figures indicate and which these developments promise, invest your money in "East Dewey" Stock. It can be bought to-day for 10 Cents a Share. Its par value is $1.

If the East Dewey mines are what they appear to be, and there is absolutely no reason to doubt or question these indications, this stock will eventually be worth at least $10 a share, and to-day you can buy it for ten cents. PRICE ADVANCES TO FIFTEEN CENTS ON FEBRUARY 28th. 5% discount allowed for cash. Stock sold at flat price of 10 cents on deferred payments, 10% with application, and 10% monthly until paid. Full particulars, prospectus, etc., on request.

The Late J. C. Anthony

Yesterday the sad news was received by Mr. W. H. Anthony, of the death of his father, Mr. J. C. Anthony, which occurred at his home in Stratford. Mr. Anthony was about 80 years of age, and was highly respected. He formerly lived in Peterborough, where he carried on a boot and shoe business. Mr. W. H. Anthony left for Stratford yesterday.

A Young Lady's Success

The many friends and acquaintances of Miss Mable Harrison, of Keene, will be pleased to learn of the success in passing the senior third year examinations with first class honors, at the Toronto College of Music. The Times joins with others in hearty congratulations. Miss Harrison continues as a pupil at Notre Dame Convent.

Yesterday's Market

There was very little produce offering yesterday morning either up stairs or in the farmer's vehicles. Beef and pork by the quarter was offered freely but proved to be a drug and prices ruled lower. There were no potatoes and very few apples; prices were unchanged. Butter is in good demand and is firm at from 22 to 25c per lb. A few loads of hay soon found purchasers at $9 to $10 per ton.

Stocks and Bonds

Those, who attend the local stock exchanges need not to be told that for the last few days the general list generally declined, until very low prices have been reached, and those having small margins were compelled to cover or drop out altogether; but yesterday's quotations were somewhat more favorable to the bulls, who are always in the majority in Peterborough. Prices have declined, during the recent Bear movement, from 3 to 10 points, which is a much greater drop than the most pessimistic bear hoped to see. During yesterday's operations the tone was decidedly better, there being a strong [illegible] and some special features advanced from one to two and a half points.

THE FEDERAL LIFE

A Splendid Statement Presented at the Annual Meeting

It must be exceedingly gratifying to the policy-holders and friends of the Federal Life Assurance Company throughout Eastern Ontario, as well as elsewhere to learn that the operations for last year were the most successful in the history of that progressive and popular Company. The new business consisted of two thousand and twelve applications for insurance, aggregating $2,866,000, of which nineteen hundred and forty-three applications for $2,729,625 were accepted. The income of the company continues to show a gratifying increase. The security for policy-holders is even better than previously, expenses have been confined to a reasonable limit and the business has apparently been conducted in a most economical manner. The assurance carried by the company now amount to $13,981,677.56. The annual reports were adopted, on motion of President Dexter and Lieut.-Col. Kerns, Vice-President. All the retiring directors were re-elected, and at a subsequent meeting the following officers were re-elected—Mr. David Dexter, President and Managing Director; Lieut.-Col W. Kerns and Mr. T. H. Macpherson, ex-M.P., Vice-Presidents.

Y.M.C.A. MEETINGS

A Series of Meetings Conducted Under the Auspices of the Young Men

Arrangements have been completed for meetings of an evangelistic nature to take place in Bradburn's Opera House each Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock during this month. As announced already in the Times the speaker for next Sunday will be Trooper Brace a Hart's River hero, well known to Peterborough people.

Trooper Brace is a very pleasing speaker and his experience in the South African war will serve to furnish him with a further knowledge of human nature and provide him with a fund of stories and incidents, which will no doubt add very much to interest and instruct the young men who are to hear him. A large crowd will in all probability, be out to greet and welcome the returned soldier.

The remaining addresses will be announced in these columns each week.

A Prominent Contractor and Builder Writes About MALT BREAKFAST FOOD

He Says:

"I Tried All Other Advertised Cereal Foods But I Did Not Derive a Particle of Good From Their Use".

Mr. N. L. Whitcomb, Contractor and Builder, and one of the most prominent residents of Dunham, Que., writes as follows:

"For over two years your Malt Breakfast Food has been regularly used in my home. As far as I am personally concerned it has been a blessing to me. Before its introduction in our family I suffered very much from indigestion and stomach derangements. The torture at times was almost more than I could bear. Doctors could do nothing more than give me temporary relief. I tried all the other advertised foods, but did not derive a particle of good from their use. After the use of Malt Breakfast Food my troubles are almost banished, and digestion and health very much improved. My family would not give up the use of Malt Breakfast Food for any consideration. I gladly recommend it as a delicious and health-giving food."

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

—Mr. O. Reid, of Uxbridge, is the guest of Mr. J. S. Knapman, London street.

—The Misses McCrimmon, of St. Thomas, are visiting Miss Laura Davidson.

—Miss F. Houlihan who has been visiting her mother and brother here for the past week returned to Montreal yesterday.

—Mr. F. B. Knowles, who was at one time a prominent and popular dry goods merchant of George street, was in town yesterday and gave The Times a call.

—Messrs. W. P. Nelson, Aaron Cox, James Storey and R. H. Leary leave for Oshawa today where they will visit the McLaughlin Carriage Works. Mr. Leary intends purchasing some rigs for his livery.

—Mr. N. Nash, of Hamilton, who has been in town attending the annual meeting of the Canadian Cordage Company, left for home yesterday. Mr. Nash represented stock to the amount of about $10,000 at the meeting.

—The many friends of Mr. R. W McFadden will regret extremely to know that he and his family are about leaving town. Mr. McFadden intends moving to Trent Bridge, where he will conduct a general store. For over thirty years Mr. McFadden has been a most faithful and exemplary employee of Mr. Benjamin Shortly.

LIKE A DERRICK

Pure Food Lifts the Sick Up

Only those who have experienced the delicious feeling of returning health and vigor can properly appreciate the value in pure blood. When the improper food is left off and scientific food such as Grape-Nuts is used in its place one begins to feel the glow of returning health. It feels as though some powerful derrick was lifting one up into the realms of sunshine once more.

"Some time ago I was taken sick and got so very low that I thought at times I would never be able to get out again," writes a business man of Wilmington, Del. "One day my wife saw an article in the paper about Grape-Nuts and read it to me. I was so impressed that I asked her to get some. How thankful I am that I did so. I was at that time reduced to a shadow of 75 pound but the first week's use of Grape-Nuts brought me to my feet so that I could stand alone. By the second week I could walk out, to the great surprise of all, and now I can get out to my business without any trouble and I have made the phenomenal gain up to 160 pounds.

"Improper food nearly killed me but when I left it off and used Grape-Nuts it did not take long to get me back in health. Name furnished by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

"Food-right, feel right" is a true axiom. Remember Grape-Nuts food is for Athletes, as well as the sick.

MR. GARVIN'S SUCCESSOR

Mr. R. F. McWilliams Enters the Life Insurance Business

On Saturday Mr. J. W. Garvin, who for the past number of years has held the position of Manager of the North American Life Insurance Company for Central Ontario, severed his connection with the above institution and has since been succeeded by Mr. Roland F. McWilliams, barrister-at-law. Mr Garvin has devoted both time and attention to his business and the result of his faithfulness is that it has increased and flourished.

Mr. McWilliams who takes Mr. Garvin's place is well known and highly respected in Peterborough and vicinity. He intends closing his law office and devoting his time and attention wholly to insurance. We congratulate the North American Life Insurance Company in having the good fortune to secure Mr. McWilliam's services for this important position.

Big Shipments of Horses

Mr. W. J. Pearson, the well known horse buyer, will ship today forty horses to Montreal. It may seem strange that Mr. Pearson is able to purchase so many fine horses here and elsewhere, especially as they are known to be scarce. This is accounted for by the fact that he pays good prices, and deals honorably and liberally with everybody. Every week or two he sends one and two cars to his Montreal stables.

LITTLE LOCAL LINES

—The usual spring robin has arrived in town.

—Scarlet fever is reported prevalent in Port Hope.

—Since the reduction of 50c per cord R. Hicks & Co. is doing an immense trade.

—A Peterboro musician would like to go to Cobourg to take the position of bandmaster.

—Several farmers have gone to the northwest the past week and others contemplate going shortly.

—Board furnished for man and wife where wife can assist at housework. apply at this office.

—On Sunday Trooper Brace will give an address in the Opera House on "A Manly Man."

—Butt's Cannel coal is the best for grates. For sale by R. Hicks & Co., Murray street.

—A full attendance is requested at St. Andrew's choir practice this evening at 8 o'clock sharp.

—The Rev. Dr. Symonds delivered an excellent address at St. John's service last evening. His subject was "The Laws of Religious Development."

—Rev. D. O. Crossley, has been invited by the Official Board of the Bowmanville Methodist church to remain another year as pastor.

—Prof. Davies has resigned his position as organist and musical director of St. Andrew's church, and will discontinue his duties there at the end of the present month.

—These are busy days for the G.T.R. owing to the marked increase in loaded cars over last year. In January the number was 50,000 in excess of the same month last year and during the the last sixteen days of February there is said to have been handled over 53,000 more than during the same time in 1902.

—In order to accommodate the rising waters of the Otonabee the canal locks below the Little Lake Cemetery have been left open. A heifer belonging to Mr. H. P Kennedy tried to make an investigation the other day as to the depth of said water, and came very near visiting the happy hunting grounds. Warning: Never be too curious in spring time.

THEY ARE A MARVEL

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills the Greatest Wonder of the Age

Editor of the Morning Times:

Sir,—I am only too pleased to write a letter to the press, as I firmly believe that all who suffer from rheumatism or any troubles of the blood can get sure and certain relief. I was ill for many years, and am now entirely well. Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills are without doubt the greatest wonder of the age in medicine. They cured me, and I know they will cure others who are even worse than I was. I write this of my own accord in the hope that it will do some good. Evans Blair, G. T. R. News Agent, Union Station, Toronto.

A PROGRESSIVE BANK

Another Long Step Forward by the Canadian Bank of Commerce

Elsewhere will be found the particulars of the amalgamation of the Halifax Banking Company with the Canadian Bank of Commerce, which has just been consummated. The Halifax Institution has a present paid up capital of $600,000, and a rest of $2,500,000. The deal will be of immense advantage to the Bank of Commerce giving it, as it will, a splendid foothold in the Maritime Provinces, where upwards of $600,000 of the Bank's stock is held, and where it has many friends.

The Bank of Commerce has now become the foremost financial institution of the Dominion. With a paid up capital of $12,000,000, and total assets of $90,000,000, it has a right to be so regarded.

In Peterborough the Bank has become very popular. Under the capable and energetic management of Mr. Hughes-Charles, its business has greatly increased in volume.

BELLEVILLE DEFAULTS

Resignation and Explanation Received by W. A. Buchanan

Secretary W. A. Buchanan of the O. H.A. received a letter yesterday from Manager Harry Burrell of the Belleville Hockey Club announcing that his team would not fill their engagement with the Marlboros of Toronto at Peterborough last night as ordered by the O.H.A. Executive. Mr Burrell's communication concludes as follows:

"I have interviewed all the members of the team and they have unanimously decided to resign, as they are satisfied that, notwithstanding the evidence produced by the Marlboros that John Marks is an amateur, and they refuse to play without him."

The Marlboros were prepared to leave by the 2 o'clock train for Peterboro, but were notified at noon by Mr Buchanan not to go, as they had won the round by default of Belleville, and would now meet the winner of the Barrie-Paris game in the final for the intermediate championship of the O. H. A.

There are a great many hungry hearted women who would attend a baby sale if babies were ever offered for sale, because there are a great many wives who love children and have been told by physicians that they can never hope to nurse a child of their own.

Some of these women who have used Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for the cure of womanly ills have been made happy mothers as a result of the cure of womanly disease and the building up of the general health.

Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription makes weak women strong and sick women well. It establishes regularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness.

"I wrote to you some time ago to get information about my case," says Mrs. Mary Lee Flanary, of Dryden, Va. "I was troubled with female weakness and pains. Received answer from you, advising me to take Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription and 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I took two bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' and found it did me good. I had been married four years and had no children; now I can say that our house is blessed with a little baby boy, born July 10th, by the help of God and your medicine. I praise your medicine highly.

"You can publish this letter if you wish."

The annual meeting of the Canadian Cordage Company took place in Peterborough Monday, in the Labour Hall, Water street, the offices of the company not being of sufficient size to accommodate the large number of shareholders who were present.

A complete statement of the assets and liabilities of the company, was submitted and unanimously adopted.

At the conclusion of the meeting the shareholders visited the works of the company, and were highly pleased with the buildings, equipments and prospects for the future.

The following gentlemen were present in person or by proxy: N. Nash, W. Turner, W. A. Nash, Geo. A. Corman, all of Hamilton; Hon. Senator McHugh, T. I. Williams, Jas. Harvey, J. D. Tinney, Jos. Coad, J. F. Cummings, Jasper Rodd, David Lee, Jas. Taylor, W. Hall, of Victoria County; A. A. Ferrier, T. B. New, John Wright of Renfrew County; John H. Douglass, J. J. English, Alex. Skeen, Wm. Harstone, of Northumberland County; Peter Shields, Wm. Dickson, Andrew Kennedy, George McLaughlin, John Vance, John Bright, Chas. Calder, S. A. Flumerfelt, S. Holden, W. A. King, John Argue, Jas. Barber, John Perdue, W. C. Austin, R. J. Taggart, John Barr, Dr. Harvey, John Thompson, R. R. Mowbray, J. N. Hortop, R. W. Mowbray, Thos. Peasby, Jas. Miller, Geo. Shier, Alex. Welsh, Merman White, Frederick White, Wm. M. Fair, Robert Smyth, John Stewart, W. J. Allen, Thos. Scott, Wm. Lake, Peter McClellane, W. H. Johnston, L. H. Morton, J. G. Barron, Peter Robertson, George Grant, W. G. Rogers, and many others.

The old Board of Directors, namely, Mr. Adam Hall, Mr. John Lang, M.P., Mr. Thomas Blezard, ex-M.P.P., Mr. John A. Bennett and Mr. J. S. Latimer, were unanimously re-elected directors of the company for the ensuing year.

The minutes of the previous meetings of the shareholders and directors were confirmed.

The Directors' Report was submitted as follows:

DIRECTORS' REPORT.

To the Shareholders of The Canadian Cordage and Manufacturing Company, Limited.

The Directors have much pleasure in presenting their report to the shareholders accompanied by a statement of the assets and liabilities as of February 7th, 1903, which has been certified to by the Auditor.

The Directors beg to report that the Company have received subscriptions for $400,000 of stock down to the 14th day of February, A.D., 1903, and which stock has been duly allotted to the several respective subscribers therefor and the Company has received on account of subscriptions for stock the sum of $342,622.25.

The Company received a bonus of $4,000.00 from the Town of Peterborough with which to purchase a sight containing two and a quarter acres between Lake street and Perry street and between Aylmer street and Bethune street in Peterborough and have further obtained a by-law from the Town of Peterborough fixing the Company's assessment at $4,000 for all purposes thereby granting to the Company exemption from taxation upon their buildings and machinery for municipal and public school purposes.

All the buildings erected arenew solid brick buildings and consist of the main factory which is divided by fire-proof walls, in three departments and consist of the preparation room 128 ft. x 72 ft. to which is attached a brick motor house 12 ft. x 12 ft. in which is placed on a concrete foundation a 75 horse power motor; a spinning room 150 ft. x 80 ft. to which is attached a brick motor house 12 ft. x 12 ft. in which is placed on a concrete foundation 2 200 horse power motor and a rope room and a balling room 120 ft. x 80 ft. to which is attached a brick motor house 12 ft. x 12 ft. in which is placed on a concrete foundation a 100 horse power electric motor; a machine shop 50 ft. x 45 ft. containing tools for Company to do its own repairing, is attached to the Southern end of the main factory in which is placed a 10 horse power electric motor; the boiler house and heating room is 38 ft. x 30 ft. in which is installed a 150 horse power boiler, manufactured by the Wm. Hamilton Mfg. Co., for heating purposes only and a 30 horse power electric motor which is used to force the heat through the several buildings in conduit pipes by means of a Sturtevant fan.

A steel oil tank has been erected in a brick house 16 ft. x 16 ft. and has a capacity of 14,000 gals. of oil; the brick warehouse is 50 ft. x 384 ft.; the tar house is 100 ft. x 40 ft.

All the buildings are one story high, the main building being 20 ft. at the walls rising to 40 ft. at the top with a great lantern roof that extends the whole length of the building. The roofs of the buildings are of galvanized iron.

The electric motors were purchased from and installed by the Canadian General Electric Company, Peterborough.

The office is a separate building, 30 ft. x 42 ft. and two storeys high.

The factory is built on the most modern lines of slow burning construction. There are fire-proof walls between each department connected by automatic fire-proof doors. The electric motors are installed outside of the main walls and are surrounded by fireproof material. The boiler for heating purposes is entirely isolated in a separate building. An automatic sprinkler system has also been installed for fire protection. In consequence of the excellent equipment for fire protection the Company is enabled to secure a rate of insurance premium of 30 cents per annum on each hundred dollars of insurance from the regular insurance companies of Canada. The ordinary current insurance rate on cordage factories is $4 per annum for each $100 of insurance, and on cordage warehouses $1.80 per annum for each $100 of insurance. The Company on the 14th day of February, 1902, had $350,000.00 of insurance in force with the strongest financial insurance companies doing business in Canada.

The Company's factory is of the most complete, modern, and up-to-date cordage factories on the continent. The machines are all new and manufactured expressly for this Company by Messrs. Fairbairn, Lawson, Combe, Barbour Co., Limited., Belfast, Ireland; the Hoover & Gamble Co., of Miamisburg, Ohio, John Layd of New York and the Lockwood Manufacturing Co., of Boston.

The factory has a capacity of ten tons of binder twine per day, eight tons of rope per day and two and a half tons of lath yarn per day. By combining the business of manufacturing binder twine, rope and cordage the greatest efficiency, flexibility and economy is obtained in the operations of the factory and the output of the factory in any one line can be substantially increased by lessening the output of some other line.

The Company has entered into a contract with the Otonabee Power Company for five hundred electric horse power at $10 per horse power per annum to be used on their premises for power, lighting and heating purposes. This is an exceedingly low rate for motive power when it is considered that it costs at least $35 per horse power per annum to generate steam power. The Company own their own railway siding adjoining their warehouse, and have railway connections with both the G. T. R. and the C. P. R.

It is satisfactory to note that the profits of the Company down to February 7th, 1903, were $12,288.06 of which $11,225.44 was appropriated to pay a dividend of 5 p.c. and $1,062.62 was carried forward to the profit and loss account.

By order of the Board.

ADAM HALL,
President.

G. L. HAY,
Auditor.

Dated this 14th day of February, '03.

PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS.

Mr. Adam Hall, the president, spoke as follows:

Mr. Chairman and shareholders of the Canadian Cordage and Manufacturing Company, Limited,—It gives me a great deal of pleasure to move the adoption of the directors' report to the shareholders. This is a pleasant duty when we are able to announce to the shareholders that we have declared a dividend of five per cent. to be paid out of the profits of the company on the capital stock paid up on the 7th day of February, 1903, which dividend will be paid on the first day of May, in accordance with the terms of the resolution of the directors.

To make such a satisfactory showing has called forth a great deal of effort. It was necessary to spend a great deal of time in securing subscriptions for stock before the directors were justified in proceeding with the erection of the buildings and the establishment and equipment of the plant. The erection of the buildings, the manufacturing of the machinery, and the installation of the machinery, which was quite extensive, and must be very accurately placed in position, and the installation of the electric motors, the automatic sprinkler system for fire protection, and the heating system, all took considerable time before the company was in a position to commence to earn money. It took a great deal of time to get the new machinery running well and thoroughly polished, and to get the employees of the factory taught to run the machines so that an excellent quality of twine might be turned out, which would induce customers in future years to ask for this company's twine.

Considering all these difficulties, and many others, it must be gratifying to the shareholders to know that the earnings of the company were such as to justify the directors

ANOTHER BRAKEMAN HURT

Mr. Robert Kelsey, of Toronto, Seriously Injured by a Fall

While the way-frieght going west was on the bridge, east of the C.P.R. station, Mr. Kelsie, a brakeman, slipped on the snow covered cars and was dashed upon the timbers of the bridge 20 feet below, receiving injuries from which he may never recover.

The young man was taken to the Oxford Hotel and Dr. Gray sent for who did all that medical aid can do for the sufferer.

Mrs. Kelsie who resides in Toronto, was at once notified of the sad accident.

King Joins Auto Club

London, March 6.—The King has joined the English Automobile Club, the membership of which is now 2,262. It has been decided to organise a woman's automobile club, to co-operate with the parent body.

International Congress on Wireless Telegraphy

Berlin, March 5.—The correspondent of The Sun learns that the attitude of the German Government on the whole subject of wireless telegraphy will not be defined until the proposed meeting of the international congress on the subject is held. The date of the conference is still uncertain, as the British reply to the invitation has not been received.

SLAVS SACRIFICED BY RUSSIAN GOVERNMENT

Macedonians Have Lost all Faith in Muscovites—Sofia is Now Dejected

London, March 5—The prevailing feeling at Sofia, says The Times' correspondent in that city, is one of dejection. Nobody believes in the execution of the Macedonian reforms. Popular faith in Russia has been shattered by the recent communique; even the ardent partisans of Russia are silent. The newspapers abound in protests, against the subjection of the country to foreign influence. One journal denounces Russia for sacrificing the Slav populations of the near East for the sake of advantages elsewhere. The civil governor of the Haskovo district has telegraphed to the Government that the Turks have moved troops to the frontier at Karatschen. The Bulgarian troops there are standing to arms, and a collision is hourly expected.

Referring to his telegram, published on Feb. 23, the Constantinople correspondent of The Times says that peace having failed to obtain through the official addresses of thanks, from the Greek bishops in Macedonia, the Patriarchate is endeavoring to attain its purpose by other means. An address of gratitude to the Sultan is being prepared at Salonica by Greek residents, prompted by the local authorities, on instructions from the Yildiz Kiosk.

GERMANY AND AMERICA.

The Paris correspondent of The Times says that the idea of forming a central European customs boycott of the United States is once more advocated from a quarter notoriously devoted to the interests of "Greater Germany." It is not unreasonable, says the correspondent, to suppose that the renewed propoganda is really intended as a means of exercising pressure on the Government and people of the United States with a view to overcoming American opposition to the trans-oceanic policy of "one of the great European powers." The correspondent says that, while admitting that the scheme is probably recognised by those principally concerned as impossible of execution, it is, no doubt found expedient tacitly to countenance its discussion by the press with the object of convincing Americans that some such drastic method of checking their expansion of trade and industry is really being considered by European Governments. It is in this light that the whole affair appears to people not interested in playing Germany's game in the New World or Europe.

THE MOROCCAN REVOLT

In spite of official accounts, issued at Fez, of Government victory, says The Times' correspondent at Tangier there has undoubtedly been a bad defeat of the Imperial troops. On February 27th the rebels rushed and captured a division forming the vanguard of the main army under El Menebhi, Mel Menebhi, the Minister of War. The troops, numbering 1,000, fled in disorder, abandoning everything. The correspondent says that the recent optimistic feeling caused by the lull in the fighting is not justified. The situation is still serious.

BECAME A PARSEE.

The Times says that the first recorded conversion from Christianity to Zoroastrianism took place in Bombay on February 8, when Mrs. Tatta, a French lady, was formally invested with the sacred thread and "sudra" of the Parsees. Mrs. Tatta afterward went through the Parsee marriage ceremony. Her husband is a nephew of a well-known merchant prince and philanthropist of Bombay.
